Air Force Plane Recovers Second Satellite Capsule

HONOLULU (UPI) — An Air Force plane Saturday caught a 300-pound capsule as it plummeted back to earth after a record three days in space orbit.

It was the fourth time the U.S. has recovered a space capsule in its Pacific "ball park" near Hawaii.

For Capt. Gene Jones, of Walla Walla, Wash., who maneuvered his C-119 into position and snagged the satellite at 14,000 feet, it was the second in a row. He caught the previous Discoverer capsule last month.

Nine specially equipped planes and their crews were waiting and watching when the gold - plated package came down by parachute from the northern skies. A radio signal sent out from the space lab at Sunnyvale, Calif., released it from the 25-foot Discoverer satellite flashing over Alaska on its 43th circuit of the earth.

FLOATS DOWN

At 40,000 feet the parachute opened. When it floated down to 25,000 feet, Jones spotted it. On his first pass he snagged the orange parachute on the long boom under his plane at 6:44 p.m. est. It took the crew 14 minutes to pull the capsule aboard with its treasure of instruments and living matter which had been subjected to the hazards a man would face in a trip through space.

The capsule was caught about 450 miles northwest of Honolulu.

Discoverer S VII the one recovered Nov. 14, was caught by Jones 500 miles northeast of Honolulu. One had been caught in the air before that and another picked up in the water.

Jones, 39, was a "substitute" pilot Saturday, flying with a different crew from the one he had along on the previous catch. With him today were co-pilot 1st Lt. Charles E. Leech, 27, of Oil City, Pa.; navigator 1st Lt. Frank J. Linseisen, 26, Waller, Tex.; flight engineer T. Sgt. Otis L. Powell, 31, San Lorenzo, Calif.; winch operator M. Sgt. William F. Ramsey, 36, of Spartanburg, S.C.; S. Sgt. Jack E. Morgan, 28, of Lawton, Okla.; Airmen Donald R. Brown, 21, Norris City, Ill., Allan R. Scharf, 22, Kerman, Calif., David E. Wilson, 23, Lakeview, Mich., and James D. Berry, Peoria, Ill.

Officers hailed Saturday's catch as "the most successful we have had," with split-second timing from its launching at Vandenberg Wednesday until the moment it

Commission Still Working On LaFourche

NEWELLTON — Chairman E. R. McDonald Sr. said Saturday the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission would "consumate" the proposed Lafourche swamp project "provided funds are available."

McDonald, who is chairman of the commission, spent the day on the telephone talking with various parties involved in the proposed purchase of about 14,600 acres in Lafourche near Monroe.

Later on he released a statement.

ASSURES PUBLIC

"We wish to assure the public that the transaction will be consumated at the earliest possible moment provided funds are available," McDonald stated.

"It appears that adequate funds will be made available through the efforts of the governor, the commission and the legislature."

McDonald did not mention a specific price involved in the proposed purchaes, but explained that efforts were underway to reach final negotiations with Ouachita Farms Inc., owners of the property.

"I have read newspaper reports with reference to the acquisition by the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission of the Ouachita Farm's lands situated in Ouachita and Richland Parishes for the purpose of providing public hunting area," McDonald said.

He added, "It appeared from these reports that newspapers are of the opinion the commission is not proceeding in this connection with all deliberate speed. However, the commission and myself as chairman would like to inform the public that every effort is being made to negotiate for the purchase or lease of the lands in question on a basis that would be fair and equitable to the people of Louisiana."

McDonald said, "The transaction is of such magnitude and involves so much public funds the commission is required to investigate and explore many of the phases of the contemplated transaction in order that it can determine with positive certainty that the land would be purchased or leased by the state at a minimum cost."

Broad Powers For Dag Urged In Congo Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —Ceylon proposed Saturday that the U. N. Security Council give General Dag Hammarskjold broad powers to keep order in the Congo in any way he sees fit.

Sir Claude Corea, Ceylon's representative, told the council he would submit a resolution that would authorize Hammarskjold to use the U. N. force there "to maintain law and order by all means that appear to him to be necessary."

He spoke after U. N. firmness in Stanleyville and Oriental province forced supporters of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba to give up their announced plan to arrest all Europeans there and behead some of them unless Lumumba was freed from prison.

Corea said his resolution also would have the council:

1. Call for the reconvening of the Congolese Parliament and the release of all imprisoned members of Parliament, including Lumumba.

2. Ask President Joseph Kasavubu to call a round-table conference of Congolese political leaders, including Lumumba, for a settlement of differences.

3. Direct the U. N. Command in the Congo to take "all neces-

Four persons were killed and one critically injured when a car went out of control on a rain-slick highway 16 miles west of Ruston yesterday and crashed into a butane truck.

Killed instantly were Mrs. Wilson M. Holder, 43, driver of the car, and her husband, Wilson M. Holder, 44, both of 3888 Greenway St., Shreveport.

Pronounced dead on arrival at Arcadia hospital was Mrs. Holder's mother, Mrs. Estelle Marshall, 70, of Jackson, Miss. Holder's mother, Mrs. Lena Holder, 68, also of Jackson, Miss., died two hours after the accident in a Shreveport hospital.

The Holder's 13 - year - old daughter, Pamela, is listed in critical condition in Schumpert's Hospital in Shreveport where she was taken after the collision.

UNINJURED

Driver of the truck, Isaac Norrell of El Dorado, Ark. was uninjured.

Trooper Bruce Thompson said that Mrs. Holder who was traveling to Ruston to pick up her son Robert Holder, a student at Louisiana Tech, evidently lost control of the car as she came off the ICC overpass and the vehicle slid into the rear wheels of the liquified gas trailer truck.

The truck, belonging to Wheeling Pipeline Company of El Dorado, was overturned in the crash which occurred about 11:30 yesterday morning.

Norrell said that he had been driving for the company for about one year. He told authorities that as he crossed the S-shaped bridge at the overpass, the Holder car veered out of control and ran un-

Legislators To Learn Of Plans Today

Calling Of Third Special Session Still In Doubt

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana Legislature, tired but still tough, returns Sunday to learn whether a third special session will be called to continue fighting school integration.

The current 30-day special session ends next Thursday. Under the law, Gov. Jimmie H. Davis may give five days' advance notice for another session.

HAVE NEWS IDEAS

If a continuous legislature is in the wind, then Sunday would be the day the third session would have to be called.

House and Senate returns at 7 p.m. for a final five days in this session, and administration leaders have made it clear they have new ideas.

The state's 140 legislators went home five days, sampling the public pulse, after repeated legislative assault against racial integration in two New Orleans schools were smashed by swift federal court action.

They have been in session since Nov. 4, with many rough days of floor fighting.

U.S. Solicitor Gen. J. Lee Rankin, in Washington, this week pressed the U.S. Supreme Court for fast action in upholding rulings of a three-judge federal court in New Orleans which toppled a series of special legislative laws.

The legislature established a system of grants-in-aid to finance private schooling for white students who don't want to go to integrated schools. This the courts have not attacked.

Mostly, the legislature has engaged in a fierce cat-and-mouse game with the New Orleans School Board it has tried three times to

Wild Rioters Stage Orgy Of Violence

ALGIERS (AP)—An edgy calm settled over this embattled city Saturday night in the wake of violent clashes between Moslem supporters of French President Charles de Gaulle and anti-Gaullist European settlers.

The battles erupted near the end of the second straight day of mob action by settlers protesting De Gaulle's policy of self-determination for Algeria.

SACK STORE

The North Africans and settlers fought as De Gaulle spoke to 400 army officers at nearby Blida, urging them to forget the past and support creation of an Algeria in which both Moslems and Europeans would play significant roles.

Pouring unexpectedly out of the until-then silent casbah, about 3,000 North Africans staged the first large-scale Arab demonstrations in this territorial capital.

They set fire to a gasoline station, sacked a department store, smashed shop windows and slashed the tires of parked cars on a march down the Rue de Lyon.

Shouting, "Algeria is Algerian," they pushed through a barrage of flower pots and other missiles hurled by Europeans from the windows of buildings lining the street, then clashed with a crowd of waiting settlers.

Riot police backed by grim-faced troops hurled tear gas grenades and dispersed the mobs.

Then police had to swing into action again when Moslem bands streamed into the city from suburban shantytowns, setting of a new wave of disorders.

Before being routed the North Africans paraded through a new apartment development area overturning cars, smashing windows and beating up several Europeans.

A government spokesman said

Heavy Snow Due To Hit In Midwest

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Snow and ice which paralyzed and isolated parts of New Mexico and Texas swept northeast into the Midwest Saturday.

The Southwest's worst snow-ice storm of the season left many towns without communication to the outside except by ham radio and halted travel on highways except for desperate need.

Many residents fled the cold to homes of neighbors when power failures shut down electric-blower heating systems.

MANY STRANDED

The Texas state police said hotels and motels remained jammed with travelers in the ice-snow belt.

The Weather Bureau issued heavy snow warnings for Saturday night and Sunday in a band from north central Kansas Northeastward across extreme northwest Missouri, extreme southeast Nebraska and extreme southwest Iowa.

The agency predicted four or more inches in the Midwest belt. The bureau also forecast accumulation of four inches or more in western Oklahoma and northwest Texas, with snow and sleet sweeping eastward along the Texas-Oklahoma border.

Freezing rain and some sleet moved into Oklahoma, Kansas and extreme northwest Missouri, causing considerable glazing on highways.

Texas counted 12 deaths indirectly caused by a week of snow, ice and flood-producing deluges.

New Mexico reported five deaths from the heavy snows which measured up to 18 inches in the Las Vegas, N.M., area.

Rain Hits Area With Torrents

After only a rest of one day the rains returned to northeast Louisiana — and in a big way.

Reporting stations all around the area from Shreveport to Jackson, Miss., reported heavy rains and in the Twin Cities the deluge started around 5:45 p.m., lasting well into the night.

Three-tenths of an inch of rainfall were recorded by Federal Aviation at Selman Field.

And with the rain, back came the accidents. A few minor mishaps were reported in the Monroe-West Monroe area. And one accident near Ruston caused the death of four persons and seriously injured another.

Late last night there were no reports of other serious accidents around the area.

However, law enforcement officers were urging motorists to exercise extreme caution on the highways. At least seven had been killed during the weekend in Louisiana last night — all traffic fatalities.

The Delta parishes reported especially heavy rains during the day but had subsided to a steady drizzle last night.

But the projected outlook for the area offers some comfort. Clearing skies are forecast today.

Colder weather is also seen for the area with high temperatures due to range from 44 to 48 degrees until Tuesday morning. The low for the period will be from 28 to 32 degrees.

Today's outlook in the area is for clearing skies and colder. The high today will range from 50 to 54 and the low from 40 to 44.

Saturday's high in the Twin Cities, according to Selman Field's weather station, was 62 with a low of 44.

Couple Rewed After 58 Years

ILFORD, Mass. (AP)—Westbrook E. Morrill, 84, and Elizabeth Chase, 82, were married Saturday, ending a separation begun when they were divorced 58 years ago.

Both remarried but their second spouses died, his in 1958 and her's in 1941.

The ceremony was at the home of his son by his second marriage, Lester Morrill. An attendant was Miss Elvira Morrill of Spencer, only child of their earlier marriage.

Lowly Thief Steals Corpse From Hearse

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"I can't figure what anyone would want with a dead body, except for an undertaker."

Those were the words of M. L. Augustus, 55-year-old Negro undertaker, Saturday in commenting on the theft of a corpse from his hearse.

"You don't sink much lower than that," said Augustus, shaking his head. "I could cry over it, too."

The body of Clara Jackson, a 42-year-old Gonzales, La., Negro was taken from Augustus' hearse Friday night. He had picked it up at Charity Hospital here and was enroute to Baton Rouge.

Augustus believes the body was removed from the hearse when he and a helper, Albert Howard of Gonzales, stopped at Laplace for coffee.

Police think the disappearance was the work of pranksters.

The Negro undertaker has offered a $100 reward for the return of the body, which was taken from a cloth pouch inside the hearse.

Blast On Barge Fatal To Three

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—An oil barge being cleaned of sludge blew up on the Cape Fear River here Saturday, killing three men and sending two others to a hospital.

The explosion shattered windows and shook buildings in this city of 45,000 more than a mile across the river from the blast.

2 Airmen Missing In Crash

BARRE, Vt. (UPI) — Search parties battled bone-chilling near-zero cold in the snowy mountain woodlands of two states Saturday night, spurred by the hope two missing airmen had survived the crash of a huge jet bomber.

New York State Police reported that flares had been sighted by the residents of the tiny village of Elizabethtown in the Bouquette Valley section of Essex County, northeast of Schroon Lake, N.Y.

Five of the eight men aboard the eight-jet B-52 when it ran into trouble on a routine training mission late Friday night bailed out to safety and were found in the Schroon Lake area.

Late Saturday a sixth man, critically injured, was found near the tattered remains of his parachute. Officials at Plattsburg, N. Y., air force base said Airman 1.C. Charles E. Morris, 32, of Clearwater, Fla., a father of five, had suffered a fractured pelvis, multiple bruises and possible neck injuries.

Still missing were S.Sgt. Pierre J. Maheux, 27, of Auburn, Maine, tailgunner, father of three, and 1st Lt. George M. Davis, 27, of Pawtucket, R.I., navigator, father of one.

Hundreds of local and state police, airmen and volunteers were pressed into the hunt in the tangled forests of upstate New York and Western Vermont as temperatures dropped to 2 above

SIX NOT FOR KENNEDY

Alabama Electors To Vote For South

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's six unpledged Democratic electors vowed Saturday that "we shall not consider" voting for President-elect John F. Kennedy so long as he supports the Democratic party platform.

Following their first meeting since the Nov. 8 general election, the six issued a statement in which they:

1. Repeated a pre - election pledge to vote "for an outstanding Southern Democrat who sympathizes with our peculiar problems in the South." So far they haven't named their favorite.

2. Expressed confidence that Southern congressmen, most of whom have been staunch Kennedy supporters, would back a Southern Democrat for president in any showdown in the U.S. House of Representatives.

3. Stated that "our position remains fluid so that we can cooperate with other unpledged electors for the preservation of racial and national integrity."

4. Said they will meet Monday with other Southern unpledged electors in Jackson, Miss. The meeting was called by Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi, where all eight electors are unpledged.

5. Deplored the role played by Southerners who "ally themselves with a candidate who avowedly would integrate our schools, do away with literacy tests as a qualification for voting, force upon us an FEPC, and otherwise undermine everything we hold dear in the South."

Previously only two of Alabama's unpledged electors — C. E. Hornsby Jr. of Centreville and Bruce Henderson of Prairie—had said they would not support Kennedy.

The other four unpledged electors — former Gov. Frank Dixon

Lives Of Eight Saved By Dog

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP) — A barking dog saved eight persons, including four children, from being trapped in a predawn fire Saturday. Then he perished in the blaze as the eight fled to safety in their nightclothes.

Mrs. J. M. Aba and her sons Ronnie, 5, and Archie, 14; Mr. and Mrs. Moses Green and their sons, Willie, 13, and Michael, 12; and Oscar Miles all escaped from the three-story frame house.

The Abas lived on the first floor, Miles on the second and the Greens on the third.

The dog, "Skippy," belonged to the Greens.

Firemen said defective wiring apparently touched off the blaze. Fire destroyed the interior of the building but did not spread.

Forty firemen fought the blaze for two hours.

ILLINOIS RECOUNT

GOP To Take Case To Electoral Board

CHICAGO (AP) — Republicans, claiming that Vice President Richard M. Nixon gained 5,528 votes in a recheck of Cook County ballots, prepared Saturday to take their case to the Illinois Electoral Board.

The GOP figure still fell short of what Nixon would need to overcome President-elect John F. Kennedy's 8,849-vote victory in Illinois. But it also was considerably higher than official recheck figures released Friday.

Georges H. Dapples, attorney for the Nixon Recount Committee, said he would take complaints of voting irregularities to the Republican-dominated State Electoral Board when it reconvenes in Springfield Wednesday. He said he hopes the board will withhold the state's 27 electoral votes from Kennedy.

Republicans also claimed the recheck of 863 paper-ballot precincts in Cook County gave Benjamin Adamowski, state's attorney, who lost to Democrat Daniel P. Ward by 26,000 votes, a gain of 16,618 votes.

A representative for Adamowski, Elry C. Sanodquist Jr., said Adamowski would sue for a formal recount next week.

Dapples filed two suits Friday, demanding that the county canvassing board and the Chicago Board of Election Commissioners —both dominated by Democrats— be ordered to revise the county's official canvass results, certified two weeks ago. A circuit court ruling was expected before the state board meets.

Results of the GOP-sponsored recheck announced by the two local boards gave Nixon a net gain of 943 votes over the canvass results. Adamowski gained 6,186 in the same 863 precincts.

Commission Still Working On LaFourche

NEWELLTON — Chairman E. R. McDonald Sr. said Saturday the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission would "consumate" the proposed Lafourche swamp project "provided funds are available."

McDonald, who is chairman of the commission, spent the day on the telephone talking with various parties involved in the proposed purchase of about 14,600 acres in Lafourche near Monroe.

Later on he released a statement.

"We wish to assure the public that the transaction will be consumated at the earliest possible moment provided funds are available," McDonald stated.

"It appears that adequate funds will be made available through the efforts of the governor, the commission and the legislature."

McDonald did not mention a specific price involved in the proposed purchaes, but explained that efforts were underway to reach final negotiations with Ouachita Farms Inc., owners of the property.

"I have read newspaper reports with reference to the acquisition by the Wild Life and Fisheries Commission of the Ouachita Farm's lands situated in Ouachita and Richland Parishes for the purpose of providing public hunting area," McDonald said.

MANY STRANDED

The Texas state police said hotels and motels remained jammed with travelers in the ice-snow belt.

The Weather Bureau issued heavy snow warnings for Saturday night and Sunday in a band from north central Kansas Northeastward across extreme northwest Missouri, extreme southeast Nebraska and extreme southwest Iowa.

The agency predicted four or more inches in the Midwest belt. The bureau also forecast accumulation of four inches or more in western Oklahoma and northwest Texas, with snow and sleet sweeping eastward along the Texas-Oklahoma border.

Freezing rain and some sleet moved into Oklahoma, Kansas and extreme northwest Missouri, causing considerable glazing on highways.

Texas counted 12 deaths indirectly caused by a week of snow, ice and flood-producing deluges.

New Mexico reported five deaths from the heavy snows which measured up to 18 inches in the Las Vegas, N.M., area.

Rain Hits Area With Torrents

After only a rest of one day the rains returned to northeast Louisiana — and in a big way.

Reporting stations all around the area from Shreveport to Jackson, Miss., reported heavy rains and in the Twin Cities the deluge started around 5:45 p.m., lasting well into the night.

Three-tenths of an inch of rainfall were recorded by Federal Aviation at Selman Field.

And with the rain, back came the accidents. A few minor mishaps were reported in the Monroe-West Monroe area. And one accident near Ruston caused the death of four persons and seriously injured another.

Late last night there were no reports of other serious accicidents around the area.

However, law enforcement officers were urging motorists to exercise extreme caution on the highways. At least seven had been killed during the weekend in Louisiana last night — all traffic fatalities.

The Delta parishes reported especially heavy rains during the day but had subsided to a steady drizzle last night.

But the projected outlook for the area offers some comfort. Clearing skies are forecast today.

Colder weather is also seen for the area with high temperatures due to range from 44 to 48 degrees until Tuesday morning. The low for the period will be from 28 to 32 degrees.

Today's outlook in the area is for clearing skies and colder. The high today will range from 50 to 54 and the low from 40 to 44.

Saturday's high in the Twin Cities, according to Selman Field's weather station, was 62 with a low of 44.

Lowly Thief Steals Corpse From Hearse

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—"I can't figure what anyone would want with a dead body, except for an undertaker."

Those were the words of M. L. Augustus, 55-year-old Negro undertaker, Saturday in commenting on the theft of a corpse from his hearse.

"You don't sink much lower than that," said Augustus, shaking his head. "I could cry over it, too."

The body of Clara Jackson, a 42-year-old Gonzales, La., Negro was taken from Augustus' hearse Friday night. He had picked it up at Charity Hospital here and was enroute to Baton Rouge.

Augustus believes the body was removed from the hearse when he and a helper, Albert Howard of Gonzales, stopped at Laplace for coffee.

Police think the disappearance was the work of pranksters.

The Negro undertaker has offered a $100 reward for the return of the body, which was taken from a cloth pouch inside the hearse.

Blast On Barge Fatal To Three

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—An oil barge being cleaned of sludge blew up on the Cape Fear River here Saturday, killing three men and sending two others to a hospital.

The explosion shattered windows and shook buildirgs in this city of 45,000 more than a mile across the river from the blast.

2 Airmen Missing In Crash

BARRE, Vt. (UPI) — Search parties battled bone-chilling near-zero cold in the snowy mountain woodlands of two states Saturday night, spurred by the hope two missing airmen had survived the crash of a huge jet bomber.

New York State Police reported that flares had been sighted by the residents of the tiny village of Elizabethtown in the Bouquette Valley section of Essex County, northeast of Schroon Lake, N.Y.

Five of the eight men aboard the eight-jet B-52 when it ran into trouble on a routine training mission late Friday night bailed out to safety and were found in the Schroon Lake area.

Late Saturday a sixth man, critically injured, was found near the tattered remains of his parachute. Officials at Plattsburg, N. Y., air force base said Airman 1.C. Charles E. Morris, 32, of Clearwater, Fla., a father of five, had suffered a fractured pelvis, multiple bruises and possible neck injuries.

Still missing were S.Sgt. Pierre J. Maheux, 27, of Auburn, Maine, tailgunner, father of three, and 1st Lt. George M. Davis, 27, of Pawtucket, R.I., navigator, father of one.

Hundreds of local and state police, airmen and volunteers were pressed into the hunt in the tangled forests of upstate New York and Western Vermont as temperatures dropped to 2 above

Broad Powers For Dag Urged In Congo Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —Ceylon proposed Saturday that the U. N. Security Council give General Dag Hammarskjold broad powers to keep order in the Congo in any way he sees fit.

Sir Claude Corea, Ceylon's representative, told the council he would submit a resolution that would authorize Hammarskjold to use the U. N. force there "to maintain law and order by all means that appear to him to be necessary."

He spoke after U. N. firmness in Stanleyville and Oriental province forced supporters of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba to give up their announced plan to arrest all Europeans there and behead some of them unless Lumumba was freed from prison.

Corea said his resolution also would have the council:

1. Call for the reconvening of the Congolese Parliament and the release of all imprisoned members of Parliament, including Lumumba.

2. Ask President Joseph Kasavubu to call a round-table conference of Congolese political leaders, including Lumumba, for a settlement of differences.

3. Direct the U. N. Command in the Congo to take "all neces-

SIX NOT FOR KENNEDY

Alabama Electors To Vote For South

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Alabama's six unpledged Democratic electors vowed Saturday that "we shall not consider" voting for President-elect John F. Kennedy so long as he supports the Democratic party platform.

Following their first meeting since the Nov. 8 general election, the six issued a statement in which they:

1. Repeated a pre - election pledge to vote "for an outstanding Southern Democrat who sympathizes with our peculiar problems in the South." So far they haven't named their favorite.

2. Expressed confidence that Southern congressmen, most of whom have been staunch Kennedy supporters, would back a Southern Democrat for president in any showdown in the U.S. House of Representatives.

3. Stated that "our position remains fluid so that we can cooperate with other unpledged electors for the preservation of racial and national integrity."

4. Said they will meet Monday with other Southern unpledged electors in Jackson, Miss. The meeting was called by Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi, where all eight electors are unpledged.

5. Deplored the role played by Southerners who "ally themselves with a candidate who avowedly would integrate our schools, do away with literacy tests as a qualification for voting, force upon us an FEPC, and otherwise undermine everything we hold dear in the South."

Previously only two of Alabama's unpledged electors — C. E. Hornsby Jr. of Centreville and Bruce Henderson of Prairie—had said they would not support Kennedy.

The other four unpledged electors — former Gov. Frank Dixon

ILFORD, Mass. (AP)—Westbrook E. Morrill, 84, and Elizabeth Chase, 82, were married Saturday, ending a separation begun when they were divorced 58 years ago.

Both remarried but their second spouses died, his in 1958 and her's in 1941.

The ceremony was at the home of his son by his second marriage, Lester Morrill. An attendant was Miss Elvira Morrill of Spencer, only child of their earlier marriage.

Lives Of Eight Saved By Dog

ELIZABETH, N. J. (AP) — A barking dog saved eight persons, including four children, from being trapped in a predawn fire Saturday. Then he perished in the blaze as the eight fled to safety in their nightclothes.

Mrs. J. M. Aba and her sons Ronnie, 5, and Archie, 14; Mr. and Mrs. Moses Green and their sons, Willie, 13, and Michael, 12; and Oscar Miles all escaped from the three-story frame house.

The Abas lived on the first floor, Miles on the second and the Greens on the third.

The dog, "Skippy," belonged to the Greens.

Firemen said defective wiring apparently touched off the blaze. Fire destroyed the interior of the building but did not spread.

Forty firemen fought the blaze for two hours.

ILLINOIS RECOUNT

GOP To Take Case To Electoral Board

CHICAGO (AP) — Republicans, claiming that Vice President Richard M. Nixon gained 5,528 votes in a recheck of Cook County ballots, prepared Saturday to take their case to the Illinois Electoral Board.

The GOP figure still fell short of what Nixon would need to overcome President-elect John F. Kennedy's 8,849-vote victory in Illinois. But it also was considerably higher than official recheck figures released Friday.

Georges H. Dapples, attorney for the Nixon Recount Committee, said he would take complaints of voting irregularities to the Republican-dominated State Electoral Board when it reconvenes in Springfield Wednesday. He said he hopes the board will withhold the state's 27 electoral votes from Kennedy.

Republicans also claimed the recheck of 863 paper-ballot precincts in Cook County gave Benjamin Adamowski, state's attorney, who lost to Democrat Daniel P. Ward by 26,000 votes, a gain of 16,618 votes.

A representative for Adamowski, Elry C. Sanodquist Jr., said Adamowski would sue for a formal recount next week.

Dapples filed two suits Friday, demanding that the county canvassing board and the Chicago Board of Election Commissioners —both dominated by Democrats— be ordered to revise the county's official canvass results, certified two weeks ago. A circuit court ruling was expected before the state board meets.

Results of the GOP-sponsored recheck announced by the two local boards gave Nixon a net gain of 943 votes over the canvass results. Adamowski gained 6,186 in the same 863 precincts.

derneath the rear of the truck's trailer portion.

According to the Ruston sheriff's department, wrecker crews worked in drizzling rain for some 40 minutes to extricate the body of Mrs. Holder who was pinned in the smashed vehicle. It was not raining at the time of the accident.

She, along with her husband and Mrs. Marshall, were riding in the front seat. The car was headed east on U. S. Highway 80.

Identification of Mrs. Holder and Mrs. Marshall had to be withheld until authorities could bring the Holders' son to identify them. He was found and definite identification made some two hours after the fatal crash.

Pamela and her grandmother, Mrs. Holder, were taken to the Arcadia hospital for emergency treatment and later transferred to Schumpert's Hospital in Shreveport where Mrs. Holder died.

Mr. Holder's body was carried to Spears Kimball Funeral Home of Ruston, but no funeral arrangements for any of the victims were available last night.

Mr. Holder was an employee of the Newspaper Production Company in Shreveport. The family had planned to pick Robert up and take him home for the weekend.

The bodies of Holder's wife and her mother, Mrs. Marshall, were taken to Conger Funeral Home in Arcadia. Holder's mother's body, Mrs. Holder, was taken to a Shreveport funeral home.

According to spokesmen, arrangements will not be made until kinsmen from Mississippi arrive to aid the son, Robert.

No charges had been made in the accident late last night.

Alabama's other five Democratic electors are pledged to Kennedy.

Following the national conventions, members of the independent elector group expressed strong dissatisfaction with the civil rights stands of both the Democrats and the Republicans.

The hope of the independent electors from the start was that Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon, the Republican nominee, would finish close enough to give the unpledged electors the balance of power.

Although only a shadow-thin margin separated the two in the popular vote, Kennedy apparently has 309 electoral votes — well above the 269 needed for election.

The elecotral votes will be cast Dec. 19.

cans sharply differ from the official tally, Dapples said, because Republicans did not count any votes which they judged would be thrown out in a formal recount.

These, he said, include ballots torn or marked incorrectly, with a check mark instead of an "x," he said.

The board certified "returns they know are erroneous," Dapples added.

Election board officials said the 1957 state law providing for a recheck of votes to determine whether there are grounds for seeking a recount did not allow them to throw out any votes the judges had counted on election night.

John C. Melaniphy, city corporation counsel, as said he will file a petition next week to have the Republican suits dismissed.

Heavy Snow Due To Hit In Midwest

was at Quitaque, south of Amarillo, where 12-inches were measured.

Snowfalls up to 10 inches were reported in numerous places.

El Paso and some other areas faced a night of extremely slick streets and sidewalks. The srow stopped in El Paso at nine inches and melted somewhat during the day, with a hard freeze forecast for Sunday night.

Tatum, N.M., suffered a loss of electric power, and all families whose homes were heated with power blowers moved into residences with radiant gas heat.

Muleshoe, inside the Texas line and north of Tatum, reported 1,000 rural residents without electricity and 350 rural homes without telephones.

A two-inch layer of ice that preceded 10 inches of snow made restoration of utility lines impossible in places because linemen could not lift the heavy, ice-coated wires.

In the Alpine-Marfa region of far west Texas, where the Rio Grande makes a big bend southward, heavy snow and ice isolated several towns, among them Marfa and Van Horn.

"We're in rough shape," said Jim O'Brien, publisher of the Big Bend Sentinel at Marfa. "Our phones are out, our television tower's top half has blown off, and it's hard to say when the utility company is going to get our power fully restored."

All telephone and telegrah lines servicing the Southern Pacific Railroad in the Big Bend area were out, but trains operated.

Stevenson Coy Over Decision On Post Offer

CHICAGO (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, asked Saturday if he will accept or reject the post of ambassador to the United Nations, replied, "I will do my duty."

In a series of short exchanges with newsmen after he flew in from New York, Stevenson hinted his delay in deciding upon the post is prompted by courtesy and protocol rather than possible objections to any man who might head the State Department.

President-elect John F. Kennedy, who offered the U. N. post to Stevenson, has not announced his choice of secretary of State.

Stevenson was asked what he thought of four men who have been mentioned as possible candates for secretary of State.

The names mentioned to him were those of David K. E. Bruce, Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Dean Rusk of the Rockefeller Foundation, and former Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut.

oust, with the federal court blocking each move.

Lawmakers became inflamed against the board, in the home of Mayor deLesseps Morrison, because it asked the first federal court orders which disrupted the legislature's timetable.

The legislature put on a financial squeeze, handling teachers' paychecks itself, to force out the school board.

Morrison, defeated by Gov. Davis in the Democratic runoff for governor last winter, criticized what he called legislative agitation stirring up racial issues.

The official Davis and legislative policy has been to ignore federal court orders, using the doctrine of opposition, or interposing the state sovereignty between federal courts and the schools of Louisiana. U.S. Deputy marshals repeatedly have served new federal court orders on Davis and legislative leaders.

Louisiana's responsible leaders have tried hard to warm up support from other states in what they call the fight to preserve sovereign rights of the states.

While they won't be quoted by name, they admit some of the fiery segregation speeches made in recent weeks —aimed mostly at home consumption — haven't been helpful.

And lawmakers now are talking about the reaction of some taxpayers to continuing sessions, which already have cost nearly half a million dollars.

Rep. John Garrett, Claiborne Parish, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, added his voice to those who believe lawmakers should be paid only for the days they actually meet — if they are any more sessions.

Rep. Richard Bertrand, Lafayette, first openly voiced that idea.

Lawmakers are paid their regular $250 a month expenses and $50 a day, whether they meet or not.

While the fervor for school segregation apparently is undiminished, the pocketbook issue is beginning to create taxpayer concern. Louisiana business slipped 2.3 per cent in October.

Once the New Orleans school question is settled, lawmakers know Baton Rouge and St. Helena Parish schools are next on the waiting list of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Lawsuits asking for desegregation plans in the two areas were filed months ago by NAACP attorneys. Action was delayed, pending the New Orleans school battle.

Secrecy marked advance planning by the coalition of Davis leaders, top educators and segregationists in the two special sessions so far.

While some lawmakers criticized the press for not going along wholeheartedly with the legislature, none acted to shove aside the pattern of secrecy which has drawn some newspaper and television station editorial criticism.

Both Senate and House went into closed sessions last week for, among other things, plans to promote television and radio publicity so "we can give our side," in the words of one administration leader.

Some lawmakers grumbled privately to newsmen about not knowing in advance what they would have to decide next.

In an interview, chairman Frank Voelker Jr. of the State Sovereignty Commission, one of the top strategists, was asked an explanation of secrecy in drafting new proposals.

"One of the reasons we don't like to discuss our moves in advance is that there is always the possibility the federal courts might attempt to restrain the legislature before it acts," Voelker said.

It has not happened yet, but Voelker said "we think that's because the courts haven't known in advance.

"This doesn't mean the legislature would honor such a restraint or fail to act," he emphasized.

"It does mean, in our opinion, that action by the federal courts in advance of the enactment of a bill possibly could have some long range legal effect, and might in some way prejudice the interests of our state should these matters be litigated.

"In my opinion, there never has been a neffort at secrecy because of the fear that opposition might grow in the legislature with enough time. I've never heard anyone say that was the reason for secrecy."

Air Force Plane Recovers Second Satellite Capsule

was plucked out of the sky by Jones' plane.

The capsule contained living materials and human tissues sent aloft to help blaze the trail for manned space flight.

The Air Force explained that under the rules the first pilot to spot the orange and silver parachute floating down got first shot at trying to snag it with a long boom-like snare sticking out the bottom of the plane.

Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, head of the Ballistic Missile Division charged with developing the Discoverer, hailed its 48 -passes equal to a million and a quarter miles in space.

"The entire operation of Discoverer XVIII from launch until recovery was the most successful we have had," Ritland said. "This was a precision operation from the very beginning.

"The timing and precision of the operation and the recovery after three days on orbit is very gratifying. Everything worked out to the split second."

Jones had caught the capsule from Discoverer XVII Nov. 14, that satellite capsule was allowed to remain in orbit for 31 passes. Usually 17 passes was the limit on earlier discoverers.

Contained in the 27-by-33-inch capsule was human eyelid tissue, blood and bone marrow to study the effect space radiation might have no future space travelers.

Zipping around the world at 18,000 miles an hour inside the 25-foot long Discover XVIII satellite, the capsule was triggered back toward earth at the touch of a button at the satellite control center at Sunnyvale, Calif. It was lowered by parachute for the last 40,000 feet after speeding back from high over the north pole.

Ike Will Take Vacation After Leaving Office

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower plan a vacation after they leave the White House.

Reports here were they would make extended visits to both Georgia and California.

The White House has refused to make any official announcement of their future plans, but the reports here were that they would pay only a brief visit to their farm home at Gettysburg, Pa., immediately after Jan. 20.

In the latter part of January the Eisenhowers reportedly plan to go to the Blue Springs plantation of W. Alton Jones, chairman of Cities Service Corp., at Albany, Ga. This would give Eisenhower another chance to engage in quail shooting, which is one of his favorite sports, along with golf and fishing.

After their stay in Albany, the Eisenhowers are expected to fly to California for a stay of two months or so on the grounds of the Eldorado Country Club, at Palm Desert.

There also is speculation, still unconfirmed, that Eisenhower might pay his 29th visit to the Augusta National Golf Club, his favorite Southern course, shortly after Christmas.

U.S. Deputy marshals repeatedly have served new federal court orders on Davis and legislative leaders.

Louisiana's responsible leaders have tried hard to warm up support from other states in what they call the fight to preserve sovereign rights of the states.

While they won't be quoted by name, they admit some of the fiery segregation speeches made in recent weeks —aimed mostly at home consumption — haven't been helpful.

And lawmakers now are talking about the reaction of some taxpayers to continuing sessions, which already have cost nearly half a million dollars.

Rep. John Garrett, Claiborne Parish, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, added his voice to those who believe lawmakers should be paid only for the days they actually meet — if they are any more sessions.

Rep. Richard Bertrand, Lafayette, first openly voiced that idea.

Lawmakers are paid their regular $250 a month expenses and $50 a day, whether they meet or not.

While the fervor for school segregation apparently is undiminished, the pocketbook issue is beginning to create taxpayer concern. Louisiana business slipped 2.3 per cent in October.

Once the New Orleans school question is settled, lawmakers know Baton Rouge and St. Helena Parish schools are next on the waiting list of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Lawsuits asking for desegregation plans in the two areas were filed months ago by NAACP attorneys. Action was delayed, pending the New Orleans school battle.

Secrecy marked advance planning by the coalition of Davis leaders, top educators and segregationists in the two special sessions so far.

While some lawmakers criticized the press for not going along wholeheartedly with the legislature, none acted to shove aside the pattern of secrecy which has drawn some newspaper and television station editorial criticism.

Both Senate and House went into closed sessions last week for, among other things, plans to promote television and radio publicity so "we can give our side," in the words of one administration leader.

Some lawmakers grumbled privately to newsmen about not knowing in advance what they would have to decide next.

In an interview, chairman Frank Voelker Jr. of the State Sovereignty Commission, one of the top strategists, was asked an explanation of secrecy in drafting new proposals.

"One of the reasons we don't like to discuss our moves in advance is that there is always the possibility the federal courts might attempt to restrain the legislature before it acts," Voelker said.

It has not happened yet, but Voelker said "we think that's because the courts haven't known in advance.

"This doesn't mean the legislature would honor such a restraint or fail to act," he emphasized.

"It does mean, in our opinion, that action by the federal courts in advance of the enactment of a bill possibly could have some long range legal effect, and might in some way prejudice the interests of our state should these matters be litigated.

"In my opinion, there never has been a neffort at secrecy because of the fear that opposition might grow in the legislature with enough time. I've never heard anyone say that was the reason for secrecy."

Air Force Plane Recovers Second Satellite Capsule

was plucked out of the sky by Jones' plane.

The capsule contained living materials and human tissues sent aloft to help blaze the trail for manned space flight.

The Air Force explained that under the rules the first pilot to spot the orange and silver parachute floating down got first shot at trying to snag it with a long boom-like snare sticking out the bottom of the plane.

Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland, head of the Ballistic Missile Division charged with developing the Discoverer, hailed its 48 -passes equal to a million and a quarter miles in space.

"The entire operation of Discoverer XVIII from launch until recovery was the most successful we have had," Ritland said. "This was a precision operation from the very beginning.

"The timing and precision of the operation and the recovery after three days on orbit is very gratifying. Everything worked out to the split second."

Jones had caught the capsule from Discoverer XVII Nov. 14. that satellite capsule was allowed to remain in orbit for 31 passes. Usually 17 passes was the limit on earlier discoverers.

Contained in the 27-by-33-inch capsule was human eyelid tissue, blood and bone marrow to study the effect space radiation might have no future space travelers.

Zipping around the world at 18,000 miles an hour inside the 25-foot long Discover XVIII satellite, the capsule was triggered back toward earth at the touch of a button at the satellite control center at Sunnyvale, Calif. It was lowered by parachute for the last 40,000 feet after speeding back from high over the north pole.

Ike Will Take Vacation After Leaving Office

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower plan a vacation after they leave the White House.

Reports here were they would make extended visits to both Georgia and California.

The White House has refused to make any official announcement of their future plans, but the reports here were that they would pay only a brief visit to their farm home at Gettysburg, Pa., immediately after Jan. 20.

In the latter part of January the Eisenhowers reportedly plan to go to the Blue Springs plantation of W. Alton Jones, chairman of Cities Service Corp., at Albany, Ga. This would give Eisenhower another chance to engage in quail shooting, which is one of his favorite sports, along with golf and fishing.

After their stay in Albany, the Eisenhowers are expected to fly to California for a stay of two months or so on the grounds of the Eldorado Country Club, at Palm Desert.

There also is speculation, still unconfirmed, that Eisenhower might pay his 29th visit to the Augusta National Golf Club, his favorite Southern course, shortly after Christmas.

BY AIR FORCE

Drastic Defense Revisions Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Air Force campaign plan to convince Congress of a need for drastic defense organization says the present system permits too much civilian intrusion into strategy making and other military matters.

The plan takes the form of a book dealing with "Reorganization Papers." A foreword says it was prepared to assist the secretary of the Air Force, the air chief of staff and other senior officers "to discuss defense reorganizational problems before Congress."

It bears no secrecy stamp but has been withheld by the Air Force from general circulation. However, copies have reached other persons, including civilians outside the Pentagon, in recent days.

Essentially, the material is a compilation of papers prepared during the past year.

Proposals in the book include several that appeared in the recent report of a committee headed by Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., which submitted a reorganization report and recommendations to President-elect John F. Kennedy.

But commentary in the book goes farther. It says that the system of separate armed forces with accompanying controversy over basic military concepts results in essentially military questions being decided by civilian leaders.

"This tendency invites, in fact encourages civilian intrusion into other military matters," it adds.

"The seeming unwillingness of the services to agree on even non-essential military matters results in more and more issues being referred to civilian authorities for decision.

"To make such decisions, civilian authorities require independent staff assistance which, when provided, increases the capacity of the civilian authorities to make even more decisions.

"As more and more decisions are made, a need for 'follow-up' procedures develops which, in turn, create additional demands or even larger staffs. Backlogs occur, inaction follows, and military decisions are not made by military professionals.

"Trends such as these may jeopardize national security."

Elsewhere, the document says that "the establishment of a single national military staff and a single chief of staff will insure military control of military matters" and that "this is the most effective manner to establish again the proper division between the civilian and military authorities."

The book suggests there are two ways to reorganize—by the evolution of gradual changes, or by the decisive approach of eliminating the separate Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Air Force, creating a single service.

"The decisive approach, elimination of the services, will solve once and for all the problems of interservice conflict and permit, if not foster, the achievement of all the fundamental requisites of an effective national defense structure," it says.

But it adds: "The prospects of congressional and executive agreement, in principle, to a single service, at this time and in one piece of legislation, are doubtful. The opposition will be powerful and dedicated. The achievement of a single military establishment would undoubtedly require presidential support."

The book suggests that the goal of a single service perhaps can be reached best by evolutionary changes moving toward the eventual goal.

The document emphasizes that timing is a major consideration; that today the Air Force "enjoys a maximum of influence, has co-equal strength in national military councils with the other services and controls the primary 'survival' weapon systems."

This might not hold true in the next 5 or 10 years, the book says, if manned airpower should give way to missiles; if air defense should become missile defense; if other services should gain the tactical air responsibility; if space responsibilities should be centralized in a "nonmilitary organization, or if disarmament or deterrence concepts should reduce the strategic capability to a small, invulnerable but inactive force."

It therefore contends that: "The above reasoning suggests that if the Air Force is to seek a single service, it would be best to do so while it retains its budgetary and strategic preponderance. If successful, the Air Force would be in the best position to influence the nature of the national military organization. To wait might be but to sanction the diminution of the Air Force and air power."

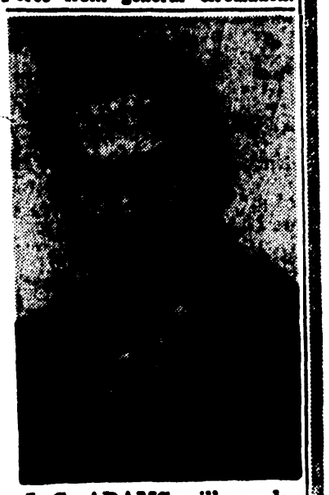
Fires Are Fatal For 11 Persons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An outbreak of fires across the country in the past 24 hours took the lives of 11 persons, many of them children.

Three children and a man, 55, boarding in their home died in a blazing two-story dwelling in Burlington, Vt. Four other children and their parents were burned severely.

In Baltimore a pregnant mother and her two young daughters died after an oil stove, turned up high against the 24-degree cold, exploded and set their house afire.



J. G. ADAMS will speak to the Monroe section of the American Institute of Electrical engineers at their annual family meeting here Tuesday. He will discuss thermoelectric products of the future. He is with Westinghouse Electric Corp. of Atlanta, Ga.

Barnett Says Nuclear Test Blasts Safe

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Gov. Ross Barnett told Mississippians Saturday that proposed underground nuclear explosions in South Mississippi salt domes "will be completely safe."

Bids have been invited for preliminary evaluation of sites for experimental drilling at the Tatum sale dome near Hattiesburg and the Bruinsburg dome south of Vicksburg.

The explosions, if authorized by the president, will be conducted by the Atomic Energy Commission and the Department of Defense as part of the "seismic improvement program."

"If present information is substantiated," Barnett said in a prepared statement, "it appears likely that a construction program associated with the experiments and calling for expenditures of federal funds in the neighborhood from 10 to 30 million dollars will be made..."

Barnett said he has conferred with representatives of the AEC and the Mississippi Industrial and Technological Research Commission and he was "definitely satisfied" that all necessary precautions were being taken to protect the people of the areas and their property."

He said he was advised by scientists that they would not contact any waters and the earth's crust would not be disturbed.

"Since the explosion will be completely contained," the governor added, "there will be no blast or thermal damage, nor will any radioactivity escape into the atmosphere."

Wild Rioters Stage Orgy Of Violence

the fighting was instigated by what he called professional rioters bent on driving a wedge between Algeria's European and Moslem communities.

Unconfirmed reports said the Moslem outbreak was touched off by the shooting of a Moslem police officer by a European rightist.

It was officially estimated that a total of 400 police were injured in the rioting Friday and Saturday. Eleven of them were hospitalized. There was no estimate of the number of rioters injured, but the total was believed to be at least 400.

Moslems and settlers had clashed previously in Oran and Orleansville. But until Saturday afternoon Algiers' Moslem population had withdrawn into the narrow streets of the native quarter, while the city's European sector was paralyzed by rioting and a general strike against De Gaulle's Algerian policy.

A pall of tear gas hung over the center of the city Saturday night. The area was completely ringed by soldiers who just waited, peacefully, for orders to move in.

Many of the European rioters appeared to be older men, not the student mobs of the earlier actions. They had thrown up barricades on some side streets and were in a nasty mood.

"We are going to stay here to the end," one said.

Troops Get Test

Broad Powers For Dag Urged In Congo Crisis

sary measures to disarm all private armies" there.

Corea made clear that he considered strong man Col. Joseph Mobutu's troops such a private army. He quoted remarks of Hammarskjold to the effect that "a section" of the Congolese army under Mobutu had "aggressively challenged" the U. N. force.

Corea's proposal to give Hammarskjold more authority evidently was prompted by Hammarskjold's telling the council Thursday night that if it wanted him to do more in the Congo, it should give him "the legal means" in the form of a wider mandate.

Before Saturday's council meeting, the assembly Steering Committee cleared the way for assembly debate on the Congo by recommending that the date for the Christmas break be postponed from Dec. 17 to Dec. 20. It set a resumption of session for March 7.

Several speakers said they expected the assembly would have to debate the Congo crisis soon.

Tingu F. Tsiang of Nationalist China was the first speaker at Saturday's council meeting. He said the United Nations must not intervene in Congo governmental affairs but had a right to address the Congo on a human rights issue.

High-level figures were gathering at this headquarters for the Congo discussion.

Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi of the United Arab Republic and Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon of India were sitting in on the council's proceedings.

Foreign Minister Koca Popovic of Yugoslavia was due to arrive Saturday night to take part in the debate.

The vanguard of a U. N. conciliation commission for the Congo was booked to leave for there Saturday night.

The commission itself will meet here Monday morning. Its chairman, Jaja Wachuku of Nigeria, and vice chairman, Mohamed Sopiee of Malaya, will leave for the Congo Tuesday with any other members that choose to go.

RIOT POLICE in Algiers Saturday used tear gas grenades to disperse howling mobs of 5,000 Algerian rightists demonstrating against President de Gaulle's home-rule policy for strife-torn Algeria. Rightists also demonstrated against de Gaulle in Oran. (AP Wirephoto by radio from Algiers)

Widow Asks Aid For 4 Children

will go without on Christ's birthday.

Which category will you, as a reader, fall in? Will you want or waste, or will you share, as many others through the years have?

An interested neighbor told Goodfellows in a letter yesterday of a widow, sick with sugar diabetes and unable to work. This woman has four children and is badly in need of clothing and food for them.

Another mother writes to say that what she "needs most is food and $4.35 to pay my gas bill with — it is overdue and will be cut off by the 15th of the month."

She writes that she has two children, another on the way, and her husband is in jail.

A little girl writes that her daddy was hurt in an accident and is unable to work. She says that they will not have any Christmas at all unless Goodfellows helps. There are five children in their family, two girls and three boys.

Another mother writes that she has six children, the oldest a boy — 13. Her husband recently had an operation and is unable to work so the oldest boy is working to help out.

She says that food, clothing and shoes are needed for her children, but most of all she needs milk for her three - month old baby.

These are only a few of the many letters received by Goodfellows seeking aid during this the season of ·ing, joy and good will.

Many more will request help during the next week and money is desperately needed to help these less fortunate neighbors.

and blinding snow showers lashed sections of both states.

The Air Force said the plane was carrying no nuclear weapons when it gouged a furrow as long as a football field and exploded in a blast that reduced it to shrapnel-like junk.

The first three to reach safety were Maj. Karl E. Keyes, 43, of Hyattsville, Md., the radar observer; Capt. William T. Combs, 42, of Bristol, Va., the pilot; and Capt. Ronald D. Little, 29, of Altoona, Pa., the navigator.

A few hours later, Maj. Henry H. Luscomb, 41, of Simsbury, Conn., instructor-pilot, and 1st Lt. James V. Saravo, 25, of Newport, R.I., co-pilot, walked out of the woods. Neither suffered any serious injuries.

Keyes, who suffered fractures of three ribs and the collarbone in a parachute jump, stumbled five miles through the forest to safety, guided by the sound of trucks on a highway. He said four others bailed out before him.

Capt. Combs issued the order to bail out. Both he and Little were reported in good condition. They emerged from the woods not far from where Keyes was found.

Keyes' first thought was for his wife whom he told by phone, as he does after every flight, "I'm on the ground." He was the first to reach safety.

Search parties hastily organized after the accident fanned out in the pre-dawn darkness over 5,000 square miles of rugged timberland situated between the Adirondacks of New York and Vermont's Green Mountains. Doctors walked with some of the searchers.

Deputy Falls From Tree — Arm Is Broken

Ouachita Parish sheriff's officials said yesterday a department criminal investigator was hospitalized yesterday morning with a broken arm following a hunting accident in Madison Parish earlier in the day.

Deputy Sheriff W. O. (Bill) Causey, 612 South Second St., Monroe, was reported resting well in St. Francis Hospital suffering with a fracture of the wrist.

Officials said Causey was climbing to a tree stand when a rotten limb gave way and dropped him about 15 feet to the ground.

Causey was in a party preparing for a deer hunt at a camp in Madison Parish when the accident occurred. He was brought back to Monroe for treatment.

Department spokesman said Causey is expected to return to duty soon.

Police Seeking Identification Of Road Victim

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Police searched Saturday for clues to the identification of a middle-aged woman who was struck by a truck Friday night as she sat in the middle of the Mobile Causeway.

Authorities said the woman, about 40, was struck by a truck as she sat in the middle of the road.

Highway Patrol Sgt. A. R. Phillips, an eyewitness to the scene, said he saw the impending tragedy but was 30 feet away and could only blow his horn in a futile attempt to alert either the truck driver of the woman. Phillips said he had been called to check reports of a woman standing in the middle of the causeway.

The woman had no identification, but police said her fingerprints would be sent to the FBI for assistance in identifing her.

Former Leader Of Cuba Pays Visit To Miami

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Carlos Prio Socarras, former president of Cuba, arrived unexpectedly at Miami International Airport Saturday on a flight from Havana.

The flight, Pan American 412, had been delayed for several hours before take-off by searches and interrogation of many of its passengers.

Prio, who was one of the principal financial backers of Fidel Castro's revolution, has been living quietly in Cuba for some time.

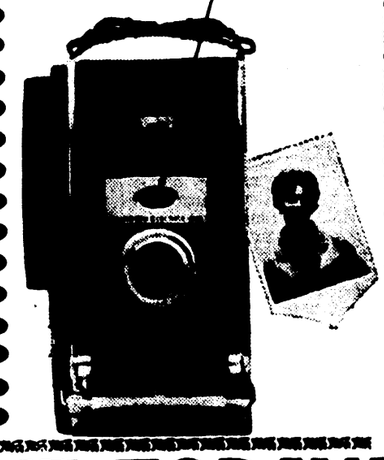
This is the tiny micro-eye that sets exposure automatically both indoors and out.

AT LOW GIBSON'S PRICE



Have you seen the exciting new Polaroid Land Camera? It has a tiny electric eye of radical new design that sets both the lens opening and the shutter speed for you — automatically. The eye — which is no larger than the head of a paper match — is so sensitive that it "sees" in the dim light of your living room, on a bright, sunny beach, anywhere!

Pictures indoors without flashbulbs? Just clip on the wink-light — the eye makes the correct settings automatically.

Outdoors in bright light you don't even have to focus. Just aim and snap. Everything in the picture from 3 feet to miles away will be sharp.

Remember, your picture is ready on the spot, only a moment after you snap it. Isn't this the way you want to take pictures?

Wild Rioters Stage Orgy Of Violence

the fighting was instigated by what he called professional rioters bent on driving a wedge between Algeria's European and Moslem communities.

Unconfirmed reports said the Moslem outbreak was touched off by the shooting of a Moslem police officer by a European rightist.

It was officially estimated that a total of 400 police were injured in the rioting Friday and Saturday. Eleven of them were hospitalized. There was no estimate of the number of rioters injured, but the total was believed to be at least 400.

Moslems and settlers had clashed previously in Oran and Orleansville. But until Saturday afternoon Algiers' Moslem population had withdrawn into the narrow streets of the native quarter, while the city's European sector was paralyzed by rioting and a general strike against De Gaulle's Algerian policy.

A pall of tear gas hung over the center of the city Saturday night. The area was completely ringed by soldiers who just waited, peacefully, for orders to move in.

Many of the European rioters appeared to be older men, not the student mobs of the earlier actions. They had thrown up barricades on some side streets and were in a nasty mood.

"We are going to stay here to the end," one said.

Broad Powers For Dag Urged In Congo Crisis

sary measures to disarm all private armies" there.

Corea made clear that he considered strong man Col. Joseph Mobutu's troops such a private army. He quoted remarks of Hammarskjold to the effect that "a section" of the Congolese army under Mobutu had "aggressively challenged" the U. N. force.

Corea's proposal to give Hammarskjold more authority evidently was prompted by Hammarskjold's telling the council Thursday night that if it wanted him to do more in the Congo, it should give him "the legal means" in the form of a wider mandate.

Before Saturday's council meeting, the assembly Steering Committee cleared the way for assembly debate on the Congo by recommending that the date for the Christmas break be postponed from Dec. 17 to Dec. 20. It set a resumption of session for March 7.

Several speakers said they expected the assembly would have to debate the Congo crisis soon.

Tingu F. Tsiang of Nationalist China was the first speaker at Saturday's council meeting. He said the United Nations must not intervene in Congo governmental affairs but had a right to address the Congo on a human rights issue.

High-level figures were gathering at this headquarters for the Congo discussion.

Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi of the United Arab Republic and Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon of India were sitting in on the council's proceedings.

Foreign Minister Koca Popovic of Yugoslavia was due to arrive Saturday night to take part in the debate.

The vanguard of a U. N. conciliation commission for the Congo was booked to leave for there Saturday night.

The commission itself will meet here Monday morning. Its chairman, Jaja Wachuku of Nigeria, and vice chairman, Mohamed Sopiee of Malaya, will leave for the Congo Tuesday with any other members that choose to go.

RIOT POLICE in Algiers Saturday used tear gas grenades to disperse howling mobs of 5,000 Algerian rightists demonstrating against President de Gaulle's home-rule policy for strife-torn Algeria. Rightists also demonstrated against de Gaulle in Oran. (AP Wirephoto by radio from Algiers) will go without on Christ's birthday.

Widow Asks Aid For 4 Children

Which category will you, as a reader, fall in? Will you want or waste, or will you share, as many others through the years have?

An interested neighbor told Goodfellows in a letter yesterday of a widow, sick with sugar diabetes and unable to work. This woman has four children and is badly in need of clothing and food for them.

Another mother writes to say that what she "needs most is food and $4.35 to pay my gas bill with — it is overdue and will be cut off by the 15th of the month."

She writes that she has two children, another on the way, and her husband is in jail.

A little girl writes that her daddy was hurt in an accident and is unable to work. She says that they will not have any Christmas at all unless Goodfellows helps. There are five children in their family, two girls and three boys.

Another mother writes that she has six children, the oldest a boy — 13. Her husband recently had an operation and is unable to work so the oldest boy is working to help out.

She says that food, clothing and shoes are needed for her children, but most of all she needs milk for her three - month old baby.

These are only a few of the many letters received by Goodfellows seeking aid during this the season of ing, joy and good will.

Many more will request h e l p during the next week and money is desperately needed to help these less fortunate neighbors.

Goldberg Choice For Labor Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney Arthur J. Goldberg, who might be called organized labor's most potent single operative, is in line to become secretary of Labor in the Kennedy administration.

As of now, President-elect John F. Kennedy is understood to want Goldberg more than anyone else for the Labor Cabinet post. t's a case of mutual admiration.

Goldberg, 52, may not be too well known to the public, but in the political and policy circles of Washington he is widely recognized as a smooth and effective advocate for union labor.

Employers wince at his ability, but they trust and respect him. For example, only in the past week it was Goldberg who was called upon to present the labor union viewpoint at the annual meeting in New York of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Goldberg usually winds up with the toughest chores, and seldom does he flunk. As general counsel of the Steelworkers Union, he helped negotiate a billion-dollar settlement a year ago just when the 166-day steel strike looked darkest.

He played a major role in ending the long feud between the AFL and CIO and wrote the constitution of the merged AFL-CIO. This was no easy task in the face of the existing deep rivalries.

Goldberg ran organized labor's own rackets investigations, paralleling the work of the Senate committee. As counsel for the AFL-CIO. Ethical Practices Committee, he investigated the Teamsters and helped expel that union from the big labor federation.

He represents many labor organizations from separate law firms in Washington and Chicago, his home town.

In fact, Goldbert has come to be known as labor's chief troubleshooter, whether it's a legislative crisis on Capitol Hill, a crucial lawsuit, or some other tough situation.

When unions picketed an Egyptian ship in New York harbor to protest Arab trade restrictions on Israel shipping, the State Department tore its hair. Authorities appealed to Goldberg.

He responded in typical fashion, suggesting a solution that all could accept. This involved a State Department promise that it would try to get the restrictions lifted or modified. The picketing stopped.

With Goldberg as Labor secretary, organized labor would have at least as strong a voice in Washington as it had in New Deal days. He could be expected to plug hard, with support from the administration, for labor-management consultation and cooperation over a wide range of problems.

"The challenge of the 60s," Goldberg told the NAM, "is to end the cold war which exists between labor and management in America today."

Grambling Set For Science Program Monday

GRAMBLING (Special) — A traveling science demonstration program under the auspicies of Oklahoma State University and conducted by a Louisiana-born educator will be held at the Grambling high school for one week beginning December 12, according to an announcement today from Roselyn E. Brown, a science instructor at the school.

The program, supported by a quarter million dollar National Science Foundation grant, is being sponsored over a 10-state area under the direction of 26 specially trained science teachers who spent three months during the past summer in preparation for the job.

Charles L. Cook, a 44-year-old native of Ringgold, will conduct the special demonstration - lecture program at Grambling High School.

Now on leave from the Lincoln Parish School system at Ruston, Cook resides in Simsboro and formerly attended Northwestern State College and holds the B. S. and the M. S. degrees from Louisiana State University.

The traveling program is designed to enable local science teachers and students to share the traveling teacher's experience and training. Demonstrations of fundamental scientific principles are given many of which can be duplicated by participatig schools with simple and inexpensive materials and equipment.

In addition to general lectures the program includes demonstrations and lectures in biology, chemistry, earth science, mathematics, and physics.

Heart Experts Give Advice To Avoid Attacks

NEW YORK (AP) — American Heart Association experts Saturday recommended that Americans eat less fat as a possible means of reducing the risk of heart attacks and strokes.

It suggested cutting down on intake of so-called "saturated" fats, and substituting more vegetable oils and other "unsaturated" fats.

Saturated fats are those which turn solid at room temperature. Many dairy and meat fats are higher in saturated than unsaturated fats.

The association's board of directors authorized release of the recommendations in a report issued by the Central Committee for Medical and Community Programs, the association's highest medical and scientific body.

The committee said there is no final proof yet that changing diet habits, particularly in reducing the total calories obtained from fats, could prevent heart attacks or strokes.

Other factors are involved in heart attacks, including age, heredity, sex, and high blood pressure.

But, it said, "Evidence from many countries suggests a relationship between the amount and type of fat consumed, the amount of cholesterol in the blood, and the reported incidence of coronary artery disease."

The report suggested individuals consult doctors before making specific changes in the fat content of their diets.

Yule Burglar Is Frustrated

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Christmas burglar was frustrated early Friday in an attempt to loot a Saks Fifth Avenue store here, a Pinkerton watchwan reported.

Gerchard Geret, 34, told police he was making his rounds on the fourth floor when he heard what sounded like someone using an elevator. He said he searched the third floor section for expensive fur coats and found a coat on the floor that had not been there an hour earlier.

Geret told officers he saw a man's shoes move behind a coat rack and called police.

Police found a window open in the second floor business office. Two dresses and three coats had been tossed out on the roof of an adjoining story and a half building, investigators said. Police theorized the intruder may have been a cat burglar who climbed 30 feet to the business office window from the roof next door, and leaped back to the roof before they arrived.

The burglar got nothing, police said.

Kennedy Visits Ghana

ACCRA, Chana (UPI)—Edward Kennedy, 28-year-old brother of the President-elect, arrives here Sunday on his fact-finding swing through Africa.

The Ghana government said Kennedy would visit the Volta River dam site and confer with American and Ghanain officials.

U.S. To Present Suggestions to NATO Alliance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will present several "suggestions" to its NATO allies in Paris next week on organizing a separate NATO nuclear force with hundreds of medium-range polaris missiles.

The heart of the powerful striking force, according to present planning, may be a group of half a dozen or more Polaris-armed nuclear submarines which the United States could provide to the Allies over the next few years.

It was learned Saturday that the elements of a broad NATO armaments program will be taken to an Allied foreign ministers' meeting in the French capital by U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. But Herter will be unable to make any U.S. commitment because such a program could only be carried out by the administration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Herter will be in position to tell Allied governments, associates indicated, that he knows of no reasson to believe that Kennedy opposes a separate nuclear strike force under the NATO supreme commander in Europe. On the contrary, he will point out that Kennedy has talked about strengthening the military position of the Allies.

Accident Rate Drops

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Industrial plants competing this year in an annual accident reduction contest have achieved the lowest accident rate in the 18 years of such competition, the Greater New York Safety Council announced.

The highest accident record since the competition began in 1943 was in 1949.

Youth Returned Here In Theft

Monroe authorities yesterday morning returned 22 - year - old Francis Young from Ft. Myers, Fla., wanted here on a charge of theft by check.

City police said the woman was transferred to the Ouachita Parish jail to await trial.

She was arrested last week in Ft. Myers by the Ft. Myers County sheriff's department.

Neither bond nor trial date were set yesterday.

Saving Increases

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nearly 24 million Americans now have savings accounts at savings and loan associations, according to the United States Savings and Loan League. This compares with only 6 million at the end of World War II.

Goldberg Choice For Labor Chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney Arthur J. Goldberg, who might be called organized labor's most potent single operative, is in line to become secretary of Labor in the Kennedy administration.

As of now, President-elect John F. Kennedy is understood to want Goldberg more than anyone else for the Labor Cabinet post. t's a case of mutual admiration.

Goldberg, 52, may not be too well known to the public, but in the political and policy circles of Washington he is widely recognized as a smooth and effective advocate for union labor.

Employers wince at his ability, but they trust and respect him. For example, only in the past week it was Goldberg who was called upon to present the labor union viewpoint at the annual meeting in New York of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Goldberg usually winds up with the toughest chores, and seldom does he flunk. As general counsel of the Steelworkers Union, he helped negotiate a billion-dollar settlement a year ago just when the 166-day steel strike looked darkest.

He played a major role in ending the long feud between the AFL and CIO and wrote the constitution of the merged AFL-CIO. This was no easy task in the face of the existing deep rivalries.

Goldberg ran organized labor's own rackets investigations, paralleling the work of the Senate committee. As counsel for the AFL-CIO. Ethical Practices Committee, he investigated the Teamsters and helped expel that union from the big labor federation.

He represents many labor organizations from separate law firms in Washington and Chicago, his home town.

In fact, Goldbert has come to be known as labor's chief troubleshooter, whether it's a legislative crisis on Capitol Hill, a crucial lawsuit, or some other tough situation.

When unions picketed an Egyptian ship in New York harbor to protest Arab trade restrictions on Israel shipping, the State Department tore its hair. Authorities appealed to Goldberg.

He responded in typical fashion, suggesting a solution that all could accept. This involved a State Department promise that it would try to get the restrictions lifted or modified. The picketing stopped.

With Goldberg as Labor secretary, organized labor would have at least as strong a voice in Washington as it had in New Deal days. He could be expected to plug hard, with support from the administration, for labor-management consultation and cooperation over a wide range of problems.

"The challenge of the 60s," Goldberg told the NAM, "is to end the cold war which exists between labor and management in America today."

Grambling Set For Science Program Monday

GRAMBLING (Special) — A traveling science demonstration program under the auspicies of Oklahoma State University and conducted by a Louisiana-born educator will be held at the Grambling high school for one week beginning December 12, according to an announcement today from Roselyn E. Brown, a science instructor at the school.

The program, supported by a quarter million dollar National Science Foundation grant, is being sponsored over a 10-state area under the direction of 26 specially trained science teachers who spent three months during the past summer in preparation for the job.

Charles L. Cook, a 44-year-old native of Ringgold, will conduct the special demonstration - lecture program at Grambling High School.

Now on leave from the Lincoln Parish School system at Ruston, Cook resides in Simsboro and formerly attended Northwestern State College and holds the B. S. and the M. S. degrees from Louisiana State University.

The traveling program is designed to enable local science teachers and students to share the traveling teacher's experience and training. Demonstrations of fundamental scientific principles are given many of which can be duplicated by participatig schools with simple and inexpensive materials and equipment.

In addition to general lectures the program includes demonstrations and lectures in biology, chemistry, earth science, mathematics, and physics.

Heart Experts Give Advice To Avoid Attacks

NEW YORK (AP) — American Heart Association experts Saturday recommended that Americans eat less fat as a possible means of reducing the risk of heart attacks and strokes.

It suggested cutting down on intake of so-called "saturated" fats, and substituting more vegetable oils and other "unsaturated" fats.

Saturated fats are those which turn solid at room temperature. Many dairy and meat fats are higher in saturated than unsaturated fats.

The association's board of directors authorized release of the recommendations in a report issued by the Central Committee for Medical and Community Programs, the association's highest medical and scientific body.

The committee said there is no final proof yet that changing diet habits, particularly in reducing the total calories obtained from fats, could prevent heart attacks or strokes.

Other factors are involved in heart attacks, including age, heredity, sex, and high blood pressure.

But, it said, "Evidence from many countries suggests a relationship between the amount and type of fat consumed, the amount of cholesterol in the blood, and the reported incidence of coronary artery disease."

The report suggested individuals consult doctors before making specific changes in the fat content of their diets.

Yule Burglar Is Frustrated

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Christmas burglar was frustrated early Friday in an attempt to loot a Saks Fifth Avenue store here, a Pinkerton watchwan reported.

Gerchard Geret, 34, told police he was making his rounds on the fourth floor when he heard what sounded like someone using an elevator. He said he searched the third floor section for expensive fur coats and found a coat on the floor that had not been there an hour earlier.

Geret told officers he saw a man's shoes move behind a coat rack and called police.

Police found a window open in the second floor business office. Two dresses and three coats had been tossed out on the roof of an adjoining story and a half building, investigators said. Police theorized the intruder may have been a cat burglar who climbed 30 feet to the business office window from the roof next door, and leaped back to the roof before they arrived.

The burglar got nothing, police said.

Kennedy Visits Ghana

ACCRA, Chana (UPI)—Edward Kennedy, 28-year-old brother of the President-elect, arrives here Sunday on his fact-finding swing through Africa.

The Ghana government said Kennedy would visit the Volta River dam site and confer with American and Ghanain officials.

U.S. To Present Suggestions to NATO Alliance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States will present several "suggestions" to its NATO allies in Paris next week on organizing a separate NATO nuclear force with hundreds of medium-range polaris missiles.

The heart of the powerful striking force, according to present planning, may be a group of half a dozen or more Polaris-armed nuclear submarines which the United States could provide to the Allies over the next few years.

It was learned Saturday that the elements of a broad NATO armaments program will be taken to an Allied foreign ministers' meeting in the French capital by U.S. Secretary of State Christian A. Herter. But Herter will be unable to make any U.S. commitment because such a program could only be carried out by the administration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

Herter will be in position to tell Allied governments, associates indicated, that he knows of no reason to believe that Kennedy opposes a separate nuclear strike force under the NATO supreme commander in Europe. On the contrary, he will point out that Kennedy has talked about strengthening the military position of the Allies.

Accident Rate Drops

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Industrial plants competing this year in an annual accident reduction contest have achieved the lowest accident rate in the 18 years of such competition, the Greater New York Safety Council announced.

The highest accident record since the competition began in 1943 was in 1949.

Youth Returned Here In Theft

Monroe authorities yesterday morning returned 22 - year - old Francis Young from Ft. Myers, Fla., wanted here on a charge of theft by check.

City police said the woman was transferred to the Ouachita Parish jail to await trial.

She was arrested last week in Ft. Myers by the Ft. Myers County sheriff's department.

Neither bond nor trial date were set yesterday.

Saving Increases

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nearly 24 million Americans now have savings accounts at savings and loan associations, according to the United States Savings and Loan League. This compares with only 6 million at the end of World War II.

Scores Hurt As Policemen Battle Mob

SEOUL (UPI) — A mob of religious rioters smashed into the offices of Korea's largest newspaper here Saturday ransacked the premises and then battled 1,500 policemen in a club-swinging melee that left scores of persons injured.

Police, who battled with truncheons and tear gas, announced they had arrested 1,101 of the rioters, including more than 700 women. The wholesale arrests filled up almost every jail in the city's district police stations.

Police Saturday night issued a nationwide alert after learning that headquarters of the "Olive Tree" sect had wired all branch churches—with a membership of some 100,000 persons—to send reinforcements to renew the demonstrations.

An estimated 1,500 members of the fanatical "Olive Tree" church sect took part in the rioting directed against the Seoul newspaper Tonga Ilbo. Sect members were angered because the paper published a photograph described as "doctored" showing a "sacred fire" overhanging a meeting being addressed by sect leader Pak Tae Sun.

Some 600 members of the mob stormed through the four-storied newspaper building damaging furniture, doors and windows and damaging printing equipment.

The newspaper, however, managed to publish on schedule today. It carried four pages of news pictures of the rioting.

There were indications that the incident might cause strong political attacks on the government in the National Assembly.

Baptist Children Guests Of Students

Youngsters are never too young to go to college, according Santa's professional requirements. And that's how the Northeast State Student Council feels about the matter — at least during the Christmas season.

When special busses reach the campus Wednesday at 3:30 p.m., tots ranging from six to nine yers of age will be met by college students, who will play the role of foster parents for the rest of the day.

Youngsters from the Baptist Home will be guests of Northeast students, who began this custom in 1956 when Bobby Joe Oden was Student Council president.

The experiment proved to be such a happy one for the "parents" as well as their "children" that the council planned to have the event become a Northeast tradition. Enthusiasm reached such a peak that first year that there were not enough children to go around. The same problem has continued, and Dean Fred J. Vogel's office has been busy with students requesting youngsters.

Foster parents have registered for adoption of children according to name, age and sex denoted on the list sent by D. C. Black, superintendent of the Baptist Children's Home.

The grownups will be waiting at the Student Center for the busses to unload their youngsters, who will be taken to the big social rooms, gaily decorated for entertainment of the little visitors.

Following an hour of getting aquainted and frolic, "parents" will take the tots to the dining hall for a festive evening meal for both groups.

Then it will be time to return to the Student Center for the Christmas party, where there will be carol singing, games, and the big gift-laden tree and Santa ready to distribute all kinds of surprise packages to make the day complete.

Smith Services Slated Monday

Mrs. Minnie Hearne Smith, 66, West Monroe, died at her residence yesterday after a lengthy illness.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10:30 a.m. at Peniel Baptist Church with the Rev. W. R. Dowden and the Rev. S. W. Tullos officiating.

Interment will be in Pleasant Hill Cemetery under the direction of Southern Funeral Home in Jonesboro.

Mrs. Smith was a native of Jackson Parish.

Survivors include her husband, Oscar C. Smith, West Monroe; four sons, Wayne O. Smith of LaPorte, Texas, Homer B. Smith of Greenville, Miss., Hansford Smith of Tullos, and Sherwood E. Smith of West Monroe; three daughters, Mrs. Effie Simons of Chatham, Mrs. Edna Womack of Greensville, Miss., and Mrs. Evelyn Franks of West Monroe; three sisters, Mrs. Etta Hearne, Mrs. Winnie May, both of West Monroe, and Mrs. Dora Roberts of Monroe; a brother, W. W. Hearne of Chatham, 28 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The body will lie in state at the family residence until time for services.

Austin H. Green Rites Scheduled

Austin H. Green, 81, died at his residence at 1109 Jackson St., Monroe, early Saturday.

Funeral services will be held in the Mulhearn Funeral Home chapel at 4 p.m. today with the Rev. George W. Pomeroy officiating.

Interment will follow in the Old City Cemetery.

Mr. Green is survived by a sister, Miss Lillie Green, Monroe.

A retired bookkeeper, he was an active member of the Knights of Pythias and a lifetime resident of Monroe.

Pallbearers will include Warren Breard, Ben Breard, Harold Breard, John Salsbury, Tom Easterling, and Tom Breard.

Five Convicts Flee From Jail, Three Retaken

SPRINGFIELD, Tenn. (UPI)—Two of five convicts who escaped Robertson County jail early Friday were still at large Saturday night, but three were back in custoday.

Sheriff T. B. Corbis said three of the men, all state prisoners who had been housed here pending transfer to the state prison in Nashville, had turned themselves in Friday night, about 18 hours after their escape.

He said the men who turned themselves in were John Rippey, about 25, and Billy Grove, 20, both of Springfield, and Robert L. Brookshire, 17, of Joelton. All had been sentenced to three years for larceny.

Still at large were Ray Moore of Springfield and Gerald Castile of Greenbrier. Moore and Castile were serving 11 month, 29-day local sentences when they escaped.

Corbis said the five broke out shortly after midnight Friday when someone sawed through two bars of the jail and the men ran to a second story window and dropped to the ground. He did not say who had sawed the bars or how the men had gotten equipment to cut the jail bars.

He said about 17 other prisoners could have fled with the fugitives, but remained in the jail instead.

Hutchinson Rites Slated Monday

Mrs. H. A. Hutchinson, 43, died yesterday morning at her residence at 1204 South Tenth St., Monroe.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Mulhearn Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. D. W. Nix officiating.

Interment will follow in the Halsey Cemetery.

Mrs. Hutchinson is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Kathlynn Dulaney, Monroe, and Miss Rita Ann Hutchinson, Monroe; a son, Ted Hutchinson, Monroe; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Ballard, Rayville; a sister, Mrs. Lee Ruth Bozeman, Baton Rouge; two brothers, Melton Ballard and Loysett Ballard, both of Akron, Ohio, and four grandchildren.

Dannals Rites Scheduled Today

Funeral services for Frank Dannals, 88, who died in Galveston, Tex., Thursday, will be held in the Mulhearn Funeral Home chapel at 2 p.m. today with the Rev. L. J. O'Neal officiating.

Interment will follow in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mr. Dannals is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva Dannals of Galveston.

A native of Oak Ridge, Mr. Dannals was a retired restaurant owner, a member of the Baptist Church, a member of the Eagles, and a charter member of the Astoria Culinary Alliance.

Pallbearers will include Barham Conger, Smith Stephenson, Doug Reagan Haynes, Herbert Rinehart, Louis Rinehart, and J. B. Johnson.

Enthusiasm reached such a peak that first year that there were not enough children to go around. The same problem has continued, and Dean Fred J. Vogel's office has been busy with students requesting youngsters.

Foster parents have registered for adoption of children according to name, age and sex denoted on the list sent by D. C. Black, superintendent of the Baptist Children's Home.

The grownups will be waiting at the Student Center for the busses to unload their youngsters, who will be taken to the big social rooms, gaily decorated for entertainment of the little visitors.

Following an hour of getting aquainted and frolic, "parents" will take the tots to the dining hall for a festive evening meal for both groups.

Then it will be time to return to the Student Center for the Christmas party, where there will be carol singing, games, and the big gift-laden tree and Santa ready to distribute all kinds of surprise packages to make the day complete.

Smith Services Slated Monday

Five Convicts Flee From Jail, Three Retaken

SPRINGFIELD, Tenn. (UPI)—Two of five convicts who escaped Robertson County jail early Friday were still at large Saturday night, but three were back in custody.

Sheriff T. B. Corbis said three of the men, all state prisoners who had been housed here pending transfer to the state prison in Nashville, had turned themselves in Friday night, about 18 hours after their escape.

He said the men who turned themselves in were John Rippey, about 25, and Billy Grove, 20, both of Springfield, and Robert L. Brookshire, 17, of Joelton. All had been sentenced to three years for larceny.

Still at large were Ray Moore of Springfield and Gerald Castile of Greenbrier. Moore and Castile were serving 11 month, 29-day local sentences when they escaped.

Corbis said the five broke out shortly after midnight Friday when someone sawed through two bars of the jail and the men ran to a second story window and dropped to the ground. He did not say who had sawed the bars or how the men had gotten equipment to cut the jail bars.

He said about 17 other prisoners could have fled with the fugitives, but remained in the jail instead.

Hutchinson Rites Slated Monday

Mrs. H. A. Hutchinson, 43, died yesterday morning at her residence at 1204 South Tenth St., Monroe.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in the Mulhearn Funeral Home chapel with the Rev. D. W. Nix officiating.

Interment will follow in the Halsey Cemetery.

Mrs. Hutchinson is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Kathlynn Dulaney, Monroe, and Miss Rita Ann Hutchinson, Monroe; a son, Ted Hutchinson, Monroe; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Ballard, Rayville; a sister, Mrs. Lee Ruth Bozeman, Baton Rouge; two brothers, Melton Ballard and Loysett Ballard, both of Akron, Ohio, and four grandchildren.

Dannals Rites Scheduled Today

Funeral services for Frank Dannals, 88, who died in Galveston, Tex., Thursday, will be held in the Mulhearn Funeral Home chapel at 2 p.m. today with the Rev. L. J. O'Neal officiating.

Interment will follow in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

Mr. Dannals is survived by his widow, Mrs. Eva Dannals of Galveston.

A native of Oak Ridge, Mr. Dannals was a retired restaurant owner, a member of the Baptist Church, a member of the Eagles, and a charter member of the Astoria Culinary Alliance.

Pallbearers will include Barham Conger, Smith Stephenson, Doug Reagan Haynes, Herbert Rinehart, Louis Rinehart, and J. B. Johnson.

Child Injured In Car Mishap Is Hospitalized

The two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hendry, 1005 South Sixth St., Monroe, was hospitalized in St. Francis Hospital about noon yesterday following an automobile accident at the intersection of Hall and Harrison Streets.

The car in which the child, Sandra Gayle Hendry, was riding was driven by her mother, Christine Gandy Hendry, 34.

The second auto involved was driven by Thomas Frederick Ryland, 17, 114 Auburn St., Monroe, a student.

Police records show the child was taken to the hospital by her mother shortly after the accident which occurred about 11 a.m.

According to witnesses, the Hendry car was going east on Harrison and apparently attempted to turn onto Hall Street when it collided with the Ryland car going south on Hall.

Both cars were damaged but estimates were unavailable late yesterday.

The child's injuries were not believed serious, and she was treated and released from the hospital.

MAP SUMMARY

A low pressure area centered in Arkansas by evening Saturday was continuing to cause heavy snow over the central plains and rain in eastern portions of the southern plains and over the lower Mississippi Valley. Rainfall at Dallas, Texas, so far this month had totaled 7.12 inches by noon Saturday. This is the greatest December rain all since the station was started in October 1913. Some thunderstorm activity had broken out along the Texas Gulf coast in the afternoon. Snow fell from southern Nebraska southward thru western Kansas and central Oklahoma into Texas with freezing rain in southeast Kansas. Eleven inches of snow reported on the ground at Socorro, New Mexico, with Lubbock, Texas, reporting 5 inches and La Junta, Colorado, 6 inches. Heavy snow warnings are in effect for north central Kansas extreme southeast Nebraska also parts of northwest Missouri and southwest Iowa for today.

Elsewhere over the nation, cold air pushed down from Canada into the northern portion of the midwest and over the upper Lakes region as well as northern portions of New England. Afternoon temperatures in these regions ranged in the low 20's and teens. A few snow flurries were noted on leeward side of the Lakes. Cloudiness extended over much of the east toward evening and temperatures were slightly warmer mostly in the 40's and 50's. Skies were clear over the plateau and northern portions of the Rockies today and temperature readings were on the cool side mostly in the 30's. Rather general rain was falling in central and northern California and parts of Oregon.

Fraternity Names Pledge President

Louis Soulier, senior education major at Northeast Louisiana State College, has been elected Kappa Alpha pledge president for the second half of the semester. He succeeds Mike Walker of Columbia.

Serving with Soulier are other new pledge officers: Don Holton of Mangham vice president; J. P. Mosley of Monroe, secretary; Harry Boyd, West Monroe, treasurer; John Douciere, Rayville, parliamentarian; and Richard Rousseau, West Monroe, Chaplain.

Pledges treated active members to a wiener roast after losing the annual pledge - active football game, which ended with a 6-0 score.

The game, played at the West Monroe stadium, marked the first win for active members since the local chapter of Kappa Alpha Order was organized in 1956.

Auto Union To Set Goals For Spring

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Top brass of the United Auto Workers Union meets here this week to set bargaining goals it hopes to have adopted at a special spring convention April 26-29.

Whether the goals will be announced publicly forthwith or an attempt made to sell them quietly first to the general membership at local union levels hasn't been indicated.

The UAW's six international officers meet Monday. On Tuesday the Union's 24-member International Executive Board begins a series of meetings expected to last out the week. All will be closed sessions.

When they're all through, the UAW's chiefs likely will have decided just what they'll ask the April convention to adopt as No. 1 goal for 1961 bargaining with the auto industry.

The UAW's three-year contracts with the Big Three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—all expire next Aug. 31. Negotiations on new ones will begin 60 days ahead of expiratoin.

At least two powerful influences within the UAW will be insisting that the union go first of all for a 30-hour week. The UAW figures the average hourly straight-time pay of production workers is $2.79, or $111.60 weekly before taxes.

Richard T. Gosser, director of the UAW's skilled trades department, proposed 30 hours work for 40 hours pay the past week at a Chicago conference of delegates from his department.

Wilfred Grant, financial secretary of Ford Local 600, said this largest local within the UAW would fight before the executive board and at the spring convention for a shorter week to spread available work among more people.

The so-called "30-for-40" long has been advocated by Carl Stellato, Local 600 president, and some others high in union councils.

Most advocates of 30-for-40 also oppose overtime operations when there are sizable pools of unemployment in the auto industry, as now.

Paul Silver, whose Local 351 represents a big segment of Detroit's supplier plants, says his membership "is very much concerned with management's prerogative to just pick up and go and leave some community a ghost town."

Don't be surprised if UAW President Walter P. Reuther pulls to the front of the stove the profit-sharing plan he finally "pushed to a back burner to simmer" in 1958 contract cooking.

Reuther's profit-sharing plan called for customer rebates from "excess profits" of any automaker at the end of the year. Production workers also would be cut in for bonuses at the point where executives now begin to share in profits.

George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., may kindle the flame this week to bring Reuther's simmering profit sharing to a quick boil again. Romney, whose UAW contract runs out in September, told newsmen last week he would have an announcement Thursday on a plan that calls "for sharing progress with the neglected consumer."

Most automotive writers took this to mean some kind of rebate plan on 1961 Ramblers, the plan to be geared to a sales goal.

Negro Charged With Assault

Monroe police yesterday arrested a 25-year-old Monroe Negro, Will Collins Jr., 1011 Calypso St., and charged him with aggravated assault.

Collins is being held in city jail under a $500 bond. Trial date has not been set.

Officer also arrested Royce Van Murphy, 17, 503 Pine St., Monroe, and charge him with simple battery.

Murphy is being held in city jail under a $100 bond.

Child Injured In Car Mishap Is Hospitalized

The two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hendry, 1005 South Sixth St., Monroe, was hospitalized in St. Francis Hospital about noon yesterday following an automobile accident at the intersection of Hall and Harrison Streets.

The car in which the child, Sandra Gayle Hendry, was riding was driven by her mother, Christine Gandy Hendry, 34.

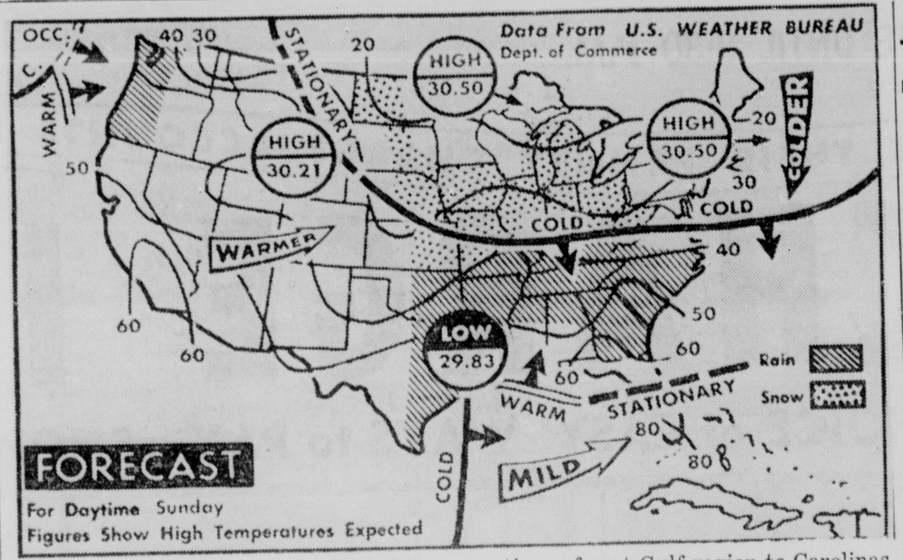
The second auto involved was driven by Thomas Frederick Ryland, 17, 114 Auburn St., Monroe, a student.

Police records show the child was taken to the hospital by her mother shortly after the accident which occurred about 11 a.m.

According to witnesses, the Hendry car was going east on Harrison and apparently attempted to turn onto Hall Street when it collided with the Ryland car going south on Hall.

Both cars were damaged but estimates were unavailable late yesterday.

The child's injuries were not believed serious, and she was treated and released from the hospital.



RAIN IS EXPECTED to continue Sunday on coast of Washington and Oregon. Main area of precipitation will be in central part of nation, with rain spreading eastward from eastern Texas and Oklahoma through southern Ohio Valley, Tennessee Valley and northern sections of east Gulf region to Carolinas and Georgia. Snow belt is expected to run from central Dakotas, central and eastern Kansas and Nebraska into Great Lakes and northern Ohio Valley. (AP Wirephoto Map)

MAP SUMMARY

A low pressure area centered in Arkansas by evening Saturday was continuing to cause heavy snow over the central plains and rain in eastern portions of the southern plains and over the lower Mississippi Valley. Rainfall at Dallas, Texas, so far this month had totaled 7.12 inches by noon Saturday. This is the greatest December rain all since the station was started in October 1913. Some thunderstorm activity had broken out along the Texas Gulf coast in the afternoon. Snow fell from southern Nebraska southward thru western Kansas and central Oklahoma into Texas with freezing rain in southeast Kansas. Eleven inches of snow reported on the ground at Socorro, New Mexico, with Lubbock, Texas, reporting 5 inches and La Junta, Colorado, 6 inches. Heavy snow warnings are in effect for north central Kansas extreme southeast Nebraska also parts of northwest Missouri and southwest Iowa for today.

Elsewhere over the nation, cold air pushed down from Canada into the northern portion of the midwest and over the upper Lakes region as well as northern portions of New England. Afternoon temperatures in these regions ranged in the low 20's and teens. A few snow flurries were noted on leeward side of the Lakes. Cloudiness extended over much of the east toward evening and temperatures were slightly warmer mostly in the 40's and 50's. Skies were clear over the plateau and northern portions of the Rockies today and temperature readings were on the cool side mostly in the 30's. Rather general rain was falling in central and northern California and parts of Oregon.

Fraternity Names Pledge President

Louis Soulier, senior education major at Northeast Louisiana State College, has been elected Kappa Alpha pledge president for the second half of the semester. He succeeds Mike Walker of Columbia.

Serving with Soulier are other new pledge officers: Don Holton of Mangham vice president; J. P. Mosley of Monroe, secretary; Harry Boyd, West Monroe, treasurer; John Douciere, Rayville, parliamentarian; and Richard Rousseau, West Monroe, Chaplain.

Pledges treated active members to a wiener roast after losing the annual pledge - active football game, which ended with a 6-0 score.

The game, played at the West Monroe stadium, marked the first win for active members since the local chapter of Kappa Alpha Order was organized in 1956.

Auto Union To Set Goals For Spring

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Top brass of the United Auto Workers Union meets here this week to set bargaining goals it hopes to have adopted at a special spring convention April 26-29.

Whether the goals will be announced publicly forthwith or an attempt made to sell them quietly first to the general membership at local union levels hasn't been indicated.

The UAW's six international officers meet Monday. On Tuesday the Union's 24-member International Executive Board begins a series of meetings expected to last out the week. All will be closed sessions.

When they're all through, the UAW's chiefs likely will have decided just what they'll ask the April convention to adopt as No. 1 goal for 1961 bargaining with the auto industry.

The UAW's three-year contracts with the Big Three—General Motors, Ford and Chrysler—all expire next Aug. 31. Negotiations on new ones will begin 60 days ahead of expiratoin.

At least two powerful influences within the UAW will be insisting that the union go first of all for a 30-hour week. The UAW figures the average hourly straight-time pay of production workers is $2.79, or $111.60 weekly before taxes.

Richard T. Gosser, director of the UAW's skilled trades department, proposed 30 hours work for 40 hours pay the past week at a Chicago conference of delegates from his department.

Wilfred Grant, financial secretary of Ford Local 600, said this largest local within the UAW would fight before the executive board and at the spring convention for a shorter week to spread available work among more people.

The so-called "30-for-40" long has been advocated by Carl Stellato, Local 600 president, and some others high in union councils.

Most advocates of 30-for-40 also oppose overtime operations when there are sizable pools of unemployment in the auto industry, as now.

Paul Silver, whose Local 351 represents a big segment of Detroit's supplier plants, says his membership "is very much concerned with management's prerogative to just pick up and go and leave some community a ghost town."

Don't be surprised if UAW President Walter P. Reuther pulls to the front of the stove the profit-sharing plan he finally "pushed to a back burner to simmer" in 1958 contract cooking.

Reuther's profit-sharing plan called for customer rebates from "excess profits" of any automaker at the end of the year. Production workers also would be cut in for bonuses at the point where executives now begin to share in profits.

George Romney, president of American Motors Corp., may kindle the flame this week to bring Reuther's simmering profit sharing to a quick boil again. Romney, whose UAW contract runs out in September, told newsmen last week he would have an announcement Thursday on a plan that calls "for sharing progress with the neglected consumer."

Most automotive writers took this to mean some kind of rebate plan on 1961 Ramblers, the plan to be geared to a sales goal.

Negro Charged With Assault

Monroe police yesterday arrested a 25-year-old Monroe Negro, Will Collins Jr., 1011 Calypso St., and charged him with aggravated assault.

Collins is being held in city jail under a $500 bond. Trial date has not been set.

Officer also arrested Royce Van Murphy, 17, 503 Pine St., Monroe, and charge him with simple battery.

Murphy is being held in city jail under a $100 bond.

State Withholding Plan Begins Jan. 1

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisiana workers Jan. 1 come under the state's new income tax withholding plan, expected to yield an extra $10 million in 1961.

Some critics in the legislature and elsewhere have labeled the plan double taxation because the new withholding system begins while taxpayers are still paying on their current year's income.

The 1960 regular session of the legislature enacted the state income tax withholding system, similar to that of the federal government and 17 other states. Gov. Jimmie H. Davis signed the law into effect July 27, and state revenue officials have been working hard since to get the system off the ground.

The administration pushed through the income tax withholding plan in hopes of producting $3 million in extra income for the state each year, mainly reaching for those such as itinerant workers who now escape the state income tax.

The state will take an estimated extra $10 million from present income taxpayers next year during the switchover.

The plan drew criticism of double taxation as it passed the house last summer. The public affairs research council, independent research organization, also had criticism for the extra windfall to be taken from employes.

The state income tax rate is 1.5 per cent of the amount of the employe's wages exceeding the sum of withholding exemptions and withholding credits for dependents claimed.

The employers must turn in their collections on the last day of the month following the close of each calendar quarter.

The first return from employers is due April 30. They are allowed to keep 3 per cent of the amount withheld as payment for expenses.

The deadline for individual income taxpayers to file on their 19 income is May 15.

The State Revenue Department said the law provides for refunding overpayments by taxpayers.

A spokesman gave this rundown in answer to the question who must file income tax returns:

1. Any single individual, or married individual not living with husband or wife, whose net income for the taxable year is $2,500 or more.

2. Any married individual whose net income for the taxable year is $5,000 or more.

(This $5,000 or more may be made up of the net income of both husband and wife.).

3. Any individual, whether married or single, having a gross income for the taxable year of $6,000 or more, must file a return, regardless of the amount of his net income.

Gov. Faubus Offers Help To Louisiana

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — Gov. Orval Faubus said today in his Arkansas Recorder that he has offered Louisiana his help "in any way that it might be used" in the New Orleans integration struggle.

Faubus has repeatedly told reporters at news conferences that he was staying out of the crisis and was not involved in any way.

But in the Recorder, now opened and edited by him, the following question and answer appeared in a regular column by the governor:

Q. We all remember very well how much the people of Louisiana helped us when we were having our difficulties with the federal government. It has not been noted in the news whether or not you have offered any assistance to governor Davis.

A. Some time ago I sent a wire to governor Davis, as follows: "I have noted wtih concern the difficulties in your state in the schools of New Orleans. This message is to express my moral support in your efforts to retain for the people of your state the freedoms guaranteed to them under the constitution.

"I also wish to offer my assistance in any way that it might be used in this struggle to retain the freedoms of the people of Louisiana and Arkansas and all other states to which the people are entitled."

Parents Receive Threats In Night

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A five-pound hunk of black granite crashed through the window and fell to the bedroom floor a foot from Marion McKinley's baby boy.

Everett Poling doesn't have any friends any more.

James Gabrielle doesn't have a job any more.

Mrs. Joseph Barrett answered the insistent ring of her telephone. A raspy voice told her that her coffin was ready.

Three-year-old Erin Conner raced her mother to the telephone and got there first. She picked it up. "Nigger-lover," growled a voice over the telephone.

Erin hung up the telephone, giggling, and danced around the room lisping in a sing-song voice "yigger - yover, yigger - yover (sic)."

Thus pass the nights of the persons caught in the grip of New Orleans' bitter integration crisis.

They are the white parents who refused to take their children out of William Frantz Elementary School when it was integrated as the result of eight years of Federal Court action nearly a month ago. They are white persons who have voluntarily put themselves in the path of those who have sworn to stop integration at any cost.

The integration crisis in New Orleans started on Nov. 14, when Frantz and McDonough 19 were integrated. Three Negro girls trooped into McDonough under the protection of federal marshals. One went to Frantz.

Since then the situation has changed several times, devolving into the present patters of calm days and sinister nights.

"The city that care forgot" is torn asunder by the minute segment of its population involved in the grim struggle. Merchants along Canal Street are groaning about declining business, even in the Christmas season; the mayor is complaining of the disastrous effect the crisis has on the tourist trade, and even fabled Mardi Gras is threatened. Ten Negro Mardi Gras clubs have cancelled their balls, and will instead donate to Negro causes the tens of thousands of dollars they would have spent on revelry.

The Louisiana Legislature has been in special session since a week before integration began. It has passed segregation legislation and resolutions with deadly abandon, exploring every conceivable method of stopping integration.

And at the other side of the legal ring, the federal courts have batted down every move of the Legislature with unerring precision. It has served only to infuriate the legislators, who are no longer taken aback when their laws are restrained by federal courts the moment they are signed.

Integration started with crowds of hecklers jeering the Negroes. They no longer bother the Negro children — their targets are now the whites who don't mind going to school with them.

Throughout the second week of integration, and into last week—the third week—crowds of women —"cheerleaders," as the police called them — jostled, punched, shoved, and stoned the white parents and anyone else who aroused their ire.

But then a group called Save Our Schools (SOS) stepped in with women such as Mrs. Barrett, who volunteered to drive the children to school so their parents wouldn't have to walk with them through the crowds.

And police tired of the stonings and maulings and suddenly clamped down on the hecklers, keeping them at least a block away. Attendance soared up to 24—and then sank.

It sank because the hecklers gave up cursing and jeering and stoning at the school for more subtle methods.

They started the incessant telephone threats in the night, they through rocks through darkened windows, and, most effective of all, they brought economic pressure to bear.

Not only did they harass the parents, but their employers. They harassed them to the point where they had to give their employes a choice — take you child out of Frantz or get a job somewhere else.

Most of the persons who kept their children in Frantz are poor. Many were Baptist seminary students who went to school all day and worked at night to support their families — almost invariably big families.

So the attendance dwindled down to eight white children and one Negro on the last day of school.

The threatening calls so upset the SOS drivers that they asked U.S. marshals to take over for them. Now not only the Negro children but the white children too have deputy marshals who bring them to school.

The integration crisis is far from over. This week the embattled New Orleans School Board—fired often but never effectively by the Legislature — hauls local bankers before a federal court to try to force them to honor its checks.

The Legislature dissuaded banks from dealing with the board, and although the Legislature paid most of the teachers, it didn't pay the teachers at the integrated school. An anonymous donor came up with $16,000 to pay them.

The Legislature is expected to go into another 30-day special session, the Supreme Court will rule on the state's segregation laws, and the state will undoubtedly pass more that will immediately be taken to court.

There is no end in sight.

KURT SCHNEIDER, 58, 3-feet 6 inches tall, and Alfred Mills, 38, right, 4 feet 5 inches high, solved a space age problem for Aerojet-General in Sacramento. Their job is to get through a 10-inch opening to clean interiors of solid fuel rocket engines. Schneider and Mills easily passed a test requiring them to slip through a 10-inch wooden hoop held by Robert Vale, testing officer. (AP Wirephoto)

Professor Says South Could Have Won War

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Confederacy could have won the Civil War, even late in the struggle, if France and England had jumped in wholeheartedly on the side of the South.

That's the contention of Tulane University professor of history Dr. Charles P. Roland, in his book "The Confederacy," published here during the Civil War Centennial.

But Roland said sympathy was not enough. He said the South needed foreign money, arms, and troops as well as enough naval support to break the blockade which choked Southern ports.

A Southern victory would have been possible even without English and French aid if three conditions had been met;

—If Confederate states had centralized their war effort.

—If Jefferson Davis had appointed Robert E. Lee general-in-chief earlier.

—If Davis had been more diplomatic with his generals and Southern governors.

The book is published by the University of Chicago press.

Cotton Use Rises

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — A record 1.5 million bales, or 750 million pounds, of cotton was used in the manufacture of men's and boys' trousers and shirts last year, the National Cotton Council reported.

Most Fly Economy

MONTREAL (UPI) — Over 80 per cent of passengers flying the North Atlantic during April, May and June of this year traveled in the economy class cabins of the scheduled airliners, the International Air Transport Association reported.

Tourist class services ended June 30 of this year, being completely replaced by the even lower-fare economy class.

Demos Gird For Area Aid Bill Passage

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats are preparing a drive to try to pass a depressed areas bill early next year as the first major bill in the new administration.

Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., who will be a key figure in the push, told a reporter Saturday he expects to be ready to introduce the legislation as soon as Congress meets Jan. 3.

President-elect John F. Kennedy has named Douglas head of a task force to work on the problem of aiding areas with chronic unemployment ills.

But, even more important from a legislative standpoint, the Illinois senator is chairman of the Banking subcommittee which handles such measures and thus is in a position to move it promptly.

Some Democrats are hoping the bill can be given the coveted "S. 1" number to dramatize the importance the new administration gives to it.

They say it may well be possible to start it moving before John F. Kennedy is inaugurated as president Jan. 20. There will be no Democratic officials in executive departments to testify on it until after the inauguration, but a letter from the president-elect could be the vehicle for the views of his administration.

Douglas said he did not believe it would be necessary to hold any extensive hearings, since Congress had been looking closely at the problem for years.

The Illinois senator succeeded in winning passage of depressed areas measures in 1958 and 1960. But President Eisenhower killed both with vetoes.

Douglas presided at a meeting of his task force in Charleston, W. Va., Friday. Earlier in the week he held a private session in his Senate office to work out strategy with interested legislators and members of their staffs.

The senator said in the interview he believed first consideration should be given to a bill similar to the $389-billion measure which passed the Senate in the last Congress.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who represents a state which hopes to benefit heavily from the legislation, said he agreed.

The bill killed by Eisenhower last session was a cut-down $251-million version written in the House and accepted by the Senate in an attempt to get something through.

Senate Democrats said they believe the House would be more willing to accept their measure this time since the administration would be giving it strong backing.

The bill will carry federal loan and grant funds to try to create new jobs in long-term depressed industrial and rural areas.

Towns with heavy unemployment because of the shutdown of coal mines and textile plants are examples of those the legislation seeks to help.

Youth Admits Texas Holdups

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 10 (UPI) — A 235-pound, 16-year-old youth today confessed to 13 holdups in Dallas, Tex., and credited a New Orleans bandit with tutoring him in crime.

Lewis Leonard Simpson did not name the teacher, but he said "graduation" was a $26 grocery holdup here in which the two split the take.

Simpson had been held here since Wednesday on suspicion of theft, and he finally broke down and admitted the Dallas stickups and others.

Parents Receive Threats In Night

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A five-pound hunk of black granite crashed through the window and fell to the bedroom floor a foot from Marion McKinley's baby boy.

Everett Poling doesn't have any friends any more.

James Gabrielle doesn't have a job any more.

Mrs. Joseph Barrett answered the insistent ring of her telephone. A raspy voice told her that her coffin was ready.

Three-year-old Erin Conner raced her mother to the telephone and got there first. She picked it up. "Nigger-lover," growled a voice over the telephone.

Erin hung up the telephone, giggling, and danced around the room lisping in a sing-song voice "yigger - yover, yigger - yover (sic)."

Thus pass the nights of the persons caught in the grip of New Orleans' bitter integration crisis.

They are the white parents who refused to take their children out of William Frantz Elementary School when it was integrated as the result of eight years of Federal Court action nearly a month ago. They are white persons who have voluntarily put themselves in the path of those who have sworn to stop integration at any cost.

The integration crisis in New Orleans started on Nov. 14, when Frantz and McDonough 19 were integrated. Three Negro girls trooped into McDonough under the protection of federal marshals. One went to Frantz.

Since then the situation has changed several times, devolving into the present patters of calm days and sinister nights.

"The city that care forgot" is torn asunder by the minute segment of its population involved in the grim struggle. Merchants along Canal Street are groaning about declining business, even in the Christmas season; the mayor is complaining of the disastrous effect the crisis has on the tourist trade, and even fabled Mardi Gras is threatened. Ten Negro Mardi Gras clubs have cancelled their balls, and will instead donate to Negro causes the tens of thousands of dollars they would have spent on revelry.

The Louisiana Legislature has been in special session since a week before integration began. It has passed segregation legislation and resolutions with deadly abandon, exploring every conceivable method of stopping integration.

And at the other side of the legal ring, the federal courts have batted down every move of the Legislature with unerring precision. It has served only to infuriate the legislators, who are no longer taken aback when their laws are restrained by federal courts the moment they are signed.

Integration started with crowds of hecklers jeering the Negroes. They no longer bother the Negro children — their targets are now the whites who don't mind going to school with them.

Throughout the second week of integration, and into last week—the third week—crowds of women —"cheerleaders," as the police called them — jostled, punched, shoved, and stoned the white parents and anyone else who aroused their ire.

But then a group called Save Our Schools (SOS) stepped in with women such as Mrs. Barrett, who volunteered to drive the children to school so their parents wouldn't have to walk with them through the crowds.

And police tired of the stonings and maulings and suddenly clamped down on the hecklers, keeping them at least a block away. Attendance soared up to 24—and then sank.

It sank because the hecklers gave up cursing and jeering and stoning at the school for more subtle methods.

Holiday Fire Disaster 14 Years Ago Recalled

EDITOR'S NOTE: Fourteen years ago, disaster struck a tenement house in Manhattan near the George Washington Bridge over the Hudson River. Here is a resume of the 56 hours of horror which followed and the outcome of just one phase of the incident 14 years later.

By EDWARD V. McCARTHY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The temperature rose to near 68 on Wednesday, Dec. 11, 1946, extending a warm spell that had shattered weather bureau records.

Christmas was just two weeks away. Men togged as Santa Claus, already manning street corner outposts, perspired under their false beards.

When school let out, children all over the city burst into activity. It was like summer all over again.

Four boys, 11 to 13 years of age, were fascinated by an abandoned six-story ice house in Washington Heights at Amsterdam Ave. and 184th St., not far from the George Washington Bridge.

They somehow entered the building and made their way to the roof.

Their play wasn't entirely innocent. One had matches. Another candles. A third, some newspapers.

Soon, flames crackled away on the roof. The boys fled.

At 5:06 p.m. someone spotted smoke and pulled a fire alarm.

Firemen raced to the scene and made quick work of the blaze on the roof.

Inside the six-story, 27-family tenement building at 2515 Amsterdam Ave., just north of the Knickerbocker Ice Co. building which had been abandoned for eight years, families settled down to normal Wednesday night routine.

No one had any idea what was in store.

SECOND FLOOR

On the second floor, the Popper family sat down to supper. They were Joseph, 35; Eileen, 27; Adolph Joseph, 11; John, 7; and Barbara, 3.

After supper there was homework and then the radio for entertainment.

Most of the tenement's residents, 95 men, women and children had drifted off to bed by 11:59 p.m. when Pasqualle Fucci, 22, a fifth floor tenant, noticed a peculiar odor which he thought smelled like burning tar.

He glanced out the window and saw sparks leaping into the air from the ice house.

Fucci ran to the street and yanked the handle on the fire box.

The second fire was nothing like the first small blaze on the ice house roof.

FIRE ALARM

Within 10 minutes, five alarms had been sounded.

Flames roared through the ancient building, feeding on the cork and tar paper insulation which had been used to keep the huge structive a tremendous ice box.

Some of the residents of 2515 Amsterdam Ave. were awakened by the scream of fire sirens, but most slept on — unaware of the drama unfolding next door.

On the third floor, Thomas Dines, 75, an ice cream vendor known affectionately by the neighborhood kids as "Joe" ignored the raging fire to take a bath in his green-painted tub.

If tomorrow was another warm day, he'd be busy.

Adolph Joseph Popper slept on the top half of a bunk bed he shared with his younger brother.

At 1:19 a.m. there was a puff of smoke and a shower of sparks from the ice house.

The 70-foot high, 36-inch thick, 200-foot long north wall of the ice house pulled away from the rest of the building and crashed into the wooden timbers of 2515 Amsterdam Ave.

Inside the tenement, wooden slats snapped like pistol shots. In a split second, solid beams shattered like matchsticks. Plaster flew from walls as though slammed by a giant hammer. The whole rear of the tenement tumbled in, reduced to a mound of rubble three stories high.

For an instant, there was silence broken only by the roar of the pumpers shooting thousands of gallons of water a minute into the inferno of the ice house.

Firemen and bystanders stood in stunned horror.

The air was filled with a thick mixture of smoke from the fire and plaster dust from the tenement.

Then, it began.

First some moans. Then ear-splitting shrieks of pain and terror.

"Save me Save me! I can't move"

"Help! Oh God, help!"

"The baby, where is the baby?"

A fire chief's aide rushed to a telephone and called headquarters. "Send every man you can spare, disaster units and heavy duty wrecking equipment. It's a disaster," he reported.

RESCUERS RUSH

Through the night, firemen and other rescuers worked under the glare of searchlights in a double battle — one to rescue those trapped in the treacherous rubble . . . the other to extinguish the ice house fire which was sending flaming debris into the ruins of the tenement and starting fires there.

Throughout, the front half of the tenement threatened to collapse back onto the mound at the rear and bury the rescuers as they clawed with bare hands at the bricks and timbers.

By dawn, the first reports were in. Seventeen dead, seven of them children and one a fireman. Five other firemen were hospitalized. Ten persons had been pulled out alive and taken to Mother Cabrini Hospital.

Another dozen of the more fortunate from the front of the building were treated on the scene for cuts and bruises.

One of the first bodies found was that of fireman Frank Morehead, 28, of the Bronx, attached to Engine Co. 93.

Morehead had been on the ice house roof with Deputy Chief Michael Powers and two other firemen when the wall went and the roof caved in.

The others managed to leap to safety. Moorehead didn't make it.

Among the hundreds of police and firemen who risked their lives repeatedly to crawl into tunnels laboriously dug in the smoking rubble was fireman Neil Kinnick.

FOUND BODY

Kinnick went into one of the tunnels and, scraping away crushed bricks and shredded lathing and wallpaper, found the lifeless body of John Popper. There was nothing he could do for him, so he dug some more.

He came on Adolph Joseph Popper, 11. Blood was caked on the boy's head—but he still breathed.

A ton or more of debris above groaned and creaked.

Fireman Kinnick moved quickly. He backed out with little Adolph and carried him to one of a dozen waiting ambulances to be rushed to a hospital.

Throughout Thursday Kinnick and the others dug grimly.

Here a live one—there a dead one.

The weary, dirty, sweating rescuers, now soaked by a steady rain which had begun falling, kept plugging away at the remains of the building they had begun to call "The Tomb."

At 3 p.m., a fireman heard feeble calls for help in a corner of the mass of rubble.

With others, he managed to tunnel within six feet of 265 pound chief Joe Origo, pinned hopelessly and bleeding from a score of injuries.

Assistant Fire Department Chaplain Charles Carroll shook off restraining arms and made his way into the tunnel.

At the six-foot mark, he finally was stopped. Continual collapses made it impossible to go any further. He gave the moaning Origo the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church and crawled back out.

For eight hours the rescue workers tried repeatedly to reach Origo. Finally, his pitiful cries ceased. The dangerous attempts to get to him were abandoned.

In another section of the debris, firemen came on the body of Lucille Biancardi, 8. In her hands, she clasped a gaily wrapped Christmas gift containing a carton of cigarettes.

It was addressed: "From Andrew to Uncle John."

Andrew, 9, her brother, was one of those saved.

Friday came, and still the digging continued.

They finally pulled out Joe Origo. Too late.

They found the ice-cream man, Thomas Dines — still in his green-painted bathtub — dead.

They reached Margaret De Rico, 5, who had been sleeping on the ground floor of the tenement, miraculously alive, but suffering multiple injuries.

At noon, Saturday, Dec. 14, they took out the last victim, 59 hours after the collapse.

The toll—37 lives, including 12 children ranging in age from six months to 12 years.

Little Adolph Joseph Popper, sandy-haired and blue-eyed, who needed 95 stitches to close the wounds in his scalp, was taken in by his mother's sister, Mrs. Esther Murphy, wife of a police sergeant.

YEARS PASS

The years rolled by.

The old ice house and the tenement were gone.

The boy, Adolph Joseph Popper, grew into manhood.

He married and had a son and a daughter.

He always wondered who the fireman was who risked his life—the hero who crawled into what could have ended in horrible death—to bring him to safety.

Recently, after an appeal to fire department officials, by Popper, it was determined that fireman Kinnick was his rescuer.

A meeting was arranged with Kinnick, now a battalion chief.

When the two men came face to face, Popper smiled bashfully.

Chief Kinnick grinned.

Popper wanted to shake Kinnick's hand, but first, there was a little formality—a ritual which had to be followed.

Popper saluted. Then he shook hands with the chief. The salute was because Popper, who owed his life to the fire department, is paying back his debt today in full — as probationary fireman Popper.

Army Chief Takes Over Rule In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—The commander of the Laotian army took over as head of a military government in this besieged capital Saturday night as pro-Western revolutionary forces massed on the outskirts for an expected drive to seize the city.

Gen. Southone Pathammavong read a statement to foreign diplomatic missions declaring himself president of a governing "high committee of the armed forces."

The army chief said the army had been delegated "all civil and military powers" by Premier Souvanna Phouma Friday shortly before Souvanna flew out of the country. The premier fled after failing to effect a compromise in the three cornered struggle for power among Laotian neutralists, pro-Communists and rightists.

Attending the meeting called by the army commander was leftist Capt. Kong Le, whose red-kerchiefed paratroops had taken over Vientiane without firing a shot shortly before the premier's departure.

Gen. Sounthone told assembled diplomats, including Soviet Ambassador Alexander Abramov, at the premier's office that the military committee "will do its best to preserve security and assure public functions pending solution of the present crisis."

Thailand's ambassador, who is dean of the diplomatic corps, assured Sounthone of the diplomats' willingness to cooperate with the military committee.

The military government it was announced will be headed by a six-member committee. In addition to Gen. Sounthone, it was to include four colonels and Capt. Kong Le.

Despite preparations for negotiations with advance units of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan's anti-Communist revolutionary forces, Kong Le set up headquarters at the airport to face any attack on the city.

While army leaders formed their government, pro - Western Gen. Phoumi Nosavana was reported massing his revolutionary airborne, infantry and artillery units for a drive on the capital.

The reports said that troops of Phoumi, the rightwing revolutionary commander, were poised on the eastern outskirts of the capital.

Kong Le's paratroops dug in to meet the threatened assault as the decisive battle for control of the city neared in the wake of the flight of frustrated neutralist Premier Souvanna.

Souvanna flew out Friday night to neighboring Cambodia with his family and a group of his government ministers. It was speculated that the neutralist premier had been squeezed out in a showdown fight between pro-Western and pro-Communist army factions.

Nine Persons Arrested For Urging Boycott

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Police arrested nine persons — six of them university students — Saturday for distributing pamphlets on Canal Street urging a boycott of two chain variety stores.

Six of them were white, the others Negroes. All said they were members of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

Four of the whites are Tulane University students, a fifth attends Sophie Newcomb College, an exclusive women's school connected with Tulane. One of the Negroes is a student at Dillard University, a Negro institution.

The nine were held in jail in lieu of $50 bonds. They were charged with violation of two city ordinances dealing with the distribution of handbills on public sidewalks.

They were identified as Herbert A. Johnson, 27, Robert L. Hiller, 18, Stephen S. Channing, 19, Allen Nathanson, 18, Steve N. Blank, 19, and Margaret B. Leonard, 18, all whites; and Davis J. Dennis, 20, Rudolph Muse, 18 and Evelyn Villia, 18, Negroes.

Bandits Force Bank President To Aid Robbery

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Five masked robbers telephoned a small town bank president late Friday to be sure he was at home, forced him to go to his bank and open it, then fled with $6,779 after returning the bank official to his home.

Wilmer Weimer, 59, was so unnerved by his experience that doctors had to place him under sedation.

Weimer lives only a block from his bank, the Community State Bank in Avilla, 20 miles north of Fort Wayne.

He said all of the men wore overcoats, hats, sunglasses and handkerchiefs over their faces. They forced their way into his home while his wife was away.

SAYS SOVIETS AGREE

Gates Says U.S. Defenses Superb

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of Defense Thomas S. Gates Jr. said Saturday night that for four years U. S. reconnaissance planes have "riddled" Soviet air defenses.

The defense chief made that statement along with an assertion that America and its defense organization are in first-rate condition.

"And I know that the Soviets know it too," said Gates.

"We must not get confused. Why else would the industrial banners of the U.S.S.R. exhort their workers to catch up with America? Why else would their political leadership resort to the bluster and filibuster of the bully?

"Why else would the engine of their military conquest have ground to a halt over the past few years? Why else would the flow of escapees from Soviet tyranny continue to rise?"

Then, in an address prepared for delivery to the Pennsylavnia Society at a dinner here, Gates said: "The cries of American weakness are surely not heard so loudly in a nation such as the Soviet Union which has been faced with the realization that for four yers unarmed American reconnaissance planes have riddled their air defenses and made a proper mockery of their refusal to open their skies as willingly as we would open ours to them. The Soviet leadership damns us not for weakness but for strength."

Gates made no further explanation, in his text, of the reference to four years of aerial reconnaissance. Presumably he had in mind actual flights over Soviet territory by the U2 reconnaissance type as well as perimeter surveillance of radar and camera-equipped patrol aircraft flying along but outside Soviet borders.

Gates came to New York to receive the annual gold medal award of the Pennsylvania Society. The defense chief is a Pennsylvania native and resident there except for his years of government service in Washington.

He contrasted this country's present position in arms and technology with what existed when the Eisenhower administration came into office in 1953.

"In 1953 no ship had nuclear power. Now 43 have either joined the fleet or are under construction. These include submarines, both attack and Polaris types, aircraft carrier, cruiser and missile frigate," Gates said.

"In 1953 Polaris was a dream. Atlas—the ICBM missile—a doubter's concept. We were impressed with operational aircraft that exceeded the speed of sound. Today we are unimpressed with twice that speed and are moving forward with development of a bomber aircraft that will operate at three times this speed.

"Sputnik startled the world and Explorer—the first successful U.S. satellite — made headline news. Today our satellite successes rarely make page one.

"Who says we are backward or this is a second-place record. I say it is superb."

Holiday Fire Disaster 14 Years Ago Recalled

EDITOR'S NOTE: Fourteen years ago, disaster struck a tenement house in Manhattan near the George Washington Bridge over the Hudson River. Here is a resume of the 56 hours of horror which followed and the outcome of just one phase of the incident 14 years later.

By EDWARD V. McCARTHY
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — The temperature rose to near 68 on Wednesday, Dec. 11, 1946, extending a warm spell that had shattered weather bureau records.

Christmas was just two weeks away. Men togged as Santa Claus, already manning street corner outposts, perspired under their false beards.

When school let out, children all over the city burst into activity. It was like summer all over again.

Four boys, 11 to 13 years of age, were fascinated by an abandoned six-story ice house in Washington Heights at Amsterdam Ave. and 184th St., not far from the George Washington Bridge.

They somehow entered the building and made their way to the roof.

Their play wasn't entirely innocent. One had matches. Another candles. A third, some newspapers.

Soon, flames crackled away on the roof. The boys fled.

At 5:06 p.m. someone spotted smoke and pulled a fire alarm.

Firemen raced to the scene and made quick work of the blaze on the roof.

Inside the six-story, 27-family tenement building at 2515 Amsterdam Ave., just north of the Knickerbocker Ice Co. building which had been abandoned for eight years, families settled down to normal Wednesday night routine.

No one had any idea what was in store.

SECOND FLOOR

On the second floor, the Popper family sat down to supper. They were Joseph, 35; Eileen, 27; Adolph Joseph, 11; John, 7; and Barbara, 3.

After supper there was homework and then the radio for entertainment.

Most of the tenement's residents, 95 men, women and children had drifted off to bed by 11:59 p.m. when Pasqualle Fucci, 22, a fifth floor tenant, noticed a peculiar odor which he thought smelled like burning tar.

He glanced out the window and saw sparks leaping into the air from the ice house.

Fucci ran to the street and yanked the handle on the fire box.

The second fire was nothing like the first small blaze on the ice house roof.

FIRE ALARM

Within 10 minutes, five alarms had been sounded.

Flames roared through the ancient building, feeding on the cork and tar paper insulation which had been used to keep the huge structive a tremendous ice box.

Some of the residents of 2515 Amsterdam Ave. were awakened by the scream of fire sirens, but most slept on — unaware of the drama unfolding next door.

On the third floor, Thomas Dines, 75, an ice cream vendor known affectionately by the neighborhood kids as "Joe" ignored the raging fire to take a bath in his green-painted tub.

If tomorrow was another warm day, he'd be busy.

Adolph Joseph Popper slept on the top half of a bunk bed he shared with his younger brother.

At 1:19 a.m. there was a puff of smoke and a shower of sparks from the ice house.

The 70-foot high, 36-inch thick, 200-foot long north wall of the ice house pulled away from the rest of the building and crashed into the wooden timbers of 2515 Amsterdam Ave.

Inside the tenement, wooden slats snapped like pistol shots. In a split second, solid beams shattered like matchsticks. Plaster flew from walls as though slammed by a giant hammer. The whole rear of the tenement tumbled in, reduced to a mound of rubble three stories high.

For an instant, there was silence broken only by the roar of the pumpers shooting thousands of gallons of water a minute into the inferno of the ice house.

Firemen and bystanders stood in stunned horror.

The air was filled with a thick mixture of smoke from the fire and plaster dust from the tenement.

Then, it began.

First some moans. Then ear-splitting shrieks of pain and terror.

"Save me Save me! I can't move"

"Help! Oh God, help!"

"The baby, where is the baby?"

A fire chief's aide rushed to a telephone and called headquarters. "Send every man you can spare, disaster units and heavy duty wrecking equipment. It's a disaster," he reported.

RESCUERS RUSH

Through the night, firemen and other rescuers worked under the glare of searchlights in a double battle — one to rescue those trapped in the treacherous rubble . . . the other to extinguish the ice house fire which was sending flaming debris into the ruins of the tenement and starting fires there.

Throughout, the front half of the tenement threatened to collapse back onto the mound at the rear and bury the rescuers as they clawed with bare hands at the bricks and timbers.

By dawn, the first reports were in. Seventeen dead, seven of them children and one a fireman. Five other firemen were hospitalized. Ten persons had been pulled out alive and taken to Mother Cabrini Hospital.

Another dozen of the more fortunate from the front of the building were treated on the scene for cuts and bruises.

One of the first bodies found was that of fireman Frank Morehead, 28, of the Bronx, attached to Engine Co. 93.

Morehead had been on the ice house roof with Deputy Chief Michael Powers and two other firemen when the wall went and the roof caved in.

The others managed to leap to safety. Moorehead didn't make it.

Among the hundreds of police and firemen who risked their lives repeatedly to crawl into tunnels laboriously dug in the smoking rubble was fireman Neil Kinnick.

FOUND BODY

Kinnick went into one of the tunnels and, scraping away crushed bricks and shredded lathing and wallpaper, found the lifeless body of John Popper. There was nothing he could do for him, so he dug some more.

He came on Adolph Joseph Popper, 11. Blood was caked on the boy's head—but he still breathed.

A ton or more of debris above groaned and creaked.

Fireman Kinnick moved quickly. He backed out with little Adolph and carried him to one of a dozen waiting ambulances to be rushed to a hospital.

Throughout Thursday Kinnick and the others dug grimly.

Here a live one—there a dead one.

The weary, dirty, sweating rescuers, now soaked by a steady rain which had begun falling, kept plugging away at the remains of the building that had begun to call "The Tomb."

At 3 p.m., a fireman heard feeble calls for help in a corner of the mass of rubble.

With others, he managed to tunnel within six feet of 265 pound chief Joe Origo, pinned hopelessly and bleeding from a score of injuries.

Assistant Fire Department Chaplain Charles Carroll shook off restraining arms and made his way into the tunnel.

At the six-foot mark, he finally was stopped. Continual collapses made it impossible to go any further. He gave the moaning Origo the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church and crawled back out.

For eight hours the rescue workers tried repeatedly to reach Origo. Finally, his pitiful cries ceased. The dangerous attempts to get to him were abandoned.

In another section of the debris, firemen came on the body of Lucille Biancardi, 8. In her hands, she clasped a gaily wrapped Christmas gift containing a carton of cigarettes.

It was addressed: "From Andrew to Uncle John."

Andrew, 9, her brother, was one of those saved.

Friday came, and still the digging continued.

They finally pulled out Joe Origo. Too late.

They found the ice-cream man, Thomas Dines — still in his green-painted bathtub — dead.

They reached Margaret De Rico, 5, who had been sleeping on the ground floor of the tenement, miraculously alive, but suffering multiple injuries.

At noon, Saturday, Dec. 14, they took out the last victim, 59 hours after the collapse.

The toll—37 lives, including 12 children ranging in age from six months to 12 years.

Little Adolph Joseph Popper, sandy-haired and blue-eyed, who needed 95 stitches to close the wounds in his scalp, was taken in by his mother's sister, Mrs. Esther Murphy, wife of a police sergeant.

YEARS PASS

The years rolled by.

The old ice house and the tenement were gone.

The boy, Adolph Joseph Popper, grew into manhood.

He married and had a son and a daughter.

He always wondered who the fireman was who risked his life—the hero who crawled into what could have ended in horrible death—to bring him to safety.

Recently, after an appeal to fire department officials, by Popper, it was determined that fireman Kinnick was his rescuer.

A meeting was arranged with Kinnick, now a battalion chief.

When the two men came face to face, Popper smiled bashfully.

Chief Kinnick grinned.

Popper wanted to shake Kinnick's hand, but first, there was a little formality—a ritual which had to be followed.

Popper saluted. Then he shook hands with the chief. The salute was because Popper, who owed his life to the fire department, is paying back his debt today in full — as probationary fireman Popper.

Army Chief Takes Over Rule In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—The commander of the Laotian army took over as head of a military government in this besieged capital Saturday night as pro-Western revolutionary forces massed on the outskirts for an expected drive to seize the city.

Gen. Southone Pathammavong read a statement to foreign diplomatic missions declaring himself president of a governing "high committee of the armed forces."

The army chief said the army had been delegated "all civil and military powers" by Premier Souvanna Phouma Friday shortly before Souvanna flew out of the country. The premier fled after failing to effect a compromise in the three cornered struggle for power among Laotian neutralists, pro-Communists and rightists.

Attending the meeting called by the army commander was leftist Capt. Kong Le, whose red-kerchiefed paratroops had taken over Vientiane without firing a shot shortly before the premier's departure.

Gen. Sounthone told assembled diplomats, including Soviet Ambassador Alexander Abramov, at the premier's office that the military committee "will do its best to preserve security and assure public functions pending solution of the present crisis."

Thailand's ambassador, who is dean of the diplomatic corps, assured Sounthone of the diplomats' willingness to cooperate with the military committee.

The military government it was announced will be headed by a six-member committee. In addition to Gen. Sounthone, it was to include four colonels and Capt. Kong Le.

Despite preparations for negotiations with advance units of Gen. Phoumi Nosavan's anti-Communist revolutionary forces, Kong Le set up headquarters at the airport to face any attack on the city.

While army leaders formed their government, pro - Western Gen. Phoumi Nosavana was reported massing his revolutionary airborne, infantry and artillery units for a drive on the capital.

The reports said that troops of Phoumi, the rightwing revolutionary commander, were poised on the eastern outskirts of the capital.

Kong Le's paratroops dug in to meet the threatened assault as the decisive battle for control of the city neared in the wake of the flight of frustrated neutralist Premier Souvanna.

Souvanna flew out Friday night to neighboring Cambodia with his family and a group of his government ministers. It was speculated that the neutralist premier had been squeezed out in a showdown fight between pro-Western and pro-Communist army factions.

CONGRESS PURGE

Sen. Byrd Gets Warning By Foe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A northern Senate Democratic foe told Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to "sail under the colors which fly on the Democratic masthead" if the southern leader wants to hold sway as chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania wrote Byrd that he proposed "no coercion" to enforce this demand but made it clear he still felt that anything less than total support of the major 1960 Democratic platform pledges disqualified a Democrat from any key committee posts regardless of seniority.

The liberal Pennsylvania Democrat discussed the touchy issue in a letter to Byrd—the latest in an exchange which has brought in the open a growing pre-season animosity between liberal and conservative congressmen.

Byrd, one of the Senate's leading conservatives, challenged Clark last week to a floor fight early next year on the issue of whether he should be dumped from his chairmanship because he did not endorse the Democratic platform.

Byrd did so in response to newspaper reports which he said quoted Clark as suggesting he should be "purged" from the Finance Committee post.

Byrd, who described the Democratic platform as "radical and "leading to socialism" told Clark:

"My allegiance is to Virginia where the people have elected me six times to the United States Senate...I recognize no control over my votes in the Senate from any outside influence..."

Clark, in his reply today, conceded Byrd had a right to serve his constituency, but said the Virginian also was obligated to serve the dictates of the Democratic Party as expressed by the convention, President-elect John F. Kennedy and a majority of Democratic senators.

Seek Location For Hospital In Concordia

FERRIDAY (Special) — Following a joint meeting of the Parish Development Committee and the Hospital Section held here efforts ar. now underway to obtain a site for the proposed new Hill-Burton Hospital for Concordia Parish.

Anyone who is willing to donate or sell a suitable tract of land for the construction of a hospital for Concordia Parish is invited to transmit his offer to Robert H. Hodes, attorney, P. O. Box 551, telephone 7025, Ferriday or Mayor Sidney A Murray Jr., Vidalia, or William W. Turner, Lake St. John.

They will inform the site committee of the Hospital Section of the offer. The hospital section proposes to submit a list of available sites to the parish police jury when the hospital project is submitted to the jury. It is planned to present the project on December 21.

The tract offered must consist of at least five acres, but it is desired that it consist of ten acres

The section has several sites under consideration.

During November the Home Demonstration Club, the Baptist Church, and the Parent - Teachers Club of Clayton passed resolutions expressing their approval and support of the parish hospital project of the parish Development Committee, and requested that the police jury of the parish take appropriate action to make such a hospital a reality. The total membership of these organizations is 290.

Collection Of Severance Tax Has Increased

JENA (Special) — Collection of severance taxes in LaSalle parish by the State Department of Revenue increased over $44,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959, according to the department's annual report.

Figures show that total severance tax collections in LaSalle for 1959-60 were $1,349,953.72. The total for the year 1958-59 was $1,305,533.65.

Increases were registered in every category except gravel. Taxes on oil for 1959-60 were $1,290,714.18 compared to $1,261,683.50 the previous year. Collections on gas during the past year were $22,571.11 compared to $14,033.39 a year earlier. Timber collections jumped to $14,753.77 from the previous year's figure of $10,723.51. Pulpwood collections also increased to $8,885.06 from $7,412.93 in 1958-59.

Severance collections on reforestration contracts increased to $4,537.14 in 1959-60 from $4,253.96 the year before. Taxes on sand increased from a mere $338.56 to $3,408.09.

The lone decrease was from $7,087.46 on gravel in 1958-59 to $5,084.37 in 1959-60.

Two Franklin Men Arrested

JONESVILLE (Special) — Two Gilbert men were arrested Wednesday about 10 a.m. at their homes on charges of theft in Catahoula Paris.

The two men were identified by Catahoula Parish Deputy Sheriff Max Good as Jack King, 21, and (Pete) Barlow, 24, both of Gilbert. They were arrested at their homes by Deputies Good and Watson Higgins with the assistance of Franklin Parish Sheriff J. A. Stevens.

Good said that the two men men broke into two tool houses at Jesse Cowan's gravel pit near Sicily Island last Monday night. They reportedly stole some antifreeze, a tire and wheel, lubricating oil and 12-volt battery. Most of the stolen property was recovered, according to Officer Good.

Bond was set at $750 each. They were being held in the Catahoula Parish jail at Harrisonburg.

Many Are Mobile

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mobile homes, if grouped together, would form a city with a population of 1,850,000 that would rank as the nation's sixth largest, an industry source estimates.

Organize Area Water, Sewer District Here

NEWELLTON (Special) — The Northeast Louisiana Water and Sewerage District was organized recently in the Monroe Utilities Commission office.

W. M. Tatum Jr., utilities superintendent of Newellton, was elected president; Homer Lowery, Winnsboro engineer and utilities superintendent, vice president; and P. G. Grambling Jr., Ruston utilities superintendent, secretary-treasurer. They will serve one year.

Representatives from Monroe, Rayville, Farmerville, Winnsboro Newellton, Waterproof, Tallulah, Ferriday and Ruston were present at the meeting.

Chosen as members on the board ofdirectors were Joe Fargala, Rayville, three - year term; K. D. (Bob) Colbert, Monroe, two-year term; and C. B. Sprague, Monroe, one-year term.

Purpose of the organization is to further the aims of the Louisiana Conference on Water Supply and Sewerage, parent organization.

The new group will hold its next meeting Jan. 3 at city hall in Monroe.

Sterlington Lodge Elects New Officers

STERLINGTON (Special) — Sterlington Lodge No. 420 F&AM elected John W. Wilhite as Worshipful Master for the ensuing year at the annual election meeting Thursday night.

Family Gets $80,000 In Death Suit

JONESVILLE (Special) — A total of $80,000 has been granted in favor of Mrs. Joyce King Swillie of Wisner and her two minor children by a jury in the Seventh Judicial District court at Harrisonburg.

The jury, after deliberating about two hours Friday, returned the verdict against the Natchez Steel Products Inc., and their insurer, the Liberty Mutual Insurance company.

The suit, which began on Nov. 28, was filed by Mrs. Swillie as a result of the death of her husband, who was crushed to death in his gravel truck about 12:45 p.m. on Tuesday, May 19, 1959, near Jonesville.

One amount of $30,000 was found in favor of Mrs. Swillie individually, and $25,000 to Mrs. Swillie as tutrix of Pamela Joy Swillie and another $25,000 to Mrs. Swillie as tutrix of Rufus Scotty Swillie, minor children of Mrs. Swillie.

The suit originally filed by Mrs. Swillie against the General Motors Corporation, et al, asked a total of $413,000 including $193,000 damages for loss of love and affection of her husband, loss of support and material assistance, grief, sorrow, mental distress, and anguish and funeral expenses. It also stipulated $125,000 for Pamela Joy Swillie and $90,000 for Rufusss Scotty Swillie, minor children of the deceased.

Swillie's two-ton Chevrolet truck, loaded with 10 cubic yards of gravel plunged headon into an 8-foot embankment at the intersection of the Sandy Lake and Jonesville - Harrisonburg highways. As the truck cab nosed into the ditch the frame of the truck snapped off at a point behind the cab. The gravel piled in on top of the folded cab containing Swillie's crushed body.

The Natchez Steel Products, Inc., of Natchez, reportedly added two extra wheels to the truck for Swillie. It was claimed by the plaintiffs that the accident was caused by the failure of the brake system which was also said to be altered.

Distret Judge Jesse C. McFee of Harrisonburg heard the case. It was not known if the defendants would appeal the case.

Phillips Services Scheduled Today

Mrs. Phillips is survived by two sons, Col. Henry L. Phillips of Fort Hamilton, N.Y., and Harry Phillips of El Paso, Texas; a sister, Mrs. Cecille Childs, Bradley, Ark.; a brother, Irving Lemle of Hot Springs, Ark.; two grandchildren and a great grandchild.

Weather Chilly, But Ike Golfs

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — President Eisenhower waited until chilly December weather warmed up slightly Saturday before golfing at the Augusta National Club.

Temperatures in the low 40's kept him off the course early this morning but he teed off shortly before noon when the mercury was pushed past 50 degrees.

The chief executive, who planned to end his golfing weekend Sunday and fly back to Washington at 4 p.m. EST, also played bridge with old friends.

BY HOUSE PROBER

Florida Highway Windfalls Bared

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House investigator said Saturday federal taxpayers have been footing a good part of the bill for booze, hams, turkeys, entertainment, and thousands of dollars in cash furnished Florida state highway engineers by roadbuilders.

Rep. John A. Blatnik, D-Minn., chairman of a subcommittee investigating scandals in the $41 billion federal interstate highway construction program, said the gifts and cash handouts were charged off by the companies on their tax returns. He called on Congress at its coming session to take a "good long look" at business practices like this with an eye to shutting off abuse of the tax law which provides for deduction of "ordinary, common, necessary and reasonable" costs of doing business.

The Internal Revenue Service, it was learned, already is taking a look at the gift-giving, whisky-buying, and un-repaid "lending" to which roadbuilders owned up to testimony before the Blatnik subcommittee this week.

An IRS agent sat through the hearings, nothing not only the testimony of the contractors but also that of some of the recipients of the favors who said they had not reported the windfalls on their own income tax returns.

Roadbuilders, who said it was an old custom in Florida to make payments to state road personnel, paid out more than $50,000 for such purposes in the past few years, the testimony showed. One contractor said similar practices were common, though on a smaller scale, in other southeastern states where he did business.

An IRS spokesman said payments of this kind, where they are identified by tax agents, are generally disallowed as business expense on the ground that side payments by business firms to public officials are considered not in the public interest.

"We have had testimony during the past week that one Florida contractor paid out more than $2,000 in regular weekly payments to Florida State Road Department engineers to 'induce' these engineers to 'expedite' projects they were supervising," Blatnik said in a statement, "at least that was the substance of the testimony. These payments were charged to various projects as 'expense.'"

He added:

"We had testimony that this same contractor and several other contractors charged off thousands of dollars they claimed were spent to 'entertain' Road Department personnel, and nearly all of them admitted that so-called 'loans' to state employes eventually were written off as bad debts...

"We found expenditures being written off as business expense running into thousands of dollars for whisky, cigars, turkeys, hams, hunting licenses, tickets for wrestling matches, football games, and so on."

Set Report On State's Fight At Winnsboro

WINNSBORO (Special) — Franklin Parish Representative Lantz Womack will give a complete report on Louisiana's fight for state sovereignty against the federal courts of the United States and the Supreme Court at a mass meeting in Winnsboro Tuesday night, December 13.

The mass meeting is scheduled to be held in the Winnsboro High school auditorium and will start at 7 o'clock p.m.

Lt. Commander Richardson of the U. S. Naval Reserve, will present a film on communist infiltration of the United States, which, in the words of Representative Womack, "will curl the hair of a bald headed man."

This is primarily an adult meeting but junior and senior high school students will be welcomed as will all out - of - parish visitors.

Round-A-Bout

With Ezra Adams, State Editor

"We're having plenty of weather!" was the cry last week, as cloudy skies poured rain day and night over most of northeast Louisiana and the dreary weather headed into the weekend.

However, spirits of Christmas shoppers didn't appear too dampened. With Santa's day only two weeks off, streets were jammed and stores crowded in shopping districts.

The recent rainy, cold weather has hindered some area farmers from completing special soil conservation projects.

Most of the farmers have finished with their harvest, but one man a few days ago was heard to say he still had nearly a hundred bales of cotton in the field.

Fire departments of Vidalia and Ferriday have received excellent ratings from the state fire marshal.

They were cited for station neatness and a well kept condition, with Vidalia rated as one of the cleanest in the state.

Both fire departments are in Class 3. Only Baton Rouge is in Class 1, with New Orleans, Shreveport, and a few other cities in Class 2.

We hear there's to be a discussion on control of fire ants in Delhi at 10 a.m. Dec. 14.

Members of the Imported Fire Ant Control Committee are to be present to outline a program to control the pests in this area

All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting, to be held in the town's theater.

Ceremonies are slated for 9:30 a.m. Thursday in the courtroom of the Franklin Parish courthouse for the swearing in of E. Rudolph McIntyre as the district attorney for the Fifth Judicial District, embracing Franklin, Richland and West Carroll parishes.

McIntyre was elected to the post this year.

Reportedly, the new district attorney will have as his assistants William R. Coenen, Rayville, for Richland parish, and W. Sartis Bassett, Oak Grove, for West Carroll parish.

New officers of the Concordia Parish Association for Retarded Children will be elected at a meeting to begin at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. H. R. Sanders is association president.

CONGRESS PURGE

Sen. Byrd Gets Warning By Foe

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A northern Senate Democratic foe told Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., to "sail under the colors which fly on the Democratic masthead" if the southern leader wants to hold sway as chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania wrote Byrd that he proposed "no coercion" to enforce this demand but made it clear he still felt that anything less than total support of the major 1960 Democratic platform pledges disqualified a Democrat from any key committee posts regardless of seniority.

The liberal Pennsylvania Democrat discussed the touchy issue in a letter to Byrd—the latest in an exchange which has brought in the open a growing pre-season animosity between liberal and conservative congressmen.

Byrd, one of the Senate's leading conservatives, challenged Clark last week to a floor fight early next year on the issue of whether he should be dumped from his chairmanship because he did not endorse the Democratic platform.

Byrd did so in response to newspaper reports which he said quoted Clark as suggesting he should be "purged" from the Finance Committee post.

Byrd, who described the Democratic platform as "radical and "leading to socialism" told Clark:

"My allegiance is to Virginia where the people have elected me six times to the United States Senate...I recognize no control over my votes in the Senate from any outside influence..."

Clark, in his reply today, conceded Byrd had a right to serve his constituency, but said the Virginian also was obligated to serve the dictates of the Democratic Party as expressed by the convention, President-elect John F. Kennedy and a majority of Democratic senators.

Seek Location For Hospital In Concordia

FERRIDAY (Special) — Following a joint meeting of the Parish Development Committee and the Hospital Section held here efforts ar. now underway to obtain a site for the proposed new Hill-Burton Hospital for Concordia Parish.

Anyone who is willing to donate or sell a suitable tract of land for the construction of a hospital for Concordia Parish is invited to transmit his offer to Robert H. Hodes, attorney, P. O. Box 551, telephone 7025, Ferriday or Mayor Sidney A Murray Jr., Vidalia, or William W. Turner, Lake St. John.

They will inform the site committee of the Hospital Section of the offer. The hospital section proposes to submit a list of available sites to the parish police jury when the hospital project is submitted to the jury. It is planned to present the project on December 21.

The tract offered must consist of at least five acres, but it is desired that it consist of ten acres

The section has several sites under consideration.

During November the Home Demonstration Club, the Baptist Church, and the Parent - Teachers Club of Clayton passed resolutions expressing their approval and support of the parish hospital project of the parish Development Committee, and requested that the police jury of the parish take appropriate action to make such a hospital a reality. The total membership of these organizations is 290.

Collection Of Severance Tax Has Increased

JENA (Special) — Collection of severance taxes in LaSalle parish by the State Department of Revenue increased over $44,000 in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1959, according to the department's annual report.

Figures show that total severance tax collections in LaSalle for 1959-60 were $1,349,953.72. The total for the year 1958-59 was $1,305,533.65.

Increases were registered in every category except gravel. Taxes on oil for 1959-60 were $1,290,714.18 compared to $1,261,683.50 the previous year. Collections on gas during the past year were $22,571.11 compared to $14,033.39 a year earlier. Timber collections jumped to $14,753.77 from the previous year's figure of $10,723.51. Pulpwood collections also increased to $8,885.06 from $7,412.93 in 1958-59.

Severance collections on reforestration contracts increased to $4,537.14 in 1959-60 from $4,253.96 the year before. Taxes on sand increased from a mere $338.90 to $3,408.09.

The lone decrease was from $7,087.46 on gravel in 1958-59 to $5,084.37 in 1959-60.

Two Franklin Men Arrested

JONESVILLE (Special) — Two Gilbert men were arrested Wednesday about 10 a.m. at their homes on charges of theft in Catahoula Paris.

The two men were identified by Catahoula Parish Deputy Sheriff Max Good as Jack King, 21, and (Pete) Barlow, 24, both of Gilbert. They were arrested at their homes by Deputies Good and Watson Higgins with the assistance of Franklin Parish Sheriff J. A. Stevens.

Good said that the two men men broke into two tool houses at Jesse Cowan's gravel pit near Sicily Island last Monday night. They reportedly stole some antifreeze, a tire and wheel, lubricating oil and 12-volt battery. Most of the stolen property was recovered, according to Officer Good.

Bond was set at $750 each. They were being held in the Catahoula Parish jail at Harrisonburg.

Many Are Mobile

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mobile homes, if grouped together, would form a city with a population of 1,850,000 that would rank as the nation's sixth largest, an industry source estimates.

Family Gets $80,000 In Death Suit

JONESVILLE (Special) — A total of $80,000 has been granted in favor of Mrs. Joyce King Swillie of Wisner and her two minor children by a jury in the Seventh Judicial District court at Harrisonburg.

The jury, after deliberating about two hours Friday, returned the verdict against the Natchez Steel Products Inc., and their insurer, the Liberty Mutual Insurance company.

The suit, which began on Nov. 28, was filed by Mrs. Swillie as a result of the death of her husband, who was crushed to death in his gravel truck about 12:45 p.m. on Tuesday, May 19, 1959, near Jonesville.

One amount of $30,000 was found in favor of Mrs. Swillie individually, and $25,000 to Mrs. Swillie as tutrix of Pamela Joy Swillie and another $25,000 to Mrs. Swillie as tutrix of Rufus Scotty Swillie, minor children of Mrs. Swillie.

The suit originally filed by Mrs. Swillie against the General Motors Corporation, et al, asked a total of $413,000 including $193,000 damages for loss of love and affection of her husband, loss of support and material assistance, grief, sorrow, mental distress, and anguish and funeral expenses. It also stipulated $125,000 for Pamela Joy Swillie and $90,000 for Rufusss Scotty Swillie, minor children of the deceased.

Swillie's two-ton Chevrolet truck, loaded with 10 cubic yards of gravel plunged headon into an 8-foot embankment at the intersection of the Sandy Lake and Jonesville - Harrisonburg highways. As the truck cab nosed into the ditch the frame of the truck snapped off at a point behind the cab. The gravel piled in on top of the folded cab containing Swillie's crushed body.

The Natchez Steel Products, Inc., of Natchez, reportedly added two extra wheels to the truck for Swillie. It was claimed by the plaintiffs that the accident was caused by the failure of the brake system which was also said to be altered.

Distrct Judge Jesse C. McFee of Harrisonburg heard the case. It was not known if the defendants would appeal the case.

OUTSIDE HER HOME

Rejected Suitor Slays Divorcee

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —A rejected suitor shot a beautiful chestnut haired welcome-wagon hostess to death outside her $30,000 home here Friday night while the divorcee's two children slept inside.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Spears said the woman was Mrs. Pat Palco, 33, daughter of prominent Athol, Mass., surgeon, Dr. Francis Reynolds.

He said the man who fired the fatal shots was Leno Joseph Risatti, 42, an apartment house owner from Pompano Beach.

After shooting Mrs. Palco five times, he turned his .25 caliber pistol on himself and fired into his abdomen. He underwent emergency surgey but was reported in "good" condition at Holy Cross Hospital. The Broward sheriff's office put him under guard and said he would be held for investigation of first degree murder.

Spears said the shooting resulted from a romantic affair.

He said Mrs. Palco had dated Vic Convisser, 42-year-old North Miami real estate salesman, Friday night. When Convisser and Mrs. Palco returned to her home in an exclusive neighborhood here, they heard a tapping on a bedroom window.

Spears said the couple heard a voice calling:

"Pat, I want to talk to you."

She walked into the yard while Convisser remained in the house, and her children, Sharon, 6, and Robert J. Palco Jr., slept.

Convisser said he heard muffled sounds from outside the house.

A neighbor across the street, John Estes, 43, said he also heard shots just as he walked outside.

Officers said the woman, dressed in a brown plaid dress and slippers to match, had collapsed in the driveway. The wounded Risatti was lying partially across her body, sobbing: "Pat, Pat, I'm sorry."

Thieves Have Ear For Music

FOLEY, Ala. (UPI)—Thieves—described as having "an ear for good music" — burglarized radio station WHEP here Saturday.

The 1,000-watt AM station was robbed of a tape recorder, microphone, spare tubes and about 90 per cent of its long playing records. The burglars entered the building by breaking a window.

Announcer Jim Stewart noted that the thieves were apparently selective in the records they stole. "They took all of our Chritsmas music and easy-listening high fi," he said, "but none of the rock 'n roll."

Three To Face Court Martial Trials Monday

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI) —Three U.S. servicemen, one a West Pointer, will be court martialed Monday at separate trials on charges of negligent homicide in the shelling of an Army bivouac area last September.

Seventeen Americans died when the 8-inch howitzer shell plunged into the Grafenwoehr area where 3rd Armored Division elements were on maneuvers. Fifteen men were killed instantly and the other two died later of their injuries. Twenty-five men were wounded.

Facing trial are: 2nd Lt. Mark F. Kempf, 24, of San Antonio, Tex.; Pfc. Raymond Riggs, 20, of New Iberia, La., and 1st Lt. George O'Grady, 26, of Arlington, Va. O'Grady is a West Point graduate, class of 1957.

Each will be tried separately and each trial probably will last three days. The same court will try all three men.

If convicted, they could face penalties up to one year in prison forfeiture of pay and allowances and separation from service.

The shell was fired Sept. 2, propelled by seven bags of powder, two more than prescribed.

PHOTOGRAPHER George Davis of Pittsburgh shows the $1,620 in $20 bills he found outside a church in the city's downtown section to Police Lt. Daniel Shussett, Church officials said the money was not theirs. Police are searching for the owner of the money. If it remains unclaimed for 30 days it goes to Davis. (AP Wirephoto)

Judge Overton Suffers Stroke

CLINTON, La. (AP) — Dist. Judge Woodrow W. Overton Saturday rested in an infirmary here after suffering a stroke.

Overton was stricken Thursday as he entered the clerk of court's office and was rushed to the infirmary. His condition Saturday was reported unchanged, with no marked improvement.

The 46-year-old judge serves the 20th district, made up of East and West Feliciana parishes. In recent months he has been active in other courts of the state as interim judge.

Davis Names Delegates To Conference

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis Saturday announced the names of 32 Louisianians who will be delegates to the White House Conference on Aging.

The conference will be held Jan. 9-12 in Washington. About 2,800 official delegates will attend, representing states, territories and private organizations.

The group will examine needs and problems of America's older citizens and recommend actions to meet those needs. Such action would be taken by the states, communities, federal government, private organizations and older persons themselves.

The delegates include:

Dr. H. H. Hardy, Alexandria; Rev. C. S. Cadwallader, Clarks; A. A. Larriviere, Baton Rouge; Caye A. Nelson, Baton Rouge; Dr. O. B. Owens, Alexandria; Miss Rupert Perry, Baton Rouge; Dr. M. S. Robertson, Baton Rouge; Mrs. Edith G. Ross, Baton Rouge; Dr. M. E. St. Martin, New Orleans; Mrs. Taunton Veazey, Monroe; Dr. Edmonia Davidson, Scotlandville; Dr. C. W. Fogleman, McNeese State College; Dr. Roy E. Hyde, Hammond; Prof. E. F. Purvis, Grambling; Dr. Robert O. Trout, Louisiana Tech, Ruston; Dr. Ora V. Watson, Northwestern State, Natchitoches; Dr. James S. Wittman, Louisiana College, Pineville; Miss Alma Burk, Ruston; Dr. John W. Melton, Baton Rouge; P. J. Voorhies, Lafayette; Sen. Jack Fruge, Ville Platte; Rep. Lawrence Gibbs, Monroe; A. H. Horton, Natchitoches; Mrs. Madge S. Kennedy, Baton Rouge; John S. Campbell, Baton Rouge; A. A. Fredericks, Natchitoches; Gail K. Gay, Oak Grove; Mrs. Frank Odom, Baton Rouge; Dr. A. T. Pilgreen, Shreveport; Rev. R. W. Rhodes, Lillie; Albert Tate Sr., Ville Platte; Gwendolyn Anreron, Plaquemine; Dr. Perry H. Howard, Northwestern State, Monroe; and John J. Kennedy Jr., Baton Rouge.

Rejected Suitor Slays Divorcee

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —A rejected suitor shot a beautiful chestnut haired welcome-wagon hostess to death outside her $30,000 home here Friday night while the divorcee's two children slept inside.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Spears said the woman was Mrs. Pat Palco, 30, daughter of prominent Athol, Mass., surgeon, Dr. Francis Reynolds.

He said the man who fired the fatal shots was Leno Joseph Risatti, 42, an apartment house owner from Pompano Beach.

After shooting Mrs. Palco five times, he turned his .25 caliber pistol on himself and fired into his abdomen. He underwent emergency surgey but was reported in "good" condition at Holy Cross Hospital. The Broward sheriff's office put him under guard and said he would be held for investigation of first degree murder.

Spears said the shooting resulted from a romantic affair.

He said Mrs. Palco had dated Vic Convisser, 42-year-old North Miami real estate salesman, Friday night. When Convisser and Mrs. Palco returned to her home in an exclusive neighborhood here, they heard a tapping on a bedroom window.

Spears said the couple heard a voice calling:

"Pat, I want to talk to you."

She walked into the yard while Convisser remained in the house, and her children, Sharon, 6, and Robert J. Palco Jr., slept.

Convisser said he heard muffled sounds from outside the house.

A neighbor across the street, John Estes, 43, said he also heard shots just as he walked outside.

Officers said the woman, dressed in a brown plaid dress and slippers to match, had collapsed in the driveway. The wounded Risatti was lying partially across her body, sobbing: "Pat, Pat, I'm sorry."

Thieves Have Ear For Music

FOLEY, Ala. (UPI)—Thieves—described as having "an ear for good music" — burglarized radio station WHEP here Saturday.

The 1,000-watt AM station was robbed of a tape recorder, microphone, spare tubes and about 90 per cent of its long playing records. The burglars entered the building by breaking a window.

Announcer Jim Stewart noted that the thieves were apparently selective in the records they stole. "They took all of our Chritsmas music and easy-listening high fi," he said, "but none of the rock 'n roll."

Letter Writing Rush

The Twin Cities area is in the midst of a big letter writing splurge. And what makes it more significant is that many of the writers are in the pre - school age group.

But, what the letters may lack in literary quality, they make up for in enthusiasm and demonstration of faith in their objectives. This avalanche, much of which never enters the postal system, is the annual letters - to - Santa Claus surge, which is spontaneous in nature, and draws its greatest following from the tots who generally rely more on the spoken word than the written one.

Postal officials in the Twin Cities have noted varying trends in this annual letter writing custom. There is an indication of an increase in this type of mail on the west side of the Ouachita River, and a decrease on the east side. However, it is generally conceded that many of the letters are entrusted to parents or friends for special delivery, and do not pass through the post offices.

INCREASE

Homer Roark, postmaster of the West Monroe Post Office, when queried on the matter said, "I have eight Santa letters on my desk right now. It seems like there are a lot more of them this year than ever before. Most of them are addressed to Santa Claus at the North Pole. One had USA written after North Pole."

Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn, of Monroe Post Office, said of the Santa letters, "We used to get quite a lot of them, but in the last few years they have dropped off. I think the parents cut them off in a lot of cases."

What happens to Santa letters that get into the mails?

West Monroe Postmaster Roark provided this answer:

"If they have postage and are properly sealed, they are sent to the Dead Letter Office unless a charitable organization requests them. At the Dead Letter Office they are opened and unless there is something of value that is the last of it. That is the only recourse."

Sometimes the sealed letters that have no postage are also sent to the Dead Letter Office.

Roark said, "I think that many of the letters are slipped into the mail without the parent's knowledge. There are several things that might be done with the letters if they had return addresses on them and I had the time. I've thought it would be a good thing if I could return the letters to the parents of the writers to let them see what the children have requested. In many cases the lists of requests would be hard to fill."

Postmasters have many other things to worry about, however, besides the annual Santa letters. They do everything possible to expedite Christmas letters and parcels and encourage early mailing to avoid the last minute rush.

Hathorn said, "we're picking up on volume of Christmas cards and there is quite a bit of parcel post for the east and west coasts. At home we've mailed all of our parcels already, and I'm going to get my Christmas cards in the mail right away. I think most of our postal employees are doing the same to ease the last minute rush of mail."

Around the middle of last week, Roard said, "We haven't had much volume of Christmas cards yet, but we've had a pretty good volume on packages."

The big Yule rush is still ahead.

Santa Letters Spring From Youthful Hands

SPECIAL DELIVERY of the daily newspapers as shown here features teamwork between News-Star—World carrier, Gordon Henry of 409 Register, West Monroe, and Neal, a six-year-old white collie, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Pine and family of 708 North 4th St., West Monroe. The industrious collie maintains a daily vigil for arrival of the carrier, receives the paper and completes delivery to the master of the house.

MRS. PINE describes the dog's main interest as "riding and playing football," and main chores as delivering notes and packages next door to the home of the Pine's daughter, and taking out waste paper basket. For the paper delivery service, Neal receives a treat, dog candy. The dog is fond of children, say his owners, will shake hands with them, play dead, roll over and play train. These photos were taken by George Screpetis, chief machinist in the composing room of the News-Star—World.

Clear Decks For Yule Cards

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Staff Writer

Deck the halls, friends; but clear the decks, too, for the biggest Christmas card avalanche ever.

In the next two weeks the nation's mantlepieces, pianos, hall tables, living room drapes, door frames and mailmen will bear the burden of no less than three billion messages of yuletide joy.

And across the land, in home after cheery home, will be enacted the annual December dialogue.

"Where's last year's list? I thought you were going to save it."

"You lick awhile and let me address."

"Whose name goes first, yours or mine?"

PROBLEM

"We've got five cards, four envelopes and seven names left. Any suggestions?"

This year's breakdown of non-religious preferences has floral displays leading the popularity list with animals second and Santa Claus, oddly enough, in third place.

Capitalizing on the flowers and animals demand, one company came up with a card showing a dog wearing a nightcap chasing a cat with a poinsettia in its mouth.

Irv Cohen, whose Fifth Avenue card shop in New York is the nation's largest, has a ready explanation for the popularity of animals on Christmas cards.

Next to people, he said, animals are his best customers.

"We get orders for cards to be sent by parakeets, cats and every kind of pet you can think of," he said. "I just closed an order from an oil company executive who had cards engraved for Pierre—his poodle."

Another customer, Cohen said, asked him to help her pick out a card that "isn't too flamboyant —we just lost our dog."

There are cards that send greetings from our house to your house, from our cat to your cat; from you to the milkman, the delivery boy, butcher, baby sitter and dentist; to your teacher, secret pal or someone iH; to nephew and his wife, or niece and her husband.

AVERAGE

And on and on until every family in America will have signed, sealed and dropped in the mailbox an average of 100 Christmas cards each.

From there, more than 300,000 extra mailmen will help speed them on their appointed rounds at an additional expense to Uncle Sam of $30 million.

But all is not grief for the postmaster. Because the senders, having paid $300 million for the cards, spent another $100 million for the stamps.

This is the astounding commercial score the Greeting Card Association has compiled for the youngest Christmas tradition of them all.

Christmas cards account for roughly half the business of the greeting card industry, and the association estimates you have close to 50,000 selections to pick from this year, ranging in price from a nickel to $1.80.

The list includes everything from a 10 x 12-inch reproduction of Lorenzetti's "Madonna and Child" to a sketch of Lady Godiva sidesaddle on a reindeer bidding one and all to "have a fabulous holiday."

The association says about 30 per cent of this year's cards will have a religious motif. This is 8 or 9 per cent more than last year, and in keeping with a steadily rising trend of the past decade.

But most Americans apparently still prefer to express their Noels through the likes of Scottie dogs, buck deer, snow-capped mailboxes and ice-skating pussycats.

In Cairo

Service Uncurbed

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—In a famous Cairo cafe, you can get a good meal, see a passing parade of entertainment, have your fortune told and your shoes shined, all for half a dollar.

The cafe is the Parisiana, located not far from the site of the original Shepheard's Hotel. To enjoy an evening at the Parisiana, take a table beside one of the huge windows opening directly onto the street. Then order a beer with "mezza."

For the beer and mezza, you pay 35 cents. This is your basic investment for the evening.

The mezza is a meal in itself. It includes dishes of sausages, two varieties of cheese, olives, pickles, potato salad, green salad, salami, and beans with onions.

FOOD PARADE

You buy the beer and mezza from the Parisiana itself. From there on, you deal with a parade of venders who continuously pass in and out among the tables. You can buy a dozen tiny boiled shrimps for two cents. Another two cents and you have a dozen balls of "ta'amiya," crushed beans fried in deep fat.

A man comes by with a basket of bread on his head. For a penny you buy a stick of salted bread that sharpens the appetite.

While you are buying your shrimps, you become aware of something fuzzy in the air above your beans. A man in a skull-cap standing on the sidewalk is reaching across the table, holding a puppy.

"Wanna buy nice dog cheap, George?"

The dog merchant is not easy to get rid of, and when he finally shrugs his shoulders and leaves, the others come. One by one they pass, trying to sell you water glasses, hairpins, neckties, perfume, white linen handkerchiefs.

By now the organ-grinder has arrived and begins turning out "The Girl Friend of the Whirling Dervish." A frizzy - haired little girl in a faded calico dress begins doing handsprings beside your window.

TRICKS

A "galla-galla" man—magician —in a bright red necktie, checkered coat and ancient top hat approaches your window and lays a deck of cards on your table. He does the usual run of card tricks, makes a match box crawl across the table, and his mangy dog walks on his hind legs and jumps through a hoop. You hand him a nickel.

The galla-galla man is followed by the rug merchant, with Egyptian carpets piled high on both shoulders and spread across his arms. He begins unrolling them on the street before you.

"Nice carpet, George, only seven pounds."

You try bargaining.

"I'll give you three."

The merchant feigns surprise and pain. Three pounds, for such a carpet? Where you expect to buy a carpet like this for less than seven pounds?

Then he leans across your mezza and puts his face close to yours. He whispers confidentially: "Never mind seven. Never mind three. How much you pay?

UNDER TABLE

You have to show real determination not to wind up with a carpet stacked on the table. But by now you are distracted by the man spewing a stream of fire from his mouth. Next him another performer is balancing a glass of water on his head propped on his chin.

A hand seizes your ankle. Under the table the shoe-shiner has goes to work on your shoes. Without a word being spoken, he has pulled out further arguments. Each time there is a new face at the window.

"Like fortune told, mister? Automatique. Electric."

In Twin Cities Area

Letter Writing Rush

The Twin Cities area is in the midst of a big letter writing splurge. And what makes it more significant is that many of the writers are in the pre - school age group.

But, what the letters may lack in literary quality, they make up for in enthusiasm and demonstration of faith in their objectives.

This avalanche, much of which never enters the postal system, is the annual letters - to - Santa Claus surge, which is spontaneous in nature, and draws its greatest following from the tots who generally rely more on the spoken word than the written one.

Postal officials in the Twin Cities have noted varying trends in this annual letter writing custom. There is an indication of an increase in this type of mail on the west side of the Ouachita River, and a decrease on the east side. However, it is generally conceded that many of the letters are entrusted to parents or friends for special delivery, and do not pass through the post offices.

INCREASE

Homer Roark, postmaster of the West Monroe Post Office, when queried on the matter said, "I have eight Santa letters on my desk right now. It seems like there are a lot more of them this year than ever before. Most of them are addressed to Santa Claus at the North Pole. One had USA written after North Pole."

Postmaster Woodrow Hathorn, of Monroe Post Office, said of the Santa letters, "We used to get quite a lot of them, but in the last few years they have dropped off. I think the parents cut them off in a lot of cases."

What happens to Santa letters that get into the mails?

West Monroe Postmaster Roark provided this answer:

"If they have postage and are properly sealed, they are sent to the Dead Letter Office unless a charitable organization requests them. At the Dead Letter Office they are opened and unless there is something of value that is the last of it. That is the only recourse."

Sometimes the sealed letters that have no postage are also sent to the Dead Letter Office.

Roark said, "I think that many of the letters are slipped into the mail without the parent's knowledge. There are several things that might be done with the letters if they had return addresses on them and I had the time. I've thought it would be a good thing if I could return the letters to the parents of the writers to let them see what the children have requested. In many cases the lists of requests would be hard to fill."

Postmasters have many other things to worry about, however, besides the annual Santa letters. They do everything possible to expedite Christmas letters and parcels and encourage early mailing to avoid the last minute rush.

Hathorn said, "we're picking up on volume of Christmas cards and there is quite a bit of parcel post for the east and west coasts. At home we've mailed all of our parcels already, and I'm going to get my Christmas cards in the mail right away. I think most of our postal employees are doing the same to ease the last minute rush of mail."

Around the middle of last week, Roard said, "We haven't had much volume of Christmas cards yet, but we've had a pretty good volume on packages."

The big Yule rush is still ahead.

SPECIAL DELIVERY of the daily newspapers as shown here features teamwork between News-Star—World carrier, Gordon Henry of 409 Register, West Monroe, and Neal, a six-year-old white collie, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Pine and family of 708 North 4th St., West Monroe. The industrious collie maintains a daily vigil for arrival of the carrier, receives the paper and completes delivery to the master of the house.

MRS. PINE describes the dog's main interest as "riding and playing football," and main chores as delivering notes and packages next door to the home of the Pine's daughter, and taking out waste paper basket. For the paper delivery service, Neal receives a treat, dog candy. The dog is fond of children, say his owners, will shake hands with them, play dead, roll over and play train. These photos were taken by George Screpetis, chief machinist in the composing room of the News-Star—World.

In Cairo

Service Uncurbed

By WILTON WYNN

CAIRO, Egypt (AP)—In a famous Cairo cafe, you can get a good meal, see a passing parade of entertainment, have your fortune told and your shoes shined, all for half a dollar.

The cafe is the Parisiana, located not far from the site of the original Shepheard's Hotel. To enjoy an evening at the Parisiana, take a table beside one of the huge windows opening directly onto the street. Then order a beer with "mezza."

For the beer and mezza, you pay 35 cents. This is your basic investment for the evening.

The mezza is a meal in itself. It includes dishes of sausages, two varieties of cheese, olives, pickles, potato salad, green salad, salami, and beans with onions.

FOOD PARADE

You buy the beer and mezza from the Parisiana itself. From there on, you deal with a parade of venders who continuously pass in and out among the tables. You can buy a dozen tiny boiled shrimps for two cents. Another two cents and you have a dozen balls of "ta'amiya," crushed beans fried in deep fat.

A man comes by with a basket of bread on his head. For a penny you buy a stick of salted bread that sharpens the appetite.

While you are buying your shrimps, you become aware of something fuzzy in the air above your beans. A man in a skull-cap standing on the sidewalk is reaching across the table, holding a puppy.

"Wanna buy nice dog cheap, George?"

Clear Decks For Yule Cards

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Staff Writer

Deck the halls, friends; but clear the decks, too, for the biggest Christmas card avalanche ever.

In the next two weeks the nation's mantlepieces, pianos, hall tables, living room drapes, door frames and mailmen will bear the burden of no less than three billion messages of yuletide joy.

And across the land, in home after cheery home, will be enacted the annual December dialogue.

"Where's last year's list? I thought you were going to save it."

"You lick awhile and let me address."

"Whose name goes first, yours or mine?"

PROBLEM

"We've got five cards, four envelopes and seven names left. Any suggestions?"

This year's breakdown of non-religious preferences has floral displays leading the popularity list with animals second and Santa Claus, oddly enough, in third place.

Capitalizing on the flowers and animals demand, one company came up with a card showing a dog wearing a nightcap chasing a cat with a poinsettia in its mouth.

Irv Cohen, whose Fifth Avenue card shop in New York is the nation's largest, has a ready explanation for the popularity of animals on Christmas cards.

Next to people, he said, animals are his best customers.

"We get orders for cards to be sent by parakeets, cats and every kind of pet you can think of," he said. "I just closed an order from an oil company executive who had cards engraved for Pierre—his poodle."

Another customer, Cohen said, asked him to help her pick out a card that "isn't too flamboyant—we just lost our dog."

There are cards that send greetings from our house to your house, from our cat to your cat; from you to the milkman, the delivery boy, butcher, baby sitter and dentist; to your teacher, secret pal or someone ill; to nephew and his wife, or niece and her husband.

AVERAGE

And on and on until every family in America will have signed, sealed and dropped in the mailbox an average of 100 Christmas cards each.

From there, more than 300,000 extra mailmen will help speed them on their appointed rounds at an additional expense to Uncle Sam of $30 million.

But all is not grief for the postmaster. Because the senders, having paid $300 million for the cards, spent another $100 million for the stamps.

This is the astounding commercial score the Greeting Card Association has compiled for the youngest Christmas tradition of them all.

Christmas cards account for roughly half the business of the greeting card industry, and the association estimates you have close to 50,000 selections to pick from this year, ranging in price from a nickel to $1.80.

The list includes everything from a 10 x 12-inch reproduction of Lorenzetti's "Madonna and Child" to a sketch of Lady Godiva sidesaddle on a reindeer bidding one and all to "have a fabulous holiday."

The association says about 30 per cent of this year's cards will have a religious motif. This is 8 or 9 per cent more than last year, and in keeping with a steadily rising trend of the past decade.

But most Americans apparently still prefer to express their Noels through the likes of Scottie dogs, buck deer, snow-capped mailboxes and ice-skating pussycats.

The State Education Grants

In making cash educational grants up to more than $300 a year available for every child attending a Louisiana private non-profit and non-sectarian school—now or in the future—Governor Davis and the Legislature have taken a sincere, conscientious and bold step toward trying to provide non-integrated education for children of the rank and file of Louisiana's families. They have sought especially to avoid these two pitfalls:

1. The financial obstacles in sudden creation of private schools operating solely on private contributions, as in Prince Edward County, Virginia, where the second year of such operation is running into rough financial trouble.

2. The "unconstitutionality"—as already set down by the Supreme Court—of any participation, financially or otherwise, directly or indirectly, by the state in operation of a segregated school established to—in the Court's eyes—"deprive" Negro children of their "right" under the original 1954 ruling against compulsory segregation. This, and the Court's prohibition against closing an individual school that is desegregated, collasped the Little Rock private school effort in 1958.

The new Louisiana law seeks to avoid established Supreme Court prohibitions by making "every child residing in this state"—the law's own phraseology — eligible for tuition grants. It is not necessary for a child to be or have been in a school ordered desegregated. Every child now—and as long as the law is effective—is eligible if attending a private, non-profit, and non-sectarian school.

Applied locally, this would mean that every student in the future attending a private non-sectarian, non-profit school would be eligible for a state money grant in exactly the same manner as children of court-desegregated McDonough 19 and William Frantz schools in Orleans Parish—even though there has been no judicial step toward desegregation here.

That is the case also with children in all other non-sectarian, non-profit private schools anywhere in the state — regardless of whether desegregation steps have or ever are initiated in the local areas concerned.

This blanket endorsement of all children in state financial assistance to attend private non-sectarian schools is the foundation of the state administration's hopes that the federal judiciary will hold the new Louisiana plan to be constitutional — that it is not a plan to benefit only children of desegregated schools and thus an evasion of the 1954 decision, but a program of aid to education regardless of desegregation, or of race or color.

There is, of course, discrimination against church schools, Protestant or Roman Catholic. But that discrimination is compelled by Louisiana's own state Constitution of 1921 and has nothing to do with desegregation. The state Constitution bars use of public funds in support of religious schools.

Embracement by the Governor and the Legislature of all children as eligible for annual state education grants certainly was essential from the standpoint of constitutionality, but this step also opens the way to grave future problems — which the state administration undoubtedly is weighing carefully. These include:

1. Eventually a tremendous and perhaps ever-increasing cost to the taxpayers of the state in maintaining both a statewide public school system — now costing several hundred million dollars a year, state and parish — and in supplying cash grants for all children not using that system. How many parents will grasp at the opportunity to collect up to $300 or more per year for each of their children sent to a private school regardless of desegregation conditions?

2. The possible eruption of many new private schools seeking students on the fallacious plea that this education actually is "free", or that "since the state is making the money available, why not take it?"

The matter of cost is not vital at the moment. Tuition grants for the 1300 students of the two desegregated Orleans Parish schools who may be put into private schools certainly could be handled without necessity for new state revenue — taxes. The Governor and the Legislature already have stated that there is no intent to seek new taxes now for the state grants system. But, in time, new revenue obviously will be necessary. It must not be sought in the name of segregation unless it provenly will help retain segregation.

(The schools now attended by students of the desegregated and boycotted Orleans schools apparently are neither private nor parent-operated. Of Approximately 1, 300 students at William Frantz and McDonough 19, about 500 are attending three regular St. Bernard Parish first to sixth grade schools and 197 are enrolled in a school in St. Bernard warehouse remodeled by donated labor and through contributions individually by members of the Legislature and others. This school also has been taken into the St. Bernard Parish system, operated by it and at St. Bernard expense. Apparently none of these schools come under the state grants law and all are subject to court desegregation. No facilities for kindergarten students formerly at the two Orleans schools have been provided thus far.)

The state grants may be paid from either the state's funds or from funds available — through taxes or otherwise — in local school districts and appropriated by local school authorities. The maximum is not to be above the equivalent of the present cost per educable. This cost includes not merely instruction, but such things as school bus transportation and school lunches.

As to new private schools, the state government will have to be on guard against repetition of conditions that arose from federal grants, with state administration, to GI schools after World War II and the Korean War. Some schools were formed — here in Louisiana as well as elsewhere — simply to grab "free" money with little or nothing offered in the way of education, and sometimes with pure fraud. Rigid enforcement of the requirement that private schools whose students may receive state grants must be non-profit will help here — but it will be difficult to close all loopholes.

The State Board of Education will set up qualifications and pass on each private school before its students can become eligible for state grants. But this does not mean approved rating of educational standards by various groups under which college entrance is determined.

No one can say how many parents may shun the private schools so long as segregated public schools are available, and thus materially decrease the cost of state grants. Also it is likely that, where there is no desegregation, student bodies as a whole may prefer public school education and its non-classroom activities to new private schools unable — at the start at least — to provide such activities.

New private schools will face the problem of cost of school plants and equipment, while established schools often may have to find new capital investment money. There is also the question of how many qualified teachers may be available for new or expanded private schools.

There Is But One Security

Christian Unity

Marxist Revolution Is Centrally Antagonistic To Judaic-Christian Concept Of Life

The Marxist Revolution which now affects the entire human race is centrally antagonistic to the Judaic-Christian concept of life. The prophets, apostles, the rabbis and patristic philosophers —the philosophy and thought which have gone into Judaism and Christianity over a period of 40 or 50 centuries—lead to one central doctrine, namely social justice based on love of God, that is, a being outside and beyond man, whose purpose is moral and righteous.

In this galaxy of noble souls stands the figure of Jesus whom the Christians accept as Messiah. It was over this question of the Messiah that St. Paul parted with his co-religionists, his followers in the synagogues who were Jews, holding that the Messiah had arrived in the person of Jesus; those who rejected St. Paul's doctrine held that the Messiah is still to come. But this doctrinal distinction deprived neither group of the nobility of Isaiash and Jeremiah, the loveliness of the Psalms, the grandeur of thought of Micah and Amos. The Jews moved toward the Talmud and Diaspora; the Christians through the patristic writers and the organized Church of the Council of Nicea (325 A.D.).

Christianity came upon the great Roman Empire as it was collapsing from excessive wealth, moral poverty, licentiousness and the inroads of barbarism. The universality of power having collapsed, the universality of religion took its place. In due course, the Bishop of Rome became more powerful than the Roman Emperor. In Constantinople, the Empire continued in its own Oriental characteristics and there too a Christian Church developed but it did not acknowledge the authority of the Bishop of Rome as superior to all other Christian Bishops. It established itself as independent.

Among these schismatic groups, the basic theology is unchanged, the ritual is practically identical, eccelesiastical law is fundamentally the same. There are a few theological differences such as the Roman Catholic emphasis on Mary and the ecclesiastical distinction of the celibacy of the priesthood.

In the 16th century, the Church in the West, that is the Roman Catholic Church, was further split not only by schism but by heresy. Martin Luther remained in all respects a Catholic except that he rejected the authority of Rome; Calvin, on the other hand, rejected the dogma of intercession, thus denying altogether the principal function of the Roman Catholic priesthood. In England, Henry VIII broke with Rome for political, personal and financial reasons and except for the reversion to Catholicism under Mary and the puritanical revolt of Oliver Cromwell, the Anglican Church prevailed. This is a Catholic Church which accepts the decision of the early ecumenical councils, whose Bishops trace their authority back to Roman Catholic Bishops but who reject the primacy of the Bishop of Rome. In the United States, the Anglican Church is called the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Apart from this mainstream of Christianity, many other Christian Churches have come into existence.

The Marxists battle Christianity directly. Dialectical materialism, which is the essence of the Marxist-Leninist dogma, rejects God in any form. It denies not only the existence of God but regards Christian morality as a man-made device useful to the ruling classes to exploit the ruled classes. It also rejects creation, revelation and the essence of Christianity, the Divinity of Jesus.

Thus, the difference between Marxism and Christianity becomes not only an ideological conflict but Communist parties, wherever they come into control of an area, attack the Church, despoil its buildings, oppress its priests and religious as enemies of the state.

So Christianity, not only Roman Catholic but all Christianity, faces the prospect of annihilation in many areas. Roman Catholic countries, such as Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Cuba, have already felt the Communist scourge.

Pope John XXIII faces this problem with a bravery and directness that has not always characterized the Vatican. He calls upon all Christians to form a united front. He does not demand union with Rome; he does not require subordination to himself as Pope. He calls for unity, that is the brotherhood of Christians without sacrificing independence. The response of the Archbishop of Canterbury astonished the world. He crossed over more than four centuries as though it were a day and the Bishop of Rome and the Bishop of Canterbury spoke not of the old quarrels in Christendom but of the need for a united front against materialism and evil and sin. Two noble men relinquished the bitterness of centuries for the goodness of today.

SYLVIA PORTER

Kennedy's Cabinet

Top Echelon In Administration To Be Conservative On Fiscal Matters

It may be after Christmas, or even the New Year, before President - elect John F. Kennedy completes the make-up of his Cabinet and top echelon Administrative aides, but already the handful of major appointments he has announced give evidence that he is going to be more conservative, especially on fiscal matters, than his opponents and even some of his friends believed during his campaign for the Presidency.

Even before the Los Angeles convention and the election last month, there were those comparatively close to the President-elect who privately said that if he became President, he would move somewhat to the right of the position he took in his all out drive for the nomination and election.

This does not mean, it is made clear, that he will renege on efforts to carry out many of his campaign promises generally designated as "liberal." But the appointments made thus far and hints of some to come strongly indicate that the "spend, spend, spend talk" now seems out of the picture.

Both domestic and international developments since Kennedy first openly entered the Presidential race a year ago possibly have played a part in his change of mind. The flow of dollars and gold from the United States to foreign countries is a problem which did not appear to be a serious one when Kennedy started his drive, but now is and possibly may be even more serious by the time he enters the White House.

Domestic economic conditions certainly are not bad, but they will require extremely careful and serious consideration from the standpoint of the federal government activities, in the opinion of some of Kennedy's top advisers. The threat of added inflation hangs over the head of every American unless these problems are satisfactorily handled.

Appointment to David E. Bell to be Director of the Budget gave businessmen and others fearful of a too - heavy government spending program a lift. Bell is well known for his antipathy for spending a dollar of government money that can be avoided, and is expected to be as tight with the purse-strings as possible. Bell's decisions, of course, can be overruled by the President, but it seems quite obvious that the President - elect would not have named him if he felt that he could not have confidence in the majority, at least, of the new director's recommendations.

Selection of Governor Luther Hodges of North Carolina to be Secretary of Commerce was also well received by the business and financial leaders. They know that Hodges is somewhat liberal on certain government issues, but they also know that he was an eminently successful businessman before he entered politics and is fully aware of how to meet a pay-roll, the necessity for keeping a budget balanced, and the danger of killing additional business and industrial productivity by excessive taxation.

Announcement that Governor Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, one of Kennedy's earliest supporters and a leader of his campaign, will be Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare was also a pleasant surprise to many who feared that this post would go to Governor Mennen Williams of Michigan, whose ideas on social welfare legislation are just about as far toward the liberal side of anyone of consequence in the Democratic party. Instead, Williams was given what is considered an important post from international relations — Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs — but which will have nothing to do with any legislative program dealing with domestic problems.

Only man to get a full Cabinet post thus far who might be considered, on the basis of his record, fairly well left of center is Rep. Stewart Udall of Arizona, who will become Secretary of Interior. While Udall is placed in this category by business interests who must deal with the Interior Department, such as private power, oil, natural gas and coal, his record being brief six years in the House of Representatives is not conclusive. He is devoted to Kennedy and certainly will follow the general line of the Administration on all major questions, at least.

DEAR SANTA

OUR little houses down the street . . . Are filled with Christmas cheer . . . I know because in each of them . . . I often children hear . . . They echo with the laughter of . . . Two kids and sometimes three . . . But in our home, as well you know . . . There only is just me . . . Now, Santa dear, I do not want . . . To issue a complaint . . . But don't you think to be alone . . . Is just a wee bit quaint? . . . I'm certain that you also feel . . . It isn't really right . . . To have to trundle off to bed . . . And sleep alone each night . . . So I must send this note to you . . . And file a small request . . . That you bring me a girl or boy . . . Whichever you think best.

Views Of Our Readers

Foreign Element

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I wish to call attention to your editorial of December 4, 1960 in which you denigrate large numbers of citizens of this country both by your use of the term "foreign element" and by your assumption that this group is irresponsible and illiterate.

These attitudes are not only insulting to many but in fact are un-American as they are at complete variance with American law and tradition. Your editorials refer frequently to constitutional government. Need I remind you that the constitution of this country recognizes only one type of citizen. The paths to citizenship vary, but once obtained the only applicable tests are ones of behaviour.

American tradition and history have again and again demonstrated that a citizen of short residence in this country is in no way less "American" or more irresponsible than one of long residence. In fact the greatness of our country is in no small measure due to our former liberal immigration policies.

In regard to your bland assumption of big city illiteracy it sould be noted that in New York City, for one, literacy in English proven by a grade school diploma is a requirement for voting. Literacy in a foreign language is not sufficient.

It is a poor and unjustified policy to call "foreign," "irresponsible and illiterate" citizens whose irresponsibility appears to have been successfully disagreeing with your political choice in our recent presidential election.

ALAN GOODMAN, M.D.

Shivers Spirit

GIRARD, La.

To the Editor:

In Mr. Lipp's reply, of Nov. 27th, Sunday paper, Morning World, concerning a letter of the Sunday before, by Alan Shivers you say that it is below the dignity of Congressman Passman to respond to such a letter. Ordinarily, I would hesitate to challenge you, for the same reason but a better provocation. With hopes of provoking the element of thought that should be considered by any one entering the field of conferring personal praises, would be to make an honest, evaluation of his ability to impartially perform such function.

So, if the congressman has conferred upon you, to do the undignified duties of his office, I am afraid you have done him more harm than good. The question here for the public is not what I say, or you say, Shivers says, or how much dignity there is involved.

Your attack on the man, Shivers, personally, has no merit the issue he tried to establish his letter.

In this life and death struggle for the preservation of the sacred things this once great nation was founded on, is the issue of the day. Our congress, and congressmen, regardless what their names are, should be criticized. It is the fault of congress as the sole origin of the administration, of all the affairs in connection with their offices, in which they are sworn to represent the people. Some of them have fewer faults than others. But my friend they all have them.

Your letter to the extent of trying to silence the thoughts of an individual, that perhaps is the unexpressed thoughts of millions, at this very moment, when we are being sold down the river, (excuse the crude exp.) does not indicate your interest in anything, reflected in Shivers' letter. Were it not for the fair minded newspaper editors, (scared as they are) we would have no hopes at all.

It takes exposure, to acquire the envied position of befitting character, that properly embraces, the terms of dignity.

I don't know a more noble expression, than that of an humble person, with courage, to speak his sentiments based on knowledge from facts through diligent, and intellectual observations.

May heaven forbid the regimentation of the American people further in to the channels of conspired planning, of a national or international regime.

State Income Tax

Questions And Answers Regarding Louisiana's New Withholding Law

(Part 1 — Continued Tomorrow)

Q. Can you tell us generally what the new income tax withholding law is?

A. The income tax withholding law is not a new or additional tax but rather an installment method of paying the individual income tax ordinarily due. The law is designed to be as nearly like the Federal withholding law as possible under the existing Louisiana Income Tax Law. Employers are required to deduct and withhold from each employee's earning each payroll period an amount which, when multiplied by the number of similar payroll periods in a year will approximate the annual income tax of the employee.

Q. When will withholding begin?

A. Withholding will be required from all wages paid by the employers on or after January 1, 1961.

Q. At what rate is the tax withheld?

A. At 1.5 per cent of that portion of the employeee's wages for the payroll period which exceed the sum of the employee's withholding exemption and credits for the same payroll period.

Q. What are "withholding exemptions" and "withholding credit?"

A. These are annual amounts which the employee is permitted to earn before any tax is withheld. The withholding exemption for the taxpayer and for his spouse (provided the spouse does not claim her exemption in connection with her employment) is $3,300.00 each. The withholding credit is $400.00 for each person (other than his spouse) supported by the taxpayer who meets the definition of a "dependent" prescribed by the Louisiana Income Tax Law. These annual amounts are divided over the year according to employee's payroll period.

Q. You mentioned how the amount withheld is calculated. Is that the only method of determining the amount to be withheld by the employer?

A. No. As an alternative to the method previously described, the law also permits the employer to use wage - bracket tables which consider the employee's payroll period, the number of exemptions and credits, and the wages earned.

Q. How does the employer know the number of withholding exemptions and credits that each of his employees have?

A. Each employee is required to fill out a Withholding Exemption Certificate and give it to his employer. This certificate shows the number of withholding exemptions and credits that the employee declares he is entitled to claim. The employee is required to keep this certificate current and to furnish a new withholding exemption certificate to his employer when changes in his status pertaining to exemption and credits occur.

Q. Can the employer use the Federal exeption certificates which he now has without securing Louisiana exemption certificates from each employee?

A. The employer and employee may agree to use the Federal certificates as to the basis of the Louisiana withholding without securing Louisiana certificates. In such cases the employer must assume the responsibility for determining the employee's correct status under the Louisiana law and adjust any exemption, such as the one for employees who are 65 years of age or over, not applicable for Louisiana Income Tax purposes.

Q. What effect will withholding have upon the requirement that an income tax return be filed by the employee assuming, of course, that his income is sufficient to meet the filing requirements?

A. None. The employee will continue to be liable for filing his individual return as he has in the past. He will include in the return the wages (and any other income received during the year) and after claiming his deductions, calculate the tax due. From this tax he will deduct the tax, if any, withheld by his employer and any balance remaining must be paid when his return is filed. If the tax has been overpaid, a refund or credit for the amount of the overpayment will be made to the employee.

Q. To whom is the tax withheld or required to be withheld payable?

A. The tax is payable to the Collector of Revenue, Department of Revenue, Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Q. When does the employer have to pay the tax withheld to the Collector?

A. The amount withheld by the employer must be paid to the Collector each quarter. The employer is required to file a quarterly return and pay the tax withheld or required to be withheld by the end of the month following the close of the calendar quarter. The quarterly return for the period January 1, 1961 through March 31, 1961, for example, must be filed on or before April 30, 1961.

Q. Does the law permit an employer any form of compensation for the collection of the tax?

A. The law permits employers other than the Federal or State governments or any branch or agency of either to deduct from the tax and retain 3 per cent of the tax collected as compensation provided that the return is not delinquent when filed.

Q. Is there any request that depository be used?

A. No. The tax withheld during the quarter is paid to the Collector with the quarterly return.

The State Education Grants

In making cash educational grants up to more than $300 a year available for every child attending a Louisiana private nonprofit and non-sectarian school—now or in the future—Governor Davis and the Legislature have taken a sincere, conscientious and bold step toward trying to provide non-integrated education for children of the rank and file of Louisiana's families. They have sought especially to avoid these two pitfalls:

1. The financial obstacles in sudden creation of private schools operating solely on private contributions, as in Prince Edward County, Virginia, where the second year of such operation is running into rough financial trouble.

2. The "unconstitutionality"—as already set down by the Supreme Court—of any participation, financially or otherwise, directly or indirectly, by the state in operation of a segregated school established to—in the Court's eyes—"deprive" Negro children of their "right" under the original 1954 ruling against compulsory segregation. This, and the Court's prohibition against closing an individual school that is desegregated, collasped the Little Rock private school effort in 1958.

The new Louisiana law seeks to avoid established Supreme Court prohibitions by making "every child residing in this state"—the law's own phraseology — eligible for tuition grants. It is not necessary for a child to be or have been in a school ordered desegregated. Every child now—and as long as the law is effective—is eligible if attending a private, non-profit, and non-sectarian school.

Applied locally, this would mean that every student in the future attending a private non-sectarian, non-profit school would be eligible for a state money grant in exactly the same manner as children of court-desegregated McDonough 19 and William Frantz schools in Orleans Parish—even though there has been no judicial step toward desegregation here.

That is the case also with children in all other non-sectarian, nonprofit private schools anywhere in the state — regardless of whether desegregation steps have or ever are initiated in the local areas concerned.

This blanket endorsement of all children in state financial assistance to attend private nonsectarian schools is the foundation of the state administration's hopes that the federal judiciary will hold the new Louisiana plan to be constitutional — that it is not a plan to benefit only children of desegregated schools and thus an evasion of the 1954 decision, but a program of aid to education regardless of desegregation, or of race or color.

There is, of course, discrimination against church schools, Protestant or Roman Catholic. But that discrimination is compelled by Louisiana's own state Constitution of 1921 and has nothing to do with desegregation. The state Constitution bars use of public funds in support of religious schools.

Embracement by the Governor and the Legislature of all children as eligible for annual state education grants certainly was essential from the standpoint of constitutionality, but this step also opens the way to grave future problems — which the state administration undoubtedly is weighing carefully. These include:

1. Eventually a tremendous and perhaps ever-increasing cost to the taxpayers of the state in maintaining both a statewide public school system — now costing several hundred million dollars a year, state and parish — and in supplying cash grants for all children not using that system. How many parents will grasp at the opportunity to collect up to $300 or more per year for each of their children sent to a private school regardless of desegregation conditions?

2. The possible eruption of many new private schools seeking students on the fallacious plea that this education actually is "free", or that "since the state is making the money available, why not take it?"

The matter of cost is not vital at the moment. Tuition grants for the 1300 students of the two desegregated Orleans Parish schools who may be put into private schools certainly could be handled without necessity for new state revenue — taxes. The Governor and the Legislature already have stated that there is no intent to seek new taxes now for the state grants system. But, in time, new revenue obviously will be necessary. It must not be sought in the name of segregation unless it provenly will help retain segregation.

(The schools now attended by students of the desegregated and boycotted Orleans schools apparently are neither private nor parent-operated. Of Approximately 1, 300 students at William Frantz and McDonough 19, about 500 are attending three regular St. Bernard Parish first to sixth grade schools and 197 are enrolled in a school in St. Bernard warehouse remodeled by donated labor and through contributions individually by members of the Legislature and others. This school also has been taken into the St. Bernard Parish system, operated by it and at St. Bernard expense. Apparently none of these schools come under the state grants law and all are subject to court desegregation. No facilities for kindergarten students formerly at the two Orleans schools have been provided thus far.)

The state grants may be paid from either the state's funds or from funds available — through taxes or otherwise — in local school districts and appropriated by local school authorities. The maximum is not to be above the equivalent of the present cost per educable. This cost includes not merely instruction, but such things as school bus transportation and school lunches.

As to new private schools, the state government will have to be on guard against repetition of conditions that arose from federal grants, with state administration, to GI schools after World War II and the Korean War. Some schools were formed — here in Louisiana as well as elsewhere — simply to grab "free" money with little or nothing offered in the way of education, and sometimes with pure fraud. Rigid enforcement of the requirement that private schools whose students may receive state grants must be non-profit will help here — but it will be difficult to close all loopholes.

The State Board of Education will set up qualifications and pass on each private school before its students can become eligible for state grants. But this does not mean approved rating of educational standards by various groups under which college entrance is determined.

No one can say how many parents may shun the private schools so long as segregated public schools are available, and thus materially decrease the cost of state grants. Also it is likely that, where there is no desegregation, student bodies as a whole may prefer public school education and its non-classroom activities to new private schools unable — at the start at least — to provide such activities.

New private schools will face the problem of cost of school plants and equipment, while established schools often may have to find new capital investment money. There is also the question of how many qualified teachers may be available for new or expanded private schools.

There Is But One Security

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

Christian Unity

Marxist Revolution Is Centrally Antagonistic To Judaic-Christian Concept Of Life

The Marxist Revolution which now affects the entire human race is centrally antagonistic to the Judaic-Christian concept of life. The prophets, apostles, the rabbis and patristic philosophers —the philosophy and thought which have gone into Judaism and Christianity over a period of 40 or 50 centuries—lead to one central doctrine, namely social justice based on love of God, that is, a being outside and beyond man, whose purpose is moral and righteous.

In this galaxy of noble souls stands the figure of Jesus whom the Christians accept as Messiah. It was over this question of the Messiah that St. Paul parted with his co-religionists, his followers in the synagogues who were Jews, holding that the Messiah had arrived in the person of Jesus; those who rejected St. Paul's doctrine held that the Messiah is still to come. But this doctrinal distinction deprived neither group of the nobility of Isaiash and Jeremiah, the loveliness of the Psalms, the grandeur of thought of Micah and Amos. The Jews moved toward the Talmud and Diaspora; the Christians through the patristic writers and the organized Church of the Council of Nicea (325 A.D.).

Christianity came upon the great Roman Empire as it was collapsing from excessive wealth, moral poverty, licentiousness and the inroads of barbarism. The universality of power having collapsed, the universality of religion took its place. In due course, the Bishop of Rome became more powerful than the Roman Emperor. In Constantinople, the Empire continued in its own Oriental characteristics and there too a Christian Church developed but it did not acknowledge the authority of the Bishop of Rome as superior to all other Christian Bishops. It established itself as independent.

Among these schismatic groups, the basic theology is unchanged, the ritual is practically identical, eccelesiastical law is fundamentally the same. There are a few theological differences such as the Roman Catholic emphasis on Mary and the ecclesiastical distinction of the celibacy of the priesthood.

In the 16th century, the Church in the West, that is the Roman Catholic Church, was further split not only by schism but by heresy. Martin Luther remained in all respects a Catholic except that he rejected the authority of Rome; Calvin, on the other hand, rejected the dogma of intercession, thus denying altogether the principal function of the Roman Catholic priesthood. In England, Henry VIII broke with Rome for political, personal and financial reasons and except for the reversion to Catholicism under Mary and the puritanical revolt of Oliver Cromwell, the Anglican Church prevailed. This is a Catholic Church which accepts the decision of the early ecumenical councils, whose Bishops trace their authority back to Roman Catholic Bishops but who reject the primacy of the Bishop of Rome. In the United States, the Anglican Church is called the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Apart from this mainstream of Christianity, many other Christian Churches have come into existence.

The Marxists battle Christianity directly. Dialectical materialism, which is the essence of the Marxist-Leninist dogma, rejects God in any form. It denies not only the existence of God but regards Christian morality as a man-made device useful to the ruling classes to exploit the ruled classes. It also rejects creation, revelation and the essence of Christianity, the Divinity of Jesus.

Thus, the difference between Marxism and Christianity becomes not only an ideological conflict but Communist parties, wherever they come into control of an area, attack the Church, despoil its buildings, oppress its priests and religious as enemies of the state.

So Christianity, not only Roman Catholic but all Christianity, faces the prospect of annihilation in many areas. Roman Catholic countries, such as Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Cuba, have already felt the Communist scourge.

Pope John XXIII faces this problem with a bravery and directness that has not always characterized the Vatican. He calls upon all Christians to form a united front. He does not demand union with Rome; he does not require subordination to himself as Pope. He calls for unity, that is the brotherhood of Christians without sacrificing independence. The response of the Archbishop of Canterbury astonished the world. He crossed over more than four centuries as though it were a day and the Bishop of Rome and the Bishop of Canterbury spoke not of the old quarrels in Christendom but of the need for a united front against materialism and evil and sin. Two noble men relinquished the bitterness of centuries for the goodness of today.

SYLVIA PORTER

Kennedy's Cabinet

Top Echelon In Administration To Be Conservative On Fiscal Matters

It may be after Christmas, or even the New Year, before President - elect John F. Kennedy completes the make-up of his Cabinet and top echelon Administrative aides, but already the handful of major appointments he has announced give evidence that he is going to be more conservative, especially on fiscal matters, than his opponents and even some of his friends believed during his campaign for the Presidency.

Even before the Los Angeles convention and the election last month, there were those comparatively close to the President-elect who privately said that if he became President, he would move somewhat to the right of the position he took in his all out drive for the nomination and election.

This does not mean, it is made clear, that he will renege on efforts to carry out many of his campaign promises generally designated as "liberal." But the appointments made thus far and hints of some to come strongly indicate that the "spend, spend, spend talk" now seems out of the picture.

Both domestic and international developments since Kennedy first openly entered the Presidential race a year ago possibly have played a part in his change of mind. The flow of dollars and gold from the United States to foreign countries is a problem which did not appear to be a serious one when Kennedy started his drive, but now is and possibly may be even more serious by the time he enters the White House.

Domestic economic conditions certainly are not bad, but they will require extremely careful and serious consideration from the standpoint of the federal government activities, in the opinion of some of Kennedy's top advisers. The threat of added inflation hangs over the head of every American unless these problems are satisfactorily handled.

Appointment to David E. Bell to be Director of the Budget gave businessmen and others fearful of a too - heavy government spending program a lift. Bell is well known for his antipathy for spending a dollar of government money that can be avoided, and is expected to be as tight with the purse-strings as possible. Bell's decisions, of course, can be overruled by the President, but it seems quite obvious that the President - elect would not have named him if he felt that he could not have confidence in the majority, at least, of the new director's recommendations.

Selection of Governor Luther Hodges of North Carolina to be Secretary of Commerce was also well received by the business and financial leaders. They know that Hodges is somewhat liberal on certain government issues, but they also know that he was an eminently successful businessman before he entered politics and is fully aware of how to meet a pay-roll, the necessity for keeping a budget balanced, and the danger of killing additional business and industrial productivity by excessive taxation.

Announcement that Governor Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut, one of Kennedy's earliest supporters and a leader of his campaign, will be Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare was also a pleasant surprise to many who feared that this post would go to Governor Mennen Williams of Michigan, whose ideas on social welfare legislation are just about as far toward the liberal side of anyone of consequence in the Democratic party. Instead, Williams was given what is considered an important post from international relations — Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs — but which will have nothing to do with any legislative program dealing with domestic problems.

Only man to get a full Cabinet post thus far who might be considered, on the basis of his record, fairly well left of center is Rep. Stewart Udall of Arizona, who will become Secretary of Interior. While Udall is placed in this category by business interests who must deal with the Interior Department, such as private power, oil, natural gas and coal, his record being brief six years in the House of Representatives is not conclusive. He is devoted to Kennedy and certainly will follow the general line of the Administration on all major questions, at least.

Foreign Element

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I wish to call attention to your editorial of December 4, 1960 in which you denigrate large numbers of citizens of this country both by your use of the term "foreign element" and by your assumption that this group is irresponsible and illiterate.

These attitudes are not only insulting to many but in fact are un-American as they are at complete variance with American law and tradition. Your editorials refer frequently to constitutional government. Need I remind you that the constitution of this country recognizes only one type of citizen. The paths to citizenship vary, but once obtained the only applicable tests are ones of behaviour.

American tradition and history have again and again demonstrated that a citizen of short residence in this country is in no way less "American" or more irresponsible than one of long residence. In fact the greatness of our country is in no small measure due to our former liberal immigration policies.

In regard to your bland assumption of big city illiteracy it sould be noted that in New York City, for one, literacy in English proven by a grade school diploma is a requirement for voting. Literacy in a foreign language is not sufficient.

It is a poor and unjustified policy to call "foreign," "irresponsible and illiterate" citizens whose irresponsibility appears to have been successfully disagreeing with your political choice in our recent presidential election.

ALAN GOODMAN, M.D.

Shivers Spirit

GIRARD, La.

To the Editor:

In Mr. Lipp's reply, of Nov. 27th, Sunday paper, Morning World, concerning a letter of the Sunday before, by Alan Shivers you say that it is below the dignity of Congressman Passman to respond to such a letter. Ordinarily, I would hesitate to challenge you, for the same reason but a better provocation. With hopes of provoking the element of thought that should be considered by any one entering the field of conferring personal praises, would be to make an honest, evaluation of his ability to impartially perform such function.

So, if the congressman has conferred upon you, to do the undignified duties of his office, I am afraid you have done him more harm than good. The question here for the public is not what I say, or you say, Shivers says, or how much dignity there is involved.

Your attack on the man, Shivers, personally, has no merit to the issue he tried to establish in his letter.

In this life and death struggle for the preservation of the sacred things this once great nation was founded on, is the issue of the day. Our congress, and congressmen, regardless what their names are, should be criticized. It is the fault of congress as the sole origin of the administration, of all the affairs in connection with their offices, in which they are sworn to represent the people. Some of them have fewer faults than others. But my friend they all have them.

Your letter to the extent of trying to silence the thoughts of an individual, that perhaps is the unexpressed thoughts of millions, at this very moment, when we are being sold down the river, (excuse the crude exp.) does not indicate your interest in anything, reflected in Shivers' letter. Were it not for the fair minded newspaper editors, (scared as they are) we would have no hopes at all.

It takes exposure, to acquire the envied position of befitting character, that properly embraces, the terms of dignity.

I don't know a more noble expression, than that of an humble person, with courage, to speak his sentiments based on knowledge from facts through diligent, and intellectual observations.

May heaven forbid the regimentation of the American people further in to the channels of conspired planning, of a national or international regime.

State Income Tax

Questions And Answers Regarding Louisiana's New Withholding Law

(Part 1 — Continued Tomorrow)

Q. Can you tell us generally what the new income tax withholding law is?

A. The income tax withholding law is not a new or additional tax but rather an installment method of paying the individual income tax ordinarily due. The law is designed to be as nearly like the Federal withholding law as possible under the existing Louisiana Income Tax Law. Employers are required to deduct and withhold from each employee's earning each payroll period an amount which, when multiplied by the number of similar payroll periods in a year will approximate the annual income tax of the employee.

Q. When will withholding begin?

A. Withholding will be required from all wages paid by the employers on or after January 1, 1961.

Q. At what rate is the tax withheld?

A. At 1.5 per cent of that portion of the employeee's wages for the payroll period which exceed the sum of the employee's withholding exemption and credits for the same payroll period.

Q. What are "withholding exemptions" and "withholding credit?"

A. These are annual amounts which the employee is permitted to earn before any tax is withheld. The withholding exemption for the taxpayer and for his spouse (provided the spouse does not claim her exemption in connection with her employment) is $3,300.00 each. The withholding credit is $400.00 for each person (other than his spouse) supported by the taxpayer who meets the definition of a "dependent" prescribed by the Louisiana Income Tax Law. These annual amounts are divided over the year according to employee's payroll period.

Q. You mentioned how the amount withheld is calculated. Is that the only method of determining the amount to be withheld by the employer?

A. No. As an alternative to the method previously described, the law also permits the employer to use wage - bracket tables which consider the employee's payroll period, the number of exemptions and credits, and the wages earned.

Q. How does the employer know the number of withholding exemptions and credits that each of his employees have?

A. Each employee is required to fill out a Withholding Exemption Certificate and give it to his employer. This certificate shows the number of withholding exemptions and credits that the employee declares he is entitled to claim. The employee is required to keep this certificate current and to furnish a new withholding exemption certificate to his employer when changes in his status pertaining to exemption and credits occur.

Q. Can the employer use the Federal exeption certificates which he now has without securing Louisiana exemption certificates from each employee?

A. The employer and employee may agree to use the Federal certificates as to the basis of the Louisiana withholding without securing Louisiana certificates. In such cases the employer must assume the responsibility for determining the employee's correct status under the Louisiana law and adjust any exemption, such as the one for employees who are 65 years of age or over, not applicable for Louisiana Income Tax purposes.

Q. What effect will withholding have upon the requirement that an income tax return be filed by the employee assuming, of course, that his income is sufficient to meet the filing requirements?

A. None. The employee will continue to be liable for filing his individual return as he has in the past. He will include in the return the wages (and any other income received during the year) and after claiming his deductions, calculate the tax due. From this tax he will deduct the tax, if any, withheld by his employer and any balance remaining must be paid when his return is filed. If the tax has been overpaid, a refund or credit for the amount of the overpayment will be made to the employee.

Q. To whom is the tax withheld or required to be withheld payable?

A. The tax is payable to the Collector of Revenue, Department of Revenue, Baton Rouge, Louisiana.

Q. When does the employer have to pay the tax withheld to the Collector?

A. The amount withheld by the employer must be paid to the Collector each quarter. The employer is required to file a quarterly return and pay the tax withheld or required to be withheld by the end of the month following the close of the calendar quarter. The quarterly return for the period January 1, 1961 through March 31, 1961, for example, must be filed on or before April 30, 1961.

Q. Does the law permit an employer any form of compensation for the collection of the tax?

A. The law permits employers other than the Federal or State governments or any branch or agency of either to deduct from the tax and retain 3 per cent of the tax collected as compensation provided that the return is not delinquent when filed.

Q. Is there any request that a depository be used?

A. No. The tax withheld during the quarter is paid to the Collector with the quarterly return.

When He Has To Give Up

Retired Pilot Like Clipped Wing Eagle

By CHARLES STAFFORD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

An airline pilot in retirement is like an eagle with clipped wings. He no longer flies, nor is he content to walk. He's restless.

"I go fishing for striped bass and I go deer hunting, but you can't fish and hunt all the time. I'm going to have to figure out something to do," says S. E. Robbins of Palo Alto, Calif., two years in retirement after 40 years of flying.

"I never knew anything but flying. It was sheer pleasure for me and I was well paid. When you start looking around no one wants a guy over 60."

There are few guidelines for men like Robbins.

With an average age of 38 among the 19,000 airline pilots in the United States, fewer than 75 have landed in the placid life of retirement.

A check with 30 typical retired airmen across the nation gives this picture:

Three are still flying, but none has gone flying off into the Alaska bush. None is flying contraband to revolutionaries in South America. Life has grown too comfortable for such escapades.

A dozen have gone into new enterprises: as aviation consultants, service station operators, cattle and cotton farmers, real estate salesmen and managers, motel and dude ranch proprietors.

Traveling

The rest are traveling, fishing, hunting, doing woodwork in the basement or restoring old cars in the garage, building midget racers and playing golf. Several, like Robbins, are looking for something to do.

Many are bitter.

Last year, the Federal Aviation Agency set a mandatory retirement age of 60 for airline pilots. The order, effective March 15, pushed many pilots—the estimates range from 40 to 60—into retirement who had expected to be flying until they were 65.

There never has been proof that pilot age was a factor in an airline accident, said E. R. Quesada, the FAA administrator. But, he added, "The regulation is based on medical facts that clearly establish that sudden incapacitation due primarily to heart attack and strokes becomes significantly more frequent in any group reaching age 60."

C. N. Sayen, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, which has 17,000 members, contends that "existing regulations already provide compulsory retirement for a pilot who cannot meet current standards, whether this occurs at 20, 30, 45, 60, or 65."

But Quesada's ruling was upheld in federal court.

It hit the older pilots in the pocketbook. They are retired, but not eligible for social security until 65. The pension plans, which about two-thirds of the airlines now provide, are too immature to provide much income. The first was negotiated in 1955.

Some airlines have increased the pension payments in recognition of the pilot's long service. And many of the men have income from investments. But it's a big plunge from $25,000 to $5,000 a year.

L. S. (Deke) De Long of St. Paul Park, Minn., admits he has enough to live on but, "I've got a champagne appetite with a beer income."

Quesada is not popular among the retired pilots. "Some of us spend our entire time trying to get Quesada out," says Ralph K. Smith of Miami.

"I'm not bitter about being forced to retire," says Walter Bullock, 61, of Lakeville, Minn. "But I do object to the way it was handled. Giving you 90 days notice is practically firing you on the spot."

Bullock, a hard - muscled crewcut man is one of the few retired pilots still flying.

He has a landing strip on his 70-acre farm, and a light plane. He flies occasionally for an oil company.

"I'm not suffering any," he said. "I just want to stay around planes."

Capts. Byron (Dinty) Moore and Joe B. Glass are back flying. They were selling real estate on the West Coast when Varig airlines beckoned.

Airlines

The Brazilian airline was switching over to jets on its New York-Rio de Janeiro run and was short on jet pilots. It hired Moore and Glass on short-term contracts.

"We are the oldest jet pilots in the world," says Moore, author of the book "The First Five Million Miles." "I guess Joe and I are just gypsies. We can't stay down in any one place for long."

Moore and Glass are dead set against the FAA ruling.

"Few pilots over 55 years of age are able to maintain their jobs," says Moore. "But Joe and I have been able to do it. We take three physicals a year and often go through proficiency tests."

"I miss flying, but that's all I can do about it," says M. T. Benedict, who divides his time between New Orleans and Green Mountain Falls, Colo. "It's hard to sit still. I bought a jeep to get up on the high plateaus. I like to explore the mountains. I can't fly up there, but I can go up in the jeep."

Others simply break away from flying. But it isn't easy, even when plans have been made long before hand.

V. J. Miller bought 66 acres of ranchland at Grapevine, Tex., near Dallas, several years ago. Recently he retired.

"It's just a beautiful place," he says. "I used to think how wonderful it would be to be out here on the ranch all the time. But that was when I was flying and it was nice to get away from it all for a day or two. When I came out here after I left the airlines it was a shock. I missed the people and couldn't adjust to being inactive.

Miller is adjusting now. He plans to sell all but 25 acres of land. Then he's going to buy a few head of cattle to give him something to do.

Jobs and hobbies seem to be the diversions of most of the retired pilots.

Charles W. Carneal of Warrenton, Va., pilots a tractor over his 110-acre beef cattle farm. James G. Ingram and John D. Ted Lewis are partners in a golf driving range at Colma, Calif.

After mowing the lawn up and down and cross-wise, Brig. Gen. H. P. Little of Los Altos, Calif., who retired from the airlines and the Air Force Reserve at the same time, got a license to sell real estate. "What I miss most in retirement is the contact with people. I'm looking forward in real estate to having contact with people again in a useful way."

The bull sessions and camaraderie of the pilots was what G. T. Weaver of Van Nuys, Calif., missed. But then he began building quarter midget racing cars for his grandson, Teddy La Comette, 9. Weaver says he has found a substitute for the old camaraderie among the dads and granddads of the quarter-midgets crowd.

But even those who have adjusted to retirement agree almost to a man with Frederick B. Cann of Miami, who says: "I don't think there's anything quite like flying."

These men were pioneers of the air age. They got into flying in the first and second decades after the Wright brothers got aviation off the ground. As kids they sandbagged balloons. As youths they enlisted and flew in France.

As young men they barnstormed around the country. They flew the mail in open cockpit planes when tempratures dropped to 40 below. They flew payrolls to the oil fields in Mexico, landing with their planes full of holes from bandits' bullets.

They flew them all, from Jennys to jets.

"One day I was a pauper," says Deke De Long, "and the next day a millionaire."

But as the aviation industry became more stable, the adventurous spirits calmed down. The older pilots became senior pilots, flying the best runs and earning $25,000 to $30,000 a year.

Finally they retired. And they are pioneering again.

For the next four years, the number of pilots retiring will remain low, running 25 or less a year. Then the number will climb rapidly.

But by then the route into retirement should be well charted.

Revealing Picture About Communist China

Editor's Note—Along with freedom, Communist China seems to have abolished love, substituting a constantly fanned hatred for its enemies. In the following story, based on fresh word from a recent traveler in Red China, a correspondent who has kept close tabs on developments there presents a revealing picture.

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—A decade ago Mao Tze-tung's newly created People's Republic of China threw its Red shadow across an alarmed Asia. Today, the lengthening shadow has crept half way across the earth to the Americas.

Despite the fact that his regime has been branded an outlaw for its aggression in Korea and against Tibet, Mao's ambassadors sit in chanceries from Bagdad to New Delhi, from newly independent Guinea to Afghanistan.

He has walked into the Americas by way of Fidel Castro's Cuba, 90 miles from the U. S. mainland.

10 YEARS

And despite 10 years of bitter U. S. opposition, Mao stands at the threshold to the United Nations. The world's leaders conceded that a disarmament treaty without his assent would be little more than a scrap of paper.

In his 66th year, this round-faced, lofty-browed son of peasants has been raised by his Communist followers to the eminence of a demi-god. His words, actions and even his thoughts are holy writ for 650 million people.

One of the most powerful men on earth, much of his power is based on the most debilitating of human emotions—hatred.

The China he rules is fanned daily by hatred of a dozen different and terrifying kinds—hatred of the United States, hatred for rich landlords, for counter-revolutionaries, for Chiang Kai-shek, hatred for anyone who fails to conform.

"Hatred," said a traveler recently returned from Mao's China, "has become an institution, particularly hatred for the United States. It is horrible to see this vast human machinery run by only one fuel—hatred. If it used love, instead, it could become the most powerful nation on earth."

The catechism for the party faithful of Communia China is Mao's collected works. A fourth edition which appeared Oct. 1 has been quoted approvingly by Communist leaders in recent weeks. Unfortunately for the peace of mind of the West, the language is warlike.

"Politics," Mao said, "is war that sheds no blood while war is blood-shedding politics." In the next breath he adds, "We Communists are opposed to all kinds of unrighteous war that impedes progress (towards communism) but are not opposed to righteous wars that promote progress."

Coupled with this kind of talk, Peiping's propagandists boast of the rapid build-up of a national militia which they claim will put 30 million men under arms, and warn the United States that it will be crushed in any future war.

The image the world sees, the one Mao apparently wishes to project, is of a growing China, almost arrogantly unafraid of any enemy no matter how big.

But what is Mao's China, the human China really like?

A skilled observer who knows both people and politics made a first visit several weeks ago to the mainland.

"What struck me most," he said, "were the burned out, expressionless eyes. I have never seen so many empty eyes. When you see a million people with empty eyes——" He ended his sentence with a gesture.

Everywhere he went, he said, he found want, no actual starvation.

"In Shanghai, people were in rags. In Peiping, they had material goods, they were neatly dressed, but they were hungry, the distribution system had broken down. Drought, floods, typhoons and thunderstorms had hurt the harvest."

He found water rationed, electric power interrupted for long periods, elevators not running.

Houses were being built faster, bigger and more economically than ever before.

"They make things that look good but wash away with the first rain," said this European.

He saw no beggars, but many naked children, others in rags. Fifty per cent of those he saw on the streets suffered from trachoma or eczema.

IN COMMUNES

In the communes, he looked in vain for tractors or modern equipment. Instead, he found only the age-old plow, the water buffalo and, in one startling encounter, a massive Soviet tank being used to pull a small plow.

Over all, the commune leader and his book of meal tickets exercised discipline. No work, no ticket.

The only really happy people he observed were the Communist youth volunteers, swinging through the streets singing and shouting, or working stripped to the waist in the fields.

Everywhere else older people carried the burdens of China on their backs or over their shoulders.

The farmers, he said, were lean, without an extra ounce of flesh to spare. Their food lacked vitamins and minerals. Nowhere in his travels did he come across a single bit of fresh fruit. All of it goes for export.

In Shanghai he arrived in time for the last day of "Hate America Week," was taken aback by three million marching people. Later, at a circus, the motif was anti-U.S. imperialism. A clown lifted his top hat and out fell a model of an atom bomb. Jugglers, disguised as wolves from Wall Street, were promptly dispatched by Chinese Volunteers.

Multicolored posters portrayed President Eisenhower being bayonetted and hanged by Chinese soldiers.

The other side of the picture, this traveler reported, was of a nation that has philosophically accepted the inevitable, manages to get some happiness under the gray clouds. The idea of revolt has long ago been brainwashed away.

He saw no violence, no major incidents. Everywhere there was an extraordinary display of honesty. Money mislaid was always returned.

But one of the saddest facts of Mao's China, he said, was the disappearance of love, love of all kinds, for wife, family or even family pets. "Love has been sanitarily abolished," he said. "There is no time for such nonsense. Nowhere did I see a single bird or pet. But also, there were no flies."

CONTROVERSIAL

BOSCAWEN, N.H. (AP) — The state of New Hampshire this Tuesday will release a controversial figure after a year's imprisonment. He is Dr. Willard Uphaus, 70, a pacifist and former Methodist lay preacher.

Dr. Uphaus plans to go to New York to share a speaking platform Thursday with Dr. Linus Pauling, a Nobel prize-winning scientist who has refused to tell a U.S. Senate subcommittee the names of persons who helped him collect signatures for a petition against nuclear tests.

Uphaus landed in jail because he too rejected an official demand for names.

His case, which has attracted national interest, began in 1954 when New Hampshire Atty. Gen. Louis C. Wyman asked Uphaus for a guest list of the World Fellowship summer conference camp in Conway, N.H. Uphaus was, and still is, executive director of the nonsectarian World Fellowship, which says it sponsors vacation meetings and forums designed to "help solve the problems of war, hunger, disease, poverty and bigotry."

Declaring he had "reliable information" that some of the camp guests were Communists, Wyman said he needed their names for use in a state Red probe he was ordered to conduct by the New Hampshire Legislature.

Uphaus, formerly from New Haven, Conn., said his conscience and religious convictions would not allow him to become an "informer."

The attorney general launched a contempt action and the case dragged through the courts for years. By one-vote margins, the New Hampshire Supreme Court and then the U.S. Supreme Court turned down Uphaus' appeals from a contempt of court conviction.

Finally, last Dec. 14, he was arraigned in Merrimack County Superior Court at Concord and given his last chance to avoid a jail term by supplying the information.

"I stand upon loyalty to God, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and my Christian conscience," Uphaus said as he refused. He was sentenced to a year's imprisonment by Judge George R. Grant Jr. An hour later the one-time Muncie, Ind., farm boy was behind bars at the county jail in Boscawen.

His jailing touched off a series of protest marches, demonstrations, prayer meetings, all-night vigils outside the jail. His supporters picketed the State House and bombarded the attorney-general, the judge, the governor and the state's newspapers with telegrams letters and petitions asking for leniency.

Wyman, a former president of the National Association of Attorneys General, said Uphaus' claims of concience are "as phony as a three dollar bill."

Describing Uphaus' imprisonment as "a case of self-manufactured martyrdom," the attorney gemeral said "he didn't have to stay in jail five minutes. He could have provided the names or invoked the Fifth Amendment and gone home. But he didn't want to."

The Uphaus jailing has been a conversational topic in New Hampshire. He has his defenders—and his critics.

His case is "a hangover from the McCarthy years," said Rev. Bradford Young, rector of Grace Episcopal church in Manchester. He said Uphaus took a conscientious stand which was not unreasonable.

But the official board of the Bow Mills Methodist church said "we stand solidly and unanimously behind the forces of law and order as administered by the duly organized and constituted courts of our land, and as interpreted by our attorney general."

Uphaus is thin, short, silver-haired and wears glasses. He looks curiously out of place in his faded blue jail clothes. He's quiet —"Dr. Uphaus hasn't given us any trouble at all," says jailer Douglas Parsons.

A Sense Of Value Seems To Be Tops

A Sense of Values, by Sloan Wilson (Harper): The morals of suburbia (or lack of them) come under inspection in this new Wilson novel. It seems there was a town in Connecticut named Greenhills and a couple named Nathan and Amy Bond who lived there. They had fame and fortune and two children, but had lost their way to a meaningful life. The story opens with the Bonds about to get a divorce, and proceeds through a long flash-back as Nathan wanders through their home recalling childhood, courtship, marriage and their plunge into the world of mortgaged cock-tail-party suburbia. Then there is adultery and the discovery of a double standard in this area. Besides being entertaining the book poses some basic questions of interest to young couples who are caught up in similar problems peculiar to the commuting set.

Astronauts Story About Space Flight

The Astronauts, by Martin Caidin (Dutton): One day next year an exhaustively trained American officer will wriggle his way into the cramped confines of a capsule resembling a giant TV tube. A little more than two hours later., if all goes well, he will be in orbit at 17,000 miles an hour about 115 miles above the earth. Caidin describes the men and the hardware that are being assembled to make this pioneering flight into space possible. The man who makes the first American space flight will be one of a group of seven Air Force, Navy and Marine officers who are now in training. No one will know which of them is to make the flight until three days before takeoff. A giant Atlas IBM will boost the manned capsule into space to circle the world three times before retro-rockets check its headlong flight and drop it back into the atmosphere — and into temperatures 1,000 degrees hotter than the surface of the sun.

2nd Novel Equals Outstanding First

INCENSE TO IDOLS. By Sylvia Ashton - Warner Simon & Schuster. $3.95.

Fresh from sparkling successes on the concert stage of Paris, Germaine de Beauvais, beautiful, gay and impassioned, comes half way round the world to New Zealand to study with Leon Montigny, a teacher whose scandalous past has ruined him for a public career — just as her own scandalous behavior threatens to ruin her.

She is wilful, and abandoned. The husband who collapsed and died while he was conducting an orchestra was older than she is; and she still is attracted to older men, like Leon, who has no more scruples about an affair with her than she has herself; like wealthy Gordon Hood, whose wife is dying and on whose property, Three Trees, she lives; and like Doctor John.

But unexpectedly, and appropriately, too, we meet her first at church. So attuned to music, so sensitive to all sounds, she has been swept off her feet by the ringing voice of the pastor, Brett Guymer. To him the church is Jerusalem, and the New Zealand city, Babylon; to us, he is the holy man, and she speaks for the wicked god Baal. The city storms right up brazenly to the church's outer defenses, where the drunk Hugh Clan-William loiters on the stone steps, torn between good and evil; indeed the city forces an entrance as the woman borrows the church piano for practice — a piano, she reflects with her cynical and practical mind, is like a man for it's better to let some one else break them in and, in her words, they are easier to play after the mechanism has been loosened up.

"You are closer to God than I am," says the pastor fascinated by her naturalness, and she answers: "I'd rather be closer to Man."

At the start of last year almost all the critics were lavishing praises on Miss Ashton-Warner's first novel, "Spinsters." This second, though in different ways, deserves an equally enthusiastic reception — though it may not find so many readers. Anna Vorontosov, the earlier teacher, was a fugitive as Geramine is; each longs for love But as Anna was surrounded by venturesome, alert children, Germaine is set in a brilliant and sophisticated society. Over all hangs the menace of catastrophe and annihilation, but the real problems are personal and have to do with love and its tawdry substitutes, and with frustration and despair.

The Reverend Mr. Guymer is a mighty driving force for good. Exactly like his ethically opposite number Germaine, he acclaims the validity of passion: "Christ has a use for passion," and he adds, "So has the church a use for passion," and goes on significantly: "All kinds" — so that she must self-consciously turn her gaze from him. He is that rare character, a good man made dramatic and interesting: the ending is as rare, a death that seems happy; and the book is rare, too, a second novel good enough to match the outstanding first.

Passion is the key to this book. Miss Ashton-Warner writes at a temperature constantly above normal, so that this tingles and vibrates. It is intimate, confessional writing. The author's standards are not good and evil, but degree of intensity — and repeated quotations from Baudelaire perfectly set a mood which varies between sanctimonious, holy, decadent and depraved. Guymer laments the "tremendous burden of the unsaid" — but there is no unsaid in these stirring, revealing pages.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library are always happy when a new book by Francis Parkinson Keyes is released. This week her latest title "The Chess Players" arrived. This book has it's setting in New Orleans in the early days of the 19th century. It is a historical novel based on the life of Paul Morphy, one of the greatest chess players of all time. Mrs. Keyes is particularly good, when the settings of her stories are in New Orleans. She has done a great deal of research for this book and seems to have quite a knowledge of the game of chess. The book will be of interest to those who like Louisiana stories, to those who play chess and to those who like a good love story. Nicholas Monsarrat is one of the outstanding modern writer of sea stories. His "The Cruel Sea" will long remain a classic of sea adventure and heroism. His latest novel is called "The Nylon Pirates." It is not as good a book as his former ones, but it is still interesting. It is concerned with the adventures of a group of criminals, organized to prey upon the passengers of a large Atlantic cruise ship. The details of life at sea are good, the characters are very life - like and the book will interest many readers, although it is quite different from other things which Mr. Monsarrat has done. Mystery stories are always popular and a new title is eagerly received. The latest one is called "See Them Die." It was written by Ed McBain and has an interesting twist in the plot. "Tender and Violent Elizabeth," by Henri Troyant is a novel, written by the youngest member of the French academy. It is the story of a woman and her love affairs. We meet the young heroine on the threshold of her first love and follow her through her unhappy marriage to the foredoomed end.

The field of non - fiction has some interesting titles this week. A perfectly beautiful book of Christmas legends, poetry and ideas for Christmas decorations is "A Partridge in a Pear Tree" by Neville Baybrooke. It is a book which is useful for a specific purpose and is also lovely to look at. Another useful book is "How to Make Your Own Picture Frames" written by Harold Rogers. This is a book which many artists will welcome and use and enjoy.

A perfectly lovely book, which sheds new light on our classical heritage is "Splendour ot Greece" written by Robert Payne. In this book Mr. Payne, lovingly and carefully discusses the classical beauties of Greece. It is a book which will be useful for students of ancient history and for others who find understanding of the present in reading about the past.

This is the centennial year of the American Civil War and many beautiful books are being published in commenoration of this event. The loveliest one we have seen is "The American Heritage Picture History of the Civil War." It was published by the American Heritage magazine and the writing was done by Bruce Catton, who has written many books on this subject. The book is a large book, beautifully illustrated in color and in black and white. We are very fortunate to have three copies for the Ouachita Parish Public Library, all of which were given to us as memorial books. One copy is found in the main library, one in the Anna Meyer Branch and one in the West Monroe Library. These books will be widely used and enjoyed by people of every age, who are interested in this conflict. It has been said that the Civil War has been written about more than any war which was ever fought. This will be doubly true after the centennial year.

One of the most interesting states of the south is the state of South Carolina. It was settled by people who were proud of their heritage and who have never been afraid to say what thy believed. A perfectly beautiful history of this state has just been released. The author is William Francis Guess and the title is "South Carolina, Annals of Pride and Protest". It is a book which everyone who had forebears in that state will want to read.

On December first the book collection of the Ouachita Parish stood at 65,880 books. Each month more than 500 volumes are added to the collection. The growth is not spectacular, but it is steady. Books are the lifeblood of a library and we are doing our best to build up this collection so that it will fill every need which the public has.

RUNNING THE SCALES

Yule Music Is On Tap Most Places

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

With local choirs and choral groups over the country preparing Christmas music, touring professionals have pretty well declared a holiday season.

The Northeast State College Choir under the direction of Davis Bingham will present Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah" today at 3 p.m. at Brown Hall auditorium on the college campus.

Also on the local boards is the Little Theatre production of "The Gazebo," which opened Thursday. This is a comedy piece about a television writer who gets carried away by his own plot.

From Northeast comes the report that "South Pacific" tryouts were being held last week and that the Rogers and Hammerstein musical will probably open in February.

Following the appearance of comedian "Brother Dave" in Ruston and the ensuing writeup, there came some mail to the "scales" signature which chose to play in another key. Said the writers in brief, "Lay off the panning, I like Brother Dave."

And that's the way of the refining process called criticism. Yet the performers seek it out one way or the other. Soprano Eileen Farrell pointed to her New York reviews as the first ones which carried any wieght because the critics in the other cities where she toured felt they were trying to promote music rather than criticize.

This is a sad but true commentary on all critics — sometimes including those in New York. Too often, the field of public relations becomes enmeshed with the action in front of the footlights. A criticism is one man's opinion and it may be an educated guess or a hunch based on a practised "feel."

But even a favorable comment in a criticism has to follow a highly critical "look-listen" if it is to be of any value.

Dr. Peter Paul Fuchs, professor of music at LSU, has accepted the position of musical director and conductor of the Baton Rouge Symphony Orchestra. He succeeds the late Emil Cooper who conducted the orchestra from 1950-60.

Dr. Fuchs is a native of Vienna, Austria, and former member of the conducting staff of the Metropolitan Opera in New York. He has already launched the 15th season of the Baton Rouge orchestra with three performances, the most recent an event of last Wednesday.

Also of state interest was the report that Peter Gennaro, New Orleans, arranged the dances for the musical, "Fiorello," which played here Friday a week ago. These were top flight and generally considered the strongest phase of the successful musical.

Many concert goers here noted the long march forward from "Kiss Me Kate," of some seven years ago to "Fiorello" There are any number of factors behind this improvement but two are particularly noteworthy.

During the 1950's it finally dawned upon those forming road or "national" companies that audiences all over the country were far more critical than they realized. Companies thrown together with poor equipment, orchestras and preparation simply were not being accepted.

In addition to the greater demands from the audience, local groups found that they too could do musical comedy — often with a greater show of talent than professional producers thougght possible.

There was only one answer. The touring companies had to come up with a better product. Meantime, with "South Pacific" already mentioned as a possibility, and "Damn Yankees" on the list of Little Theatre attractions, local song - and - dance advocates show no signs of letting up.

When He Has To Give Up

Retired Pilot Like Clipped Wing Eagle

By CHARLES STAFFORD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

An airline pilot in retirement is like an eagle with clipped wings. He no longer flies, nor is he content to walk. He's restless.

"I go fishing for striped bass and I go deer hunting, but you can't fish and hunt all the time. I'm going to have to figure out something to do," says S. E. Robbins of Palo Alto, Calif., two years in retirement after 40 years of flying.

"I never knew anything but flying. It was sheer pleasure for me and I was well paid. When you start looking around no one wants a guy over 60."

There are few guidelines for men like Robbins.

With an average age of 38 among the 19,000 airline pilots in the United States, fewer than 75 have landed in the placid life of retirement.

A check with 30 typical retired airmen across the nation gives this picture:

Three are still flying, but none has gone flying off into the Alaska bush. None is flying contraband to revolutionaries in South America. Life has grown too comfortable for such escapades.

A dozen have gone into new enterprises: as aviation consultants, service station operators, cattle and cotton farmers, real estate salesmen and managers, motel and dude ranch proprietors.

Traveling

The rest are traveling, fishing, hunting, doing woodwork in the basement or restoring old cars in the garage, building midget racers and playing golf. Several, like Robbins, are looking for something to do.

Many are bitter.

Last year, the Federal Aviation Agency set a mandatory retirement age of 60 for airline pilots. The order, effective March 15, pushed many pilots—the estimates range from 40 to 60—into retirement who had expected to be flying until they were 65.

There never has been proof that pilot age was a factor in an airline accident, said E. R. Quesada, the FAA administrator. But, he added, "The regulation is based on medical facts that clearly establish that sudden incapacitation due primarily to heart attack and strokes becomes significantly more frequent in any group reaching age 60."

C. N. Sayen, president of the Air Line Pilots Association, which has 17,000 members, contends that "existing regulations already provide compulsory retirement for a pilot who cannot meet current standards, whether this occurs at 20, 30, 45, 60, or 65."

But Quesada's ruling was upheld in federal court.

It hit the older pilots in the pocketbook. They are retired, but not eligible for social security until 65. The pension plans, which about two-thirds of the airlines now provide, are too immature to provide much income. The first was negotiated in 1955.

Some airlines have increased the pension payments in recognition of the pilot's long service. And many of the men have income from investments. But it's a big plunge from $25,000 to $5,000 a year.

L. S. (Deke) De Long of St. Paul Park, Minn., admits he has enough to live on but, "I've got a champagne appetite with a beer income."

Quesada is not popular among the retired pilots. "Some of us spend our entire time trying to get Quesada out," says Ralph K. Smith of Miami.

"I'm not bitter about being forced to retire," says Walter Bullock, 61, of Lakeville, Minn. "But I do object to the way it was handled. Giving you 90 days notice is practically firing you on the spot."

Bullock, a hard - muscled crewcut man is one of the few retired pilots still flying.

He has a landing strip on his 70-acre farm, and a light plane. He flies occasionally for an oil company.

"I'm not suffering any," he said. "I just want to stay around planes."

Capts. Byron (Dinty) Moore and Joe B. Glass are back flying. They were selling real estate on the West Coast when Varig airlines beckoned.

Airlines

The Brazilian airline was switching over to jets on its New York-Rio de Janeiro run and was short on jet pilots. It hired Moore and Glass on short-term contracts.

"We are the oldest jet pilots in the world," says Moore, author of the book "The First Five Million Miles." "I guess Joe and I are just gypsies. We can't stay down in any one place for long."

Moore and Glass are dead set against the FAA ruling.

"Few pilots over 55 years of age are able to maintain their jobs," says Moore. "But Joe and I have been able to do it. We take three physicals a year and often go through proficiency tests."

"I miss flying, but that's all I can do about it," says M. T. Benedict, who divides his time between New Orleans and Green Mountain Falls, Colo. "It's hard to sit still. I bought a jeep to get up on the high plateaus. I like to explore the mountains. I can't fly up there, but I can go up in the jeep."

Others simply break away from flying. But it isn't easy, even when plans have been made long before hand.

V. J. Miller bought 66 acres of ranchland at Grapevine, Tex., near Dallas, several years ago. Recently he retired.

"It's just a beautiful place," he says. "I used to think how wonderful it would be to be out here on the ranch all the time. But that was when I was flying and it was nice to get away from it all for a day or two. When I came out here after I left the airlines it was a shock. I missed the people and couldn't adjust to being inactive.

Miller is adjusting now. He plans to sell all but 25 acres of land. Then he's going to buy a few head of cattle to give him something to do.

Jobs and hobbies seem to be the diversions of most of the retired pilots.

Charles W. Carneal of Warrenton, Va., pilots a tractor over his 110-acre beef cattle farm. James G. Ingram and John D. Ted Lewis are partners in a golf driving range at Colma, Calif.

After mowing the lawn up and down and cross-wise, Brig. Gen. H. P. Little of Los Altos, Calif., who retired from the airlines and the Air Force Reserve at the same time, got a license to sell real estate. "What I miss most in retirement is the contact with people. I'm looking forward in real estate to having contact with people again in a useful way."

The bull sessions and camaraderie of the pilots was what G. T. Weaver of Van Nuys, Calif., missed. But then he began building quarter midget racing cars for his grandson, Teddy La Comette, 9. Weaver says he has found a substitute for the old camaraderie among the dads and granddads of the quarter-midgets crowd.

But even those who have adjusted to retirement agree almost to a man with Frederick B. Cann of Miami, who says: "I don't think there's anything quite like flying."

These men were pioneers of the air age. They got into flying in the first and second decades after the Wright brothers got aviation off the ground. As kids they sandbagged balloons. As youths they enlisted and flew in France.

As young men they barnstormed around the country. They flew the mail in open cockpit planes when temperatures dropped to 40 below. They flew payrolls to the oil fields in Mexico, landing with their planes full of holes from bandits' bullets.

They flew them all, from Jennys to jets.

"One day I was a pauper," says Deke De Long, "and the next day a millionaire."

But as the aviation industry became more stable, the adventurous spirits calmed down. The older pilots became senior pilots, flying the best runs and earning $25,000 to $30,000 a year.

Finally they retired. And they are pioneering again.

For the next four years, the number of pilots retiring will remain low, running 25 or less a year. Then the number will climb rapidly.

But by then the route into retirement should be well charted.

In the following story, based on fresh word from a recent traveler in Red China, a correspondent who has kept close tabs on developments there presents a revealing picture.

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—A decade ago Mao Tze-tung's newly created People's Republic of China threw its Red shadow across an alarmed Asia. Today, the lengthening shadow has crept half way across the earth to the Americas.

Despite the fact that his regime has been branded an outlaw for its aggression in Korea and against Tibet, Mao's ambassadors sit in chanceries from Baghdad to New Delhi, from newly independent Guinea to Afghanistan.

He has walked into the Americas by way of Fidel Castro's Cuba, 90 miles from the U. S. mainland.

10 YEARS

And despite 10 years of bitter U. S. opposition, Mao stands at the threshold to the United Nations. The world's leaders conceded that a disarmament treaty without his assent would be little more than a scrap of paper.

In his 66th year, this round-faced, lofty-browed son of peasants has been raised by his Communist followers to the eminence of a demi-god. His words, actions and even his thoughts are holy writ for 650 million people.

One of the most powerful men on earth, much of his power is based on the most debilitating of human emotions—hatred.

The China he rules is fanned daily by hatred of a dozen different and terrifying kinds—hatred of the United States, hatred for rich landlords, for counter-revolutionaries, for Chiang Kai-shek, hatred for anyone who fails to conform.

"Hatred," said a traveler recently returned from Mao's China, "has become an institution, particularly hatred for the United States. It is horrible to see this vast human machinery run by only one fuel—hatred. If it used love, instead, it could become the most powerful nation on earth."

The catechism for the party faithful of Communia China is Mao's collected works. A fourth edition which appeared Oct. 1 has been quoted approvingly by Communist leaders in recent weeks. Unfortunately for the peace of mind of the West, the language is warlike.

"Politics," Mao said, "is war that sheds no blood while war is blood-shedding politics." In the next breath he adds, "We Communists are opposed to all kinds of unrighteous war that impedes progress (towards communism) but are not opposed to righteous wars that promote progress."

Coupled with this kind of talk, Peiping's propagandists boast of the rapid build-up of a national militia which they claim will put 200 million men under arms, and warn the United States that it will be crushed in any future war.

The image the world sees, the one Mao apparently wishes to project, is of a growing China, almost arrogantly unafraid of any enemy no matter how big.

But what is Mao's China, the human China really like?

A skilled observer who knows both people and politics made a first visit several weeks ago to the mainland.

"What struck me most," he said, "were the burned out, expressionless eyes. I have never seen so many empty eyes. When you see a million people with empty eyes——" He ended his sentence with a gesture.

Everywhere he went, he said, he found want, no actual starvation.

"In Shanghai, people were in rags. In Peiping, they had material goods, they were neatly dressed, but they were hungry, the distribution system had broken down. Drought, floods, typhoons and thunderstorms had hurt the harvest."

He found water rationed, electric power interrupted for long periods, elevators not running.

Houses were being built faster, bigger and more economically than ever before.

"They make things that look good but wash away with the first rain," said this European.

He saw no beggars, but many naked children, others in rags. Fifty per cent of those he saw on the streets suffered from trachoma or eczema.

IN COMMUNES

In the communes, he looked in vain for tractors or modern equipment. Instead, he found only the age-old plow, the water buffalo and, in one startling encounter, a massive Soviet tank being used to pull a small plow.

Over all, the commune leader and his book of meal tickets exercised discipline. No work, no ticket.

The only really happy people he observed were the Communist youth volunteers, swinging through the streets singing and shouting, or working stripped to the waist in the fields.

Everywhere else older people carried the burdens of China on their backs or over their shoulders.

The farmers, he said, were lean, without an extra ounce of flesh to spare. Their food lacked vitamins and minerals. Nowhere in his travels did he come across a single bit of fresh fruit. All of it goes for export.

In Shanghai he arrived in time for the last day of "Hate America Week," was taken aback by three million marching people. Later, at a circus, the motif was anti-U.S. imperialism. A clown lifted his top hat and out fell a model of an atom bomb. Jugglers, disguised as wolves from Wall Street, were promptly dispatched by Chinese Volunteers.

Multicolored posters portrayed President Eisenhower being bayonetted and hanged by Chinese soldiers.

The other side of the picture, this traveler reported, was of a nation that has philosophically accepted the inevitable, manages to get some happiness under the gray clouds. The idea of revolt has long ago been brainwashed away.

He saw no violence, no major incidents. Everywhere there was an extraordinary display of honesty. Money mislaid was always returned.

But one of the saddest facts of Mao's China, he said, was the disappearance of love, love of all kinds, for wife, family or even family pets. "Love has been sanitarily abolished," he said. "There is no time for such nonsense. Nowhere did I see a single bird or pet. But also, there were no flies."

BOSCAWEN, N.H. (AP) — The state of New Hampshire this Tuesday will release a controversial figure after a year's imprisonment. He is Dr. Willard Uphaus, 70, a pacifist and former Methodist lay preacher.

Dr. Uphaus plans to go to New York to share a speaking platform Thursday with Dr. Linus Pauling, a Nobel prize-winning scientist who has refused to tell a U.S. Senate subcommittee the names of persons who helped him collect signatures for a petition against nuclear tests.

Uphaus landed in jail because he too rejected an official demand for names.

His case, which has attracted national interest, began in 1954 when New Hampshire Atty. Gen. Louis C. Wyman asked Uphaus for a guest list of the World Fellowship summer conference camp in Conway, N.H. Uphaus was, and still is, executive director of the nonsectarian World Fellowship, which says it sponsors vacation meetings and forums designed to "help solve the problems of war, hunger, disease, poverty and bigotry."

Declaring he had "reliable information" that some of the camp guests were Communists, Wyman said he needed their names for use in a state Red probe he was ordered to conduct by the New Hampshire Legislature.

Uphaus, formerly from New Haven, Conn., said his conscience and religious convictions would not allow him to become an "informer."

The attorney general launched a contempt action and the case dragged through the courts for years. By one-vote margins, the New Hampshire Supreme Court and then the U.S. Supreme Court turned down Uphaus' appeals from a contempt of court conviction.

Finally, last Dec. 14, he was arraigned in Merrimack County Superior Court at Concord and given his last chance to avoid a jail term by supplying the information.

"I stand upon loyalty to God, the Constitution, the Bill of Rights and my Christian conscience," Uphaus said as he refused. He was sentenced to a year's imprisonment by Judge George R. Grant Jr. An hour later the one-time Muncie, Ind., farm boy was behind bars at the county jail in Boscawen.

His jailing touched off a series of protest marches, demonstrations, prayer meetings, all-night vigils outside the jail. His supporters picketed the State House and bombarded the attorney-general, the judge, the governor and the state's newspapers with telegrams letters and petitions asking for leniency.

Wyman, a former president of the National Association of Attorneys General, said Uphaus' claims of concience are "as phony as a three dollar bill."

Describing Uphaus' imprisonment as "a case of self-manufactured martyrdom," the attorney gemeral said "he didn't have to stay in jail five minutes. He could have provided the names or invoked the Fifth Amendment and gone home. But he didn't want to."

The Uphaus jailing has been a conversational topic in New Hampshire. He has his defenders—and his critics.

His case is "a hangover from the McCarthy years," said Rev. Bradford Young, rector of Grace Episcopal church in Manchester. He said Uphaus took a conscientious stand which was not unreasonable.

But the official board of the Bow Mills Methodist church said "we stand solidly and unanimously behind the forces of law and order as administered by the duly organized and constituted courts of our land, and as interpreted by our attorney general."

Uphaus is thin, short, silver-haired and wears glasses. He looks curiously out of place in his faded blue jail clothes. He's quiet —"Dr. Uphaus hasn't given us any trouble at all," says jailer Douglas Parsons.

A Sense Of Value Seems To Be Tops

A Sense of Values, by Sloan Wilson (Harper): The morals of suburbia (or lack of them) come under inspection in this new Wilson novel. It seems there was a town in Connecticut named Greenhills and a couple named Nathan and Amy Bond who lived there. They had fame and fortune and two children, but had lost their way to a meaningful life. The story opens with the Bonds about to get a divorce, and proceeds through a long flash-back as Nathan wanders through their home recalling childhood, courtship, marriage and their plunge into the world of mortgaged cock-tail-party suburbia. Then there is adultery and the discovery of a double standard in this area. Besides being entertaining the book poses some basic questions of interest to young couples who are caught up in similar problems peculiar to the commuting set.

Astronauts Story About Space Flight

The Astronauts, by Martin Caidin (Dutton): One day next year an exhaustively trained American officer will wriggle his way into the cramped confines of a capsule resembling a giant TV tube. A little more than two hours later., if all goes well, he will be in orbit at 17,000 miles an hour about 115 miles above the earth. Caidin describes the men and the hardware that are being assembled to make this pioneering flight into space possible. The man who makes the first American space flight will be one of a group of seven Air Force, Navy and Marine officers who are now in training. No one will know which of them is to make the flight until three days before takeoff. A giant Atlas IBM will boost the manned capsule into space to circle the world three times before retro-rockets check its headlong flight and drop it back into the atmosphere — and into temperatures 1,000 degrees hotter than the surface of the sun.

Guide To Good Reading

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library are always happy when a new book by Francis Parkinson Keyes is released. This week her latest title "The Chess Players" arrived. This book has it's setting in New Orleans in the early days of the 19th century. It is a historical novel based on the life of Paul Morphy, one of the greatest chess players of all time. Mrs. Keyes is particularly good, when the settings of her stories are in New Orleans. She has done a great deal of research for this book and seems to have quite a knowledge of the game of chess. The book will be of interest to those who like Louisiana stories, to those who play chess and to those who like a good love story. Nicholas Monsarrat is one of the outstanding modern writer of sea stories. His "The Cruel Sea" will long remain a classic of sea adventure and heroism. His latest novel is called "The Nylon Pirates." It is not as good a book as his former ones, but it is still interesting. It is concerned with the adventures of a group of criminals, organized to prey upon the passengers of a large Atlantic cruise ship. The details of life at sea are good, the characters are very life - like and the book will interest many readers, although it is quite different from other things which Mr. Monsarrat has done. Mystery stories are always popular and a new title is eagerly received. The latest one is called "See Them Die." It was written by Ed McBain and has an interesting twist in the plot. "Tender and Violent Elizabeth," by Henri Troyant is a novel, written by the youngest member of the French academy. It is the story of a woman and her love affairs. We meet the young heroine on the threshold of her first love and follow her through her unhappy marriage to the foredoomed end.

The field of non - fiction has some interesting titles this week. A perfectly beautiful book of Christmas legends, poetry and ideas for Christmas decorations is "A Partridge in a Pear Tree" by Neville Baybrooke. It is a book which is useful for a specific purpose and is also lovely to look at. Another useful book is "How to Make Your Own Picture Frames" written by Harold Rogers. This is a book which many artists will welcome and use and enjoy.

A perfectly lovely book, which sheds new light on our classical heritage is "Splendour of Greece" written by Robert Payne. In this book Mr. Payne, lovingly and carefully discusses the classical beauties of Greece. It is a book which will be useful for students of ancient history and for others who find understanding of the present in reading about the past.

This is the centennial year of the American Civil War and many beautiful books are being published in commenoration of this event. The loveliest one we have seen is "The American Heritage Picture History of the Civil War." It was published by the American Heritage magazine and the writing was done by Bruce Catton, who has written many books on this subject. The book is a large book, beautifully illustrated in color and in black and white. We are very fortunate to have three copies for the Ouachita Parish Public Library, all of which were given to us as memorial books. One copy is found in the main library, one in the Anna Meyer Branch and one in the West Monroe Library. These books will be widely used and enjoyed by people of every age, who are interested in this conflict. It has been said that the Civil War has been written about more than any war which was ever fought. This will be doubly true after the centennial year.

One of the most interesting states of the south is the state of South Carolina. It was settled by people who were proud of their heritage and who have never been afraid to say what thy believed. A perfectly beautiful history of this state has just been released. The author is William Francis Guess and the title is "South Carolina, Annals of Pride and Protest". It is a book which everyone who had forebears in that state will want to read.

On December first the book collection of the Ouachita Parish stood at 65,880 books. Each month more than 500 volumes are added to the collection. The growth is not spectacular, but it is steady. Books are the lifeblood of a library and we are doing our best to build up this collection so that it will fill every need which the public has.

RUNNING THE SCALES

Yule Music Is On Tap Most Places

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

With local choirs and choral groups over the country preparing Christmas music, touring professionals have pretty well declared a holiday season.

The Northeast State College Choir under the direction of Davis Bingham will present Handel's oratorio, "The Messiah" today at 3 p.m. at Brown Hall auditorium on the college campus.

Also on the local boards is the Little Theatre production of "The Gazebo," which opened Thursday. This is a comedy piece about a television writer who gets carried away by his own plot.

From Northeast comes the report that "South Pacific" tryouts were being held last week and that the Rogers and Hammerstein musical will probably open in February.

Following the appearance of comedian "Brother Dave" in Ruston and the ensuing writeup, there came some mail to the "scales" signature which chose to play in another key. Said the writers in brief, "Lay off the panning, I like Brother Dave."

And that's the way of the refining process called criticism. Yet the performers seek it out one way or the other. Soprano Eileen Farrell pointed to her New York reviews as the first ones which carried any wieght because the critics in the other cities where she toured felt they were trying to promote music rather than criticize.

This is a sad but true commentary on all critics — sometimes including those in New York. Too often, the field of public relations becomes enmeshed with the action in front of the footlights. A criticism is one man's opinion and it may be an educated guess or a hunch based on a practised "feel."

But even a favorable comment in a criticism has to follow a highly critical "look-listen" if it is to be of any value.

Dr. Peter Paul Fuchs, professor of music at LSU, has accepted the position of musical director and conductor of the Baton Rouge Symphony Orchestra. He succeeds the late Emil Cooper who conducted the orchestra from 1950-60.

Dr. Fuchs is a native of Vienna, Austria, and former member of the conducting staff of the Metropolitan Opera in New York. He has already launched the 15th season of the Baton Rouge orchestra with three performances, the most recent an event of last Wednesday.

Also of state interest was the report that Peter Gennaro, New Orleans, arranged the dances for the musical, "Fiorello," which played here Friday a week ago. These were top flight and generally considered the strongest phase of the successful musical.

Many concert goers here noted the long march forward from "Kiss Me Kate," of some seven years ago to "Fiorello" There are any number of factors behind this improvement but two are particularly noteworthy.

During the 1950's it finally dawned upon those forming road or "national" companies that audiences all over the country were far more critical than they realized. Companies thrown together with poor equipment, orchestras and preparation simply were not being accepted.

In addition to the greater demands from the audience, local groups found that they too could do musical comedy — often with a greater show of talent than professional producers thougght possible.

There was only one answer. The touring companies had to come up with a better product. Meantime, with "South Pacific" already mentioned as a possibility, and "Damn Yankees" on the list of Little Theatre attractions, local song - and - dance advocates show no signs of letting up.

2nd Novel Equals Outstanding First

INCENSE TO IDOLS. By Sylvia Ashton - Warner Simon & Schuster. $3.95.

Fresh from sparkling successes on the concert stage of Paris, Germaine de Beauvais, beautiful, gay and impassioned, comes half way round the world to New Zealand to study with Leon Montigny, a teacher whose scandalous past has ruined him for a public career — just as her own scandalous behavior threatens to ruin her.

She is wilful, and abandoned. The husband who collapsed and died while he was conducting an orchestra was older than she is; and she still is attracted to older men, like Leon, who has no more scruples about an affair with her than she has herself; like wealthy Gordon Hood, whose wife is dying and on whose property, Three Trees, she lives; and like Doctor John.

But unexpectedly, and appropriately, too, we meet her first at church. So attuned to music, so sensitive to all sounds, she has been swept off her feet by the ringing voice of the pastor, Brett Guymer. To him the church is Jerusalem, and the New Zealand city, Babylon; to us, he is the holy man, and she speaks for the wicked god Baal. The city storms right up brazenly to the church's outer defenses, where the drunk Hugh Clan-William loiters on the stone steps, torn between good and evil; indeed the city forces an entrance as the woman borrows the church piano for practice — a piano, she reflects with her cynical and practical mind, is like a man for it's better to let some one else break them in and, in her words, they are easier to play after the mechanism has been loosened up.

"You are closer to God than I am," says the pastor fascinated by her naturalness, and she answers: "I'd rather be closer to Man."

At the start of last year almost all the critics were lavishing praises on Miss Ashton-Warner's first novel, "Spinsters." This second, though in different ways, deserves an equally enthusiastic reception — though it may not find so many readers. Anna Vorontosov, the earlier teacher, was a fugitive as Geramine is; each longs for love But as Anna was surrounded by venturesome, alert children, Germaine is set in a brilliant and sophisticated society. Over all hangs the menace of catastrophe and annihilation, but the real problems are personal and have to do with love and its tawdry substitutes, and with frustration and despair.

The Reverend Mr. Guymer is a mighty driving force for good. Exactly like his ethically opposite number Germaine, he acclaims the validity of passion: "Christ has a use for passion," and he adds, "So has the church a use for passion," and goes on significantly: "All kinds" — so that she must self-consciously turn her gaze from him. He is that rare character, a good man made dramatic and interesting: the ending is as rare, a death that seems happy; and the book is rare, too, a second novel good enough to match the outstanding first.

Passion is the key to this book. Miss Ashton-Warner writes at a temperature constantly above normal, so that this tingles and vibrates. It is intimate, confessional writing. The author's standards are not good and evil, but degree of intensity — and repeated quotations from Baudelaire perfectly set a mood which varies between sanctimonious, holy, decadent and depraved. Guymer laments the "tremendous burden of the unsaid" — but there is no unsaid in these stirring, revealing pages.

Rise Registered In Construction

Eighteen building permits, 17 of them for construction totalling $110,380 were issued by the City of Monroe during the past week.

This showed an increase over the previous week, when 10 permits were issued for construction, alterations and additions valued at $91,595.

Two of last week's permits reflected the nearness of the compulsory auto inspection program, due to start in 1961: Two service stations took out permits to add one-room inspection stations to their buildings.

Monday, December 5:

Amoco Service Station add one room, inspection station, to 10 Louisville Ave., 342 square feet, $1,000.

Texaco Service Station, add one room, inspection station, to 100 S. Second St., 416 square feet, $1,000.

E. H. Kincaid, move frame residence from 1811 Louisville Ave. to 401 N. McGuire Ave., size 28 by 4 by 16 feet high, $1500.

David Johnson, add to frame residence by enclosing porch at 3606 Gayton, $100.

R. L. Thorn, move frame residence from city limits on DeSiard Street to West Monroe, 18 by 24 by 11 feet high, $300.

Salley Grocery Co., alter warehouse by installing cooler at 2509 Gordon Ave., $200.

Howard Griffin received two permits: 1. construct steel and tin warehouse, 6400 square feet, 800 S. Grand St., $7000; 2. Demolish part of brick paint shop at 800 S. Grand.

Tuesday, December 6:

Louisville Construction Co., build brick veneer residence, five rooms, two baths, 2308 Bienville, 1400 square feet, $12,500.

Greater Monroe Homes, construct brick veneer residence, five rooms, one and one - half baths, 1287 square feet, $9,500.

Josephine Johnson, alter frame residence, 3813 Elm St., $180.

Madeline Anderson, construct FRAME RESIDENCE, FIVE AND bath, 816 square feet, $4,400, on North 26 Street.

United Built Homes, construct frame model home, five rooms and bath, 1811 Louisville Ave., 880 square feet, $3,200.

Wednesday, December 7:

Increase In Drilling Seen By Contractors

DALLAS, Texas — A bare majority of oil well sevicing and work-over contractors looks for increase in business during the next two years, The Petroleum Engineer magazine reports in a survey published this week. Although only 51 per cent of contractors expect increases, rising world crude oil demand will inevitably increase servicing and workover activity, the editors noted.

Contractors also reported current earnings. Answers are compared with data contractors gave in response to same questions asked by the magazine in 1958.

Survey replies indicate that 26 per cent of contractors will register higher earnings this year, as compared to 14 per cent in 1958. Contrariwise, 59 per cent reported decreased earnings during 1960; little change from the 61 per cent who reported decreased earnings two years ago. These contractors attribute lower income to an increase in operating cost of 13 per cent, resulting mainly from a 10 per cent boost in equipment costs and an 8 per cent increase in labor costs.

The Petroleum Engineer's survey also revealed that due to the fierce competition, few contractors expect to increase their prices. The survey also includes discussion of well servicing and workover equipment improvements contractors would like, what causes rig downtime and personnel problems. While the experience of an individual contractor will not agree directly with the statistical averages published in this survey, the editors observed, operators and contractors will benefit by making comparison with their own data.

Growth Near Equal In Cars And Populace

DETROIT (AP) — During the past 10 years the United States added cars almost as fast as it added people.

The human population expanded by 27 million from the 1950 to the 1960 federal census. The car population grew 21 million.

The government says there are about 182 million people in this country. Auto industry statisticians R.L. Polk & Co. figure there were 57.1 million passenger cars in operation as of July 1. This total is expected to hit 60 million by the end of the year.

This means almost one car for every three people. Is the saturation point in sight?

The automakers are quite sure it isn't. One statistic which intrigues these men who make and sell cars is that one family out of four doesn't own a car. Nobody expects the day to come when every one will, but the sales personnel are confident they still can make some headway among these non-owners.

FUTURE SALES

When Robert Eggert, market research manager of Ford Motor Co., talks of future sales possibilities, he usually refers to the age makeup of the current population and what's in prospect during the next 10 years.

For example, the biggest bulge in the nation's birth rate came in 1947. These kids were 13 years old this year and won't become car-buying prospects until 1965.

The fastest growing age group during the current decade will be the 20-to 29-year-olds. A study by the University of Michigan survey Research Center shows this is the age group least likely to be without a car.

The percentage of families owning cars has not increased significantly in recent years. But there has been an impressive growth in the number of families owning more than one car.

In 1956 only 11 per cent of the car-owning families had more than one car. In 1960 almost 20 per cent own two or more.

The general sales philosophy has shifted noticeably from multi-purpose vehicles to special purpose cars. You are exhorted to own a large, powerful, comfortable car for long distance trips, a small economy type for in-town errands and a station wagon for camping trips or rougher chores.

Manufacturers aren't ready to stop with two-car families. They are out for the three-or-more group, too. In early 1959 about 1.1 per cent of all car-owning families had at least three automobiles. But late 1960 the percentage had grown to 1.7.

More cars are being driven more miles per year for more years than ever before. Little wonder you run into a traffic jam almost as soon as you back your car out of the driveway.

Labor Group Sees Increase In Problem

NEW YORK (AP)—Rising unemployment cast a darkening shadow across the economy the past week.

Indications were that the problem will get worse before it gets better.

The Labor Department reported that unemployment has increased in three-fifths of the country's 150 major industrial centers.

It called joblessness substantial in 51 areas, compared with 32 in November, 1959.

The department labels the number of idle substantial when it exceeds six per cent of the local labor force.

Reclassified as areas of substantial unemployment were industrial centers in Connecticut, Indiana, Washington, Ohio, West Virginia and California.

PRINCIPLE CUTS

Principal cutbacks were in steel, aircraft, aluminum and other durable goods manufacturing.

Unemployment in November was estimated at four million. Labor department officials said they expect the total to exceed five million by January.

Four big steel companies reduced supplemental unemployment benefits to furloughed workers because of a heavy drain on the funds.

President-elect John F. Kennedy appointed a task force headed by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., to devise means of helping depressed areas.

Sen. Douglas said: "I believe strongly that the time for action is now. We have not discovered all of the answers, but I do believe we have learned enough to take constructive and responsible action in the immediate future."

Three nongovernmental economists told a congressional committee that the country is in a recession but that it is too early to tell how severe it is. Two government experts declined to term the situation a recession but agreed that conditions are sluggish.

GOOD YEAR SEEN

The new president of the National Association of Manufacturers, John W. McGovern, former president of U.S. Rubber Co., predicted that 1961 will be a good year for business. He said he expects the economy to begin pulling out of its slump after the first quarter.

A National Industrial Conference Board survey indicated that consumers have sharply increased their buying plans since the election, apparently expecting an era of easier credit.

Chairman Roger Blough of U.S. Steel Corp. said prospects of an increased operating rate for the steel industry are improving. He expressed the opinion that steel inventories of customers are as low now as they were at the end of the 1959 steel strike. Iron Age said it looks for a step-up in orders after the first of the year.

STEEL DIPPED

However, steel output dipped again the past week to an estimated rate of 48.3 per cent of capacity from 48.9 the previous week.

New passenger car sales in November totaled 529,300, equaling the record, November of 1955. Expectations are that December sales will push the year's total to between 6.1 million and 6.2 million, which would be third best in history.

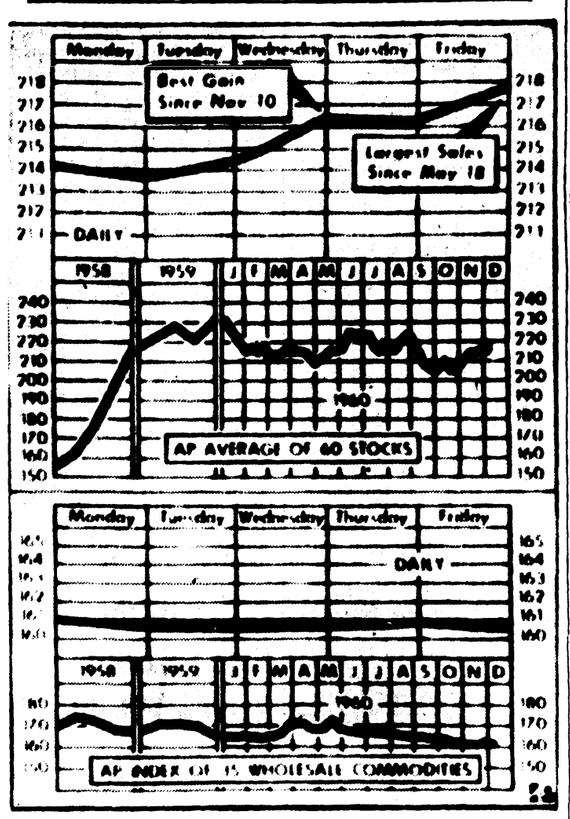
Production the past week was estimated at 138,000, up from the previous week's 135,460.

Colder weather sparked the slow-starting Christmas buying to an appreciable increase over the previous week, but volume fell two to six per cent below a year ago.

Wholesale food prices, which had increased for six straight weeks, leveled off the past week at their 1960 high.

Briefly around the business scene: The average American family will spend $147 on Christmas gifts, according to a survey by Chicago Printed String Co. . . . Boeing Airplane Co. plans to build 80 three-engine, medium-range jet airliners. .. .Montgomery Ward & Co. is trying out automatic merchandisers which dispense goods and make change for bills and coins . . . Heavy construction contract awards for the year to date total $11,682,900,000, up 14 per cent over last year. . . .A railroad tradition of official pocket watches went by the board when the New York Central approved use of wrist watches. . . .Motorized roller skates are being marketed: they've hit 40 miles per hour; sell for $250.

FINANCIAL $ OIL-GAS NEWS



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks rallied sharply from last week's reaction, closing at 217.8 from 214.1 a week ago. For the second straight week the commodity index showed a minus sign, closing at 160.6 from 161.0 in the preceding period. Food was a weak feature. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

BEST GAIN IN A MONTH

Year End Rally Seen In Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market registered its best gain in more than a month this week in what many brokers see as the start of a year end rally.

The brokers cited the switch in interest from many of the recent trading favorites such as restaurant chains, diet food companies steels and chemicals.

The bullish segment of the trading community also was encouraged by the advance in railroad issues on Friday in the face of declining carloadings. The failure of the rails to support the upward move on the part of their industrial counterpart in the preceding three sessions had been seen as a sign of technical weakness.

Statisticians were encouraged by the jump above the 600 level by the Dow-Jones industrial average; by the number of new 1960 highs on Thursday and Friday outnumbering the new lows for the first time in about three weeks; and by the Dow-Jones utility average reaching a 30-year high.

The extent of any advance or decline, however, still depends on a definite pattern being set in the presently stagnated economy. The general consensus still is for no real improvement until mid-1961.

The biggest disappointment in the business world was the failure of consumers to go on a Christmas buying binge. Sales did pick up a bit from the preceding week as colder weather in some areas stimulated buying, but volume ran substantially below a year ago.

Sales rose substantially on the advance this week, amounting to 18,314,785 shares, or an average of 3,662,957 shares per day. It was the most active week since mid-May.

Sperry Rand, which announced some new computers, was the most active issue on sales of 278,400 shares. It closed at 23¼, up 4½ points on the week. Chock Full O'Nuts, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Motors, and Boeing rounded out the top five.

The Dow-Jones averages at the close Friday showed 30 industrials at 610.90 up 14.90 points; 20 rails 127.77 off 0.35; 15 utilities 97.02 up 1.64, and the highest since 98.01 on June 6, 1930; and 65 stocks 202.57 up 3.56.

Of the total 1,440 issues traded this week, 886 advanced, 388 declined and 175 held unchanged. New 1960 highs were set by 90 issues and new lows by 110.

Sharp gains were spread throughout all groups, with IBM, up 36, leading the pack. Other electronics shares also were good, particularly Texas Instruments up 13.

Owens Corning Fiberglas jumped 7 and Pittsburgh Plate Glass 3¼ in their group. National Biscuit and Quaker Oats were hit by profit taking and dropped 5 and 3½ points, respectively. U.S. Steel Rose 4 and Jones & Laughlin 4¾.

Buying Centers Get A Boost

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of our newest business phenomena, the suburban shopping center, is getting valuable assistance from one of the oldest, the entertainment industry.

Shopping center landlords and their merchant tenants are finding new profits by adding motion picture theaters and bowling centers to the shopping facilities.

The general manager of a huge Massachusetts shopping center said that during the early weeks of operation of a new center recreational enterprises can be a powerful influence in attracting people, and in exposing them to the shopping facilities available.

In time, he added, this develops into a pattern of one-stop shopping and recreation to the mutual benefit of the merchants and the recreational proprietor.

Reports of successful entertainment enterprises that are adding to the weekly grosses of regional shopping centers have come in from Seattle, Syracuse, Richmond, and Pompano Beach, Fla., as well as Massachusetts.

AREA ROUNDUP

14 Wells Are Completed In Monroe Oil-Gas District

Fourteen oil and/or gas producers were completed this week in the Monroe District, Duncan S. Cook, district manager, announced yesterday. Twelve of these completions were in the Monroe field of Union Parish.

The other completions were in the Calhoun field of Ouachita parish and the Big Creek field of Richland parish.

Cook reported a total of 45 rigs in action with 30 listed as inactive.

Six wells were plugged and abandoned during the same period.

One well, the Placid Oil Co.-La Central No. 71, was recompleted on December 1 with 32 barrels daily from perforations of from 2,202 to 2,205 feet. It located in section 30, township 19 north, range 3 east, of the Olla field of LaSalle parish.

The completions listed in this week's report included:

OUACHITA PARISH (Calhoun Field) Socony Mobile Oil Co., Inc., - J. W. Russell, No. 1, completed on December 6 and gauged at 493 barrels daily with a gravity of 50.1 on a 11-64th inch choke. Perforation was from 9,268 to 9,293 feet with producing strata at 9,320 feet. It is located in section 30, township 18 north, range 1 east.

TENSAS PARISH (Buckhorn Field) Estate of William G. Heles-Fisher Lumber Corporation No. B-3, completed December 4 and gauged at 140 barrels daily with an 8-64th inch choke, perforations from 8,674 to 8,671 feet, and gravity set at 40.4. It is located in section 26, township 12 north, range 11 east.

UNION PARISH (Monroe field) La. Gas Producing Co.-Olin Gas Transmission No. 30 completed on November 17 in 850 million cubic feet and gauges at 130 MCF at a depth of 2,205 feet. It is located in section 35, township 21 north, range 2 east.

La. Gas Producing Co.-Olin Gas Transmission No. 31, completed on November 17 in 855 million cubic feet at 2,231 feet. It is located in section 25, township 21 north, range 2 east.

Monla Gas Co.-D'Arbonne No. 1, completed October 19 at a depth of 2,350 feet with rock pressure of 653 pounds in 612 million cubic feet. Location given was section 1, township 19 north, range 2 east.

Monla Gas Co.-F. M. Kalil et al No. 1, completed on October 17 at 2,350 feet in 1,330 million cubic feet with rock pressure of 1,032 pounds. Location given was section 31, township 22 north, range 3 east.

Olin Gas Transmission Corp.-Fee Gas et al No. 465 completed on December 6 in 900 million cubic feet at 2,200 feet with rock pressure of 1,035 pounds. It is located in section 12, township 20 north, range 2 east.

Olin Gas Transmission Corp.-Fee Gas No. 466 completed December 6 in 950 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,500 feet with a rock pressure of 1,055 pounds. It is located in section 12, township 20 north, range 2 east.

C. K. Primos and H. J. Nicholas-O. B. Crow No. 1, completed on December 2 in 670 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,233 feet with rock pressure of 1,095 pounds. Location given was listed as section 14, township 21 north, range 2 east.

United Carbon Company Union Producing Co. C-15, completed November 23 in 9,762 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,269 feet with rock pressure of 980 pounds. It is located in section 7, township 21 north, range 3 east.

United C. C.-Union Producing Co. C-16, completed on December 2 in 8,951 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,263 feet with rock pressure of 1040 pounds. Location was given as section 12, township 21 north, range 2 east.

Union C. C.-Union Producing Co. No. C-17 completed December 2 in 8,531 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,350 feet with a rock pressure of 1,020 pounds. The location was given as section 12, township 21 north, range 2 east.

United C. C.-Union Producing Co., C-18, completed December 2 in 7,652 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,350 feet with rock pressure of 905 feet. The location was given as section 7, township 21 north, range 3 east.

United C. C.-Union Producing Company No. C-19 completed on December 2 in 6,435 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,268 feet with rock pressure of 920 feet. The location was section 13, township 21 north, range 2 east.

PLUGGED AND ABANDONED

Listed as plugged and abandoned were:

CATAHOULA PARISH (Wildcat field) Jett Drilling Co.-Pan Amer. Petr. Corp.- Ang. Hardwood Lumber Co. No. 3, abandoned on Dec. 1 in section 17, township 4 north, range 8 east at 8,335 feet.

(Omega field) John Franks et al-R. S. Wilds Estate No. A-1 abandoned at 5,300 feet on December 6 in section 13, township 7 north, range 6 east.

(Ross Field) T. F. Hodge-Thomas No. 2, plugged and abandoned on December 3 at 6,010 feet in section 28, township 7 north, range 7 east.

New Oil Field Reported In Pike County

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A new oil field find has been reported in Pike County.

The May-Love No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e, located near Dixie Springs, flowed 185 barrels of oil per day from 10,828-30 feet.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. shut the well in while storage tanks were being erected.

The discovery well is between the Little Creek and Summit oil fields.

Humble continued tests in the upper sand in a Yazoo County wildcat, the Thompson No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w, east of Bentonia.

The zone at 10,165-73 feet was reported flowing 75 barrels daily with salt water content. A sand at 10,445-53 feet tested at 198 barrels of oil per day.

Also in Yazoo County near the Pickens Oil Field, Drilling and Exploration Co. was below 4,800 feet in a wildcat, the Bridgeforth No. 1, sec. 21-12n-3e. The venture was contracted to 5,200 feet to test the Eutaw sand.

NEAR FUTURE

A third Yazoo County wildcat was scheduled in the near future. It is the Freudenberg No. 1, sec. 24-12n-2w, to be drilled by Continental Oil Co. The well will be about three miles northeast of Yazoo City.

In Jasper County near Montrose, Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. was below 12,000 feet in a wildcat, the Tatum No. 1, sec. 12-3n-11e. The well was scheduled to 13,000 feet. Operators have released no information on the try.

Two wildcat ventures were underway in Amite County. D. A. Biglane was below 8,000 feet in the Koppers No. 1, sec. 2-3n-[illegible] and Justiss-Mears Oil Co. was below 8,600 in the Crosby-Wall No. 1, sec. 35-3n-5e.

In Smith County, Monsanto Chemical Co. was below 8,600 feet in a wildcat, the Eagle Bend No. 1, sec. 8-18-3e, a 16,500 foot test.

Marshal R. Young was below 5,160 feet in the Hancock County wildcat, the Stem No. 1, sec. 6-8s-14w, located near the Kiln oil field. The wildcat has contract depth of 10,400 feet.

FIELD DRILLING

Field drilling the past week brought three new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

In the McComb Field of Pike County, Sun Oil Co. completed the O'Neal No. 1, sec. 33-4n-7e, which flowed 49 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,951-68 feet.

Lyle Cashion Co. completed the Belknap-Sells No. 1, sec. 22-3n-7e and it flowed 201 barrels per day from a sand at 10,953-70 feet.

At Reedy Creek in Jones County, California Co. completed the Townsend No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w which pumped a reported 49 barrels per day from a sand at 7,216-23 feet.

In the West Hub field of Marion County, Robert Moon completed the Ball No. 1, sec. 19-2n-14e which flowed 2,400,000 cubic feet of gas and 24 barrels of condensate per day from a sand at 9,163-68 feet.

Fur, Diamonds Play Role In Oil Campaign

Houston, Tex. (AP) —Diamonds and mink coats are playing prominent roles in the oil industry's campaign against "inequitable" gasoline taxes.

The campaign is receiving increases emphasis with the approach of the opening session of the new Congress next month.

The objective is to get Congress to let a temporary 1-cent per gallon federal gasoline tax die as scheduled next June 30. Such action would cut the current 4-cent federal tax to 3 cents a gallon.

Campaign speeches, and literature have made frequent references to diamonds and mink coats. Such luxury items have been used by the oilman to dramatize the current level of gasoline taxes.

The average price of 31.92 cents a gallon now being paid for regular grade gasoline includes 10.15 cents in combined federal and state taxes. The oilman contends this tax of nearly 50 per cent is unjust and inequitable, particularly when compared with a 10 per cent tax on diamonds and mink coats.

LEAFLETS ISSUED

Several companies have distributed copies of "Help," a four-page leaflet, with credit card statements.

"Help bring your gasoline tax down," the leaflet reads. "The tax on gasoline is nearly 50 per cent. That's five times as high as the tax on luxuries such as mink coats and jewelry."

One major retailer, on a more limited scale, has mailed letters offering a tank of regular or premium grade gasoline without charge. All the recipient of such a letter has to do is pay the combined federal and state tax.

The temporary 1-cent tax scheduled to end June 30 was approved by Congress to bolster the federal highway construction trust fund. Congress provided that the temporary tax, after June 30, would be replaced by a portion of excise taxes being collected on vehicles, tires, parts and accessories not now going into the highway trust fund. Such excise collections last year exceeded $3.8 billion but $1.6 billion was diverted to the general fund.

A revised highway policy adopted last March by the executive committee of the American Petroleum Institute (API) says the industry is united in support of adequate highways for the nation but says it is unfair and unsound to call on highway users to bear the entire cost.

POLICY STATEMENT

The policy statement says good highways aid national defense, open up new areas, create new values, lower transportation costs, expedite essential services and benefit every citizen in many other ways.

"A reasonable part of highway costs should be met out of federal tax revenues," the API policy concludes.

Oilmen also say the current level of taxes is contributing to a decline in the rate of growth of gasoline demand. Demand in the first nine months of 1960 was only 1.1 per cent above the same 1959 period. Demand for the popular vacation months of July, August and September this year was 1 per cent below the year earlier level.

Frank Porter, API president also has said gasoline taxes have stimulated a tremendous growth in compact cars.

"It is estimated at the present time nearly one-third of all new car sales are of the smaller economy type and this ratio is expected to increase in coming years as motorists seek to escape some of the impact of burdensome taxes on gasoline," Porter said.

Lloyd F. Thanhouser, vice president and general counsel of Continental Oil Co., put it this way:

"The U.S. boom in compact cars since 1955 have coincided exactly with the precipitous rise in our gasoline tax rates."

State Highway Crash Is Fatal

HOLDEN, La. (AP)—A car and truck crashed near here Friday night and killed John Taylor Whitney, 34, of Baton Rouge.

Officers said Whitney was passing a truck and trailer on the highway when he had to pull back to avoid oncoming traffic. His car collided with the rear of a Holden town garbage truck.

Two persons on the truck were injured slightly.

RECENT FIGURES SHOW PURCHASE RISE

Overseas Property Moderately Priced

NEW YORK (UPI) — Your "castle in Spain" no longer need be an air castle.

OVERSEAS PROPERTIES

Being an American man of property in Europe or the exotic Caribbean no longer conjures up the sole image of millionaire or movie star, according to John C. Tysen, president of Previews, Inc., the international real estate clearing house.

Tysen says the company's foreign business "more and more is beginning to resemble our stateside pattern where the moderately priced property is the daily and dependable backbone of the company's business." Sales of the firm's nine overseas branches, he said, have risen from 5 per cent to 15 per cent of total annual volume since 1957.

And, Tysen reports, the clientele has shown a distinct change from the pre-war luxury customer. In Europe, as well as the Caribbean, Tysen said, Previews has servied hundreds of Americans. He believes that low cost, culture and availability of servants will stimulate this trend in the decade to come.

SPECIALTY

Project housing to suit American standards has become a specialty in Spain, particularly on the shores of the Mediterranean known as the Spanish Cote d'Azur, Tysen said. In a club community that includes a golf course, yacht club, riding, shooting, cinema and casino, plus a practice bull ring, one can purchase a lot and villa built to order for $12,500. The four-bedroom villa includes a servant's room and a servant to handle cleaning, cooking and laundry averages about $8 weekly.

Young couples with children have become frequent European property seekers, Tysen said. Where prior to World War II the average American wage-earner had to be coaxed into overseas assignment with his firm, today's ex-servicemen know Europe and are not afraid to choose their own standards of living in what used to be strange lands.

ADVANTAGE

A $14,500 home with four bedrooms on the outskirts of Paris was the recent choice of a former army engineer now working for a major U.S. automotive firm. "I asked for a six-year transfer to our European operation," he explained, "because not only will I enjoy my own house, I'll make money on it by improving it for the next American who ships over when we go home. And my sons and daughter will learn a lot about all of Europe in six years."

Other Americans are taking advantage of investment opportunities in European real estate. A California architect recently purchased in Austria 35-room Tyrolean castle boasting suites used by the Emperor Maximilian and Maria Theresa of Austria. Recamping the castle with all modern conveniences, including swimming pool, the architect plans to operate it as a guest house.

Tysen feels that "raw land for housing developments or factories is the most fantastic buy in the European market. Much of it is available, prime land near major cities, and a minimal improvement warrants prices we don't even dream of in this country."

Unemployment Hurts Economy

JUMP FROM 10 TO 18

Rise Registered In Construction

Eighteen building permits, 17 of them for construction totalling $110,380 were issued by the City of Monroe during the past week.

This showed an increase over the previous week, when 10 permits were issued for construction, alterations and additions valued at $91,595.

Two of last week's permits reflected the nearness of the compulsory auto inspection program, due to start in 1961: Two service stations took out permits to add one-room inspection stations to their buildings.

Monday, December 5:

Amoco Service Station add one room, inspection station, to 10 Louisville Ave., 342 square feet, $1,000.

Texaco Service Station, add one room, inspection station, to 100 S. Second St., 416 square feet, $1,000.

E. H. Kincaid, move frame residence from 1811 Louisville Ave. to 401 N. McGuire Ave., size 28 by 4 by 16 feet high, $1500.

David Johnson, add to frame residence by enclosing porch at 3606 Gayton, $100.

R. L. Thorn, move frame residence from city limits on DeSiard Street to West Monroe, 18 by 24 by 11 feet high, $300.

Salley Grocery Co., alter warehouse by installing cooler at 2509 Gordon Ave., $200.

Howard Griffin received two permits: 1. construct steel and tin warehouse, 6400 square feet, 800 S. Grand St., $7000; 2. Demolish part of brick paint shop at 800 S. Grand.

Tuesday, December 6:

Louisville Construction Co., build brick veneer residence, five rooms, two baths, 2308 Bienville, 1400 square feet, $12,500.

Greater Monroe Homes, construct brick veneer residence, five rooms, one and one - half baths, 1287 square feet, $9,500.

Josephine Johnson, alter frame residence, 3813 Elm St., $180.

Madeline Anderson, construct FRAME RESIDENCE, FIVE AND bath, 816 square feet, $4,400, on North 26 Street.

United Built Homes, construct frame model home, five rooms and bath, 1811 Louisville Ave., 880 square feet, $3,200.

Wednesday, December 7:

Mrs. M. C. White, alter frame residence by remodeling at 3407 S. Grand St., $2000.

Monroe Custom Builders received two permits to construct brick veneer residence: 1. Five rooms, one and one - half baths, 1401 West St., 1,000 square feet, $10,000; 2. Five rooms, two baths, 1200 square feet, $12,000.

Friday, December 9:

Mrs. Ann McBeth, construct brick veneer residence, seven rooms, two baths, 2723 Bayou La., 2000 square feet, $16,000.

C. O. Hayton, construct brick veneer residence, seven rooms, three baths, 2719 Bayou La., 2330 square feet, $29,500.

Increase In Drilling Seen By Contractors

DALLAS, Texas — A bare majority of oil well sevicing and work-over contractors looks for increase in business during the next two years, The Petroleum Engineer magazine reports in a survey published this week. Although only 51 per cent of contractors expect increases, rising world crude oil demand will inevitably increase servicing and workover activity, the editors noted.

Contractors also reported current earnings. Answers are compared with data contractors gave in response to same questions asked by the magazine in 1958.

Survey replies indicate that 26 per cent of contractors will register higher earnings this year, as compared to 14 per cent in 1958. Contrariwise, 59 per cent reported decreased earnings during 1960; little change from the 61 per cent who reported decreased earnings two years ago. These contractors attribute lower income to an increase in operating cost of 13 per cent, resulting mainly from a 10 per cent boost in equipment costs and an 8 per cent increase in labor costs.

The Petroleum Engineer's survey also revealed that due to the fierce competition, few contractors expect to increase their prices. The survey also includes discussion of well servicing and workover equipment improvements contractors would like, what causes rig downtime and personnel problems. While the experience of an individual contractor will not agree directly with the statistical averages published in this survey, the editors observed, operators and contractors will benefit by making comparison with their own data.

Market Summary Of Livestock

CHICAGO (AP) — Following is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

Compared Friday last week: Barrows and gilts weighing under 220 lbs 25-50 higher while heavier weights 25-75 lower. Sows 50-1.00 lower. Labor Group Sees Increase In Problem

NEW YORK (AP)—Rising unemployment cast a darkening shadow across the economy the past week.

Indications were that the problem will get worse before it gets better.

The Labor Department reported that unemployment has increased in three-fifths of the country's 150 major industrial centers.

It called joblessness substantial in 51 areas, compared with 32 in November, 1959.

The department labels the number of idle substantial when it exceeds six per cent of the local labor force.

Reclassified as areas of substantial unemployment were industrial centers in Connecticut, Indiana, Washington, Ohio, West Virginia and California.

PRINCIPLE CUTS

Principal cutbacks were in steel, aircraft, aluminum and other durable goods manufacturing.

Unemployment in November was estimated at four million. Labor department officials said they expect the total to exceed five million by January.

Four big steel companies reduced supplemental unemployment benefits to furloughed workers because of a heavy drain on the funds.

President-elect John F. Kennedy appointed a task force headed by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., to devise means of helping depressed areas.

Sen. Douglas said: "I believe strongly that the time for action is now. We have not discovered all of the answers, but I do believe we have learned enough to take constructive and responsible action in the immediate future."

Three nongovernmental economists told a congressional committee that the country is in a recession but that it is too early to tell how severe it is. Two government experts declined to term the situation a recession but agreed that conditions are sluggish.

GOOD YEAR SEEN

The new president of the National Association of Manufacturers, John W. McGovern, former president of U.S. Rubber Co., predicted that 1961 will be a good year for business. He said he expects the economy to begin pulling out of its slump after the first quarter.

A National Industrial Conference Board survey indicated that consumers have sharply increased their buying plans since the election, apparently expecting an era of easier credit.

Chairman Roger Blough of U.S. Steel Corp. said prospects of an increased operating rate for the steel industry are improving. He expressed the opinion that steel inventories of customers are as low now as they were at the end of the 1959 steel strike. Iron Age said it looks for a step-up in orders after the first of the year.

STEEL DIPPED

However, steel output dipped again the past week to an estimated rate of 48.3 per cent of capacity from 48.9 the previous week.

New passenger car sales in November totaled 529,300, equaling the record, November of 1955. Expectations are that December sales will push the year's total to between 6.1 million and 6.2 million, which would be third best in history.

Production the past week was estimated at 138,000, up from the previous week's 135,460.

Colder weather sparked the slow-starting Christmas buying to an appreciable increase over the previous week, but volume fell two to six per cent below a year ago.

Wholesale food prices, which had increased for six straight weeks, leveled off the past week at their 1960 high.

Briefly around the business scene: The average American family will spend $147 on Christmas gifts, according to a survey by Chicago Printed String Co. . . . Boeing Airplane Co. plans to build 80 three-engine, medium-range jet airliners. .. .Montgomery Ward & Co. is trying out automatic merchandisers which dispense goods and make change for bills and coins . . . Heavy construction contract awards for the year to date total $11,682,900,000, up 14 per cent over last year. . . .A railroad tradition of official pocket watches went by the board when the New York Central approved use of wrist watches. . . .Motorized roller skates are being marketed: they've hit 40 miles per hour; sell for $250.

Growth Near Equal In Cars And Populace

DETROIT (AP) — During the past 10 years the United States added cars almost as fast as it added people.

The human population expanded by 27 million from the 1950 to the 1960 federal census. The car population grew 21 million.

The government says there are about 182 million people in this country. Auto industry statisticians R.L. Polk & Co. figure there were 57.1 million passenger cars in operation as of July 1. This total is expected to hit 60 million by the end of the year.

This means almost one car for every three people. Is the saturation point in sight?

The automakers are quite sure it isn't. One statistic which intrigues these men who make and sell cars is that one family out of four doesn't own a car. Nobody expects the day to come when every one will, but the sales personnel are confident they still can make some headway among these non-owners.

FUTURE SALES

When Robert Eggert, market research manager of Ford Motor Co., talks of future sales possibilities, he usually refers to the age makeup of the current population and what's in prospect during the next 10 years.

For example, the biggest bulge in the nation's birth rate came in 1947. These kids were 13 years old this year and won't become car-buying prospects until 1965.

The fastest growing age group during the current decade will be the 20-to 29-year-olds. A study by the University of Michigan survey Research Center shows this is the age group least likely to be without a car.

The percentage of families owning cars has not increased significantly in recent years. But there has been an impressive growth in the number of families owning more than one car.

In 1956 only 11 per cent of the car-owning families had more than one car. In 1960 almost 20 per cent own two or more.

The general sales philosophy has shifted noticeably from multi-purpose vehicles to special purpose cars. You are exhorted to own a large, powerful, comfortable car for long distance trips, a small economy type for in-town errands and a station wagon for camping trips or rougher chores.

Manufacturers aren't ready to stop with two-car families. They are out for the three-or-more group, too. In early 1959 about 1.1 per cent of all car-owning families had at least three automobiles. But late 1960 the percentage had grown to 1.7.

More cars are being driven more miles per year for more years than ever before. Little wonder you run into a traffic jam almost as soon as you back your car out of the driveway.

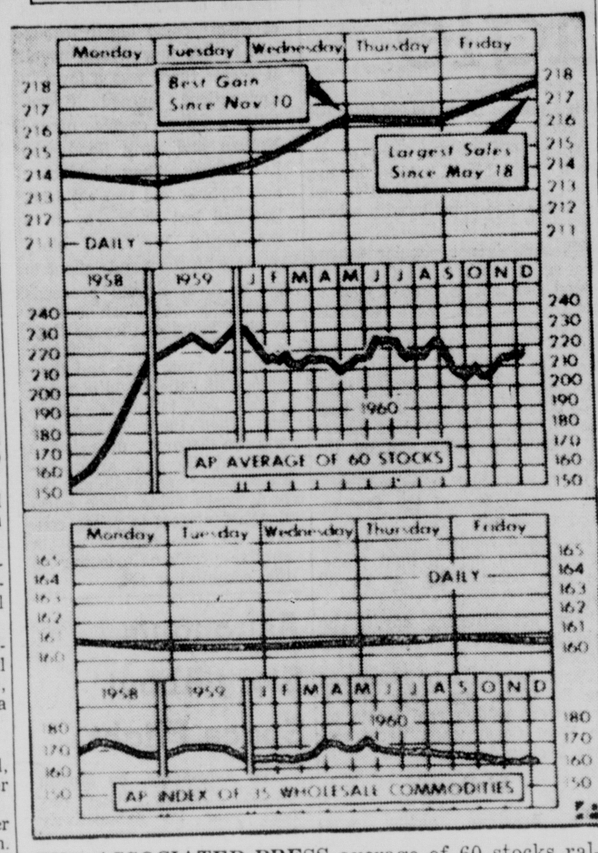
FINANCIAL $ OIL-GAS NEWS



THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks rallied sharply from last week's reaction, closing at 217.8 from 214.1 a week ago. For the second straight week the commodity index showed a minus sign, closing at 160.6 from 161.0 in the preceding period. Food was a weak feature. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

BEST GAIN IN A MONTH

Year End Rally Seen In Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market registered its best gain in more than a month this week in what many brokers see as the start of a year end rally.

The brokers cited the switch in interest from many of the recent trading favorites such as restaurant chains, diet food companies steels and chemicals.

The bullish segment of the trading community also was encouraged by the advance in railroad issues on Friday in the face of declining carloadings. The failure of the rails to support the upward move on the part of their industrial counterpart in the preceding three sessions had been seen as a sign of technical weakness.

Statisticians were encouraged by the jump above the 600 level by the Dow-Jones industrial average; by the number of new 1960 highs on Thursday and Friday outnumbering the new lows for the first time in about three weeks; and by the Dow-Jones utility average reaching a 30-year high.

The extent of any advance or decline, however, still depends on a definite pattern being set in the presently stagnated economy. The general consensus still is for no real improvement until mid-1961.

The biggest disappointment in the business world was the failure of consumers to go on a Christmas buying binge. Sales did pick up a bit from the preceding week as colder weather in some areas stimulated buying, but volume ran substantially below a year ago.

Sales rose substantially on the advance this week, amounting to 18,314,785 shares, or an average of 3,662,957 shares per day. It was the most active week since mid-May.

Sperry Rand, which announced some new computers, was the most active issue on sales of 278,400 shares. It closed at 23⅛, up 4½ points on the week. Chock Full O'Nuts, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Motors, and Boeing rounded out the top five.

The Dow-Jones averages at the close Friday showed 30 industrials at 610.90 up 14.90 points; 20 rails 127.77 off 0.35; 15 utilities 97.02 up 1.64, and the highest since 98.01 on June 6, 1930; and 65 stocks 202.57 up 3.56.

Of the total 1,440 issues traded this week, 886 advanced, 388 declined and 175 held unchanged. New 1960 highs were set by 90 issues and new lows by 110.

Sharp gains were spread throughout all groups, with IBM, up 36, leading the pack. Other electronics shares also were good, particularly Texas Instruments up 13.

Owens Corning Fiberglas jumped 7 and Pittsburgh Plate Glass 3¼ in their group. National Biscuit and Quaker Oats were hit by profit taking and dropped 5 and 3½ points, respectively. U.S. Steel Rose 4 and Jones & Laughlin 4¾.

Buying Centers Get A Boost

NEW YORK (UPI) — One of our newest business phenomena, the suburban shopping center, is getting valuable assistance from one of the oldest, the entertainment industry.

Shopping center landlords and their merchant tenants are finding new profits by adding motion picture theaters and bowling centers to the shopping facilities.

The general manager of a huge Massachusetts shopping center said that during the early weeks of operation of a new center recreational enterprises can be a powerful influence in attracting people, and in exposing them to the shopping facilities available.

In time, he added, this develops into a pattern of one-stop shopping and recreation to the mutual benefit of the merchants and the recreational proprietor.

Reports of successful entertainment enterprises that are adding to the weekly grosses of regional shopping centers have come in from Seattle, Syracuse, Richmond, and Pompano Beach, Fla., as well as Massachusetts.

AREA ROUNDUP

14 Wells Are Completed In Monroe Oil-Gas District

Fourteen oil and/or gas producers were completed this week in the Monroe District, Duncan S. Cook, district manager, announced yesterday. Twelve of these completions were in the Monroe field of Union Parish.

The other completions were in the Calhoun field of Ouachita parish and the Big Creek field of Richland parish.

Cook reported a total of 45 rigs in action with 30 listed as inactive.

Six wells were plugged and abandoned during the same period.

One well, the Placid Oil Co.-La Central No. 71, was recompleted on December 1 with 32 barrels daily from perforations of from 2,202 to 2,205 feet. It located in section 30, township 19 north, range 3 east, of the Olla field of LaSalle parish.

The completions listed in this week's report included:

OUACHITA PARISH (Calhoun Field) Socony Mobile Oil Co., Inc., - J. W. Russell, No. 1, completed on December 6 and gauged at 493 barrels daily with a gravity of 50.1 on a 11-64th inch choke. Perforation was from 9,268 to 9,293 feet with producing strata at 9,320 feet. It is located in section 30, township 18 north, range 1 east.

TENSAS PARISH (Buckhorn Field) Estate of William G. Heles-Fisher Lumber Corporation No. B-3, completed December 4 and gauged at 140 barrels daily with an 8-64th inch choke, perforations from 8,674 to 8,671 feet, and gravity set at 40.4. It is located in section 26, township 12 north, range 11 east.

UNION PARISH (Monroe field) La. Gas Producing Co.-Olin Gas Transmission No. 30 completed on November 17 in 850 million cubic feet and gauges at 130 MCF at a depth of 2,205 feet. It is located in section 35, township 21 north, range 2 east.

La. Gas Producing Co.-Olin Gas Transmission No. 31, completed on November 17 in 855 million cubic feet at 2,231 feet. It is located in section 25, township 21 north, range 2 east.

Monla Gas Co.-D'Arbonne No. 1, completed October 19 at a depth of 2,350 feet with rock pressure of 653 pounds in 612 million cubic feet. Location given was section 1, township 19 north, range 2 east.

Monla Gas Co.-F. M. Kalil et al No. 1, completed on October 17 at 2,350 feet in 1,330 million cubic feet with rock pressure of 1,032 pounds. Location given was section 31, township 22 north, range 3 east.

Olin Gas Transmission Corp.-Fee Gas et al No. 465 completed on December 6 in 900 million cubic feet at 2,200 feet with rock pressure of 1,035 pounds. It is located in section 12, township 20 north, range 2 east.

Olin Gas Transmission Corp.-Fee Gas No. 466 completed December 6 in 950 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,500 feet with a rock pressure of 1,055 pounds. It is located in section 12, township 20 north, range 2 east.

C. K. Primos and H. J. Nicholas-O. B. Crow No. 1, completed on December 2 in 670 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,238 feet with rock pressure of 1,093 pounds. Location given was listed as section 14, township 21 north, range 2 east.

United Carbon Company Union Producing Co. C-15, completed November 23 in 9,762 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,269 feet with rock pressure of 980 pounds. It is located in section 7, township 21 north, range 3 east.

United C. C.-Union Producing Co. C-16, completed on December 2 in 8,951 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,263 feet with rock pressure of 1040 pounds. Location was given as section 12, township 21 north, range 2 east.

Union C. C.-Union Producing Co. No. C-17 completed December 2 in 8,531 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,350 feet with a rock pressure of 1,020 pounds. The location was given as section 12, township 21 north, range 2 east.

United C. C.-Union Producing Co., C-18, completed December 2 in 7,652 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,350 feet with rock pressure of 905 feet. The location was given as section 7, township 21 north, range 3 east.

United C. C.-Union Producing Company No. C-19 completed on December 2 in 6,435 million cubic feet at a depth of 2,268 feet with rock pressure of 920 feet. The location was section 13, township 21 north, range 2 east.

PLUGGED AND ABANDONED

Listed as plugged and abandoned were:

CATAHOULA PARISH (Wildcat field) Jett Drilling Co.-Pan Amer. Petr. Corp.- Ang. Hardwood Lumber Co. No. 3, abandoned on Dec. 1 in section 17, township 4 north, range 8 east at 3,335 feet.

(Omega field) John Franks et al-R. S. Wilds Estate No. A-1 abandoned at 5,300 feet on December 6 in section 13, township 7 north, range 6 east.

(Ross Field) T. F. Hodge-Thomas No. 2, plugged and abandoned on December 3 at 6,010 feet in section 28, township 7 north, range 7 east.

LASALLE PARISH (French Fork Field) F. R. Jackson-La. Delta No. A-1 abandoned on December 5 at 4,682 feet in section 3, township 6 north, range 4 east.

RICHLAND PARISH (Big Creek Field) McGoldrick and Watson Drilling Co. - Fred Norman No. 1, plugged and abandoned on December 4 at 3,000 feet in section 6.

UNION PARISH (Monroe field) Monla Gas Co. - D'Arbonne No. 2 abandoned on December 7 at 2, abandoned on December 7 at 2,500 feet in section 12, township 19 north, range 2 east.

New Oil Field Reported In Pike County

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A new oil field find has been reported in Pike County.

The May-Love No. 1, sec. 1-4n-7e, located near Dixie Springs, flowed 185 barrels of oil per day from 10,828-30 feet.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. shut the well in while storage tanks were being erected.

The discovery well is between the Little Creek and Summit oil fields.

Humble continued tests in the upper sand in a Yazoo County wildcat, the Thompson No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w, east of Bentonia.

The zone at 10,165-73 feet was reported flowing 75 barrels daily with salt water content. A sand at 10,445-53 feet tested at 198 barrels of oil per day.

Also in Yazoo County near the Pickens Oil Field, Drilling and Exploration Co. was below 4,800 feet in a wildcat, the Bridgeforth No. 1, sec. 21-12n-3e. The venture was contracted to 5,200 feet to test the Eutaw sand.

NEAR FUTURE

A third Yazoo County wildcat was scheduled in the near future. It is the Freudenberg No. 1, sec. 24-12n-2w, to be drilled by Continental Oil Co. The well will be about three miles northeast of Yazoo City.

In Jasper County near Montrose, Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. was below 12,000 feet in a wildcat, the Tatum No. 1, sec. 12-3n-11e. The well was scheduled to 13,000 feet. Operators have released no information on the try.

Two wildcat ventures were underway in Amite County. D. A. Biglane was below 8,000 feet in the Koppers No. 1, sec. 2-3n-6[illegible] and Justiss-Mears Oil Co. was below 8,600 in the Crosby-Wall No. 1, sec. 35-3n-5e.

In Smith County, Monsanto Chemical Co. was below 8,600 feet in a wildcat, the Eagle Bend No. 1, sec. 8-18-3e, a 16,500 foot test.

Marshal R. Young was below 5,100 feet in the Hancock County wildcat, the Stem No. 1, sec. 6-8s-14w, located near the Kiln oil field. The wildcat has contract depth of 10,400 feet.

FIELD DRILLING

Field drilling the past week brought three new oilers and one gas condensate well completed.

In the McComb Field of Pike County, Sun Oil Co. completed the O'Neal No. 1, sec. 33-4n-7e, which flowed 49 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,951-68 feet.

Lyle Cashion Co. completed the Belknap-Sells No. 1, sec. 22-3n-7e, and it flowed 201 barrels per day from a sand at 10,958-70 feet.

At Reedy Creek in Jones County, California Co. completed the Townsend No. 1, sec. 3-9n-1w, which pumped a reported 49 barrels per day from a sand at 7,216-28 feet.

In the West Hub field of Marion County, Robert Moon completed the Ball No. 1, sec. 19-2n-14e, which flowed 2,400,000 cubic feet of gas and 24 barrels of condensate per day from a sand at 9,163-68 feet.

Fur, Diamonds Play Role In Oil Campaign

Houston, Tex. (AP) —Diamonds and mink coats are playing prominent roles in the oil industry's campaign against "inequitable" gasoline taxes.

The campaign is receiving increases emphasis with the approach of the opening session of the new Congress next month.

The objective is to get Congress to let a temporary 1-cent per gallon federal gasoline tax die as scheduled next June 30. Such action would cut the current 4-cent federal tax to 3 cents a gallon.

Campaign speeches, and literature have made frequent references to diamonds and mink coats. Such luxury items have been used by the oilman to dramatize the current level of gasoline taxes.

The average price of 31.92 cents a gallon now being paid for regular grade gasoline includes 10.15 cents in combined federal and state taxes. The oilman contends this tax of nearly 50 per cent is unjust and inequitable, particularly when compared with a 10 per cent tax on diamonds and mink coats.

LEAFLETS ISSUED

Several companies have distributed copies of "Help," a four-page leaflet, with credit card statements.

"Help bring your gasoline tax down," the leaflet reads. "The tax on gasoline is nearly 50 per cent. That's five times as high as the tax on luxuries such as mink coats and jewelry."

One major retailer, on a more limited scale, has mailed letters offering a tank of regular or premium grade gasoline without charge. All the recipient of such a letter has to do is pay the combined federal and state tax.

The temporary 1-cent tax scheduled to end June 30 was approved by Congress to bolster the federal highway construction trust fund. Congress provided that the temporary tax, after June 30, would be replaced by a portion of excise taxes being collected on vehicles, tires, parts and accessories not now going into the highway trust fund. Such excise collections last year exceeded $3.8 billion but $1.6 billion was diverted to the general fund.

A revised highway policy adopted last March by the executive committee of the American Petroleum Institute (API) says the industry is united in support of adequate highways for the nation but says it is unfair and unsound to call on highway users to bear the entire cost.

POLICY STATEMENT

The policy statement says good highways aid national defense, open up new areas, create new values, lower transportation costs, expedite essential services and benefit every citizen in many other ways.

"A reasonable part of highway costs should be met out of federal tax revenues," the API policy concludes.

Oilmen also say the current level of taxes is contributing to the decline in the rate of growth of gasoline demand. Demand for the first nine months of 1960 was only 1.1 per cent above the same 1959 period. Demand for the popular vacation months of July, August and September this year was 3 per cent below the year earlier level.

Frank Porter, API president, also has said gasoline taxes have stimulated a tremendous growth in compact cars.

"It is estimated at the present time nearly one-third of all new car sales are of the smaller economy type and this ratio is expected to increase in coming years as motorists seek to escape some of the impact of burdensome taxes on gasoline," Porter said.

Lloyd F. Thanhouser, vice president and general counsel of Continental Oil Co., put it this way:

"The U.S. boom in compact cars since 1955 have coincided exactly with the precipitous rise in our gasoline tax rates."

State Highway Crash Is Fatal

HOLDEN, La. (AP)—A car and truck crashed near here Friday night and killed John Taylor Whitney, 34, of Baton Rouge.

Officers said Whitney was passing a truck and trailer on the highway when he had to pull back to avoid oncoming traffic. His car collided with the rear of a Holden town garbage truck.

Two persons on the truck were injured slightly.

RECENT FIGURES SHOW PURCHASE RISE

Overseas Property Moderately Priced

NEW YORK (UPI) — Your "castle in Spain" no longer need be an air castle.

OVERSEAS PROPERTIES

Being an American man of property in Europe or the exotic Caribbean no longer conjures up the sole image of millionaire or movie star, according to John C. Tysen, president of Previews, Inc., the international real estate clearing house.

Tysen says the company's foreign business "more and more is beginning to resemble our stateside pattern where the moderately priced property is the daily and dependable backbone of the company's business." Sales of the firm's nine overseas branches, he said, have risen from 5 per cent to 15 per cent of total annual volume since 1957.

And, Tysen reports, the clientele has shown a distinct change from the pre-war luxury customer. In Europe, as well as the Caribbean, Tysen said, Previews has servied hundreds of Americans. He believes that low cost, culture and availability of servants will stimulate this trend in the decade to come.

SPECIALTY

Project housing to suit American standards has become a specialty in Spain, particularly on the shores of the Mediterranean known as the Spanish Cote d'Azur, Tysen said. In a club community that includes a golf course, yacht club, riding, shooting, cinema and casino, plus a practice bull ring, one can purchase a lot and villa built to order for $12,500. The four-bedroom villa includes a servant's room and a servant to handle cleaning, cooking and laundry averages about $8 weekly.

Young couples with children have become frequent European property seekers, Tysen said. Where prior to World War II the average American wage-earner had to be coaxed into overseas assignment with his firm, today's ex-servicemen know Europe and are not afraid to choose their own standards of living in what used to be strange lands.

ADVANTAGE

A $14,500 home with four bedrooms on the outskirts of Paris was the recent choice of a former army engineer now working for a major U.S. automotive firm. "I asked for a six-year transfer to our European operation," he explained, "because not only will I enjoy my own house, I'll make money on it by improving it for the next American who ships over when we go home. And my sons and daughter will learn a lot about all of Europe in six years."

Other Americans are taking advantage of investment opportunities in European real estate. A California architect recently purchased in Austria 35-room Tyrolean castle boasting suites used by the Emperor Maximilian and Maria Theresa of Austria. Recamping the castle with all modern conveniences, including swimming pool, the architect plans to operate it as a guest house.

Tysen feels that "raw land for housing developments or factories is the most fantastic buy in the European market. Much of it is available, prime land near major cities, and a minimal improvement warrants prices we don't even dream of in this country."

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Alan Jay Lerner, Frederick Loewe and Moss Hart have given the Broadway stage the loveliest possible Christmas present in "Camelot," which must be the most lavish and beautiful musical ever produced anywhere. But they have done more than open up the pages of a fairy tale book and show the pretty pictures; they have brought the characters to life with witty songs to sing and romantic scenes to play. Julie Andrews makes a captivating Guinevere, vibrant with humor and feminine foibles, and Richard Burton is a King Arthur far beyond any schoolgirl's dreams. Robert Coote is splendid in his role (has he ever been anything else?) and Robert Goulet performs creditably as Lancelot, but it is definitely Richard Burton's show. Nobody steals any scenes from him. He shares with James Mason the ability to enact an improbable role as if he truly believed in it, and thereby he makes the audience believe him. The Lerner-Loewe score is almost too good to be popular (look what happened to Frank Loesser's "Greenwillow") but someday "If Ever I Would Leave You" may strike some record company's A & R man as a worthy tune, and one throwaway in the show, "Follow Me," could be a hit with the disc jockeys and the public. In any event, "Camelot" is a triumph.

Glenn Ford, who recently purchases a thoroughbred from the Ali Khan stable, has named the $27,000 stallion "Seven Star" and will race it during the next meet at Hialeah. The Ford colors will be Glenn's favorites, light blue and light red . . . Can you believe it? "The Grass Is Greener," Cary Grant's newest Movie, displays him in his 59th starring role ... Some of Hollywood's top actors are vowing they won't sign for any German location jobs in the future; they complain that the Germans act as if they'd won the war. Richard Widmark is one of those still steaming from the way he was "pushed around" over there . . . Ina Balin's new romance has the Sardi Set abuzz. She meets him almost every night after the curtain has gone down on his show.

Plato Skouras, now making "Francis of Assisi" in Italy, is understandably annoyed by the Hollywood chauvinists who want all U. S. producers to make their pictures in sunny Hollywood, and considers those who choose foreign locales to be "runaway producers." Young Mr. Skouras says, "I defy anyone to make a film about Francis Assisi in a locale other than Assisi and Umbria. This setting is as much a part of the story as the heroic monk himself." On the practical side, experts estimate that if the $3,000,000 epic were filmed in California, the cost of production would be two and a half times greater.

Rudloph Valentino has been dead for 35 years, but they're publishing a new biography on him in London . . . Ingrid Bergman's attractive husband, Lars Schmidt, is in Gotham for a few days to look over the Broadway shows. After the theatre the other night he stagged it at El Morocco's Champagne Room with Gustav Wally, the Swedish banker . . . City desks might check the rumor that some highly valued letters of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, which were being kept in a publishing house, are now missing . . . Right now the anti-Castro forces are exploding almost as many bombs in Havana as Fidel's followers tossed just before Batista left. And although Castro doesn't want it broadcast, at least 15 Red Chinese technicians have been killed by the anti-Communist Cuban underground; pro-Western cloak - and - dagger men are trying to make Cuba assignments unpopular with Iron Curtain personnel. A Russian engineer and his automobile were blown up on a busy Havana street a few days ago and not a word about it appeared in the Castro-controlled press.

Although Bob Hope's schedule in New York was a tight one, he made it to the Latin Quarter and couldn't resist getting up—when the audience clamored — to ad lib with comedians Ford and Reynolds. During the 10 minutes of fun, Bob showed his usual generosity by telling the fellows: "I hate you. You're so young and great." Of course they, and the customers, loved him . . . Somebody whose punctuation leaves a bit to be desired is sending out telegrams signed by one of our finest singers, Dinah Washington. The text reads: "As long as the poor whites in the South do comedy and don't want to socialize with Negro's (sic) I demand that they stop selling my records in those parts of the country because I don't need it." The wires are datelined Hollywood . . .Dick Roman's opening at El Morocco in Montreal was even more exciting than anticipated. A bomb scare brought 10 squad cars to the cafe, and resulted in the authorities assigning two expert sleuths to the problem — one detective was described to Dick as "a Scotland Yard man" and the other "a prefect of police from France." (Probably "former" should have preceded the identifications.)

'BIG NAMES' INVOLVED

Probe Of Disc Racket Widens

NEW YORK (AP)—A probe into a bootleg racket in popular phonograph records moved today into the entertainment world itself.

An investigator said also that there soon would be a disclosure of "big names"—but did not indicate whether he meant entertainers or underworld figures.

Four more persons were arrested—raising to 16 the number taken into custody in New York City and Utica, N.Y.

All those arrested so far have been accused in the manufacture, processing or distribution of the discs.

"This investigation has not entered the entertainment field itself," Asst. Dist. Atty. William Sonenshine told Magistrate David Malbinat the arraignment of the latest four arrested.

Police said racketeers financed the alleged operation—using tape recordings of authentic records to make master records from which thousands of copies of counterfeit platters were turned out.

Thousands of albums were found in a store and manufacturing plant in the Utica area.

The new arrests were those of Norman Ravis, 41, of Hicksville, N.Y., and his brother, Herbert J. Ravis, 38, of Manhattan, owners of the Peerless Album Co. of Brooklyn; and Joseph J. Goldstein, 32, and Manuel Zevon, 34 both of Massapequa, owners of the Graphic Processing Corp. of Manhattan.

They were charged with larceny, conspiracy, use of counterfeit trademarks, and manufacturing and selling articles with counterfeit trademarks.

Louisiana Oil Allowable Not To Vary Much

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisina's oil production allowable for January and February will be changed little from the November-December level, conservation commissioner James Gill said Friday.

The current daily level is 982,467 barrels.

Gill said in a statement that the only likely increase was a small amount due to new well completions. The statement was issued in connection with an allowable hearing in New Orleans.

Gill said he saw no reason to change the allowable formula "since Louisiana stocks are indicating no appreciable build-up and national stocks have likewise shown no substantial increase."

He listed national crude stocks at 236,783,000 barrels, "a very small increase in the past two months," and Louisiana crude stocks at 18,448,000 barrels," approximately what they were two months ago."

Total crude nominations for January and February totaled 903,727 barrels per day, he said, not including 12 fields producing some 3,640 barrels, so nominations actually total 907,367 barrels.

Gill said the same depth bracket formula will be used to figure the exact allowable, 33 per cent of the March, 1953, depth bracket.

The depth bracket formula grants allowables for each well about in proportion to their depths.

Exact figures for January-February will be announced around Dec. 23.

NEW ORLEANS INTEGRATION

'Cheer Leaders' Describe Feelings

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—There is nothing personal about the way Mrs. Lee Hooks Jr., feels about the policemen who are called out daily to help enforce integration at the William Frantz School.

She hates the job they are doing, and she is bitter about the officials who send out the police. But the feeling doesn't spill over to the policemen individually.

Last week she brought them coffee in a large picnic-type vacuum jug and served it in paper cups to help ward off an early winter chill. This week the weather was balmy.

Her friendly act won this 29-year-old housewife and mother of two the nickname of "Mother." She is one of the "Cheer Leaders"—a group of from 40 to 60 women who gather each day to demonstrate against integration at the school where a Negro first grade girl is enrolled.

But there have been some incidents.

WOMAN THROWS EGG

A Negro truck driver stopped at a traffic light in front of the school Tuesday, and a white woman threw an egg at him.

The egg missed the Negro's head and smashed against the roof of his cab. The man glared and drove on.

The egg thrower was Mrs. Antoinette Andrews, 42, one of the "Cheer Leaders."

"I don't think the niggers are equal to the whites," said Mrs. Andrews. "Their heads are too hard to learn what our children can."

Mrs. Andrews has four grown children and six school-age grandchildren. She has belonged to a local White Citizens Council for five years, and went to Baton Rouge last month to encourage the state legislature to fight school desegregation in New Orleans.

"We are going to win—we've got to," she said in an interview.

Mrs. Andrews and her husband, a fireman, are admirers of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis. "Thank God we've got a governor who is sticking with us," she said. "If all the other governors were like him, we wouldn't have integration."

Opposes Church Efforts

Mrs. Andrews, a full-faced woman with streaks of gray in her black hair, attends the Roman Catholic Church but says "I don't put a nickel in the box." She opposes church efforts for desegregation.

She has lived in New Orleans all her life, and said "most of the niggers in this city don't want to go to an integrated school."

The other members of the "Cheer Leaders" feel the same way. Mrs. Hooks said:

"We wouldn't have any trouble if the mayor would leave us alone."

She sent Mayor de Lesseps Morrison a telegram this week that said: "Glad to see you fell into the hands of the NAACP." (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.) She signed the wire "an intelligent demonstrator."

Mrs. Hook's husband is an electrician "who doesn't work with niggers." Her two school-age sons attend a Catholic school. She has demonstrated at the public school because she fears parochial schools will be next to integrate.

One of the oldest of the demonstrators is Mrs. Vesta Alexander, 60, whose daughter and grandchild also are part of the crowd outside the school.

CHARGES INEQUALITY

"The mayor is not looking out for the interests of the white people," she said. "We don't think we are getting a fair deal."

"We are not getting equal rights," Mrs. Alexander added, complaining about the 91 policemen who keep hecklers away from the school.

Her daughter, Mrs. Marie Jenkins, 31, said her children "don't want to go to school with niggers."

Mr. Jenkins is a truck driver. The family is to enroll a nine-year-old son, Ray, and an eight-year-old daughter, Kathy, in a private school for white students who formerly attended Frantz.

Pointing to red paint smeared on the front porch of Rev. Andrew Foreman, a Methodist minister who continues to take his daughter to Frantz, Mrs. Jenkins said:

"We have been booing and hollering, but it looks like the painting is the only thing left to do."

Some of the women protesting school desegregation are single, as is Miss Betty J. Clement, 26, a slim blonde.

"Mixing is definitely wrong," she said. "Negro schools are newer and prettier than the ones for white students, and they (Negro students) will take over all the schools if we integrate."

OPPOSES MIXED MIRRAGE

Miss Clement is opposed vehemently to interracial marriage, and said she does not even speak to three Negroes who work as deliverymen at the office where she runs a mimeograph machine.

"If all the mothers will withdraw their children from the integrated schools we will win the battle," Miss Clement said.

The crowd of "Cheer Leaders" is only partly organized. Two of the women have formed organizations and are signing up members.

Mrs. Evelyn Jahncke, a 54-year-old divorcee with no children, organized the "Southern Rescue Service." She said it is a "patriotic ladies organization" and she designed a badge that is intended to look like a police badge. She sells the badges for $1.75 each.

Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr. organized the "Save our Nation, Inc.," and refuses to say how many members she has because the NAACP will not do so. She has not missed a day at the school.

As one woman put it: "I've been here from the start, and I'm staying to the finish."

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Alan Jay Lerner, Frederick Loewe and Moss Hart have given the Broadway stage the loveliest possible Christmas present in "Camelot," which must be the most lavish and beautiful musical ever produced anywhere. But they have done more than open up the pages of a fairy tale book and show the pretty pictures; they have brought the characters to life with witty songs to sing and romantic scenes to play. Julie Andrews makes a captivating Guinevere, vibrant with humor and feminine foibles, and Richard Burton is a King Arthur far beyond any schoolgirl's dreams. Robert Coote is splendid in his role (has he ever been anything else?) and Robert Goulet performs creditably as Lancelot, but it is definitely Richard Burton's show. Nobody steals any scenes from him. He shares with James Mason the ability to enact an improbable role as if he truly believed in it, and thereby he makes the audience believe him. The Lerner-Loewe score is almost too good to be popular (look what happened to Frank Loesser's "Greenwillow") but someday "If Ever I Would Leave You" may strike some record company's A & R man as a worthy tune, and one throwaway in the show, "Follow Me," could be a hit with the disc jockeys and the public. In any event, "Camelot" is a triumph.

Glenn Ford, who recently purchases a thoroughbred from the Ali Khan stable, has named the $27,000 stallion "Seven Star" and will race it during the next meet at Hialeah. The Ford colors will be Glenn's favorites, light blue and light red . . . Can you believe it? "The Grass Is Greener," Cary Grant's newest Movie, displays him in his 59th starring role ... Some of Hollywood's top actors are vowing they won't sign for any German location jobs in the future; they complain that the Germans act as if they'd won the war. Richard Widmark is one of those still steaming from the way he was "pushed around" over there . . . Ina Balin's new romance has the Sardi Set abuzz. She meets him almost every night after the curtain has gone down on his show.

Plato Skouras, now making "Francis of Assisi" in Italy, is understandably annoyed by the Hollywood chauvinists who want all U. S. producers to make their pictures in sunny Hollywood, and considers those who choose foreign locales to be "runaway producers." Young Mr. Skouras says, "I defy anyone to make a film about Francis Assisi in a locale other than Assisi and Umbria. This setting is as much a part of the story as the heroic monk himself." On the practical side, experts estimate that if the $3,000,000 epic were filmed in California, the cost of production would be two and a half times greater.

Rudloph Valentino has been dead for 35 years, but they're publishing a new biography on him in London . . . Ingrid Bergman's attractive husband, Lars Schmidt, is in Gotham for a few days to look over the Broadway shows. After the theatre the other night he stagged it at El Morocco's Champagne Room with Gustav Wally, the Swedish banker . . . City desks might check the rumor that some highly valued letters of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, which were being kept in a publishing house, are now missing . . . Right now the anti-Castro forces are exploding almost as many bombs in Havana as Fidel's followers tossed just before Batista left. NEW ORLEANS INTEGRATION

'Cheer Leaders' Describe Feelings

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—There is nothing personal about the way Mrs. Lee Hooks Jr., feels about the policemen who are called out daily to help enforce integration at the William Frantz School.

She hates the job they are doing, and she is bitter about the officials who send out the police. But the feeling doesn't spill over to the policemen individually.

Last week she brought them coffee in a large picnic-type vacuum jug and served it in paper cups to help ward off an early winter chill. This week the weather was balmy.

Her friendly act won this 29-year-old housewife and mother of two the nickname of "Mother." She is one of the "Cheer Leaders"—a group of from 40 to 60 women who gather each day to demonstrate against integration at the school where a Negro first grade girl is enrolled.

But there have been some incidents.

WOMAN THROWS EGG

A Negro truck driver stopped at a traffic light in front of the school Tuesday, and a white woman threw an egg at him.

The egg missed the Negro's head and smashed against the roof of his cab. The man glared and drove on.

The egg thrower was Mrs. Antoinette Andrews, 42, one of the "Cheer Leaders."

"I don't think the niggers are equal to the whites," said Mrs. Andrews. "Their heads are too hard to learn what our children can."

Mrs. Andrews has four grown children and six school-age grandchildren. She has belonged to a local White Citizens Council for five years, and went to Baton Rouge last month to encourage the state legislature to fight school desegregation in New Orleans.

"We are going to win—we've got to," she said in an interview.

Mrs. Andrews and her husband, a fireman, are admirers of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis. "Thank God we've got a governor who is sticking with us," she said. "If all the other governors were like him, we wouldn't have integration."

Opposes Church Efforts

Mrs. Andrews, a full-faced woman with streaks of gray in her black hair, attends the Roman Catholic Church but says "I don't put a nickel in the box." She opposes church efforts for desegregation.

She has lived in New Orleans all her life, and said "most of the niggers in this city don't want to go to an integrated school."

The other members of the "Cheer Leaders" feel the same way. Mrs. Hooks said:

"We wouldn't have any trouble if the mayor would leave us alone."

She sent Mayor de Lesseps Morrison a telegram this week that said: "Glad to see you fell into the hands of the NAACP." (National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.) She signed the wire "an intelligent demonstrator."

Mrs. Hook's husband is an electrician "who doesn't work with niggers." Her two school-age sons attend a Catholic school. She has demonstrated at the public school because she fears parochial schools will be next to integrate.

One of the oldest of the demonstrators is Mrs. Vesta Alexander, 60, whose daughter and grandchild also are part of the crowd outside the school.

CHARGES INEQUALITY

"The mayor is not looking out for the interests of the white people," she said. "We don't think we are getting a fair deal."

"We are not getting equal rights," Mrs. Alexander added, complaining about the 91 policemen who keep hecklers away from the school.

Her daughter, Mrs. Marie Jenkins, 31, said her children "don't want to go to school with niggers."

Mr. Jenkins is a truck driver. The family is to enroll a nine-year-old son, Ray, and an eight-year-old daughter, Kathy, in a private school for white students who formerly attended Frantz.

Pointing to red paint smeared on the front porch of Rev. Andrew Foreman, a Methodist minister who continues to take his daughter to Frantz, Mrs. Jenkins said:

"We have been booing and hollering, but it looks like the painting is the only thing left to do."

Some of the women protesting school desegregation are single, as is Miss Betty J. Clement, 26, a slim blonde.

"Mixing is definitely wrong," she said. "Negro schools are newer and prettier than the ones for white students, and they (Negro students) will take over all the schools if we integrate."

OPPOSES MIXED MIRRAGE

Miss Clement is opposed vehemently to interracial marriage, and said she does not even speak to three Negroes who work as deliverymen at the office where she runs a mimeograph machine.

"If all the mothers will withdraw their children from the integrated schools we will win the battle," Miss Clement said.

The crowd of "Cheer Leaders" is only partly organized. Two of the women have formed organizations and are signing up members.

Mrs. Evelyn Jahncke, a 54-year-old divorcee with no children, organized the "Southern Rescue Service." She said it is a "patriotic ladies organization" and she designed a badge that is intended to look like a police badge. She sells the badges for $1.75 each.

Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr. organized the "Save our Nation, Inc.," and refuses to say how many members she has because the NAACP will not do so. She has not missed a day at the school.

As one woman put it: "I've been here from the start, and I'm staying to the finish."

'BIG NAMES' INVOLVED

Probe Of Disc Racket Widens

NEW YORK (AP)—A probe into a bootleg racket in popular phonograph records moved today into the entertainment world itself.

An investigator said also that there soon would be a disclosure of "big names"—but did not indicate whether he meant entertainers or underworld figures.

Four more persons were arrested—raising to 16 the number taken into custody in New York City and Utica, N.Y.

All those arrested so far have been accused in the manufacture, processing or distribution of the discs.

"This investigation has not entered the entertainment field itself," Asst. Dist. Atty. William Sonenshine told Magistrate David Malbinat the arraignment of the latest four arrested.

Police said racketeers financed the alleged operation—using tape recordings of authentic records to make master records from which thousands of copies of counterfeit platters were turned out.

Thousands of albums were found in a store and manufacturing plant in the Utica area.

The new arrests were those of Norman Ravis, 41, of Hicksville, N.Y., and his brother, Herbert J. Ravis, 38, of Manhattan, owners of the Peerless Album Co. of Brooklyn; and Joseph J. Goldstein, 32, and Manuel Zevon, 34 both of Massapequa, owners of the Graphic Processing Corp. of Manhattan.

They were charged with larceny, conspiracy, use of counterfeit trademarks, and manufacturing and selling articles with counterfeit trademarks.

Louisiana Oil Allowable Not To Vary Much

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Louisina's oil production allowable for January and February will be changed little from the November-December level, conservation commissioner James Gill said Friday.

The current daily level is 982,467 barrels.

Gill said in a statement that the only likely increase was a small amount due to new well completions. The statement was issued in connection with an allowable hearing in New Orleans.

Gill said he saw no reason to change the allowable formula "since Louisiana stocks are indicating no appreciable build-up and national stocks have likewise shown no substantial increase."

He listed national crude stocks at 236,783,000 barrels, "a very small increase in the past two months," and Louisiana crude stocks at 18,448,000 barrels," approximately what they were two months ago."

Total crude nominations for January and February totaled 903,727 barrels per day, he said, not including 12 fields producing some 3,640 barrels, so nominations actually total 907,367 barrels.

Gill said the same depth bracket formula will be used to figure the exact allowable, 33 per cent of the March, 1953, depth bracket.

The depth bracket formula grants allowables for each well about in proportion to their depths.

Exact figures for January-February will be announced around Dec. 23.

Dillon May Be Kennedy's Secretary Of Treasury

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy got on the telephone Saturday for more work on selection of his Cabinet, amid reports he may ask a Republican to be secretary of the Treasury.

The Republican the reports centered on is C. Douglas Dillon, 51, who is undersecretary of State in the outgoing Eisenhower administration.

Kennedy's headquarters continued to decline comment on what it called speculation regarding Dillon, and there was the usual word of caution that all decisions are tentative until the president-elect announces his choices for positions in the new administration.

But Kennedy's press secretary Pierre Salinger, disclosed that the president-elect had slipped away from his Georgetown home in Washington Thursday evening for a 45-minute meeting with Dillon. The heretofore unannounced session was at Dillon's residence in the capital.

Asked at a news conference whether Kennedy had offered the $25,000-a-year Treasury post to Dillon, Salinger replied: "I couldn't answer that."

Earlier the press secretary had told reporters he would neither say nor deny that Dillon, who has a business background in finance, was the president-elect's man for the Cabinet position.

In Washington, a special assistant to Dillon, Dixon Donnelley, issued a statement.

"Mr. Dillon has seen news stories speculating that he has been offered a position in the administration of President - elect Kennedy," it said.

"Mr. Dillon did meet with Sen. Kennedy this past Thursday evening in Washington at the President-elect's request. They discussed foreign trade policies, the balance of payments, the mutual security program, the scheduled establishment next week in Paris of the new Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, and related subjects in the international field raised by the president-elect."

In reply to a question, Donnelley said that "no position has been offered" to Dillon by Kennedy.

Salinger also declined comment on reports that another man being considered for the Treasury post is Robert S. McNamara, recently chosen president of the Ford Motor Co. McNamara, 44, also is being mentioned for secretary of Defense. He went to Harvard during the same period Kennedy did.

Arthur J. Goldberg, Chicago and Washington attorney, who as general counsel of the Steelworkers Union helped settle last year's steel strike, is in line for the post of secretary of Labor. Goldberg, 52, was instrumental in ending the AFL-CIO feud and is author of the constitution of the merged AFL-CIO.

Kennedy is spending the weekend at the family's Atlantic shore home with his wife, their son, now 2 weeks old, and their daughter Caroline, 3. The baby and mother checked out of Georgetown University Hospital in Washington Friday just a few hours before traveling to Palm Beach by plane with the president-elect.

For Kennedy, Saturday was mostly a day of relaxation after a busier busy week of preparation for ... over the reins of government Jan. 20. But Salinger reported the president-elect was spending some time on the phone lining up men for key federal jobs.

The press secretary ruled out any announcement of selections for top federal posts Saturday, but left open the possibility there might be some word from Kennedy on that before he flies back to Washington Monday.

Kennedy did announce the formal appointment of Prof. Richard E. Neustadt, Columbia University specialist on the powers of the American presidency, as a consultant on matters of government organization.

Actually, Neustadt has been serving as an aide to Kennedy in that field for some time. He has been working with Clark Clifford, the president-elect's chief liaison man with the Eisenhower administration, in planning the transition from a Republican to a Democratic regime.

Saturday's announcement was that Neustadt will continue to serve as consultant until at least February. He may stay on longer if his services are needed.

Neustadt was a White House special assistant during the Truman administration, and he served earlier in that administration as an assistant director of the Budget Bureau.

His salary while on the Kennedy staff will continue to be paid by Columbia University "in the national interest," Salinger said. member of Columbia's Public Law and Government faculty, to advise him on a variety of organizational and related problems confronting the new administration.

Kennedy had hoped to have his 10-member Cabinet completed by this weekend, but he apparently is having more difficulty than he anticipated in finding—and getting acceptances from — the men he wants.

So far he has announced choices for only three Cabinet posts—Connecticut Gov. Abraham A. Ribicoff, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; North Carolina Gov. Luther H. Hodges, secretary of Commerce; and Rep. Stewart L. Udall, D-Ariz., secretary of the Interior.

There was no indication Saturday when the president-elect will be ready to name a secretary of State, a key Cabinet position.

Adlai E. Stevenson, offered appointment as representative to the United Nations, said in New York Saturday he preferred to wait until selection of a secretary of State is announced before taking the U. N. post. He said he would have to discuss the U. N. post further with Kennedy and with the secretary of State.

Salinger was asked for comment on reports that Kennedy had eliminated Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., from consideration as secretary of State. Fulbright is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

"I wouldn't have any comment on anybody they've ruled in or anybody they've ruled out," Salinger replied.

Dillon, figuring as the current likely choice for the Treasury post, was a New York investment banker in the family firm, Dillon, Read & Co., when President Eisenhower named him ambassador to France in 1953. He has been undersecretary of State since the spring of 1959.

MAJ KARL E. KEYES, 43, lies in Plattsburgh Air Force Base hospital after successfully parachuting from burning B-52 over New York State Friday night. Plane crashed in Barre, Vt., 60 miles away. Keyes was fifth man out of crew of 8 to leave plane and the first found. He suffered broken collorbone and ribs, but walked out of woods after climbing down tree in which he landed. (AP Wirephoto)

Barksdale Pair Die In Accident

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — A Barksdale Air Force Base officer and a passenger in his car, the daughter of another Barksdale couple, were killed at 7:30 p.m. Friday in a head-on vehicular collision near Paxton, Tex.

The officer was identified by Shelby County, Tex., sheriff's officers as 1st Lt. Alvin E. Sercer, 22, attached to the 26th weather squadron here.

The passenger was identified as Miss Sandra D. Lemieux, 18, daughter of Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Eugene L. Lemieux, who reside on the base.

Sims Acquitted In Fraud Case

JACKSON, Miss (UPI)—S. C. Sims, a 65-year-old Jasper County supervisor, was acquitted Saturday of a charge of fraud in the sale of 16th section school land leases.

A Hinds County circuit jury deliberated less than two hours before finding Sims innocent. A conviction could have sent him to prison for 10 years.

The state claimed Sims influenced the Jasper County board of supervisors to authorize the sale of mineral rights leases on 16th section land at $8 an acre but received $30 an acre from a Jackson oil firm.

The state said Sims gave the board $8,200 which he received in the sale and retained $9,200 for himself. The state displayed a receipt for $9,200 which it said Sims signed. Sims claimed the signature was not his.

Sims, of the Antioch community, went on trial Monday. Testimony ended Friday and final arguments were held Saturday morning.

Search Starts For Man, Boat

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Coast Guard Saturday launched a search for a 60-year-old New Orleans man who was two days overdue on a trip by boat from Empire, La.

Relatives said Roland Money left Empire Wednesday night to bring his Lafitte skiff through California Bay, Breton Sound, Bayou St. Malo and Lake Borgne to New Orleans.

Summer Home Demand

NEW YORK (UPI) — The big demand for summer homes now comes not from millionaires but from families whose income is in the $6,000 to $10,000 -a - year bracket, the construction industry estimates.

A greater use of inexpensive, yet durable, materials such as gypsum wallboard have brought the "two-home" dream with in the means of the average American family, these sources say.

Await Directors' Decision

West Monroe presented its case splendidly in the bid for the World Series of Little Boys Baseball next August, but so did a couple of other places.

National leaders investigating the West Monroe bid Monday and Tuesday said the city certainly will be able to support the tournament in the manner to which it has become accustomed, but they couldn't guarantee the 21 members of the national board of directors will give West Monroe the necessary 11 votes to bring the series to Louisiana for the first time.

The directors are already studying applications from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., and South Boston, Va., in addition to West Monroe. Danny Jones, national commissioner, has promised the decision will be made known about December 20, unless a second ballot is necessary in order for a city to poll the necessary minimum of 11 to secure the meet.

Jones, who made the investigation of West Monroe's bid with Matt Geyak, national Little Boys president, said they would certainly advise the directors that West Monroe can meet its requirement standards in everyway, but he also pointed out that it would be their duty to advise as well that Lookout Mountain and South Boston also qualified.

That leaves West Monroe awaiting the directors' ballot.

W. E. "Frenchie" Marioneaux, Winnsboro, a national director, told West Monroe's Little Boys leaders, he will certainly cast his vote for them, but he followed it with advice to follow their home pitch to Jones and Geyak with special mail presentations to the various directors themselves.

Marioneaux said he has already received such material from the rival cities in the bidding and they're presenting information that's going to have a lot to do with attracting the directors' votes.

J. M. McLemore, Winnsboro, and Burl Ladd, New Orleans, other national directors from Louisiana, have assured West Monroe their votes — that's three for sure, leaving eight needed from the remaining 18. George Perry, Ferriday, state director, can't vote.

We thought West Monroe did a fine job of presenting its credentials to Jones and Goyak at the Highland Park Country Club banquet Monday night. Marvin Smith, president of the West Monroe organization, and his fellow Little Boys leaders should be commended for their fine effort. And the support given them in their bid by other city leaders from civic, political, and business circles was in the fore.

Mayor Allan Norris, Sheriff Bailey Grant, Police Chief Jeff Caldwell, Jack Gates, Buddy Harrelson, Bill Kelly, Harold Hill, Paul Goldman, Bob Daugherty, Jack Pankey, and Jack Ducote were chief figures in outlining different phases of what the city will do in the way of housing, entertainment, publicity, tournament conduct and other items of interest considered worthy.

Their job was well done. It will be through no shortcomings at West Monroe if the tournament goes to Tennessee or Virginia.

Warning From Headquarters

Louisiana high schools are getting fair warning from Commissioner T. H. Waters to be careful of rules infractions that can bring penalties.

The warnings are out generally to the basketball schools at this time. It is pointed squarely at use of game officials eligibility of players.

Only officials who have passed supervised rules tests with a grade of 70 percent or better can work playoff and tournament games. Host schools are responsible for supplying officials meeting this requirement.

Eligibility lists and birth certificates of cagers are already being studied at Waters' office. Any who have failed to supply the lists and certificates will be penalized.

Waters also says approved cage tournament dates can begin a day earlier where the number of teams entered will force need of the extra day in order to keep within a new rule now in effect that no prep team can play more than two games a day. Waters said schools can start their tournaments a day earlier than the approved dates without calling his office for approval.

The south Louisiana schools have been penalized this month for violations. Kinder, for use of an ineligible girl basketball player, was fined $25 and put on probation for a year, from October 25. St. Martinville, for a football sportsmanship infraction, was fined $25 and put on a year's probation from September 26.

Some Short Shots

We're happy to learn Ralph Marionneaux, the "Mr. Softball" of Monroe, is recovering at his home from a recent illness . . . Ralph has been associated in softball for around 35 years as player, manager, and currently as commissioner of the Monroe recreation softball program.

The drafting of Tom Causey, Louisiana Tech end, by Buffalo's professional football team brought the observation from some Monroe fans that Tom won't be allowed to go to Buffalo because his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Causey of Monroe, will argue it's too far away for them to attend games. The wags are only jokingly emphasizing how interested the deputy sheriff and family are in Tom's athletic career. It's said they haven't missed a game in which he has played through his high school and college career of nearly eight years.

Sportsman Clyde Nash is getting out the invitations, more than ever, for his annual stag party, a year-end barbecue venison supper that's coming up Tuesday. "Same deal as usual," says Clyde. "Nothing fancy — just a good time."

Speaking of suppers, the Northeast State football banquet comes up Thursday night at the new dining hall on campus, and the Rebellettes' banquet for West Monroe High gridders will be held Tuesday night at Virginia Hotel with LSU Coach Paul Dietzel as guest speaker and Jerry Stovall, ex-Rebel athlete now starring at LSU, as a special guest.

The full allocation of Sugar Bowl tickets was not taken up by schools sending the competing teams to the January 2 game, and George E. Schneider, president of the Mid-Winter Sports Association, says a limited number of north and south stand tickets are available of a "first come" basis. Application should be made to the Sugar Bowl Office, 51 International Building, New Orleans, with checks covering desired tickets. Orders should be based at $6 per ticket, plus 5 cents per order for handling, postage, and insurance.

Twin Cities bowlers did themselves proud in the state championship tournament that ended last Sunday night. Four out of the first five individuals leaders were Twin-City men, headed by Bobby Wood. The Monroe Post Office team of Riley Hopkins, Francis Hays, Carle Sciara, Tom Stokwell, and Gene Holdsworth were just a breath away from Willie's Super Service of Bogalusa in the shot at the team title.

You can get an official Rose Bowl game program air mail in time to use your book while watching TV's account January 2 if you send $1, check or money order, to "Official Rose Bowl Program, P.O. Box 909M, Pasadena 3, Calif."

Jena Sweeps Both Crowns In Tourney

SICILY ISLAND, La. (Special) — Jena swept both championships in the annual Sicily Island Tournament last night, defeating Harrisonburg teams in the finals.

Ingram scored 28 points to lead Jena boys to a 72-49 triumph over Harrisonburg while Skarle got 31 to pace the Jena girls to a 56-47 victory.

Truman Boothe got 18 points to pace the losing boys while Randall had 21 for the Harrisonburg girls.

Sicily Island beat Jonesville boys, 56-50, and Grayson topped Enterprise, 54-44, in the consolation games. Krause hit 25 for Sicily Island and Brooks got 14 for Jonesville. May's 29 points led Grayson and Lewis and Poole had 18 each for Enterprise.

Jena boys downed Sicily Island, 61-53, in the semifinals with the winners' Doughty scoring 22 and Islander Krause 20. Harrisonburg boys gained the finals with a 67-42 nod over Jonesville as Shelby Boothe scored 24. Richard got 10 for the losers.

Jena girls beat Grayson, 52-44, and Harrisonburg beat Enterprise, 54-35, in the girls semifinals. Skrale got 29 points for Jena and May 28 for Grayson. Randall's 12 led Harrisonburg and Poole had 11 for Enterprise.

Skarle of Jena girls and Ingram of Jena boys were named the most outstanding players of the meet and Harrisonburg's Helen Randall and Truman Boothe of Harrisonburg received the Buddy Blair trophies.

Northeast Falls To Spring Hill

MOBILE, Ala. (Special) — Another second-half rally by Northeast was too little and too late as Spring Hill downed the Indians, 80-74, here Saturday night.

Behind by a 37-29 count at halftime, Northeast outscored the hosts in the second half by two points but it wasn't enough.

In their previous game, Northeast outscored Lamar Tech in the final stanza but couldn't overcome a 20-point halftime deficit.

Lenny Fant's Northeast Indians came back to tie the score three times in the final half here last night but Springhill pulled away in the final minutes to win.

Northeast stayed in the game with its accuracy at the charity line. The Indian had 43 chances at the free throw line and cashed in on 36 of them.

Springhill had a big edge in field goal, 27 to 19.

The victory left Northeast with a 2-3 record for the season.

Dick Hennier of Springhill was the game's top scorer with 16 points while Joe Nolfe hit for 14.

Lanny Johnson and Dave Harkins shared scoring honors for Northeast with 14 points each. Both of the Tribe's leading scorers fouled out before the end of the contest.

Stuart Toms and Jimmy Walker contributed 10 points each.

Spearsville Wins Title In Marion Meet

MARION, La. (Special) — Spearsville downed host Marion in both ends of the local basketball tourney here last night. The Spearsville boys won out by 74-64 and the Spearsville girls' team gained a 55-49 decision.

In the final boys struggle, C. A. Futch led the winners with 22 points with teammate Joey Barron contributing 19. For Marion in the finals it was Jerry Horn with 21 and Dennis Towns with 17.

Mary Harris canned 23 and Francis Mitcham 22 to lead the Spearsville girls in the final game, while Wanda Brashier got 25 and Elaine Binford, 15 for Marion.

In the semifinal action, Spearsville dropped Bernice, 69-55, behind a 24-point production from Joey Barron. Mike Lazenby scored 20 for Bernice. In the semifinal girls game, Spearsville whipped Strong, Arkansas, 45-27, and Marion downed Bernice, 55-44.

The all - tournament selections were, for the boys, Joey Barron and Hez Elkins of Spearsville; Jerry Horne of Marion; Jerry Colson of Lindville; and Mike Lazenby of Bernice.

Sue Medlin and Wanda Brasier of Marion; Sue Bolding of Huttig and Carolyn Elliott of Bernice made the girls' all - tourney team.

Butler Leads Forest To Win In Epps Finals

EPPS, La. (Special) — Forest, led by big Larry Butler, powered to the championship of the Epps cage tourney here last night by downing Kilbourne, 73-48, in the finals.

Butler scored 34 points to pace the victory and Willie Capers scored 22 for Kilbourne.

Lake Providence beat Ogden, 77-45, to win the girls' crown with Betty Lou Johnson taking complete charge for the winners, hitting 52 points. Linda Hatton got 25 for Ogden.

In consolation play, Bastrop dropped Epps, 55-42, in boys play and Pioneer whipped Epps in girls action, 35-17. Floyd Murray led Bastrop with 19 points and Louis Cleveland led Epps with 11. Francine Corley had 10 for Epps in the girls game and Cathy Bain scored 16 for Pioneer.

In previous action Forest beat Bastrop, 69-34, and Epps stopped Kilbourne, 56 - 55. Other girls' games saw Ogden top Pioneer, 51-40, and Lake Providence gain a 40-27 over Epps.

Making the all-tourney team were Wayne Cleveland, Epps; Floyd Murray, Bastrop; Leon Pace, Monticello; Larry Butler, Forest, and Rodney Sanders, Kilbourne.

For the girls standouts were Clements, Lake Providence; Sue Carlisle, Pioneer; Jennings, Ogden; Lavone Broadway, Oak Grove; Betty Johnson, Lake Providence; and Pat Alford, Ogden.

Nugent To Stay With Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Coach Tom Nugent says he plans to remain at the University of Maryland "and continue to develop the football program here."

Nugent made the statement after a 90-minute conference with Dr. Wilson Elkins, president of the school.

Their meeting followed published reports Nugent was considered a possible coaching choice of the Philadelphia Eagles or the Washington Redskins of the National Football League should those clubs have vacancies next year.

Dr. Elkins said he was pleased with the outcome of the meeting with Nugent, although he said they "did not arrive at any specific conclusions."

The 47-year-old coach has two years remaining on a four-year contract at Maryland.

Rice Rallies To Top LSU In 67-50 Tilt

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rice used its height advantage and free throw accuracy to come from behind and beat Louisiana State 67-50 here Saturday.

The taller Owls held a 64-41 rebound advantage and dominated the backboards especially during their second half comeback.

Forward Ollie Shipley paced the Owls with 20 points and also hauled down 13 rebounds to lead in that department. Mike Maroney scored 14 points and grabbed 12 rebounds.

George Nattin and Ellis Cooper each scored 15 to pace LSU.

A late surge in the first half sent LSU to a 33-27 halftime lead. But the Owls came back, dominating the backboards, and caught the Tigers early in the second half to win pulling away.

The Owls sank 21 of 30 free throws, while LSU had 10 of 19. Rice shot 35 per cent from the floor to 27 per cent for LSU.

MOST OUTSTANDING PLAYER in the Gulf States Conference is Louisiana Tech end Tom Causey. Causey, a former all-state end at Neville, was voted the circuit's top player in the annual Louisiana Sports Writers Assn. poll.

Tribe's Barnes Named To Team

By BOB ANDERSON
Monroe Morning World
(Written for La. Sports Writers Assn.)

Gulf States Conference co - champion Louisiana Tech placed six players on the all-GSC football team selected by the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn. and announced today.

End Tom Causey, voter the circuit's Most Outstanding Player by the writers, tackle Herschel Vinyard, guard Joe Hinton, quarterback Mickey Slaughter and backs Paul Hynes and Max Rudd are the Tech players on the all-star team.

Southeastern, league co-champion with Tech, has two players on the team, tackle Paul Alexander and back Wilbur Derrick.

End Charlie Barnes of Northeast, guard Morris Elder of Southwestern and center Lenny Kahn of McNeese complete the first team.

Causey and Hinton were the top vote getters on the team, collecting 133 points of a possible 135. A first-team vote counted as five points and a second-team vote as three.

Causey edged Slaughter and Hinton in the balloting for Most Outstanding Player. Other players receiving votes were Southeastern's Elbert Harris, Northwestern's Jerry Didier, McNeese's Don Breaux, Hynes and Derrick.

Two of the all-GSC choices are repeaters from the 1959 club, Hinton and Kahn. Barnes, Vinyard and Hynes were second-team selections last fall and Causey and Rudd were on the 1959 third team.

Seven of the all-stars were runaway choices while the other four had strong competition.

Causey, Alexander, Hinton, Kahn, Derrick and Hynes made the team easily but Barnes beat out McNeese's Johnny Steed, 95 points to 74, Vinyard nosed out Northeast's Delmas Thorne by five points, 83 to 78, Elder won over Northwestern's Jerry Didier, 92 to 84, and Slaughter (99 points) edged McNeese's Don Breaux (92), an all-GSC choice last year, and Southeastern's Elbert Harris (76) in a three - way battle for the quarterback position.

Causey, a 6-4, 210-pound senior from Monroe, teamed with Slaughter to give Tech a feared aerial battery. Causey caught 39 passes, 22 more than his nearest GSC competitor, for 516 yards and five touchdowns. He twice caught touchdown passes to win games in the final minutes.

Barnes tied for second among league pass receivers with 17 for 195 yards and was one of the best defensive flankman in the conference.

Alexander was an all - conference guard in the Mississippi junior college circuit last fall and made the switch to tackle at Southeastern in fine style. He's fast and was a defensive standout all season. Alexander led the tackle balloting with 108 points.

Vinyard made a name for himself rushing passers. The 218 pounder was hard to stop at the line of scrimmage and led his club in throwing opposing backs for losses.

Hinton, last of the famed Ruston brothers, had his best season after making all - GSC last year. He was nominated for conference lineman of the week six times and won the award twice.

Elder was Southwestern's line mainstay, a small but exceptionally quick guard who averaged about 10 tackles per game and handled his blocking assignments capably.

Kahn, hampered by injuries in 1959, enjoyed better health this fall and turned in a great season. A vicious tackler from his linebacker spot, he also starred offensively with 15 points on extra points and a field goal.

Slaughter, an exceptionally poised sophomore, specialized in last - minute heroics, pulling out game after game with his clutch passing. He completed 64 of 114 tosses for 834 yards and six touchdowns.

Derrick, an ex - serviceman playing his first year for Southeastern, was the league's top rusher with 465 yards, over 100 yards ahead of his nearest rival, for a 4.3 - yard average. This powerful runner was the best of many outstanding Southeastern running backs.

Hynes has been one of the most consistently outstanding GSC backs in history. He has made the first or second all - conference team each of his four years at Tech. The top scorer in the league with 36 points, he gained 359 yards on 83 carries and pulled in 12 passes for 104 yards.

Rudd was not among the league's leading rushers, gaining 194 yards in 53 carries, but reaped praise with his vicious blocking. He was equally outstanding as a defensive cornerback. Rudd got 88 points in the backfield balloting ,49 more than his nearest competitor.

Three of the all - star selections are juniors, Alexander, Vinyard and Derrick and Slaughter is a sophomore. The rest are seniors.

Five underclassmen on the 1959 all - GSC team failed to make the grade this year. Breaux, although he enjoyed another great campaign, was edged by Slaughter, tackle Duane Grom of Southeastern, guard Jerry Allen and halfback Steve Gossen of Southwestern were hampered by injuries and end Charles Garris of Tech gave up a final year of college eligibility to sign a pro baseball contract.

VARINO BIG GUN

Irish Hand Rebs 60-35 Cage Loss

St. Matthew's got behind the unbeatable jump shooting of tall John Varino and threw up a tough zone defense to stop West Monroe, 60-35, at the Irish gym last night.

Varino hit with deadly accuracy around the key hole and racked up a 27-point total to go with his big defensive game that helped limit the Rebels to only one field goal in each of the first and second quarters and 13 throughout the contest.

Ball hawking Freddie Accardo chipped in 14 points to rank second in the Irish score column, and West Monroe's Oliver Schultz, who staged a one-man offensive battle with Varino in the third period, scored 14 for the Rebels.

The Irish were never in danger, although it took almost half the first quarter for either team to settle down enough to score. With 4:50 remaining in the initial period Frankie Accardo hit a jump shot for a 2-0 lead, and the Rebs found themselves on the short end from that point.

After Charley Dykes pulled West Monroe within one point at 3-2 Varino and company took advantage of a rash of Rebel fouls and some fine outside shooting to end the first quarter with a 14-4 lead.

Jerry Chapman hit the only West Monroe fielder in the second period and the Rebs picked up three free throws but still trailed 23-9 at the half.

The third quarter was a full-scale offensive battle with both teams making up for any previous cold streaks. Elias hit a hook to put the Irish ahead 25-9 and Doerner came back for West Monroe on a driving layup to open the quarter.

Zagone and Varino hit jump shots and Accardo put in two charity tosses to increase the St. Matthew's lead to 10 points before Schultz could find the range for the Confederates. Every time West Monroe scored the Irish came right back and ended the third quarter keeping the Rebels behind 42-22.

Accardo, for the Irish, and Fields for West Monroe, fouled out in the final quarter and the Rebels fell a little farther behind.

Varino kept his hot streak throughout the closing minutes and hit on steady jump shots and layups to move the Irish out ahead for good, 60-35.

Local Teams Lose Calhoun Cage Games

CALHOUN, La. (Special) — Calhoun boys and both Quitman teams took victories in a basketball tripleheader here last night.

Quitman boys beat Neville, 54-47, Quitman girls edged Ouachita by two points, 42-40, and Calhoun boys easily downed Choudrant, 65-49.

Arnold Ramsey scored 21 points and Eugene Norred 18 to pace Quitman over Neville. Frank Keith was tops for Neville with 16 points while Mike Fettinger and Budly Cerniglia got 9 apiece.

Richard McVay's 30 points led Choudrant and all scorers in the other boys game while Scotty Sims whipped in 24 for Calhoun.

Tidwell bucketed 21 points to pace Quitman girls over Ouachita, which was led by Judy Glenn's 19 points.

Elizabeth On Top In Cage Tournament

ST. JOSEPH, La. (Special) Ferriday climbed to the finals of the Davidson High School Basketball Tournament here last night in both the boys and girls divisions but took home the title only in the girls bracket, downing Newellton, 28-19.

The Ferriday boys lost out in the finals to Elizabeth, 60-36.

Final rankins in the meet saw Elizabeth, Ferriday and Newellton in boys play and Ferriday, Newellton and Davidson in the girls division.

Ferriday advanced to the title spot by jumping St. Joseph, the host team, 66-53, yesterday. Newellton downed St. Joseph, 54-46 in consolation play.

The Ferriday girls advanced by dumping Waterproof, 42-9. In the consolation game St. Joseph downed Waterproof, 48-26.

The boys all - tourney team was W. Chance, Elizabeth; Turner, Elizabeth; Vernon Alford, Ferriday; Joe Allen Maclain, Newellton; and Jim Woods, Davidson.

For the girls, the meet stars were Marilyn Stephans, Ferriday; Beckey Purvis, Ferriday; Dorothy Staggs, Ferriday; Lynn Smith Newellton; Doris Clark, Newellton; and Margaret Melville, Davidson.

Grambling In 90-84 Victory Over Jaguars

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Searing the nets with remorseless craft, the Grambling Tigers unhinged Southern University, 90-84, to win the fourth annual Grambling Invitational Basketball Tourney last night.

The game followed a pattern that had become despondently familiary to Coach Richard Mack and his groggy Jaguar tenderfeet.

Southern has lost seven straight games to Fred Hobdy's nationally ranked hot rods.

With Rex Tippitt, Charles Hardnett and Hershell West exuding cunning, poise and know-how, Grambling jumped off to a 10-5 first period lead and was never headed.

They led 40-31 at the midway point and stretched the margin to 14 points before a late drive knifed off eight.

Tipitt pumped in 32 points to grab offensive honors. West rimmed 27 with a vast assortment of under the basket maneuvers.

Five players figured in the visitors evenly balanced attack. Harvey Darty with 17, Louie Bond with 16, Adolph Powell with 15, Willie Thomas and Charles Maxey with 13 led the attack.

Dillard U. edged Wiley, 74-71 for third place in a see-saw overtime scramble.

Grid Writers Name Warmath Coach Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Murray Warmath of national champion Minnesota Saturday was named coach of the year by the Football Writers' Association of America.

Warmath, focal point of alumni and student protests a year ago, had a wide margin over runner-up Jordan Olivar of Yale in the voting by 735 association members which was announced by Secretary-Treasurer Maury White of the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

Warmath drew 279 votes to 149 for Olivar, whose Yale team won the Ivy League championship and had a perfect record.

A year ago, Warmath's Gophers finished last in the Big Ten Conference. This year's club zoomed into a title tie with Iowa, finishing with an 8-1 record and a Rose Bowl berth against Washington.

PAUL MARTIN LOOKS 'EM OVER

Await Directors' Decision

West Monroe presented its case splendidly in the bid for the World Series of Little Boys Baseball next August, but so did a couple of other places.

National leaders investigating the West Monroe bid Monday and Tuesday said the city certainly will be able to support the tournament in the manner to which it has become accustomed, but they couldn't guarantee the 21 members of the national board of directors will give West Monroe the necessary 11 votes to bring the series to Louisiana for the first time.

The directors are already studying applications from Lookout Mountain, Tenn., and South Boston, Va., in addition to West Monroe. Danny Jones, national commissioner, has promised the decision will be made known about December 20, unless a second ballot is necessary in order for a city to poll the necessary minimum of 11 to secure the meet.

Jones, who made the investigation of West Monroe's bid with Matt Geyak, national Little Boys president, said they would certainly advise the directors that West Monroe can meet its requirement standards in everyway, but he also pointed out that it would be their duty to advise as well that Lookout Mountain and South Boston also qualified.

That leaves West Monroe awaiting the directors' ballot.

W. E. "Frenchie" Marioneaux, Winnsboro, a national director, told West Monroe's Little Boys leaders, he will certainly cast his vote for them, but he followed it with advice to follow their home pitch to Jones and Geyak with special mail presentations to the various directors themselves.

Marioneaux said he has already received such material from the rival cities in the bidding and they're presenting information that's going to have a lot to do with attracting the directors' votes.

J. M. McLemore, Winnsboro, and Burl Ladd, New Orleans, other national directors from Louisiana, have assured West Monroe their votes — that's three for sure, leaving eight needed from the remaining 18. George Perry, Ferriday, state director, can't vote.

We thought West Monroe did a fine job of presenting its credentals to Jones and Goyak at the Highland Park Country Club banquet Monday night. Marvin Smith, president of the West Monroe organization, and his fellow Little Boys leaders should be commended for their fine effort. And the support given them in their bid by other city leaders from civic, political, and business circles was in the fore.

Mayor Allan Norris, Sheriff Bailey Grant, Police Chief Jeff Caldwell, Jack Gates, Buddy Harrelson, Bill Kelly, Harold Hill, Paul Goldman, Bob Daugherty, Jack Pankey, and Jack Ducote were chief figures in outlining different phases of what the city will do in the way of housing, entertainment, publicity, tournament conduct and other items of interest considered worthy.

Their job was well done. It will be through no shortcomings at West Monroe if the tournament goes to Tennessee or Virginia.

Warning From Headquarters

Louisiana high schools are getting fair warning from Commissioner T. H. Waters to be careful of rules infractions that can bring penalties.

The warnings are out generally to the basketball schools at this time. It is pointed squarely at use of game officials eligibility of players.

Only officials who have passed supervised rules tests with a grade of 70 percent or better can work playoff and tournament games. Host schools are responsible for supplying officials meeting this requirement.

Eligibility lists and birth certificates of cagers are already being studied at Waters' office. Any who have failed to supply the lists and certificates will be penalized.

Waters also says approved cage tournament dates can begin a day earlier where the number of teams entered will force need of the extra day in order to keep within a new rule now in effect that no prep team can play more than two games a day. Waters said schools can start their tournaments a day earlier than the approved dates without calling his office for approval.

The south Louisiana schools have been penalized this month for violations. Kinder, for use of an ineligible girl basketball player, was fined $25 and put on probation for a year, from October 25. St. Martinville, for a football sportsmanship infraction, was fined $25 and put on a year's probation from September 28.

Some Short Shots

We're happy to learn Ralph Marionneaux, the "Mr. Softball" of Monroe, is recovering at his home from a recent illness . . . Ralph has been associated in softball for around 35 years as player, manager, and currently as commissioner of the Monroe recreation softball program.

The drafting of Tom Causey, Louisiana Tech end, by Buffalo's professional football team brought the observation from some Monroe fans that Tom won't be allowed to go to Buffalo because his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Causey of Monroe, will argue it's too far away for them to attend games. The wags are only jokingly emphasizing how interested the deputy sheriff and family are in Tom's athletic career. It's said they haven't missed a game in which he has played through his high school and college career of nearly eight years.

Sportsman Clyde Nash is getting out the invitations, more than ever, for his annual stag party, a year-end barbecue venison supper that's coming up Tuesday. "Same deal as usual," says Clyde. "Nothing fancy — just a good time."

Speaking of suppers, the Northeast State football banquet comes up Thursday night at the new dining hall on campus, and the Rebellettes' banquet for West Monroe High gridders will be held Tuesday night at Virginia Hotel with LSU Coach Paul Dietzel as guest speaker and Jerry Stovall, ex-Rebel athlete now starring at LSU, as a special guest.

The full allocation of Sugar Bowl tickets was not taken up by schools sending the competing teams to the January 2 game, and George E. Schneider, president of the Mid-Winter Sports Association, says a limited number of north and south stand tickets are available of a "first come" basis. Application should be made to the Sugar Bowl Office, 51 International Building, New Orleans, with checks covering desired tickets. Orders should be based at $6 per ticket, plus 5 cents per order for handling, postage, and insurance.

Twin Cities bowlers did themselves proud in the state championship tournament that ended last Sunday night. Four out of the first five individuals leaders were Twin-City men, headed by Bobby Wood. The Monroe Post Office team of Riley Hopkins, Francis Hays, Carle Sciara, Tom Stokwell, and Gene Holdsworth were just a breath away from Willie's Super Service of Bogalusa in the shot at the team title.

You can get an official Rose Bowl game program air mail in time to use your book while watching TV's account January 2 if you send $1, check or money order, to "Official Rose Bowl Program, P.O. Box 909M, Pasadena 3, Calif."

Jena Sweeps Both Crowns In Tourney

SICILY ISLAND, La. (Special) — Jena swept both championships in the annual Sicily Island Tournament last night, defeating Harrisonburg teams in the finals.

Ingram scored 28 points to lead Jena boys to a 72-49 triumph over Harrisonburg while Skarle got 31 to pace the Jena girls to a 56-47 victory.

Truman Boothe got 18 points to pace the losing boys while Randall had 21 for the Harrisonburg girls.

Sicily Island beat Jonesville boys, 56-50, and Grayson topped Enterprise, 54-44, in the consolation games. Krause hit 25 for Sicily Island and Brooks got 14 for Jonesville. May's 29 points led Grayson and Lewis and Poole had 18 each for Enterprise.

Jena boys downed Sicily Island, 61-53, in the semifinals with the winners' Doughty scoring 22 and Islander Krause 20. Harrisonburg boys gained the finals with a 67-42 nod over Jonesville as Shelby Boothe scored 24. Richard got 10 for the losers.

Jena girls beat Grayson, 52-44, and Harrisonburg beat Enterprise, 54-35, in the girls semifinals. Skrale got 29 points for Jena and May 28 for Grayson. Randall's 12 led Harrisonburg and Poole had 11 for Enterprise.

Skarle of Jena girls and Ingram of Jena boys were named the most outstanding players of the meet and Harrisonburg's Helen Randall and Truman Boothe of Harrisonburg received the Buddy Blair trophies.

Northeast Falls To Spring Hill

MOBILE, Ala. (Special) — Another second-half rally by Northeast was too little and too late as Spring Hill downed the Indians, 80-74, here Saturday night.

Behind by a 37-29 count at halftime, Northeast outscored the hosts in the second half by two points but it wasn't enough.

In their previous game, Northeast outscored Lamar Tech in the final stanza but couldn't overcome a 20-point halftime deficit.

Lenny Fant's Northeast Indians came back to tie the score three times in the final half here last night but Springhill pulled away in the final minutes to win.

Northeast stayed in the game with its accuracy at the charity line. The Indian had 43 chances at the free throw line and cashed in on 36 of them.

Springhill had a big edge in field goal, 27 to 19.

The victory left Northeast with a 2-3 record for the season.

Dick Hennier of Springhill was the game's top scorer with 16 points while Joe Nolfe hit for 14.

Lanny Johnson and Dave Harkins shared scoring honors for Northeast with 14 points each. Both of the Tribe's leading scorers fouled out before the end of the contest.

Stuart Toms and Jimmy Walker contributed 10 points each.

Spearsville Wins Title In Marion Meet

MARION, La. (Special) — Spearsville downed host Marion in both ends of the local basketball tourney here last night. The Spearsville boys won out by 74-64 and the Spearsville girls' team gained a 55-49 decision.

In the final boys struggle, C. A. Futch led the winners with 22 points with teammate Joey Barron contributing 19. For Marion in the finals it was Jerry Horn with 21 and Dennis Towns with 17.

Mary Harris canned 23 and Francis Mitcham 22 to lead the Spearsville girls in the final game, while Wanda Brashier got 25 and Elaine Binford, 15 for Marion.

In the semifinal action, Spearsville dropped Bernice, 69-55, behind a 24-point production from Joey Barron. Mike Lazenby scored 20 for Bernice. In the semifinal girls game, Spearsville whipped Strong, Arkansas, 45-27, and Marion downed Bernice, 55-44.

The all - tournament selections were, for the boys, Joey Barron and Hez Elkins of Spearsville; Jerry Horne of Marion; Jerry Colson of Lindville; and Mike Lazenby of Bernice.

Sue Medlin and Wanda Brasier of Marion; Sue Bolding of Huttig and Carolyn Elliott of Bernice made the girls' all - tourney team.

Butler Leads Forest To Win In Epps Finals

EPPS, La. (Special) — Forest, led by big Larry Butler, powered to the championship of the Epps cage tourney here last night by downing Kilbourne, 73-48, in the finals.

Butler scored 34 points to pace the victory and Willie Capers scored 22 for Kilbourne.

Lake Providence beat Ogden, 77-45, to win the girls' crown with Betty Lou Johnson taking complete charge for the winners, hitting 52 points. Linda Hatton got 25 for Ogden.

In consolation play, Bastrop dropped Epps, 55-42, in boys play and Pioneer whipped Epps in girls action, 35-17. Floyd Murray led Bastrop with 19 points and Louis Cleveland led Epps with 11. Francine Corley had 10 for Epps in the girls game and Cathy Bain scored 16 for Pioneer.

In previous action Forest beat Bastrop, 69-34, and Epps stopped Kilbourne, 56 - 55. Other girls' games saw Ogden top Pioneer, 51-40, and Lake Providence gain a 40-27 over Epps.

Making the all-tourney team were Wayne Cleveland, Epps; Floyd Murray, Bastrop; Leon Pace, Monticello; Larry Butler, Forest, and Rodney Sanders, Kilbourne.

For the girls standouts were Clements, Lake Providence; Sue Carlisle, Pioneer; Jennings, Ogden; Lavone Broadway, Oak Grove; Betty Johnson, Lake Providence; and Pat Alford, Ogden.

Nugent To Stay With Maryland

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Coach Tom Nugent says he plans to remain at the University of Maryland "and continue to develop the football program here."

Nugent made the statement after a 90-minute conference with Dr. Wilson Elkins, president of the school.

Their meeting followed published reports Nugent was considered a possible coaching choice of the Philadelphia Eagles or the Washington Redskins of the National Football League should those clubs have vacancies next year.

Dr. Elkins said he was pleased with the outcome of the meeting with Nugent, although he said they "did not arrive at any specific conclusions."

The 47-year-old coach has two years remaining on a four-year contract at Maryland.

Rice Rallies To Top LSU In 67-50 Tilt

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Rice used its height advantage and free throw accuracy to come from behind and beat Louisiana State 67-50 here Saturday.

The taller Owls held a 64-41 rebound advantage and dominated the backboards especially during their second half comeback.

Forward Ollie Shipley paced the Owls with 20 points and also hauled down 13 rebounds to lead in that department. Mike Maroney scored 14 points and grabbed 12 rebounds.

George Nattin and Ellis Cooper each scored 15 to pace LSU.

A late surge in the first half sent LSU to a 33-27 halftime lead. But the Owls came back, dominating the backboards, and caught the Tigers early in the second half to win pulling away.

The Owls sank 21 of 30 free throws, while LSU had 10 of 19. Rice shot 35 per cent from the floor to 27 per cent for LSU.

MOST OUTSTANDING PLAYER in the Gulf States Conference is Louisiana Tech end Tom Causey. Causey, a former all-state end at Neville, was voted the circuit's top player in the annual Louisiana Sports Writers Assn. poll.

Tribe's Barnes Named To Team

By BOB ANDERSON
Monroe Morning World
(Written for La. Sports Writers Assn.)

Gulf States Conference co - champion Louisiana Tech placed six players on the all-GSC football team selected by the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn. and announced today.

End Tom Causey, voter the circuit's Most Outstanding Player by the writers, tackle Herschel Vinyard, guard Joe Hinton, quarterback Mickey Slaughter and backs Paul Hynes and Max Rudd are the Tech players on the all-star team.

Southeastern, league co-champion with Tech, has two players on the team, tackle Paul Alexander and back Wilbur Derrick.

End Charlie Barnes of Northeast, guard Morris Elder of Southwestern and center Lenny Kahn of McNeese complete the first team.

Causey and Hinton were the top vote getters on the team, collecting 133 points of a possible 135. A first-team vote counted as five points and a second-team vote as three.

Causey edged Slaughter and Hinton in the balloting for Most Outstanding Player. Other players receiving votes were Southeastern's Elbert Harris, Northwestern's Jerry Didier, McNeese's Don Breaux, Hynes and Derrick.

Two of the all-GSC choices are repeaters from the 1959 club, Hinton and Kahn. Barnes, Vinyard and Hynes were second-team selections last fall and Causey and Rudd were on the 1959 third team.

Seven of the all-stars were runaway choices while the other four had strong competition.

Causey, Alexander, Hinton, Kahn, Derrick and Hynes made the team easily but Barnes beat out McNeese's Johnny Steed, 95 points to 74, Vinyard nosed out Northeast's Delmas Thorne by five points, 83 to 78, Elder won over Northwestern's Jerry Didier, 92 to 84, and Slaughter (99 points) edged McNeese's Don Breaux (92), an all-GSC choice last year, and Southeastern's Elbert Harris (76) in a three - way battle for the quarterback position.

Causey, a 6-4, 210-pound senior from Monroe, teamed with Slaughter to give Tech a feared aerial battery. Causey caught 39 passes, 22 more than his nearest GSC competitor, for 516 yards and five touchdowns. He twice caught touchdown passes to win games in the final minutes.

Barnes tied for second among league pass receivers with 17 for 195 yards and was one of the best defensive flankman in the conference.

Alexander was an all - conference guard in the Mississippi junior college circuit last fall and made the switch to tackle at Southeastern in fine style. He's fast and was a defensive standout all season. Alexander led the tackle balloting with 108 points.

Vinyard made a name for himself rushing passers. The 218 pounder was hard to stop at the line of scrimmage and led his club in throwing opposing backs for losses.

Hinton, last of the famed Ruston brothers, had his best season after making all - GSC last year. He was nominated for conference lineman of the week six times and won the award twice.

Elder was Southwestern's line mainstay, a small but exceptionally quick guard who averaged about 10 tackles per game and handled his blocking assignments capably.

Kahn, hampered by injuries in 1959, enjoyed better health this fall and turned in a great season. A vicious tackler from his linebacker spot, he also starred offensively with 15 points on extra points and a field goal.

Slaughter, an exceptionally poised sophomore, specialized in last - minute heroics, pulling out game after game with his clutch passing. He completed 64 of 114 tosses for 834 yards and six touchdowns.

Derrick, an ex - serviceman playing his first year for Southeastern, was the league's top rusher with 465 yards, over 100 yards ahead of his nearest rival, for a 4.3 - yard average. This powerful runner was the best of many outstanding Southeastern running backs.

Hynes has been one of the most consistently outstanding GSC backs in history. He has made the first or second all - conference team each of his four years at Tech. The top scorer in the league with 36 points, he gained 359 yards on 83 carries and pulled in 12 passes for 104 yards.

Rudd was not among the league's leading rushers, gaining 194 yards in 53 carries, but reaped praise with his vicious blocking. He was equally outstanding as a defensive cornerback. Rudd got 88 points in the backfield balloting ,49 more than his nearest competitor.

Three of the all - star selections are juniors, Alexander, Vinyard and Derrick and Slaughter is a sophomore. The rest are seniors.

Five underclassmen on the 1959 all - GSC team failed to make the grade this year. Breaux, although he enjoyed another great campaign, was edged by Slaughter, tackle Duane Grom of Southeastern, guard Jerry Allen and halfback Steve Gossen of Southwestern were hampered by injuries and end Charles Garris of Tech gave up a final year of college eligibility to sign a pro baseball contract.

VARINO BIG GUN

Irish Hand Rebs 60-35 Cage Loss

St. Matthew's got behind the unbeatable jump shooting of tall John Varino and threw up a tough zone defense to stop West Monroe, 60-35, at the Irish gym last night.

Varino hit with deadly accuracy around the key hole and racked up a 27-point total to go with his big defensive game that helped limit the Rebels to only one field goal in each of the first and second quarters and 13 throughout the contest.

Ball hawking Freddie Accardo chipped in 14 points to rank second in the Irish score column, and West Monroe's Oliver Schultz, who staged a one-man offensive battle with Varino in the third period, scored 14 for the Rebels.

The Irish were never in danger, although it took almost half the first quarter for either team to settle down enough to score. With 4:50 remaining in the initial period Frankie Accardo hit a jump shot for a 2-0 lead, and the Rebs found themselves on the short end from that point.

After Charley Dykes pulled West Monroe within one point at 3-2 Varino and company took advantage of a rash of Rebel fouls and some fine outside shooting to end the first quarter with a 14-4 lead.

Jerry Chapman hit the only West Monroe fielder in the second period and the Rebs picked up three free throws but still trailed 23-9 at the half.

The third quarter was a full-scale offensive battle with both teams making up for any previous cold streaks. Elias hit a hook to put the Irish ahead 25-9 and Doerner came back for West Monroe on a driving layup to open the quarter.

Zagone and Varino hit jump shots and Accardo put in two charity tosses to increase the St. Matthew's lead to 10 points before Schultz could find the range for the Confederates. Every time West Monroe scored the Irish came right back and ended the third quarter keeping the Rebels behind 42-22.

Accardo, for the Irish, and Fields for West Monroe, fouled out in the final quarter and the Rebels fell a little farther behind.

Varino kept his hot streak throughout the closing minutes and hit on steady jump shots and layups to move the Irish out ahead for good, 60-35.

Local Teams Lose Calhoun Cage Games

CALHOUN, La. (Special) — Calhoun boys and both Quitman teams took victories in a basketball tripleheader here last night.

Quitman boys beat Neville, 54-47, Quitman girls edged Ouachita by two points, 42-40, and Calhoun boys easily downed Choudrant, 65-49.

Arnold Ramsey scored 21 points and Eugene Norred 18 to pace Quitman over Neville. Frank Keith was tops for Neville with 16 points while Mike Fettinger and Budly Cerniglia got 9 apiece.

Richard McVay's 30 points led Choudrant and all scorers in the other boys game while Scotty Sims whipped in 24 for Calhoun.

Tidwell bucketed 21 points to pace Quitman girls over Ouachita, which was led by Judy Glenn's 19 points.

Elizabeth On Top In Cage Tournament

ST. JOSEPH, La. (Special) Ferriday climbed to the finals of the Davidson High School Basketball Tournament here last night in both the boys and girls divisions but took home the title only in the girls bracket, downing Newellton, 28-19.

The Ferriday boys lost out in the finals to Elizabeth, 60-36.

Final rankins in the meet saw Elizabeth, Ferriday and Newellton in boys play and Ferriday, Newellton and Davidson in the girls division.

Ferriday advanced to the title spot by jumping St. Joseph, the host team, 66-53, yesterday. Newellton downed St. Joseph, 54-46 in consolation play.

The Ferriday girls advanced by dumping Waterproof, 42-9. In the consolation game St. Joseph downed Waterproof, 48-26.

The boys all - tourney team was W. Chance, Elizabeth; Turner, Elizabeth; Vernon Alford, Ferriday; Joe Allen Maclain, Newellton; and Jim Woods, Davidson.

For the girls, the meet stars were Marilyn Stephans, Ferriday; Beckey Purvis, Ferriday; Dorothy Staggs, Ferriday; Lynn Smith Newellton; Doris Clark, Newellton; and Margaret Melville, Davis with 16, Adolph Powell with 15, Willie Thomas and Charles Maxey with 13 led the attack.

Grambling In 90-84 Victory Over Jaguars

GRAMBLING, La. (Special) — Searing the nets with remorseless craft, the Grambling Tigers unhinged Southern University, 90-84, to win the fourth annual Grambling Invitational Basketball Tourney last night.

The game followed a pattern that had become despondently familiary to Coach Richard Mack and his groggy Jaguar tenderfeet.

Southern has lost seven straight games to Fred Hobdy's nationally ranked hot rods.

With Rex Tippitt, Charles Hardnett and Hershell West exuding cunning, poise and know-how, Grambling jumped off to a 10-5 first period lead and was never headed.

They led 40-31 at the midway point and stretched the margin to 14 points before a late drive knifed off eight.

Tipitt pumped in 32 points to grab offensive honors. West rimmed 27 with a vast assortment of under the basket maneuvers.

Five players figured in the visitors evenly balanced attack. Harvey Darty with 17, Louie Bond

Grid Writers Name Warmath Coach Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Murray Warmath of national champion Minnesota Saturday was named coach of the year by the Football Writers' Association of America.

Warmath, focal point of alumni and student protests a year ago, had a wide margin over runner-up Jordan Olivar of Yale in the voting by 735 association members which was announced by Secretary-Treasurer Maury White of the Des Moines Register and Tribune.

Warmath drew 279 votes to 149 for Olivar, whose Yale team won the Ivy League championship and had a perfect record.

A year ago, Warmath's Gophers finished last in the Big Ten Conference. This year's club zoomed into a title tie with Iowa, finishing with an 8-1 record and a Rose Bowl berth against Washington.

Dillard U. edged Wiley, 74-71 for third place in a see-saw overtime scramble.

ALSO MYSTERY WITNESS

Boxing Probers May Hear Carbo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators may bring gangster Frankie Carbo from his penitentiary cell next week to answer charges that his behind-the-scenes "convincing" helped set up some of boxing's biggest championship fights.

Investigators also tentatively scheduled for Monday a mystery witness described as a former champion and "big name" in boxing whose identity was being withheld for his own protection.

A spokesman for the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., said the group hoped to bring Carbo here Tuesday or Wednesday.

Carbo's name came up frequently during testimony this week which suggested that the careers of some of sports most famous personalities were manipulated by underworld characters.

He presently is serving a two-year term at Rikers Island, N.Y., penitentiary for managing fighters without a license.

Subcommittee sources expect Carbo to plead the Fifth Amendment frequently and loudly, but there was some hope he might be willing to give his version of his past associations with James D. Norris, former president of the International Boxing Club (IBC).

Norris told a closed subcommittee session Friday that Carbo was the "expediter" and "convincer" in obtaining the services of former champions Jake Lamotta, Willie Pep, Tony Demarco, and Carmen Basilio.

"We expect he will plead the Fifth Amendment," the subcommittee source said, "however, remember, Norris called him the 'convincer.' He might have something to say about Mr. Norris."

The ex-champion whose identity was withheld was expected to be a "friendly" witness. It was learned that he planned to discuss his own relationship with Carbo and his associates during his boxing career.

Jesuit Gains State AAA Grid Finals

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Jesuit Blue Jays moved into the state triple-A football finals Saturday by stopping stubborn Warren Easton 12-0 before 17,500 wet fans.

Jesuit will meet LaGrange of Lake Charles for the state title next week at a site to be determined.

Pat Screen and Sid Lawton scored the Jesuit touchdowns in the second quarter, both going over from the one.

Jesuit drove 75 yards for its first touchdown after Easton punted from Jesuit's 49 on fourth down and one to go.

Three Screen passes, two to Bob Samset and one to Bob Weiss, picked up 34 yards on the march. Lawton went in for the score.

After Easton started to move late in the period, Jesuit's Charley Lancaster intercepted a David Pecquet pass on his own 44 and returned it to the Easton 41. It was one of five interceptions, all in the first half.

On the second play, reserve tailback Don Adams threw a Screen pass to fullback Walt McCoy who scampeted 32 yards to the Easton Four. Screen ten scored from the one.

The second half saw both teams put frequently as they were unable to move on the wet field. Jesuit got the ball at the Easton 18 with 10 seconds to go and got to the 7 when time ran out.

Jesuit outgained Easton 224-78. The Jays gained 160 yards on the ground and 64 in the air on six pass completions in 12 attempts. Easton intercepted three passes and Jesuit hauled in two Easton tosses. Easton failed to complete a pass.

Screen gained 59 yards net on 24 carries to pace the Jesuit ground game. Easton's John Abry, however, was the leading groundgainer, picking up a net 61 yards in 14 carries.

It will be Jesuit's second straight year in the state finals. Last year they lost to Istrouma of Baton Rouge.

Losing Coach Calls It Quits At Virginia

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) —The University of Virginia, its football team winless in 28 straight games, and Coach Dick Voris called it quits Saturday.

The university's board of visitors decided to accept Voris resignation and pay his salary for the remainder of his contract which runs to Feb. 1, 1962.

Voris said he would make his resignation effective Feb. 1 of next year.

The development came as no surprise after the board's athletic committee Friday night failed to give Voris the vote of confidence he said was necessary for him to remain at Virginia.

Shortly after the board acted, President Edgar F. Shannon Jr. said the university "will proceed immediately to make plans for new coaching contracts." He also said he was appointing a special committee to select" a successor to Gus Tebell on his forthcoming retirement as athletic director.

"Because these subjects are obviously interrelated," Shannon said, "it is expected that the Committee will now have the additional responsibility of selecting the football coach who will begin his duties next season."

Shannon said "this unexpected development" regarding Voris makes the work of the committee most urgent."

The university, he added, "will proceed in the matter with the greatest speed consistent with the care we must exercise in the selection of gentlemen for these important positions."

Shannon had announced late in November the university already had launched a search for a new athletic director to take over on Tebell's retirement.

In mid-November, Shannon had rejected alumni requests that the university buy up Voris' contract on the ground "the University of Virginia does not break contracts."

However, Voris, the former Army assistant whose Virginia teams turned in a three-season record of 1-29, himself brought the situation to a head Friday.

He told the board's athletic committee it either should give him "full support" or buy up the remaining year or so of his contract.

Professionals Interested In Greenie Star

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tulane halfback Tommy Mason didn't make too much of an impression on the All - America pickers, but the professionals think he's sensational.

The 6-1, 195-pound Mason could do no better than third team mention on the top All-America lists this year, but Gil Brandt, talent scout for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, says Mason "is the finest passing back in the country."

Brandt went on to bemoan the fact that the Cowboys have traded away their top draft choice and probably won't get Mason.

"He's certain to be one of the first backs picked in the NFL draft," Brandt said.

The Boston Patriots of the American Football League are convinced. Mason was their No. 1 backfield draft choice. Patriot coach Lou Saban said Mason is "a tremendous football player. I certainly hope he decides to play with us. I'm certain he'll be a standout in pro football."

Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf of the San Francisco 49ers said:

"You know I cover the Southeastern and Southwest Conferences, and every coach I've talked with feels Mason is the best back around."

St. Louis Cardinal scout Abe Stuber says, "we'd love to have Tommy Mason with us next year. He'd make us a fine offensive left halfback. With John David Crow, Mason and Jerry Randell around to catch the ball, our offense would be much improved."

Mason proved he could catch the ball during Tulane's rather dismal 1960 season. He pulled in 28 passes for 376 yards and five touchdowns. He also proved he could run. Mason led the SEC in rushing with 663 yards and in scoring with 78 points.

Eddie Kotal, personnel director of the Los Angeles Rams, places another of Mason's abilities in the forefront.

"We'd like to have him for defensive purposes, that's how versatile he is," Kotal said. "There's no doubt he's one of the finest backs in the country."

Host Girls, Oak Grove Boys Win Swartz Crowns

Oak Grove boys polished off Fiske-Union, 51-28, and Swartz girls stopped Sterlington, 31-21, to win the championships of the Swartz Junior Tournament last night.

Mike Gammill and Mickey Broadway scored 15 points apiece to lead Oak Grove to its victory in the finals. Grubbs of Fiske-Union was high for the game with 21.

Guinn's 15 points led Swartz over Sterlington. Swayze was tops for the losers with 18 points.

Beekman defeated Swartz in the boys division consolation game. Jester put in 11 points for Beekman while Smith and McGraw divided honors for Swartz with 4 points each.

Jefferson topped Bastrop, 24-13, in the girls consolation contest. Johnson had 11 points to lead the winners while Rogers scored all of Bastrop's points.

Alabama Backs

Bloomer Bowl Set Saturday At Northeast

Two curvy elevens — the Powder Puffs and Cream Puffs — will clash in the first annual "Bloomer Bowl" at Northeast's Brown Stadium next Saturday.

Kickoff time for this football (?) game is 2:30. Admission will be 50 cents.

Thirty-two coeds have turned out for team tryouts, under the direction of Coach Gerry Marchbank of the Powder Puffs and Levy Redden of the Cream Puffs. Marchbank will be assisted by Billy Foster, Dan Keith and Devone Payne and Redden by Dalmas Thorne, Don Blackwelder and Don Wattigny.

All of the coaches are members of the Northeast grid varsity, as is the bowl's charming queen, footballer Perry Beaver. Beaver and members of his court, varsity gridders as yet unnamed, will be honored in halftime ceremonies.

Two sets of cheerleaders, more Indian gridders, will generate enthusiasm.

The game will be sponsored by the Northeast senior class and proceeds will go toward the purchase of a gift for the school. James Austin Wink is chairman of the bowl committee, also composed of senior class prexy Truett Thorn and vice president Jack Harper.

Chargers Top Denver, Take Western Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Chargers were forced to come from behind three times to subdue the stubborn Denver Broncos 41-33 Saturday and sew up the Western Division title of the American Football League.

A crowd of 9,928 rattling around huge Memorial Coliseum, watched the favored Chargers cash in on a break midway in the fourth quarter to go ahead for the last time, then ice the contest on another break later in the final period.

The outcome gave the Chargers a 9-4 record with only one more game to play against New York next week.

The Chargers put a terrific rush on the Bronco punter, George Herring, in a key play that set up the winning touchdown, and he got off a poor 20-yard kick that went out of bounds on the Denver 35.

Quarterback Jack Kemp required eight plays to get the ball to the 1 and then plunged over for the tally.

Veteran Ben Agajanian kicked his fourth straight conversion to make it 34-33.

Los Angeles blocked a pass try by quarterback Frank Tripucka and from the 20 quickly scored the clinching touchdown.

Denver's brilliant end, Lionel Taylor, caught nine passes to bring his season total to 88, high in the AFL.

The National Football League record is 84, set in 1950 by Tom Fears of the Los Angeles Rams.

Denver's Gene Mingo was the high scorer with 21 points on 4 field goals, 3 conversions and 1 touchdown.

Mingo's 41-yard place kick started the scoring and after 5 minutes 14 seconds of the game, Denver was ahead 10-0, the touchdown coming on a 49-yard pass from Tripucka to Taylor.

The Chargers came back before the quarter ended with two touchdowns. Kemp completed a throw to Howie Ferguson for 39 yards and Paul Lowe scored from three yards out.

The lead continued to change hands and Los Angeles led at the half 24-23.

Tripucka, successfully engineered the Broncos on sustained drives throughout the game, the longest measuring 98 yards, another going 80 and another 78.

Agajanian kicked two field goals, his longest 40 yards.

BUT PREXY OPTIMISTIC

American Football League To Lose About $2 Million

By MIKE RATHET ...

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Football League will absorb losses estimated at $2 million for its first year of operation, but Commissioner Joe Foss said Saturday that "in almost every instance we did as well as expected —in some cases better."

At the same time, AFL club owners, replying to an Associated Press questionnaire, expressed satisfaction with the league's financial status and forecast future success in the struggle for fan support with the rival National League.

Foss said the owners are maintaining a realistic attitude. "They are business men and they have been through enough ventures not to expect to turn a profit in the first several years of operation.

"We will be in business next year and for many years to come."

The onetime flying ace and former governor of South Dakota said all existing franchises are set for next season, including the Oakland club that has been beset with sporadic feuding among some of its eight co-owners.

Raiders' General Manager Y. C. (Chet) Soda fired the first broadside when he said last month—amid reports the team would lose about $400,000—"We might have to think of moving."

Robert Osborne, another co-owner, and also a member of the city council, retaliated by claiming the Oakland group "includes some cry babies who don't like losing money they had known and anticipated they were going to lose."

Foss said any "skirmishes among the Oakland people in the past have only drawn them closer together" and their major problem—a stadium—has been resolved in plans for building on the "Oakland side of the bay."

The Raiders, one of four AFL clubs directly bucking NFL rivals, have been playing their games on the San Francisco side of the bay in Kezar Stadium, home of the well-established 49ers.

Of the three other clubs facing head-on competition from NFL teams, Dallas losses are estimated at $500,000, Los Angeles $450,000 and New York $250,000. Buffalo's deficit figures to reach $200,000, Houston $185,000, and Boston $100,000. Denver is aiming for the break-even mark.

Foss said "initial costs (for stadia, uniforms, etc.) were prime factors in our losing money." He said Denver spent about $1 million to improve stadium conditions, Boston $30,000 and Houston $250,000.

Despite these losses, Foss said he definitely feels the AFL is "on the way toward becoming one of the finest sports attractions in the country."

Among the owners, Lamar Hunt of Dallas, Barron Hilton of Los Angeles, and K. S. (Bud) Adams of Houston, tempered enthusiasm for their product with mild restraint.

Hunt, one of the league's founding fathers, said it likely will take three more years before AFL teams can expect to hit the break-even point and "the financial backers are prepared to wait that long for a profit." Hunt indicated the Texans might be able to reach the no-loss level next season with a winning club, "but it would have to be a big winner."

Hilton said a large percentage of the deficit was due to the cost of establishing a new team, and taking so many players to training camp. "After a year's play and drafting of more college players," said the owner of the Chargers, who lead the Western Division, "we will have more stature, and interest in the league will grow. We believe we've made a sound start."

Adams, owner of the Eastern Division leading Oilers, feels the club "did better than expected." He said he originally estimated Houston would lose $500,000 for the 1960 campaign, now figures losses will run about $185,000 with the possibility of lowering that if the final two home games draw well. Prospects for pro football success in Houston, Adams declared, "are very definitely good."

The others were extremely optimistic about the AFL's future prospects.

Boston President William Sullivan, explaining that his club's losses were due mainly to the expense involved in renovating Boston University field, said, "Our owners feel we have had a satisfactory season financially. We feel we have the finest professional sports franchise in the country: we are very well pleased with the league as a whole and are looking forward to continued success far beyond anything any of us anticipated."

"The league has done exceedingly well," said Buffalo owner Ralph Wilson Jr., who laid part of his club's deficit to the lack of time and manpower for an all-out season ticket drive. Wilson said that situation will be rectified next season and that he is "very optimistic about the future of the league. The skeptics were calling it a big joke 12 months ago, now I wonder what they'll be saying."

New York President Harry Wismer "figured on losing $100,000. It went more than double that because of several factors. There was bad weather. There were injuries which sent us into a four-game losing streak. I wish the New York Yankees well, but there's no question the excitement surrounding their pennant victory and the subsequent World Series affected us.

"But there's no question that we're here to stay," the Titans' owner said. "We'll be back the rest of our lives."

TWO MORE PRO TILTS

Big Post-Season TV Pigskin Slate

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's post - season football schedule shows two more pro games and one less college game than last year.

Added are the American League title game and the National League playoff game between the runners-up in each conference.

Missing is the Holiday Bowl game, usually played the third Saturday in December, but moved up this year and played Saturday night in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Holiday Bowl and the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston formed a TV doubleheader on the Columbia Broadcasting System last year. This time it will be a college-pro twinbill, with the Green Bay Packers-Los Angeles Rams regular season game following the Bluebonnet next Saturday as post-season TV contests get under way.

CBS will do the Bluebonnet (Texas vs. Alabama) and the National Broadcasting Co. will open its bowl TV with the Liberty (Penn State vs. Oregon) on Dec. 17.

Then there's a gap until Dec. 26, when NBC carries the National Football League title game from Philadelphia, home of the Eastern Conference winner. In the event of a playoff in the Western Conference, that game will be televised, with the title game put back to Jan. 1 or Jan. 8, depending on the playoff situations.

Possible playoffs in the American League will be televised by the American Broadcasting Co. during Christmas weekend, with the title game set for Sunday, Jan. 1.

There are three college games Dec. 31. CBS has the Gator Bowl (Baylor vs. Florida) from Jacksonville, Fla., Ala., and the East-West Shrine game from San Francisco.

New Year's Day (Jan. 2 this year for football purposes) is set for the usual Orange-Cotton, Sugar-Rose Bowl doubleheaders.

CBS does the Orange (Navy vs. Missouri) and the Cotton (Arkansas vs. Duke). NBC has the Sugar (Mississippi vs. Rice) and the Rose (Minnesota vs. Washington).

GRAB WESTERN LEAD

Green Bay Wins, 13-0, Over 49ers

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Powerful Paul Hornung defied rain and mud with a 28-yard touchdown run and two field goals Saturday, giving Green Bay a 13-0 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

The triumph sent the Packers atop the National Football League's Western Conference at least until Baltimore plays at Los Angeles Sunday, and dropped the 49ers out of the three-way lead tie.

Hornung and fullback Jim Taylor, a pair of 216-pound drivers, provided Green Bay with a twin howitzer attack this rainy afternoon as the Packer defense completely muffled San Francisco's shotgun spread offense.

With just 51 seconds remaining in the first half, Hornung booted a 38-yard field goal. He added the touchdown gallop and a 23-yard placement in the final stanza. The former Notre Dame star also booted the conversion, accounting for all Green Bay points and boosting his record scoring season total to 165.

There were 11 minutes and 25 seconds gone in the third period before the 49ers could get over the midfield stripe and then they reached only the Green Bay 49—their deepest penetration.

When San Francisco punted after that, Taylor and Hornung took turns carrying on a nine-play, 84-yard drive as the fullback contributed a 25-yard run and Hornung finally broke loose, carefully threading his way through the mud and 49er defenders for 28 yards to a touchdown.

A crowd of 53,612 braved the first rainy start of a 49er home game in 15 years while a much more comfortable crowd watched the nationwide television account.

Before Saturday's battle, Green Bay, San Francisco and Baltimore all were tied for the conference lead with 6-4 records.

San Francisco tried both its spread or "shotgun" formation and the conventional T. The Packers' forward wall was led by ends Bill Quinlan and Willie Davis and the tough linebacking by Dan Currie, Ray Nitscke and Bill Forrester.

The Packers rushed quarterback John Brodie as he took the direct snap seven yards back in the shotgun formation. Other defenders waited momentarily before dropping off to cover pass receivers or carging in to take care of handoffs.

Green Bay's defenders kept the 49ers from crossing midfield throughout the first half. Just 51 seconds before intermission the Packers hit the scoreboard.

Hornung's 38-yard field goal provided the 3-0 margin. It came eight plays after a Brodie pass was intercepted by Hank Gremminger at the Green Bay 21 and returned to the 28.

R. C. Owens had gone down for the pass, but fell on the sloppy field and Gremminger's theft sent the Packers on the way.

To start the game, Green Bay moved from its own 27 to the 49er 23 but Horning's 30-yard field goal attempt failed wide.

Taylor, a third-year pro from Louisiana State, netted 161 yards rushing, an individual single game record.

Tulane Rolls Over Texas Five, 63-49

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tulane played its most impressive game of the season to down Texas 63-49 before about 4,000 fans Saturday night.

It was a team victory for Tulane with outstanding work by the five starters plus support from subs Wayne Pearl and Dale Cloak.

Tulane began fast and opened a 8-1 lead after the first five minutes. The game then see-sawed with Tulane holding a slim lead but with 2:46 left in the first half, Albert Almana tied the score for Texas at 22-22 and then put the Visitors ahead for the first time at 24-22. At the half, Texas was ahead 28-23. Tulane failed to score a field goal in the final six minutes before intermission.

With 8:30 left in the game, Cloak and Pearl hit consecutive shots to tie the game for Tulane and then Gus Wenzel hit a driving layup to put Tulane ahead for good at 45-43.

ALSO MYSTERY WITNESS

Boxing Probers May Hear Carbo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators may bring gangster Frankie Carbo from his penitentiary cell next week to answer charges that his behind-the-scenes "convincing" helped set up some of boxing's biggest championship fights.

Investigators also tentatively scheduled for Monday a mystery witness described as a former champion and "big name" in boxing whose identity was being withheld for his own protection.

A spokesman for the subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., said the group hoped to bring Carbo here Tuesday or Wednesday.

Carbo's name came up frequently during testimony this week which suggested that the careers of some of sports most famous personalities were manipulated by underworld characters.

He presently is serving a two-year term at Rikers Island, N.Y., penitentiary for managing fighters without a license.

Subcommittee sources expect Carbo to plead the Fifth Amendment frequently and loudly, but there was some hope he might be willing to give his version of his past associations with James D. Norris, former president of the International Boxing Club (IBC).

Norris told a closed subcommittee session Friday that Carbo was the "expediter" and "convincer" in obtaining the services of former champions Jake Lamotta, Willie Pep, Tony Demarco, and Carmen Basilio.

"We expect he will plead the Fifth Amendment," the subcommittee source said, "however, remember, Norris called him the 'convincer.' He might have something to say about Mr. Norris."

The ex-champion whose identity was withheld was expected to be a "friendly" witness. It was learned that he planned to discuss his own relationship with Carbo and his associates during his boxing career.

GRAB WESTERN LEAD

Green Bay Wins, 13-0, Over 49ers

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Powerful Paul Hornung defied rain and mud with a 28-yard touchdown run and two field goals Saturday, giving Green Bay a 13-0 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

The triumph sent the Packers atop the National Football League's Western Conference at least until Baltimore plays at Los Angeles Sunday, and dropped the 49ers out of the three-way lead tie.

Hornung and fullback Jim Taylor, a pair of 216-pound drivers, provided Green Bay with a twin howitzer attack this rainy afternoon as the Packer defense completely muffled San Francisco's shotgun spread offense.

With just 51 seconds remaining in the first half, Hornung booted a 38-yard field goal. He added the touchdown gallop and a 23-yard placement in the final stanza. The former Notre Dame star also booted the conversion, accounting for all Green Bay points and boosting his record scoring season total to 165.

There were 11 minutes and 25 seconds gone in the third period before the 49ers could get over the midfield stripe and then they reached only the Green Bay 49—their deepest penetration.

When San Francisco punted after that, Taylor and Hornung took turns carrying on a nine-play, 84-yard drive as the fullback contributed a 25-yard run and Hornung finally broke loose, carefully threading his way through the mud and 49er defenders for 28 yards to a touchdown.

A crowd of 53,612 braved the first rainy start of a 49er home game in 15 years while a much more comfortable crowd watched the nationwide television account.

Before Saturday's battle, Green Bay, San Francisco and Baltimore all were tied for the conference lead with 6-4 records.

San Francisco tried both its spread or "shotgun" formation and the conventional T. The Packers' forward wall was led by ends Bill Quinlan and Willie Davis and the tough linebacking by Dan Currie, Ray Nitscke and Bill Forrester.

The Packers rushed quarterback John Brodie as he took the direct snap seven yards back in the shotgun formation. Other defenders waited momentarily before dropping off to cover pass receivers or carging in to take care of handoffs.

Green Bay's defenders kept the 49ers from crossing midfield throughout the first half. Just 51 seconds before intermission the Packers hit the scoreboard.

Hornung's 38-yard field goal proviced the 3-0 margin. It came eight plays after a Brodie pass was intercepted by Hank Gremminger at the Green Bay 21 and returned to the 28.

R. C. Owens had gone down for the pass, but fell on the sloppy field and Gremminger's theft sent the Packers on the way.

To start the game, Green Bay moved from its own 27 to the 49er 23 but Horning's 30-yard field goal attempt failed wide.

Taylor, a third-year pro from Louisiana State, netted 161 yards rushing, an individual single game record.

Jesuit Gains State AAA Grid Finals

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Jesuit Blue Jays moved into the state triple-A football finals Saturday by stopping stubborn Warren Easton 12-0 before 17,500 wet fans.

Jesuit will meet LaGrange of Lake Charles for the state title next week at a site to be determined.

Pat Screen and Sid Lawton scored the Jesuit touchdowns in the second quarter, both going over from the one.

Jesuit drove 75 yards for its first touchdown after Easton punted from Jesuit's 49 on fourth down and one to go.

Three Screen passes, two to Bob Samset and one to Bob Weiss, picked up 34 yards on the march. Lawton went in for the score.

After Easton started to move late in the period, Jesuit's Charley Lancaster intercepted a David Pecquet pass on his own 44 and returned it to the Easton 41. It was one of five interceptions, all in the first half.

On the second play, reserve tailback Don Adams threw a Screen pass to fullback Walt McCoy who scampeted 32 yards to the Easton Four. Screen ten scored from the one.

The second half saw both teams put frequently as they were unable to move on the wet field. Jesuit got the ball at the Easton 18 with 10 seconds to go and got to the 7 when time ran out.

Jesuit outgained Easton 224-78. The Jays gained 160 yards on the ground and 64 in the air on six pass completions in 12 attempts. Easton intercepted three passes and Jesuit hauled in two Easton tosses. Easton failed to complete a pass.

Screen gained 59 yards net on 24 carries to pace the Jesuit ground game. Easton's John Abry, however, was the leading groundgainer, picking up a net 61 yards in 14 carries.

It will be Jesuit's second straight year in the state finals. Last year they lost to Istrouma of Baton Rouge.

Professionals Interested In Greenie Star

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Tulane halfback Tommy Mason didn't make too much of an impression on the All - America pickers, but the professionals think he's sensational.

The 6-1, 195-pound Mason could do no better than third team mention on the top All-America lists this year, but Gil Brandt, talent scout for the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, says Mason "is the finest passing back in the country."

Brandt went on to bemoan the fact that the Cowboys have traded away their top draft choice and probably won't get Mason.

"He's certain to be one of the first backs picked in the NFL draft," Brandt said.

The Boston Patriots of the American Football League are convinced. Mason was their No. 1 backfield draft choice. Patriot coach Lou Saban said Mason is "a tremendous football player. I certainly hope he decides to play with us. I'm certain he'll be a standout in pro football."

Lynn (Pappy) Waldorf of the San Francisco 49ers said:

"You know I cover the Southeastern and Southwest Conferences, and every coach I've talked with feels Mason is the best back around."

St. Louis Cardinal scout Abe Stuber says, "we'd love to have Tommy Mason with us next year. He'd make us a fine offensive left halfback. With John David Crow, Mason and Jerry Randell around to catch the ball, our offense would be much improved."

Mason proved he could catch the ball during Tulane's rather dismal 1960 season. He pulled in 28 passes for 376 yards and five touchdowns. He also proved he could run. Mason led the SEC in rushing with 663 yards and in scoring with 78 points.

Eddie Kotal, personnel director of the Los Angeles Rams, places another of Mason's abilities in the forefront.

"We'd like to have him for defensive purposes, that's how versatile he is," Kotal said. "There's no doubt he's one of the finest backs in the country."

Losing Coach Calls It Quits At Virginia

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) —The University of Virginia, its football team winless in 28 straight games, and Coach Dick Voris called it quits Saturday.

The university's board of visitors decided to accept Voris resignation and pay his salary for the remainder of his contract which runs to Feb. 1, 1962.

Voris said he would make his resignation effective Feb. 1 of next year.

The development came as no surprise after the board's athletic committee Friday night failed to give Voris the vote of confidence he said was necessary for him to remain at Virginia.

Shortly after the board acted, President Edgar F. Shannon Jr. said the university "will proceed immediately to make plans for new coaching contracts." He also said he was appointing a special committee to select" a successor to Gus Tebell on his forthcoming retirement as athletic director.

"Because these subjects are obviously interrelated," Shannon said, "it is expected that the Committee will now have the additional responsibility of selecting the football coach who will begin his duties next season."

Shannon said "this unexpected development" regarding Voris makes the work of the committee most urgent."

The university, he added, "will proceed in the matter with the greatest speed consistent with the care we must exercise in the selection of gentlemen for these important positions."

Shannon had announced late in November the university already had launched a search for a new athletic director to take over on Tebell's retirement.

In mid-November, Shannon had rejected alumni requests that the university buy up Voris' contract on the ground "the University of Virginia does not break contracts."

However, Voris, the former Army assistant whose Virginia teams turned in a three-season record of 1-29, himself brought the situation to a head Friday.

He told the board's athletic committee it either should give him "full support" or buy up the remaining year or so of his contract.

Host Girls, Oak Grove Boys Win Swartz Crowns

Oak Grove boys polished off Fiske-Union, 51-28, and Swartz girls stopped Sterlington, 31-21, to win the championships of the Swartz Junior Tournament last night.

Mike Gammill and Mickey Broadway scored 15 points apiece to lead Oak Grove to its victory in the finals. Grubbs of Fiske-Union was high for the game with 21.

Guinn's 15 points led Swartz over Sterlington. Swayze was tops for the losers with 18 points.

Beekman defeated Swartz in the boys division consolation game. Jester put in 11 points for Beekman while Smith and McGraw divided honors for Swartz with 4 points each.

Jefferson topped Bastrop, 24-13, in the girls consolation contest. Johnson had 11 points to lead the winners while Rogers scored all of Bastrop's points.

Alabama Backs

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three backs from Alabama's Bluebonnet Bowl-bound football team will play in the North-South game Dec. 26.

The newest additions to the South team are quarterback Bobby Skelton, halfback Leon Fuller and fullback Lauren Stapp.

Bloomer Bowl Set Saturday At Northeast

Two curvy elevens — the Powder Puffs and Cream Puffs — will clash in the first annual "Bloomer Bowl" at Northeast's Brown Stadium next Saturday.

Kickoff time for this football (?) game is 2:30. Admission will be 50 cents.

Thirty-two coeds have turned out for team tryouts, under the direction of Coach Gerry Marchbank of the Powder Puffs and Levy Redden of the Cream Puffs. Marchbank will be assisted by Billy Foster, Dan Keith and Devone Payne and Redden by Dalmas Thorne, Don Blackwelder and Don Wattigny.

All of the coaches are members of the Northeast grid varsity, as is the bowl's charming queen, footballer Perry Beaver. Beaver and members of his court, varsity gridders as yet unnamed, will be honored in halftime ceremonies.

Two sets of cheerleaders, more Indian gridders, will generate enthusiasm.

The game will be sponsored by the Northeast senior class and proceeds will go toward the purchase of a gift for the school. James Austin Wink is chairman of the bowl committee, also composed of senior class prexy Truett Thorn and vice president Jack Harper.

Chargers Top Denver, Take Western Title

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Chargers were forced to come from behind three times to subdue the stubborn Denver Broncos 41-33 Saturday and sew up the Western Division title of the American Football League.

A crowd of 9,928 rattling around huge Memorial Coliseum, watched the favored Chargers cash in on a break midway in the fourth quarter to go ahead for the last time, then ice the contest on another break later in the final period.

The outcome gave the Chargers a 9-4 record with only one more game to play against New York next week.

The Chargers put a terrific rush on the Bronco punter, George Herring, in a key play that set up the winning touchdown, and he got off a poor 20-yard kick that went out of bounds on the Denver 35.

Quarterback Jack Kemp required eight plays to get the ball to the 1 and then plunged over for the tally.

Veteran Ben Agajanian kicked his fourth straight conversion to make it 34-33.

Los Angeles blocked a pass try by quarterback Frank Tripucka and from the 20 quickly scored the clinching touchdown.

Denver's brilliant end, Lionel Taylor, caught nine passes to bring his season total to 88, high in the AFL.

The National Football League record is 84, set in 1950 by Tom Fears of the Los Angeles Rams.

Denver's Gene Mingo was the high scorer with 21 points on 4 field goals, 3 conversions and 1 touchdown.

Mingo's 41-yard place kick started the scoring and after 5 minutes 14 seconds of the game, Denver was ahead 10-0, the touchdown coming on a 49-yard pass from Tripucka to Taylor.

The Chargers came back before the quarter ended with two touchdowns. Kemp completed a throw to Howie Ferguson for 39 yards and Paul Lowe scored from three yards out.

The lead continued to change hands and Los Angeles led at the half 24-23.

Tripucka, successfully engineered the Broncos on sustained drives throughout the game, the longest measuring 98 yards, another going 80 and another 78.

Agajanian kicked two field goals, his longest 40 yards.

BUT PREXY OPTIMISTIC

American Football League To Lose About $2 Million

By MIKE RATHET ...

NEW YORK (AP)—The American Football League will absorb losses estimated at $2 million for its first year of operation, but Commissioner Joe Foss said Saturday that "in almost every instance we did as well as expected —in some cases better."

At the same time, AFL club owners, replying to an Associated Press questionnaire, expressed satisfaction with the league's financial status and forecast future success in the struggle for fan support with the rival National League.

Foss said the owners are maintaining a realistic attitude. "They are business men and they have been through enough ventures not to expect to turn a profit in the first several years of operation.

"We will be in business next year and for many years to come."

The onetime flying ace and former governor of South Dakota said all existing franchises are set for next season, including the Oakland club that has been beset with sporadic feuding among some of its eight co-owners.

Raiders' General Manager Y. C. (Chet) Soda fired the first broadside when he said last month—amid reports the team would lose about $400,000—"We might have to think of moving."

Robert Osborne, another co-owner, and also a member of the city council, retaliated by claiming the Oakland group "includes some cry babies who don't like losing money they had known and anticipated they were going to lose."

Foss said any "skirmishes among the Oakland people in the past have only drawn them closer together" and their major problem—a stadium—has been resolved in plans for building on the "Oakland side of the bay."

The Raiders, one of four AFL clubs directly bucking NFL rivals, have been playing their games on the San Francisco side of the bay in Kezar Stadium, home of the well-established 49ers.

Of the three other clubs facing head-on competition from NFL teams, Dallas losses are estimated at $500,000, Los Angeles $450,000 and New York $250,000. Buffalo's deficit figures to reach $200,000, Houston $185,000, and Boston $100,000. Denver is aiming for the break-even mark.

Foss said "initial costs (for stadia, uniforms, etc.) were prime factors in our losing money." He said Denver spent about $1 million to improve stadium conditions, Boston $30,000 and Houston $250,000.

Despite these losses, Foss said he definitely feels the AFL is "on the way toward becoming one of the finest sports attractions in the country."

Among the owners, Lamar Hunt of Dallas, Barron Hilton of Los Angeles, and K. S. (Bud) Adams of Houston, tempered enthusiasm for their product with mild restraint.

Hunt, one of the league's founding fathers, said it likely will take three more years before AFL teams can expect to hit the break-even point and "the financial backers are prepared to wait that long for a profit." Hunt indicated the Texans might be able to reach the no-loss level next season with a winning club, "but it would have to be a big winner."

Hilton said a large percentage of the deficit was due to the cost of establishing a new team, and taking so many players to training camp. "After a year's play and drafting of more college players," said the owner of the Chargers, who lead the Western Division, "we will have more stature, and interest in the league will grow. We believe we've made a sound start."

Adams, owner of the Eastern Division leading Oilers, feels the club "did better than expected." He said he originally estimated Houston would lose $500,000 for the 1960 campaign, now figures losses will run about $185,000 with the possibility of lowering that if the final two home games draw well. Prospects for pro football success in Houston, Adams declared, "are very definitely good."

The others were extremely optimistic about the AFL's future prospects.

Boston President William Sullivan, explaining that his club's losses were due mainly to the expense involved in renovating Boston University field, said, "Our owners feel we have had a satisfactory season financially. We feel we have the finest professional sports franchise in the country; we are very well pleased with the league as a whole and are looking forward to continued success far beyond anything any of us anticipated."

"The league has done exceedingly well," said Buffalo owner Ralph Wilson Jr., who laid part of his club's deficit to the lack of time and manpower for an all-out season ticket drive. Wilson said that situation will be rectified next season and that he is "very optimistic about the future of the league. The skeptics were calling it a big joke 12 months ago, now I wonder what they'll be saying."

New York President Harry Wismer "figured on losing $100,000. It went more than double that because of several factors. There was bad weather. There were injuries which sent us into a four-game losing streak. I wish the New York Yankees well, but there's no question the excitement surrounding their pennant victory and the subsequent World Series affected us.

"But there's no question that we're here to stay," the Titans' owner said. "We'll be back the rest of our lives."

TWO MORE PRO TILTS

Big Post-Season TV Pigskin Slate

By JIM KENSIL

NEW YORK (AP)—Television's post - season football schedule shows two more pro games and one less college game than last year.

Added are the American League title game and the National League playoff game between the runners-up in each conference.

Missing is the Holiday Bowl game, usually played the third Saturday in December, but moved up this year and played Saturday night in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The Holiday Bowl and the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston formed a TV doubleheader on the Columbia Broadcasting System last year. This time it will be a college-pro twinbill, with the Green Bay Packers-Los Angeles Rams regular season game following the Bluebonnet next Saturday as post-season TV contests get under way.

CBS will do the Bluebonnet (Texas vs. Alabama) and the National Broadcasting Co. will open its bowl TV with the Liberty (Penn State vs. Oregon) on Dec. 17.

Then there's a gap until Dec. 26, when NBC carries the National Football League title game from Philadelphia, home of the Eastern Conference winner. In the event of a playoff in the Western Conference, that game will be televised, with the title game put back to Jan. 1 or Jan. 8, depending on the playoff situations.

Possible playoffs in the American League will be televised by the American Broadcasting Co. during Christmas weekend, with the title game set for Sunday, Jan. 1.

There are three college games Dec. 31. CBS has the Gator Bowl (Baylor vs. Florida) from Jacksonville, Fla., Ala., and the East-West Shrine game from San Francisco.

New Year's Day (Jan. 2 this year for football purposes) is set for the usual Orange-Cotton, Sugar-Rose Bowl doubleheaders.

CBS does the Orange (Navy vs. Missouri) and the Cotton (Arkansas vs. Duke). NBC has the Sugar (Mississippi vs. Rice) and the Rose (Minnesota vs. Washington).

Tulane Rolls Over Texas Five, 63-49

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tulane played its most impressive game of the season to down Texas 63-49 before about 4,000 fans Saturday night.

It was a team victory for Tulane with outstanding work by the five starters plus support from subs Wayne Pearl and Dale Cloak.

Tulane began fast and opened a 8-1 lead after the first five minutes. The game then see-sawed with Tulane holding a slim lead but with 2:46 left in the first half, Albert Almana tied the score for Texas at 22-22 and then put the Visitors ahead for the first time at 24-22. At the half, Texas was ahead 28-23. Tulane failed to score a field goal in the final six minutes before intermission.

With 8:30 left in the game, Cloak and Pearl hit consecutive shots to tie the game for Tulane and then Gus Wenzel hit a driving layup to put Tulane ahead for good at 45-43.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

Ted Kroll Leads In Coral Gables

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ted Kroll, the ex-Marine from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., shot a sizzling 5-under-par 66 Saturday for a 202 total and a two-stroke lead at the end of the third round of the 72-hole Coral Gables Open Golf Tournament.

Kroll, who rarely plays in tournaments nowadays, had a brace of 68s for his two previous rounds, and started the third round Saturday two strokes behind the leader, Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla. Goalby, who had 134 at the halfway point, had a par 71 for a 205 total, good for third place.

In second place was Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who had a fine 67 for a 204 total. In fourth place was Wes Ellis Jr. of West Caldwell, N.J., who had a 72 for a 207 total.

Three dangerous contenders were lurking at 208, six strokes back of the pace. They were the early favorite Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa.; John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., the first round leader, and Henry Williams Jr. of Fleetwood, Pa.

Palmer had a 68, Barnum a 69 and Williams a 73.

Kroll's round was flawless. He collected an eagle and three birdies and never went over par. On the par 5 first hole, he put a No. 4 iron to the edge of the green and sank a 50-foot putt for a 3.

On the 11th, he put a three iron 5 feet from the cup and sank the putt. On the 15th he chipped into the cup from 100 feet out. A 10-foot putt gave him his final birdie on the long 17th.

Sam Snead, only four strokes back at the start of the day, treated himself to a 73 and was nine strokes back at 211. Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., winner of the West Palm Beach Open last Sunday, carded a 70 for 210.

The final 18 holes will be played Sunday with the winner collecting $2,800 of the $20,000 purse.

U.S. Captain Debates Which Team To Use

PRTH, Australia (UPI)—United States Davis Cup Captain David Freed pondered whether to shoot with his "veteran" team or his "kid" team in the crucial doubles match Sunday, now that Barry Mackay's dramatic victory has America within reach of clinching the interzone finals against Italy.

Mackay, virtually beaten when darkness saved his neck of Friday, staged a courageous rally Saturday to defeat Italian ace Nicola Pietrangeli, 8-6, 3-6, 8-10, 8-6, 3-11.

That gave the United States a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series and left the Americans needing only to win Sunday's doubles match, or one of the concluding pair of singles matches on Monday, to earn the right to meet defending champion Australia in the challenge round at Sydney, Dec. 26-28.

The doubles match originally was scheduled Saturday. However, when more than 15 games were necessary to finish the Mackay - Pietrangeli match, Italian team captain Vanni Canapele exercised his right to request a one - day postponement of the doubles match.

Canapele was certain all along that Pietrangeli and lanky Orlando Sirola would be his doubles team. But Freed delayed until Sunday his decision on whether to use the more experienced team of Mackay, of Dayton, Ohio, and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., or the "kid" team of Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and Chuck McKinley of St. Louis.

Ralston and McKinley lost to Pietrangeli and Sirola in the semi-finals of the recent Victorian state championships.

If Mackay had lost—as seemed almost certain—Freed would have had no choice, for he could have afforded no gamble. A Pietrangeli victory would have put Italy in a grand position to knock the United States out of the challenge round for the first time since 1938 because Italy will be favored in the doubles match today and in the Pietrangeli-Buchholz match Monday.

Even Freed admitted that "if ever there was a time Pietrangeli had it (victory) coming, this was it."

MARGIE RAMSEY

Local Girl To See Action On Mat Program

Margie Ramsey, a Monroe girl who took to the wrestling trail about a year ago, comes back home Monday night to oppose hot - tempered redhead Peggy Allen at Roll-Arena.

This bout, a 15-minute affair that will open the card, heads a star - spangled program, one of the most attractive scheduled presented here in months.

Three grapplers will make their local debuts on the card, Bad Boy Hines, Pierre DeGlane and Rocky Marino.

Around for another appearance is Farmer Jones and his pig while Jim LaRock and Chief Geronimo meet for the third and final time in the evening's main event.

Geronimo handed LaRock his first defeat two weeks ago in a disputed, rowdy match. Jim came back to win last week when the Indian was disqualified.

The two wrestlers have agreed that the loser of Monday's match will leave town for good.

DeGlane and Marino, a San Francisco Wrestler, will clash in an hour limit, two - falls - to-win scrap. The LaRock - Geronimo battle is also scheduled for an hour or less with two falls to win.

Hines, a veteran of rough Texas wrestling, meets Farmer Jones in a 15-minute preliminary. Hines has a reputation as one of the meanest boys in Texas wrestling circles, and that's saying something.

Miss Ramsey fought her first match in Monroe. Not satisfied with her performance, she went to a wrestling school in the east and has been performing regularly lately.

Peggy Allen has appeared in Monroe often. The Bluefield, West Virginia, girl is a good wrestler but depends on a little too much rough stuff at times.

New Clubs To Attend Draft Meet Tuesday

BOSTON (AP) — The new Los Angeles and Washington baseball teams will have the opportunity to select up to 36 players at American League Headquarters Tuesday.

The league office Saturday announced that each of the two new AL entries will have the option of picking one "unprotected" minor league player from each of the established eight clubs.

Los Angeles and Washington must pick 28 players apiece from a list of 120 eligibles on current parent club rosters, 15 submitted by each of those clubs.

This meeting to supply much of the player personnel will be attended by American League President Joe Cronin and his staff; Los Angeles President Bobby Reynolds, chairman of the board Gene Autry and General Manager Fred Haney; plus Gen. Elwood Quesada, owner, General Manager Eddie Doherty and Manager Mickey Vernon of the Washington group.

Cronin said there will be a list of approximately 160 minor league players available if Washington and Los Angeles decide to select any. They don't have to take any but can't have more than one from each club list. These players are those on the regular selection list for the Nov. 28 baseball draft who were not picked at that time.

The purchase price will be the regular draft price ranging from $12,500 to $25,000 depending on the classification of the league in which they played.

The purchase price of the 28 "must" players will be $75,000.

The American League teams operating in 1960 submitted 15 of the 40 men on their rosters and made them eligible for selection. Seven of the 15 had to be players who were with the team Aug. 31.

Drivers Same

MODENA, Italy (AP) — The crack Ferrari automobile racing stable Saturday announced it will not make any change in drivers for 1961, but its boss, Enzo Ferrari, said the team will participate only in races counting for world titles.

The drives, honored at a reception, are Phil Hill, of Santa Monica, Calif.; Ricky Ginther, Los Angeles; Wolfgang von Trips, Germany; Cliff Allison, Britain, and Paul Frere and Oliver Gendebien, Belgium.

Kirby Kicks Lenoir-Rhyne To 15-14 Win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Marion Kirby, a third-string center who missed two extra point attempts earlier, kicked a field goal with 1:35 left in the game to give Lenoir-Rhyne a 15-14 Holiday Bowl football victory over Humboldt State of California Saturday night.

The 23-yard kick, coming from a slight angle, boosted the Bears from Hickory, N.C., to the 1960 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the Humboldt Lumberjacks who twice battled from behind and held a 14-12 lead with only nine minutes left in the contest.

Just when victory seemed secure for the California team, Lenoir-Rhyne launched its 62-yard scoring march to wrap it up.

The big play came on a 25-yard effort by fullback Richard Kemp. The 193-pound sophomore bulled into the line on a fourth and two situation. He was stopped, then broke through and raced to the Humboldt 1.

Three plays later, the Bears were at the 3, because of some fine defensive work by Humboldt tackle Lester Flanagan. That set the stage for Kirby's kick.

It was once-tied Lenoir-Rhyne's 11th triumph in an unbeaten season. The Bears snapped Humboldt's winning streak at 20 games.

MCNEESE, USL LIKED

Northwestern Five Picked To Repeat As GSC Champs

By JIM DAWSON
Shreveport Times Sports Writer
(Written for La. Sports Writers. Assn.)

McNeese State College and the University of Southwestern Louisiana will offer strong challenges, but Northwestern State College will win the Gulf States Conference basketball championship again.

That, in capsule comment, is what GSC coaches predicted in a pre-season poll for the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn.

Four of the conference's six cage mentors picked Huey Cranford's Demons as probable champions. The other two liked the chances of McNeese, bolstered by the return of Stan Kernan.

USL, Louisiana Tech, Northeast State and Southeastern Louisiana College were relegated to a 3-4-5-6 finish, with only the Bulldogs from Lafayette given much chance of cracking into the title picture.

Three NSC players — guards Larry Skinner and Gene Wright and center Truitt Weldon —were tabbed among the most likely to win all - conference honors. Others on the pre-season all GSC team are Kernan and USL's Tim Thompson. Kernan, the most valuable player in the GSC before quitting school and joining the NIBL ranks, was named on every coach's vote as a likely all-league performer.

Others receiving all - conference nominations were Bill McHorris of Southwestern, Gayle Hatch of NSC, John Riddile and Al Nesmith of McNeese and Joe Daigle and Ron Futrell of Louisiana Tech.

NORTHWESTERN STATE

Cranford's Demons could be even better than last year's team which posted a 23-5 record and won the Gulf South Classic at Shreveport as well as the conference crown.

NSC lost one starter off its 1959-60 team, Bill Stewart. But that rebounding star will be replaced by Hatch, a 6-6 junior transfer from Mississippi State who is capable of leading the team in scoring.

The Demons' four returning starters all scored in double figures last season. Six - footers Wright (15.8) and Skinner (14.0) give the team a great, backcourt combination and 6-6 Weldon (14.5) and 6-3 Phil Haley (11.0) are strong rebounders.

McNEESE STATE

Ralph Ward has Kernan, but he also has four regulars off the '59 60 aggregation which posted a 12-15 season record. The Cowboys tied for the GSC cellar last season, but it'll take some strange happenings to keep 'em from finishing in the first division this time.

McNeese lost versatile Don Troutman, but it returns 6-1 Pete Kazyaka, 5-10 Dan Cupit, 6-6 John Riddile and 6-5 Al Nesmith. Kernan, a six - foot sharpshooter, was a three - year regular for Ward and twice made all-GSC.

U. OF SOUTHWESTERN LA.

Beryl Shipley's gang won 20 of 28 games last season, finishing second in the GSC with a 7-3 mark. The Bulldogs lack height again, but they'll be a veteran team loaded with excellent shooters.

Six-two Thompson, 6-3 McHorris, 6-3 Howard Humphreys, 6-3 Larry Simon and 5-10 Shelby Aulds form a potent starting five with 6-3 transfer Mike Wallace and strong frosh crop offering strong backing.

LOUISIANA TECH

freshmen should help ease the oad on a 6-3 Daigle, 6-4 Futrell, 6-5 redshirt A. J. Burlew, 5-11 Billy Boatner, 6-0 Max Lewis and 5-11 Jackie Fair.

The Ruston Bulldogs lost four starters off a team that went 17-9 and finished third in the conference last season. Cecil Crowley faces a tremendous rebuilding job, having lost the great Jackie Moreland, Ray Germany, Jim Tullos and Ron Woodward plus top reserve J. W. Mercer by graduation.

Several excellent transfers and

NORTHEAST STATE

Coach Lenny Fant lost three starters — leading scorer Ronald Doyle, Charlie Barnes and Fred Bradley — but the Indians should be improved, although not title contenders.

Six-one Lanny Johnson and 6-5 Robert Cook started on the 1959-60 Northeast team which went 3-21 and tied for last in the GSC. Among the bright spots are lettermen Milton Linder (6-3), Stuart Toms (5-10) and Dave Harkins (6-5) and transfers G. D. Thompson (6-6) and Jerry Snelling (6-0).

SOUTHEASTERN

Luther Marlar's Lions finished 12-12 for the season and 5-5 in league games last season and will have a hard time equalling that showing this campaign.

SLC lost its top two scorers, Wayne Newsom and Jesse Shanks, plus defensive and rebounding ace Charles Doskey. The Lions will be small and inexperienced, but six-foot senior guard Joe Tuminaro is a fine citizen to have around.

In addition to Tuminaro, the Lions will have 5-9 playmaker Mike Brinkley and 6-0 Bryan Pietri at guards. Sophs Al Link (6-2) and J. B. Vickers (6-3) could man the forward slots. Frosh Albert Baker (6-6), 6-0 Steven McDaniel and 6-5 Herbert Parker are starting candidates.

Syracuse In 117-107 Win Over Pistons

DETROIT (AP)—The Syracuse Nationals grabbed the lead in the second minute and stayed in front all the way Saturday in downing the Detroit Pistons 117-107 in a National Basketball Association game.

Although they didn't reach Detroit until 5 a.m., from Boston where they lost to St. Louis Friday night, the Nats showed no sign of weariness in trampling the Pistons before 4,901 fans and a national television audience.

With Hal Greer scoring 10 points and Johnny Kerr 8, Syracuse hopped ahead 33-24 by the end of the first quarter and then expanded its lead to 43-33 at the three-minute mark of the second period.

Rookie George Lee scored four baskets and three free throws as Detroit twice struck back to reduce the Syracuse margin to four points before Dick Barnett and veteran Doph Schayes took over to boost the Nats' to a 63-52 halftime advantage.

Greer, Larry Costello and Schayes shared scoring honors with 22 points each. Gene Shue and Don Ohl had 10 apiece for the losers, who dropped into the Western Division cellar.

ALL-SEC ACADEMIC

LeSage, Strange, Mangham Honored

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (Special) There was a time when many football players majored in one subject.

The subject was football. They specialized.

Thus the popular picture of the young man in moleskins . . . all brawn, no brains. Muscles all over, particularly between the ears.

This fellow's long since out of style, of course.

There's proof again on the rosters of the Southeastern Conference for the football season of 1960.

Engineers - to - be, and doctors, teachers and administrators were among the top players in the SEC.

They're members of the All-SEC Academic team announced today by editors of The American Peoples Encyclopedia and the College Sports Information Directors of America.

The team consists of Pat Patchen of Florida and Mickey Mangham of LSU, ends; Walter Suggs of Mississippi State and Joe LeSage of Tulane, tackles; Wayne Grubb of Tennessee and Treva Bolin of Mississippi, guards; Charles (Bo) Strange of LSU, center; Francis Tarkenton of Georgia, Leon Fuller of Alabama, James Anderson of Mississippi, and Ed Dyas of Auburn, backs.

Membership of the team was decided by a board which included conference coaches and writers headed by SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore. Each player had to attain a B average in classwork to qualify for the team.

Top SEC scholar was Ed Dyas, the All - American Auburn fullback who smashed lines and field goal records with equal skill. Dyas is almost straight-A in premedicine.

Dyas is joined in the All-Academic backfield by Georgia's great passer, Franis Tarkenton, a business administration star, too; Alabama's Leon Fuller, an education major, and Mississippi's James (Hoss) Anderson who charged through pre-med studies like he did Rebel opponents.

Three engineers are on the line. End Mickey Mangham, of LSU, excelled in petroleum engineering studies; End Pat Patchen of Florida in civil engineering; Tackle Joe LeSage of Tulane in mechanical engineering.

Business administration claimed Walter Suggs, Mississippi State tackle. Guards Wayne Grubbs, Tennessee, and Treva Bolin, Mississippi, won spurs in education. Center Bo Strange of Louisiana State qualified in arts and sciences.

All of the selectees are seniors except Bolin, a sophomore.

Tarkenton led the Southeastern Conference in total offense with 1,274 yards, in passing with 1189. He threw seven touchdowns for Georgia.

Dyas established new season (13) and career (17) collegiate records kicking field goals while averaging 5.1 yards a carry. Anderson's 505 rushing yards were second in the SEC.

On an Alabama team which spread its statistics about, Fuller was called its "most consistent back," by head coach Paul Bryant. Fuller was outstanding particularly on defense.

All the linemen were key men all season. Patchen and Strange ranked high in All-Conference picking.

GOLF TOURNAMENT

Ted Kroll Leads In Coral Gables

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Ted Kroll, the ex-Marine from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., shot a sizzling 5-under-par 66 Saturday for a 202 total and a two-stroke lead at the end of the third round of the 72-hole Coral Gables Open Golf Tournament.

Kroll, who rarely plays in tournaments nowadays, had a brace of 68s for his two previous rounds, and started the third round Saturday two strokes behind the leader, Bob Goalby of Crystal River, Fla. Goalby, who had 134 at the halfway point, had a par 71 for a 205 total, good for third place.

In second place was Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., who had a fine 67 for a 204 total. In fourth place was Wes Ellis Jr. of West Caldwell, N.J., who had a 72 for a 207 total.

Three dangerous contenders were lurking at 208, six strokes back of the pace. They were the early favorite Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa.; John Barnum of Grand Rapids, Mich., the first round leader, and Henry Williams Jr. of Fleetwood, Pa.

Palmer had a 68, Barnum a 69 and Williams a 73.

Kroll's round was flawless. He collected an eagle and three birdies and never went over par. On the par 5 first hole, he put a No. 4 iron to the edge of the green and sank a 50-foot putt for a 3.

On the 11th, he put a three iron 5 feet from the cup and sank the putt. On the 15th he chipped into the cup from 100 feet out. A 10-foot putt gave him his final birdie on the long 17th.

Sam Snead, only four strokes back at the start of the day, treated himself to a 73 and was nine strokes back at 211. Johnny Pott of Shreveport, La., winner of the West Palm Beach Open last Sunday, carded a 70 for 210.

The final 18 holes will be played Sunday with the winner collecting $2,800 of the $20,000 purse.

U.S. Captain Debates Which Team To Use

PRTH, Australia (UPI)—United States Davis Cup Captain David Freed pondered whether to shoot with his "veteran" team or his "kid" team in the crucial doubles match Sunday, now that Barry Mackay's dramatic victory has America within reach of clinching the interzone finals against Italy.

Mackay, virtually beaten when darkness saved his neck of Friday, staged a courageous rally Saturday to defeat Italian ace Nicola Pietrangeli, 8-6, 3-6, 8-10, 8-6, 3-11.

That gave the United States a 2-0 lead in the best-of-five series and left the Americans needing only to win Sunday's doubles match, or one of the concluding pair of singles matches on Monday, to earn the right to meet defending champion Australia in the challenge round at Sydney, Dec. 26-28.

The doubles match originally was scheduled Saturday. However, when more than 15 games were necessary to finish the Mackay - Pietrangeli match, Italian team captain Vanni Canapele exercised his right to request a one - day postponement of the doubles match.

Canapele was certain all along that Pietrangeli and lanky Orlando Sirola would be his doubles team. But Freed delayed until Sunday his decision on whether to use the more experienced team of Mackay, of Dayton, Ohio, and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis, Mo., or the "kid" team of Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., and Chuck McKinley of St. Louis.

Ralston and McKinley lost to Pietrangeli and Sirola in the semi-finals of the recent Victorian state championships.

If Mackay had lost—as seemed almost certain—Freed would have had no choice, for he could have afforded no gamble. A Pietrangeli victory would have put Italy in a grand position to knock the United States out of the challenge round for the first time since 1938 because Italy will be favored in the doubles match today and in the Pietrangeli-Buchholz match Monday.

Even Freed admitted that "if ever there was a time Pietrangeli had it (victory) coming, this was it."

New Clubs To Attend Draft Meet Tuesday

BOSTON (AP) — The new Los Angeles and Washington baseball teams will have the opportunity to select up to 36 players at American League Headquarters Tuesday.

The league office Saturday announced that each of the two new AL entries will have the option of picking one "unprotected" minor league player from each of the established eight clubs.

Los Angeles and Washington must pick 28 players apiece from a list of 120 eligibles on current parent club rosters, 15 submitted by each of those clubs.

This meeting to supply much of the player personnel will be attended by American League President Joe Cronin and his staff; Los Angeles President Bobby Reynolds, chairman of the board Gene Autry and General Manager Fred Haney; plus Gen. Elwood Quesada, owner, General Manager Eddie Doherty and Manager Mickey Vernon of the Washington group.

Cronin said there will be a list of approximately 160 minor league players available if Washington and Los Angeles decide to select any. They don't have to take any but can't have more than one from each club list. These players are those on the regular selection list for the Nov. 28 baseball draft who were not picked at that time.

The purchase price will be the regular draft price ranging from $12,500 to $25,000 depending on the classification of the league in which they played.

The purchase price of the 28 "must" players will be $75,000.

The American League teams operating in 1960 submitted 15 of the 40 men on their rosters and made them eligible for selection. Seven of the 15 had to be players who were with the team Aug. 31.

MARGIE RAMSEY

Local Girl To See Action On Mat Program

Margie Ramsey, a Monroe girl who took to the wrestling trail about a year ago, comes back home Monday night to oppose hot - tempered redhead Peggy Allen at Roll-Arena.

This bout, a 15-minute affair that will open the card, heads a star - spangled program, one of the most attractive scheduled presented here in months.

Three grapplers will make their local debuts on the card, Bad Boy Hines, Pierre DeGlane and Rocky Marino.

Around for another appearance is Farmer Jones and his pig while Jim LaRock and Chief Geronimo meet for the third and final time in the evening's main event.

Geronimo handed LaRock his first defeat two weeks ago in a disputed, rowdy match. Jim came back to win last week when the Indian was disqualified.

The two wrestlers have agreed that the loser of Monday's match will leave town for good.

DeGlane and Marino, a San Francisco Wrestler, will clash in an hour limit, two - falls - to-win scrap. The LaRock - Geronimo battle is also scheduled for an hour or less with two falls to win.

Hines, a veteran of rough Texas wrestling, meets Farmer Jones in a 15-minute preliminary. Hines has a reputation as one of the meanest boys in Texas wrestling circles, and that's saying something.

Miss Ramsey fought her first match in Monroe. Not satisfied with her performance, she went to a wrestling school in the east and has been performing regularly lately.

Peggy Allen has appeared in Monroe often. The Bluefield, West Virginia, girl is a good wrestler but depends on a little too much rough stuff at times.

Drivers Same

MODENA, Italy (AP) — The crack Ferrari automobile racing stable Saturday announced it will not make any change in drivers for 1961, but its boss, Enzo Ferrari, said the team will participate only in races counting for world titles.

The drives, honored at a reception, are Phil Hill, of Santa Monica, Calif.; Ricky Ginther, Los Angeles; Wolfgang von Trips, Germany; Cliff Allison, Britain, and Paul Frere and Oliver Gendebien, Belgium.

Kirby Kicks Lenoir-Rhyne To 15-14 Win

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Marion Kirby, a third-string center who missed two extra point attempts earlier, kicked a field goal with 1:35 left in the game to give Lenoir-Rhyne a 15-14 Holiday Bowl football victory over Humboldt State of California Saturday night.

The 23-yard kick, coming from a slight angle, boosted the Bears from Hickory, N.C., to the 1960 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championship.

It was a heart-breaking defeat for the Humboldt Lumberjacks who twice battled from behind and held a 14-12 lead with only nine minutes left in the contest.

Just when victory seemed secure for the California team, Lenoir-Rhyne launched its 62-yard scoring march to wrap it up.

The big play came on a 25-yard effort by fullback Richard Kemp. The 193-pound sophomore bulled into the line on a fourth and two situation. He was stopped, then broke through and raced to the Humboldt 1.

Three plays later, the Bears were at the 3, because of some fine defensive work by Humboldt tackle Lester Flanagan. That set the stage for Kirby's kick.

It was once-tied Lenoir-Rhyne's 11th triumph in an unbeaten season. The Bears snapped Humboldt's winning streak at 20 games.

Northwestern Five Picked To Repeat As GSC Champs

By JIM DAWSON
Shreveport Times Sports Writer
(Written for La. Sports Writers. Assn.)

McNeese State College and the University of Southwestern Louisiana will offer strong challenges, but Northwestern State College will win the Gulf States Conference basketball championship again.

That, in capsule comment, is what GSC coaches predicted in a pre-season poll for the Louisiana Sports Writers Assn.

Four of the conference's six cage mentors picked Huey Cranford's Demons as probable champions. The other two liked the chances of McNeese, bolstered by the return of Stan Kernan.

USL, Louisiana Tech, Northeast State and Southeastern Louisiana College were relegated to a 3-4-5-6 finish, with only the Bulldogs from Lafayette given much chance of cracking into the title picture.

Three NSC players — guards Larry Skinner and Gene Wright and center Truitt Weldon —were tabbed among the most likely to win all - conference honors. Others on the pre-season all GSC team are Kernan and USL's Tim Thompson. Kernan, the most valuable player in the GSC before quitting school and joining the NIBL ranks, was named on every coach's vote as a likely all-league performer.

Others receiving all - conference nominations were Bill McHorris of Southwestern, Gayle Hatch of NSC, John Riddile and Al Nesmith of McNeese and Joe Daigle and Ron Futrell of Louisiana Tech.

NORTHWESTERN STATE

Cranford's Demons could be even better than last year's team which posted a 23-5 record and won the Gulf South Classic at Shreveport as well as the conference crown.

NSC lost one starter off its 1959-60 team, Bill Stewart. But that rebounding star will be replaced by Hatch, a 6-6 junior transfer from Mississippi State who is capable of leading the team in scoring.

The Demons' four returning starters all scored in double figures last season. Six - footers Wright (15.8) and Skinner (14.0) give the team a great, backcourt combination and 6-6 Weldon (14.5) and 6-3 Phil Haley (11.0) are strong rebounders.

McNEESE STATE

Ralph Ward has Kernan, but he also has four regulars off the '59-60 aggregation which posted a 12-15 season record. The Cowboys tied for the GSC cellar last season, but it'll take some strange happenings to keep 'em from finishing in the first division this time.

McNeese lost versatile Don Troutman, but it returns 6-1 Pete Kazyaka, 5-10 Dan Cupit, 6-6 John Riddile and 6-5 Al Nesmith. Kernan, a six - foot sharpshooter, was a three - year regular for Ward and twice made all-GSC.

U. OF SOUTHWESTERN LA.

Beryl Shipley's gang won 20 of 28 games last season, finishing second in the GSC with a 7-3 mark. The Bulldogs lack height again, but they'll be a veteran team loaded with excellent shooters.

Six-two Thompson, 6-3 McHorris, 6-3 Howard Humphreys, 6-3 Larry Simon and 5-10 Shelby Aulds form a potent starting five with 6-3 transfer Mike Wallace and strong frosh crop offering strong backing.

LOUISIANA TECH

freshmen should help ease the oad on a 6-3 Daigle, 6-4 Futrell, 6-5 redshirt A. J. Burlew, 5-11 Billy Boatner, 6-0 Max Lewis and 5-11 Jackie Fair.

The Ruston Bulldogs lost four starters off a team that went 17-9 and finished third in the conference last season. Cecil Crowley faces a tremendous rebuilding job, having lost the great Jackie Moreland, Ray Germany, Jim Tullos and Ron Woodward plus top reserve J. W. Mercer by graduation.

Several excellent transfers and

NORTHEAST STATE

Coach Lenny Fant lost three starters — leading scorer Ronald Doyle, Charlie Barnes and Fred Bradley — but the Indians should be improved, although not title contenders.

Six-one Lanny Johnson and 6-5 Robert Cook started on the 1959-60 Northeast team which went 3-21 and tied for last in the GSC. Among the bright spots are lettermen Milton Linder (6-3), Stuart Toms (5-10) and Dave Harkins (6-5) and transfers G. D. Thompson (6-6) and Jerry Snelling (6-0).

SOUTHEASTERN

Luther Marlar's Lions finished 12-12 for the season and 5-5 in league games last season and will have a hard time equalling that showing this campaign.

SLC lost its top two scorers. Wayne Newsom and Jesse Shanks, plus defensive and rebounding ace Charles Doskey. The Lions will be small and inexperienced, but six-foot senior guard Joe Tuminaro is a fine citizen to have around.

In addition to Tuminaro, the Lions will have 5-9 playmaker Mike Brinkley and 6-0 Bryan Pietri at guards. Sophs Al Link (6-2) and J. B. Vickers (6-3) could man the forward slots. Frosh Albert Baker (6-6), 6-0 Steven McDaniel and 6-5 Herbert Parker are starting candidates.

Syracuse In 117-107 Win Over Pistons

DETROIT (AP)—The Syracuse Nationals grabbed the lead in the second minute and stayed in front all the way Saturday in downing the Detroit Pistons 117-107 in a National Basketball Association game.

Although they didn't reach Detroit until 5 a.m., from Boston where they lost to St. Louis Friday night, the Nats showed no sign of wearniness in trampling the Pistons before 4,901 fans and a national television audience.

With Hal Greer scoring 10 points and Johnny Kerr 8, Syracuse hopped ahead 33-24 by the end of the first quarter and then expanded its lead to 43-33 at the three-minute mark of the second period.

Rookie George Lee scored four baskets and three free throws as Detroit twice struck back to reduce the Syracuse margin to four points before Dick Barnett and veteran Doph Schayes took over to boost the Nats' to a 63-52 halftime advantage.

Greer, Larry Costello and Schayes shared scoring honors with 22 points each. Gene Shue and Don Ohl had 10 apiece for the losers, who dropped into the Western Division cellar.

ALL-SEC ACADEMIC

LeSage, Strange, Mangham Honored

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (Special) There was a time when many football players majored in one subject.

The subject was football. They specialized.

Thus the popular picture of the young man in moleskins . . . all brawn, no brains. Muscles all over, particularly between the ears.

This fellow's long since out of style, of course.

There's proof again on the rosters of the Southeastern Conference for the football season of 1960.

Engineers - to - be, and doctors, teachers and administrators were among the top players in the SEC.

They're members of the All-SEC Academic team announced today by editors of The American Peoples Encyclopedia and the College Sports Information Directors of America.

The team consists of Pat Patchen of Florida and Mickey Mangham of LSU, ends; Walter Suggs of Mississippi State and Joe LeSage of Tulane, tackles; Wayne Grubb of Tennessee and Treva Bolin of Mississippi, guards; Charles (Bo) Strange of LSU, center; Francis Tarkenton of Georgia, Leon Fuller of Alabama, James Anderson of Mississippi, and Ed Dyas of Auburn, backs.

Membership of the team was decided by a board which included conference coaches and writers headed by SEC Commissioner Bernie Moore. Each player had to attain a B average in classwork to qualify for the team.

Top SEC scholar was Ed Dyas, the All - American Auburn fullback who smashed lines and field goal records with equal skill. Dyas is almost straight-A in premedicine.

Dyas is joined in the All-Academic backfield by Georgia's great passer, Francis Tarkenton, a business administration star, too; Alabama's Leon Fuller, an education major, and Mississippi's James (Hoss) Anderson who charged through pre-med studies like he did Rebel opponents.

Three engineers are on the line. End Mickey Mangham, of LSU, excelled in petroleum engineering studies; End Pat Patchen of Florida in civil engineering; Tackle Joe LeSage of Tulane in mechanical engineering.

Business administration claimed Walter Suggs, Mississippi State tackle. Guards Wayne Grubbs, Tennessee, and Treva Bolin, Mississippi, won spurs in education. Center Bo Strange of Louisiana State qualified in arts and sciences.

All of the selectees are seniors except Bolin, a sophomore.

Tarkenton led the Southeastern Conference in total offense with 1,274 yards, in passing with 1189. He threw seven touchdowns for Georgia.

Dyas established new season (13) and career (17) collegiate records kicking field goals while averaging 5.1 yards a carry. Anderson's 505 rushing yards were second in the SEC.

On an Alabama team which spread its statistics about, Fuller was called its "most consistent back," by head coach Paul Bryant. Fuller was outstanding particularly on defense.

All the linemen were key men, all season. Patchen and Strange ranked high in All-Conference picking.

Basketball Twin Bills Set At Louisiana Tech

RUSTON, La. (Special) — There will be some tall timber in this pine cone area Monday and Tuesday when three outstanding, height-laden small college cage powers visit here to participate in doubleheaders on consecutive nights at Louisiana Tech.

The participants will be Southwest Texas State, which won the NAIA national title last year with a 29-3 mark; Northwestern State college which won the GSC with a 23-5 record; Mississippi Southern, the nation's top small college independent quintet a year ago with a 23-2 mark, and Louisiana, which had a 17-9 record.

The twinbills, a joint venture by Tech and NSC, will see the Demons matched against Southern at 7 p.m., Monday night, with Tech and Southwest Texas to clash following that one.

The following night, Tuesday, NSC will meet Southwest Texas at 7 p.m., and Tech will battle the Southerners in the nightcap.

At least two of the cage teams figure to be better than a year ago, and all of them except Tech will have a starting lineup with a height average of 6-4 or 6-5.

Coach Huey Cranford's Demons, the GSC favorite again, lost one starter from a year ago but have added a 6-6 transfer in Gayle Hatch that may give him more scoring punch than in the last campaign. Cranford's four returning starters all averaged better than 10 points per game last year. They include Gene Wright, 15.8; Truitt Weldon, 14.5; Larry Skinner, 14.0, and Phillip Haley, 11.0.

Things look just as bright at Mississippi Southern, where Coach Fred Lewis lost three lettermen but has seven lettermen back from the club that won 23 of 25. The "Golden Giants" will likely open with 6-8 Bill Lundberg, who averaged 8.9 points per tilt a year ago, at center; 6-6 Alex Delia with a 10.8 point average, and Ben Gantt, 6-6, at forwards, and Richie Goldberg, 6-1, and Roy Danforth, 6-0, at guards. Goldberg averaged 10.6 and Danforth 7.4 points per game last year.

Donald Clinton, a 6-7 pivot man; Clyde Mills, 6-4, and Ed Maness, 6-4 junior college transfer, are top reserves for Coach Lewis.

This is supposed to be a rebuilding year for Coach Milt Jowers, the NAIA Coach of the Year last campaign when his team won the national small college title. However, Jowers has 11 veterans back who have seen two or more years' service in the Bobcat ranks at Southwest Texas State.

Jowers lost four starters off the 1959-60 outfit, including Little All-American Charlie Sharp, all-Lone Star loop guards Rudy Davalos and Boonie Wilkening, and forward Howard Lockhart.

Despite this loss, Jowers says, "We won't score near as many points as last year but we should be able to control the ball more and get better shots." He admits the 1960-61 club should handle the ball better than the championship outfit.

Southwest Texas will probably useBruce Gregg, 6-6, and Harper Augsburger, 6-4, at the tandem posts with Chuck Trcka, 6-0; Bobby Henson, 6-3, and Donnie Schmeltekopf, 5-11, at the outside posts.

He can back these up with Earl Lankford, 6-8, Frank Miller, 6-5, and Art Howe, 6-4, along with other veterans.

At Louisiana Tech, Coach Cecil Crowley also lost four starters and has a club built around three-year vets Ron Futrell, 6-4, and Joe Daigle, 6 - 3. Other starters will probably be Billy Boatner, 5-11, and Max Lewis, 6-0, at guards, and Joe Moreland, 6-2, or Joe Abendroth, 6-3 frosh, at the other forward slot. Jackie Fair, 5-11 guard, is the only other letterman.

The twinbills will be held at Memorial gymnasium on the Tech campus. The fieldhouse will seat 5,000.

ONE OF the stars that will appear in the basketball twin bills at Louisiana Tech Monday and Tuesday is Richie Goldberg, Mississippi Southern's 6-1 junior guard. Southern, Southwest Texas, Northwestern and Tech will participate.

FOR BREAKING 'GAG RULE'

SWC Committee Blasts Broyles

DALLAS (AP)—The Southwest Conference publicly reprimanded Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas' Cotton Bowl team Saturday for criticism of the officiating in the Arkansas-Mississippi football game.

The conference faculty committee for the second time in three years invoked the "gag rule" which prohibits a coach from making derogatory statements in the press about game officials. He is supposed to submit any criticism to the conference in writing.

The action came as the faculty committee wound up its winter meeting by making some drastic changes in the recruiting rules, one successfully surmounting the letter of intent barrier thrown up by the Texas Interscholastic League.

In the future, conference members can sign athletes to pre-enrollment applications before they finish high school and not endanger their remaining eligibility. These applications, however, must carry no reference to financial aid.

The reprimand of Broyles was no more than a slap on the wrist compared to 1958 when the conference put Southern Methodist on probation for a year because Athletic Director Matty Bell and basketball Coach Doc Hayes said some tart things about the referee of the SMU-Texas A\M basketball game in which the Aggies were awarded the decision on a goal tending ruling.

But Broyles apologized for his utterances, which included the charge that the field goal that was allowed to beat Arkansas didn't actually go between the goal posts. There also was no continuation of the controversy as in 1958 when it was carried on in the press for weeks and pictures of the goal tending play were run in the newspapers and on television.

The committee would give no reason for the difference in degree of penalty but it was obvious that the faculty committee considered the Broyles rhubarb to be much milder than the 1958 outburst.

An agreement was reached by the conference with the Texas Interscholastic League to remove the knotty problem precipitated by the league's ruling that if a boy signed a letter of intent it involved "valuable consideration" and the boy, in fact, became professional in the eyes of the league.

The conference had been trying for years to get the league to allow a boy to sign a letter of intent and still retain his high school eligibility. But the league was adamant and only when the conference worked out a rule that provided for a pre-enrollment application with no mention of financial aid would the league agree.

Annual Cage Tourney Set In Farmerville

FARMERVILLE, La. (Special) — The annual Farmerville High School Invitational Basketball Tournament will begin December 15th this year, a week earlier then previous tournaments.

Farmerville coaches Sistrunk and Albritton said the tournament will run through the 16th and 17th, with the initial game of the meet starting Thursday at 5 p.m.

Eight boys teams, including Marion, 12-21; Bernice, 9-2; and Pearsville, 13-1. Farmerville, Linville, Downsville, Summersfield and Homer are the other boys teams entered.

Summerfield is the only team to have turned back the powerful Spearsville team this year.

Favored in girls' competition will be powerful Marion, trailed closely by Homer and Spearsville. Linville, Downsville, Bernice, Junction City, Arkansas, and host Farmerville round out the eight girls teams in the tournament.

Union Parish basketball fans will see such outstanding stars as Dennis Towns and Donald Reeves of Marion, Alden Everett and Joey Barron of Spearsville, Jerry Colson of Linville, Jerry Joe Albritton of Downsville, Curtiss Allen, Jerry Tettleton, Jerry Allen, James Barron and Billy Rich of host Farmerville.

THOMPSON BEATEN

Paret Keeps Championship With Unanimous Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion obenny (Kid) Paret of Cuba Saturday night retained his title by hammering out a unanimous 15-round decision over cut and blood-smeared Federico Thompson at bmadiso Square Garden.

Both judges, Joe Eppy and Leo Birnbaum, had Paret ahead, nine rounds to six. Referee Art Mercante had Paret the winner 7-6 with two rounds even. The Associated Press had parent in front, 9-6.

Paret, a 147-pound bundle of fight energy, kept on top of his taller, 145 -pound opponent all the way with a slashing, two-fisted attack to body and head that weakened the 32-year-old Argentine.

A jagged, vertical half-inch cut on the left side of Thompson's face played an important factor in Paret's victory. Blood flowed profusely from the gash. Thompson had to swallow much blood and that hampered his breathing and slowed him up.

From that round on both fighters were covered with blood and the ring canvas looked like a butcher's block.

But even with that handicap, the lean veteran, who had fought Paret to a 12-round draw last March, rallied in the seventh and eighth rounds to make it real close up to that point.

Then Paret, a muscular, buzz-saw puncher, stepped up his pace again and virtually swept the ninth to the 13th round to take the fight. He moved in close on his tiring foe and battered his bleeding face and sore body with a stream of punches.

There were no knockdowns in the bristling battle that had an announced crowd of 6,000 cheering throughout and no doubt delighted television viewers from coast to coast.

But both fighters were shaken twice each in a fiery second round and Paret, rated the lesser puncher of the two, rocked his rival several more times.

After the battle, Harry Markson, general manager of Garden boxing, said he planned to match Paret in a March title defense against the winner of next week's Garden fight between unbeaten Luis Rodriguez of Cuba and contender Emile Griffith of New York. Rodgiruez is the No. 1 contender.

This was Paret's first defense of the crown he won from Don Jordan on a decision at Las Vegas May 27. He was a 6-5 favorite. The 23-year-old former sugar cane cutter now has a 33-7-3 record. Thompson's three year unbeaten streak was snapped at 32. His record is 100-8-9.

Thompson has 52 knockouts to his credit but he couldn't dent the iron chin of the Cuban who never has been stopped. Paret won by keeping close to Thompson. He seldom gave him any punching room. In the second round, however, he dared to slug it out with his heavier - gunned foe. They belted each other freely and twice, rights hurt each man.

In the seventh and eighth, Thompson turned soutpaw and took the play away from his busy rival. He kept Paret back with swinging rights and stiff lefts to the head.

In the ninth, Paret came out fresh as a daisy. He tore after Federico and wouldn't let up.

Paret kept that dynamic attack going right through to the end of the 13th. In the closing seconds of that round, a jarring right to the jaw staggered Tompson sent him back three feet to the ropes.

The Argentine, somehow or other, regained his strength and took the 14th and 15th rounds.

The Garden said the gate receipts were about $20,000. The TV fee was $50,000. Paret, getting 40 per cent of the TV money and net receipts, earned about $16,000. Thompson, on his 20 per cent, collected about $13,000. It was the largest purse ever for each.

Chimorro Wins William Molter

ALBANY, Calif. (AP — Argentine-bred Chimorro nhur through the mud to an upset victory in the first running of the $10,000-added Willi am Molter Handicap at Golden Gate Fields Saturday before 12.842.

Honk closed from last place in the field of nine and finished second in the mile race, a nose ahead of Whiz Bam.

Chimorro was timed in 1:38 3-5 and paid $24, $11.60 and $7.60. Honk returned $10.60 and $6 and Whiz Bam $4.80.

It was the second consecutive victory for Chimorro and his second in 10 starts since the 4-year-old son of Sideral came to this country last summer.

Ordinary I-beam type front axle. A stiff-beam design that transmits shock from the road right through the truck.

Chevy Independent Front Suspension. Wheels flex independently, minimize tire abuse as well as body stress.

Because they ride easier they last longer, too. They take better care of payloads and they make a long day's work a lot more pleasant for the driver. All that—primarily because of Independent Front Suspension (I.F.S.). If you think it's stretching a point to attribute that many advantages to a suspension system, you haven't driven a new Chevy with I.F.S. Take the wheel and feel its road-leveling ride, its almost total absence of shimmy and wheel fight, its ease of steering even in the big rigs. Spend hours behind the wheel and you're not nearly as tired. You're not and neither is the truck. That independent suspension soaks up the worst shock and vibration—the kind that can twist sheet metal and loosen joints and increase your maintenance costs. That's why Chevy trucks keep on working and saving for extra thousands of miles. Try one. CHEVROLET

DALLAS (AP)—The Southwest Conference publicly reprimanded Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas' Cotton Bowl team Saturday for criticism of the officiating in the Arkansas-Mississippi football game.

The conference faculty committee for the second time in three years invoked the "gag rule" which prohibits a coach from making derogatory statements in the press about game officials. He is supposed to submit any criticism to the conference in writing.

The action came as the faculty committee wound up its winter meeting by making some drastic changes in the recruiting rules, one successfully surmounting the letter of intent barrier thrown up by the Texas Interscholastic League.

In the future, conference members can sign athletes to pre-enrollment applications before they finish high school and not endanger their remaining eligibility. These applications, however, must carry no reference to financial aid.

The reprimand of Broyles was no more than a slap on the wrist compared to 1958 when the conference put Southern Methodist on probation for a year because Athletic Director Matty Bell and basketball Coach Doc Hayes said some tart things about the referee of the SMU-Texas A&M basketball game in which the Aggies were awarded the decision on a goal tending ruling.

But Broyles apologized for his utterances, which included the charge that the field goal that was allowed to beat Arkansas didn't actually go between the goal posts. There also was no continuation of the controversy as in 1958 when it was carried on in the press for weeks and pictures of the goal tending play were run in the newspapers and on television.

The committee would give no reason for the difference in degree of penalty but it was obvious that the faculty committee considered the Broyles rhubarb to be much milder than the 1958 outburst.

An agreement was reached by the conference with the Texas Interscholastic League to remove the knotty problem precipitated by the league's ruling that if a boy signed a letter of intent it involved "valuable consideration" and the boy, in fact, became professional in the eyes of the league.

The conference had been trying for years to get the league to allow a boy to sign a letter of intent and still retain his high school eligibility. But the league was adamant and only when the conference worked out a rule that provided for a pre-enrollment application with no mention of financial aid would the league agree.

Annual Cage Tourney Set In Farmerville

FARMERVILLE, La. (Special) — The annual Farmerville High School Invitational Basketball Tournament will begin December 15th this year, a week earlier then previous tournaments.

Farmerville coaches Sistrunk and Albritton said the tournament will run through the 16th and 17th, with the initial game of the meet starting Thursday at 5 p.m.

Eight boys teams, including Marion, 12-21; Bernice, 9-2; and Pearsville, 13-1. Farmerville, Linville, Downsville, Summersfield and Homer are the other boys teams entered.

Summerfield is the only team to have turned back the powerful Spearsville team this year.

Favored in girls' competition will be powerful Marion, trailed closely by Homer and Spearsville. Linville, Downsville, Bernice, Junction City, Arkansas, and host Farmerville round out the eight girls teams in the tournament.

Union Parish basketball fans will see such outstanding stars as Dennis Towns and Donald Reeves of Marion, Alden Everett and Joey Barron of Spearsville, Jerry Colson of Linville, Jerry Joe Albritton of Downsville, Curtiss Allen, Jerry Tettleton, Jerry Allen, James Barron and Billy Rich of host Farmerville.

THOMPSON BEATEN

Paret Keeps Championship With Unanimous Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion obenny (Kid) Paret of Cuba Saturday night retained his title by hammering out a unanimous 15-round decision over cut and blood-smeared Federico Thompson at bmadiso Square Garden.

Both judges, Joe Eppy and Leo Birnbaum, had Paret ahead, nine rounds to six. Referee Art Mercante had Paret the winner 7-6 with two rounds even. The Associated Press had parent in front, 9-6.

Paret, a 147-pound bundle of fight energy, kept on top of his taller, 145 -pound opponent all the way with a slashing, two-fisted attack to body and head that weakened the 32-year-old Argentine.

A jagged, vertical half-inch cut on the left side of Thompson's face played an important factor in Paret's victory. Blood flowed profusely from the gash. Thompson had to swallow much blood and that hampered his breathing and slowed him up.

From that round on both fighters were covered with blood and the ring canvas looked like a butcher's block.

But even with that handicap, the lean veteran, who had fought Paret to a 12-round draw last March, rallied in the seventh and eighth rounds to make it real close up to that point.

Then Paret, a muscular, buzz-saw puncher, stepped up his pace again and virtually swept the ninth to the 13th round to take the fight. He moved in close on his tiring foe and battered his bleeding face and sore body with a stream of punches.

There were no knockdowns in the bristling battle that had an announced crowd of 6,000 cheering throughout and no doubt delighted television viewers from coast to coast.

But both fighters were shaken twice each in a fiery second round and Paret, rated the lesser puncher of the two, rocked his rival several more times.

After the battle, Harry Markson, general manager of Garden boxing, said he planned to match Paret in a March title defense against the winner of next week's Garden fight between unbeaten Luis Rodriguez of Cuba and contender Emile Griffith of New York. Rodgiruez is the No. 1 contender.

This was Paret's first defense of the crown he won from Don Jordan on a decision at Las Vegas May 27. He was a 6-5 favorite. The 23-year-old former sugar cane cutter now has a 33-7-3 record. Thompson's three year unbeaten streak was snapped at 32. His record is 100-8-9.

Thompson has 52 knockouts to his credit but he couldn't dent the iron chin of the Cuban who never has been stopped. Paret won by keeping close to Thompson. He seldom gave him any punching room. In the second round, however, he dared to slug it out with his heavier - gunned foe. They belted each other freely and twice, rights hurt each man.

In the seventh and eighth, Thompson turned soutpaw and took the play away from his busy rival. He kept Paret back with swinging rights and stiff lefts to the head.

In the ninth, Paret came out fresh as a daisy. He tore after Federico and wouldn't let up.

Paret kept that dynamic attack going right through to the end of the 13th. In the closing seconds of that round, a jarring right to the jaw staggered Tompson sent him back three feet to the ropes.

The Argentine, somehow or other, regained his strength and took the 14th and 15th rounds.

The Garden said the gate receipts were about $20,000. The TV fee was $50,000. Paret, getting 40 per cent of the TV money and net receipts, earned about $16,000. Thompson, on his 20 per cent, collected about $13,000. It was the largest purse ever for each.

Chimorro Wins William Molter

ALBANY, Calif. (AP — Argentine-bred Chimorro nhur through the mud to an upset victory in the first running of the $10,000-added Willi am Molter Handicap at Golden Gate Fields Saturday before 12,842.

Honk closed from last place in the field of nine and finished second in the mile race, a nose ahead of Whiz Bam.

Chimorro was timed in 1:38 3-5 and paid $24, $11.60 and $7.60. Honk returned $10.60 and $6 and Whiz Bam $4.80.

It was the second consecutive victory for Chimorro and his second in 10 starts since the 4-year-old son of Sideral came to this country last summer.

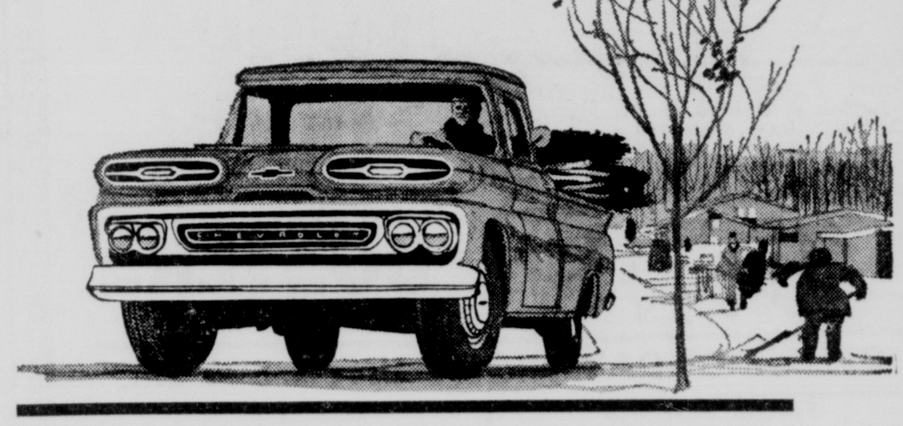
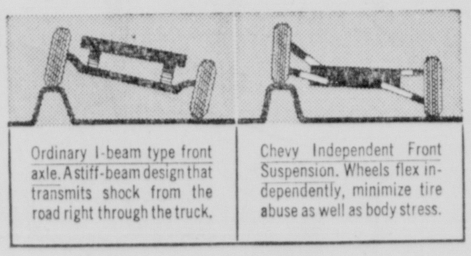
THEY WORK HARDER BECAUSE THEY RIDE EASIER!





Ordinary I-beam type front axle. A stiff-beam design that transmits shock from the road right through the truck.

Chevy Independent Front Suspension. Wheels flex independently, minimize tire abuse as well as body stress.

Because they ride easier they last longer, too. They take better care of payloads and they make a long day's work a lot more pleasant for the driver. All that—primarily because of Independent Front Suspension (I.F.S.). If you think it's stretching a point to attribute that many advantages to a suspension system, you haven't driven a new Chevy with I.F.S. Take the wheel and feel its road-leveling ride, its almost total absence of shimmy and wheel fight, its ease of steering even in the big rigs. Spend hours behind the wheel and you're not nearly as tired. You're not and neither is the truck. That independent suspension soaks up the worst shock and vibration—the kind that can twist sheet metal and loosen joints and increase your maintenance costs. That's why Chevy trucks keep on working and saving for extra thousands of miles. Try one. CHEVROLET

U.S. Consul In Congo To Provide Aid

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—U.S. Consul Robert McIlvain flew to Stanleyville Saturday to aid any Americans threatened with slaughter in a leftist reign of terror in the Patrice Lumumba stronghold.

As a deadline for bloodshed passed, there was nothing to indicate that Stanleyville strongman Bernard Salumu, a former secretary of jailed ex-Premier Lumumba had carried out his threat to behead Belgian nationals unless Lumumba was freed.

More than 100 Europeans, mostly Belgians, spent the night at a schoolhouse guarded by a detachment of the 1,800-man Ethiopian U.N. force in Oriental Province.

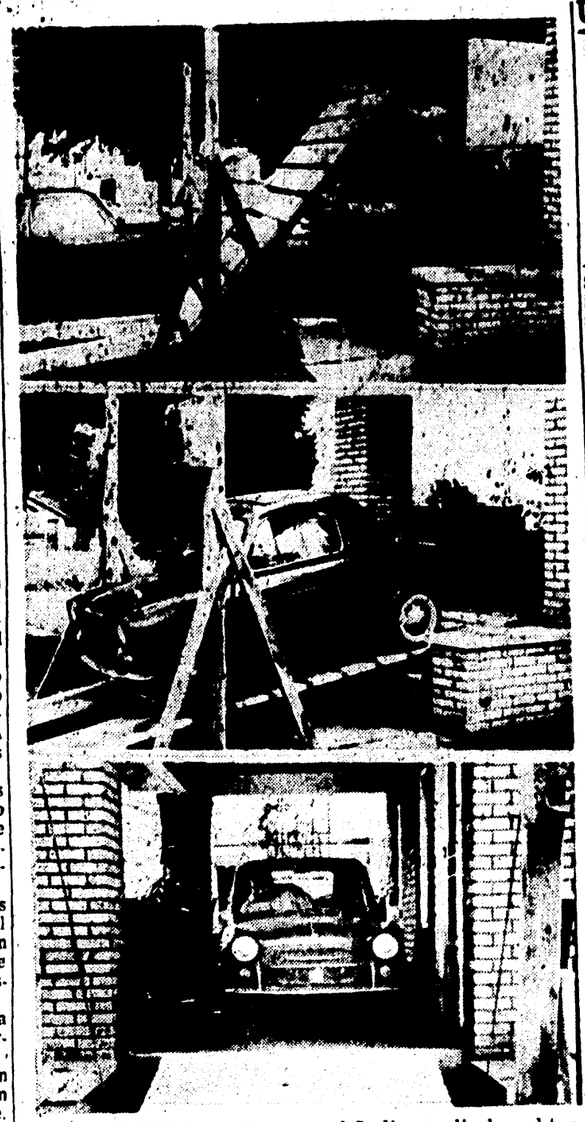
McIlvain was ordered to Stanleyville from Leopoldville to care for the interests of Americans in Oriental Province. A number of American missionaries are believed to be in the area.

Seven other Western nations also sent in emissaries to try to protect their nations, although the Congolese gendarmes under Salumu show little care for diplomatic immunity.

Last week, Congolese soldiers twice slapped British Consul Daphne Parks and pulled down the zipper of her dress when she flew into Stanleyville on a mission.

U.N. officials said there was a "lessening" of danger in Stanleyville, but they did not explain.

There are some 2,000 whites in Oriental Province, half of them in the capital at Stanleyville.



WHEN BRUCE M. Turney of Indianapolis bought a tiny foreign car it left him with a garage problem. He couldn't get both his regular-size car and the tiny one in his single garage. With the aid of a home made drawbridge he now parks the little one on the front porch. At top, he lowers the drawbridge over the front steps, and then backs the car up the bridge, center. In bottom picture the car is safely out of the weather on the front porch. He estimates the drawbridge cost him about $35 which was cheaper than a new garage. (AP Wirephoto)

U.N. VOTES RECESS

Assembly To Take Long Holiday Break

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The U.N. Steering Committee Saturday voted an 11-week recess in the current General Assembly session. The long holiday break, beginning Dec. 20 and ending March 7, was a victory for the West.

The United States and other Western powers shoved it through the 21-nation committee over bitter Soviet opposition. The Soviet Union had demanded a short recess of from two to six weeks so that the resumed session might be concluded in February.

The decision still must be ratified by the 99-nation assembly itself, but there appeared little chance of a reversal.

Some Western delegates backed the long holiday as a cooling-off period in the tense cold war maneuvering. But it also was suggested as a measure to give the incoming U.S. administration of President-elect John F. Kendy time to get the feel of things.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valero Zorin made it clear that his government still was thinking of a special spring session of the assembly on disarmament, as proposed by Premier Khrushchev. Zorin even suggested this might be held in April or May.

Approval of the March resumption of the session, however, virtually ruled out any special session before early summer.

The current session opened Sept. 20 and originally was scheduled to end Dec. 17, but the heavy load of work, plus the increased number of members, has resulted in huge backlogs in major committees.

The question of waiting for the Kennedy administration to get established was raised by Canada's Wallace Nesbitt. "As Canada's Wallace Nesbitt. everybody knows," he said, "there is a change of administration going on in one of the important nations in the United Nations." He said it would greatly facilitate things if the changes had taken place in Washington by the time the assembly reconvened.

Bulgarian Delegate Milko Tarabanov retorted: "If we adjourn every time there is a change of government in one of the big powers, we are going to find ourselves in difficulties. We don't want to make ourselves an annex of the State Department."

At right: Miss Brenda Elizabeth Brown of Lake Providence, will be presented to society at the annual Delta Debutante Ball in Greenville, Mississippi on the night of December 28. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patten Brown, Lake Providence, she is a student at Sophie Newcomb college, where she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority.

Holiday Fetes and Wedding Dates

Formally attired for the festive occasion of the Junior Charity League's annual Christmas ball are the league president, and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Thad J. Ryan Jr., 2202 Island Drive. Music for the ball held last night at Bayou DeSiard Country club was provided by the nationally prominent Ted Weems Orchestra.

Below: Miss Lynda Patricia Gilbreath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gilbreath of Tallulah, will become the bride of Larry Philpott, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Philpott of Vicksburg, Miss., on December 20. The vows will be solemnized at 7 p.m. in the Tallulah Church of Christ.

A February 4 wedding is planned by Miss Jacquelin Ann McCarthy and Dr. Gerald Franklin DeLaune Jr., of Jeanerette, whose engagement is announced today by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Lancaster Francis McCarthy of New Orleans. Dr. DeLaune is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Franklin DeLaune of Ferriday. The wedding will take place in St. Catherine of Siena Church in New Orleans.

Below: Solemnized Sunday, December 18 in the First Baptist church of Jonesboro will be the wedding of Miss Hazel Ann Crawley, and Robert C. Martin. Parents of the betrothed couple are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Claude Crawley and Mr. and Mrs. Lovon H. Martin, all of Jonesboro. Rev. W. R. Lawrence, pastor of the church, will perform the 3 o'clock ceremony. Miss Crawley is a graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston where she received her B. S. degree. Mr. Martin also attended Louisiana Tech and both are employed at present in Hodge.

Holy Land Is Topic At Review Club

Traditional Christmas decorations were noted throughout the home of Mrs. W. T. Davis, 106 Lanmar, Monday afternoon when she entertained members of the Review Club and a trio of guests. Guests were Mrs. H. M. Walters, Mrs. John E. Mulhearn and Mrs Virginia Scheen.

Arrangements in gold and white adorned the living room and entrance to greet arriving guests and the traditional yuletide appointments were used in the den where the meeting was held.

Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, president, conducted the meeting and read a Christmas message from the president of the fifth district of Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs. Members volunteered to send gifts and cookies to the Christmas party at the Veterans Hospital in Alexandria.

The Holy Land was the subject of the afternoon program which was introduced by Mrs. A. T. Givens, chairman of the advisory board. Mrs. E. P. Cudd presented the history of the Holy Land with use of maps for illustration, and her graphic evidence showed the land has played a prominent part in ancient, medieval and modern history.

Colored slides taken by Miss Margaret Hunter during a tour of the Holy Land, were shown by Mrs. Marcus Mapp. In conclusion Mrs. J. C. Loftin reviewed Exodus, by Leon Uris, a story of the pursuit of a dream twenty centuries old.

A social hour followed the program, during which the hostesses served dessert to the guests and members present including Mrs. W. E. Bennett Jr., Mrs. E. P. Cudd, Mrs. A. T. Givens, Mrs. C. P. Gray Jr, Mrs D. W. Griffith, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, Mrs. Fred Huenefeld, Jr., Mrs. W. M. Inabnet, Mrs. J. C. Loftin, Mrs. Marcus Mapp, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. N. R. Spencer, Mrs. Thomas C. Dansby, Mrs. L. N. Waddell and Mrs. George Walker.

December 27 Wedding Date Listed By Couple

December 27 is the date chosen for the wedding of Miss Evelyn Elephia Ketchings and Lester Allen Baker, whose engagement is announced by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Louie Ketchings of Natchez, Miss. Mr. Baker is the son of Mrs. Elwyn Winford Robinson of Natchez and the late Lester Allen Baker Sr.

The wedding will be performed in Trinity Episcopal church.

Miss Ketchings, granddaughter of Mrs. Walter B. Hogue and the late Mr. Hogue of Natchez and Mrs. Thomas Lowe Ketchings of Sylvester, Va., is a graduate of Natchez High school and Stephens College, Columbia, Mo.

Her fiance is the grandson of Mrs. J. R. C. Tate and the late Mr. Tate of Natchez, and Mrs. Charles Thomas Baker Sr., of Minden, La., and the late Mr. Baker. He was graduated from Natchez High school and attended Mississippi Southern college at Hattiesburg. He has completed two years of active duty with the U. S. Naval Reserve, serving aboard the USS Essex, and has resumed his studies at Mississippi Southern, where he is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity.

Moore-Leake Nuptials Read In Woodville

The wedding of Miss Annie Laura Leake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Leake of Woodville, Miss., and Hensley Earl Moore Jr., of Baton Rouge, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Moore of Woodville, was solemnized December 2 at 7 p.m. in the Woodville Baptist Church. Rev. O. B. Beverly performed the ceremony.

Miss Peggy Leake attended her sister as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Diana Stevens, Miss Patsy Bostic and Miss Barbara Reine, of Baton Rouge. Flower girl was Gail Wood.

Roy Abadie attended the bridegroom as best man. Groomsmen were Whit McConnel, Charles Fontenot and John Elton, all of Baton Rouge. Kevin Abadie was ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlor. After a wedding trip the couple will be at home in Baton Rouge.

Natchez Couple Is Betrothed

The engagement of Cheryl Darlene Besser, daughter of Robert R. Besser of Natchez and Mrs. Roy E. Atkinson of Memphis, Tenn., to David Denson Carpenter, son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Carpenter of Dumas, Ark., is being announced by the father of the bride-elect.

Miss Besser is a graduate of Memphis Central High school and attended Mississippi State College for Women. Mr. Carpenter is a graduate of Dumas High school and attended the University of Arkansas. Both are now employed in Natchez.

Date of the wedding will be announced.

Gay Christmas Party Held By Technologists

Annual Christmas party for the Northeast Louisiana Society of Medical Technologists was held at an 8 o'clock dinner Thursday night, December 8 in the Mirror Room of the Frances Hotel.

The dinner tables were arranged with clusters of magnolia leaves, painted to resemble poinsettias, interspersed with lighted candles.

Mrs. Bonnie Hales, president, gave a welcome address and following dinner, Miss Lillian Price provided piano accompaniment for group singing of Christmas carols.

Miss Gerry Kenny, hostess for the event, conducted games during remainder of the evening, in which numerous prizes were awarded.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hales, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Sayre, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Dean McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Canoy Cooper, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wilson, Misses Gerry Kenny, Lillian Price, Sylvia Jones, Liza Ford, Ann Doles, Virginia Griffin, Betty Jane McCartney, Mrs. Bobbie Earle, Mrs. Jo Albritton, Tom Hutson, Jim Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Whatley, Dr. and Mrs. Aaron Seamster and Mr. and Mrs. Byron Bayne.

Meal Stretcher

You can stretch creamed oysters by adding a can of sliced mushrooms — and the combination will taste good. Some of the mushroom liquid may be substituted for milk in making the sauce.

Liver Pasta

Saute chicken livers and make a thing brown gravy; serve with cooked thin spaghetti or linguine (flat strands of pasta) and lots of grated Parmesan or Romano cheese.

To you true Louisianians, the kind of weather we've had lately brings on seasonal spirit. The very words "Christmas shopping" connote a dismal day with crowds slopping about in freezing rain. Those who live in other climes might consider that we've had a nasty week, but we have to have that kind to get in the mood for the holidays.

And Christmas parties are in full swing. At Bayou DeSiard country club last Saturday night, the RALPH TALBOTS, BOLLING JONESES, and CAVITT COOKSTONS entertained with a reception between the hours of seven-thirty and nine-thirty. In the receiving line with the hosts were ANGIE and AL IRWIN of Shreveport, who will be moving to Monroe next summer. Also present for the affair were Connie Jones' parents, CONSUELO and AL HUDKINS of Longview, Texas.

For the party, Kitty Talbot wore a printed silk in shades of green, overlaid with silk organza . . . Marie Cookston's green silk faille was styled with portrait neckline framed with a standing collar . . .

while Connie chose royal blue chiffon with a wide sequin belt.

On the piano was placed a large brass urn filled with gold and bronze chrysanthemums, pyracantha branches, and lotus pods. A wreath of holly, magnolia leaves, and lights hung in the center of the room, directly above the round refreshment table. Miniature fruit and greenery decorated the wicker tree form which centered the table . . . Cakes and coffee were served from a table at the far end of the ballroom. Holly, bois d'arc balls and lotus pods were arranged on and around the tall branched brass candelabra, placed opposite the brass urn.

Sunday afternoon the ALLEN BARHAMS and the A. L. SMITHS were hosts at a Christmas party in the Paragon ballroom. Tall, tall Swedish candles flanked a centerpiece of gold and red fruit arranged in a tiered gold wicker compote. On the organ was a tree of burning candles. Several hundred friends called between five and seven.

We noted a number of out-of-towners among the guests at this party, including JEAN FUDICKAR, of Ferriday, looking lovely in a silver - green brocade with green velvet cummerbund and LUCILLE HUNT of Ruston, wearing an elegant chinchilla stole.

Gay as Christmas was FLORA POTTS in red lace. She was telling of her plans for a real holiday houseparty with several houseguests. Included in the group, which will arrive this week, will be the J. ROUMINE PETERS of Atlanta, Georgia; JOHN R. PETERS, JR., of Tulane University, New Orleans; BEN M. PETERS, presently serving with the U.S. Navy; and SANDI VAUGHN of Alpina, Michigan.

What with these parties and the Cosmopolitan club's dance, last weekend was a good time for a clothes - watcher to be on the job. Among the outfits noted were SYDNIE SMITH's holly green satin with matching shoes and earrings . . . LORRAINE McMAHON's white brocaded with deep rose flowers . . . and VIRGINIA GIBB's low-backed peacock blue taffeta . . . DARLINE LINER's full - skirted red silk brocade was worn with matching full length coat . . . A gay pouf of feathers topped BETTY GOYNE's whimsical black velvet cocktail hat. . . WAENA MAYO wore copper-colored silk chiffon ornamented with sequins . . . Gold accessories echoed gold embroidery on the cummerbund of SUSAN WOODS' white chiffon . . . ROSELYN COOPER chose pink taffeta overlaid with red lace . . . and PEGGY CROSLOW, all in black, accented her new hair-style with beribboned rhinestones.

Another popular holiday party is the morning coffee. NELL FAULK entertained in this manner Thursday morning. A pink wreath on the front door set a theme of pink and white used in the living and dining rooms. Pink baubles were tied with pink satin bows to white draperies, and pink candles decorated with pearls and rhinestones were placed on the mantel. White carnations arranged with silver ornaments and pink angel hair centered the dining table, where HELEN NORRIS and JEAN HUENEFELD poured coffee. On the buffet was a five - branched candelabra holding pink tapers tied with pink satin bows and pink flowers.

A magnolia swag hung above the mantel in the den, where decorations were red, green and white. The red-covered table held an arrangement of white carnations flanked by white tapers in milk glass candlesticks. LOUISE M'CARTER and MARY ALICE LOFLIN alternated at the ironstone coffee service.

Others who assisted at the party were CHARLENE BROWN, BETTY B. JACKSON, BOBBIE INABNET, TEEDEE DIXON, BARRIER SPENCER, BETTY STONE, GLADYS EMMA MURPHY, and ELISE MAPP. All wore white carnations. Over one hundred friends called between ten and twelve.

One of the cleverest programs to be given lately hereabouts was the "This Is Your Life" skit presented in honor of manager FRED BECKETT at the Penney's employees party Wednesday night. Following dinner, JOHN RUDISIL narrated the story, a complete surprise to the honoree, who was presented with a scrapbook embossed with his name commemorating the occasion.

Among those who participated were EDDIE M'LAIN, Fred's coach at Louisiana Tech; ARCHIE TURNER of Ferriday, member of the same football team, and the BREWER GODFREYS, also college friends; BILL HALLER of Little Rock, Fred's first boss; MARY BARBER, who helped him write his first sales ticket . . . and GEORGE FRIZEL, who served with him in the Army.

Relatives who helped with the surprise were Fred's mother, MRS. W. F. BECKETT, and brothers, JOHN, TOM, and JACK, all of Shreveport; the DEWITT MILAMS; brother - in - law JOHN BLANCHARD of Bastrop; JOHNNIE S. ELBERT; wife EVA and children MARY EVE and DEWITT.

On her fourteenth birthday, LINDA ATKINSON was honored at luncheon in the private dining room of Bayou DeSiard country club. Linda wore for the party an olive green suit with dyed-to-match fur collar. Red carnations and red goblets were used on the table, which was covered with a pink cloth. Polynesian chicken and creme de menthe parfait were included on the menu served to ten guests.

VEE MARSHALL celebrated her eighth birthday with a party at home. Fifteen little friends were invited for carol singing and musical games before supper. A Christmas cloth covered the table. Centerpiece was an angel figure which played "Silent Night." Tiny Santa Claus models, which were given as favors, marked each place. Birthday cake, red, white and green, was served following hamburgers.

Here are some gay and seasonal lines by Dick Emmons:

Our Christmas cards have all been written,
And in the doing I've been smitten
By the thought that somehow we
Are sending them exclusively
To people whom we really shouldn't,
And I for one wish that we wouldn't.
The reason for my seeming mutiny
Is that our list, when given scrutiny,
Reveals that we are sending cards
To folks who own adjacent yards;
To those who've moved to Nebr.
or Tenn.,
And whom we'll never see again;
To those with whom I work
each day
As if, somehow, I were away.
But worse than sending cards to these
Is that each Christmastime
we seize
The chance to send Noelatives
To all our diverse relatives,
Who, barring strike or crippling storm (And if things happen true to form),
Will Christmas Day be gaily
sittin' at
The very board their cards were written at.

Walker-Maurey Nuptials Solemnized In Bryn Mawr Community Church

A blue, white and green color note was reflected in floral arrangements and gowns of the bridal party for the wedding of Miss Madeleine Joan Maurey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Maurey of Chicago, Ill., and George Thomas Walker Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. George Thomas Walker Sr., of Monroe.

Officiating clergy were Dr. W. J. McFadden, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe, and Dr. R. C. Jones, pastor of Bryn Mawr Community Church of Chicago, where the couple exchanged vows at 11 o'clock in the morning of November 26.

A program of nuptial organ music was presented, and Mrs. Eugene Maurey, aunt of the bride and a concert soloist, sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding marches by Mendelssohn and Wagner were played.

For the impressive double ring ceremony the altar held antique brass candlesticks with burning cathedral tapers, which flanked a large cross enriched with garlands of gardenias and greenery. The bridal party was framed by tall trees fashioned with mammoth white chrysanthemums and huckleberry foliage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white imported lace over satin which terminated in a chapel train. The basque bodice featured a high scalloped neckline and long sleeves, which ended in a point at the wrist. Her full length veil of illusion cascaded from a cap of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of tube-roses encircled by lily petals and natural foliage.

Miss Joan Ann Maurey served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a sheath dress of peacock blue velvet designed with empire waist, banded in taffeta, and a full - length taffeta overdress featuring an Elizabethan collar, bracelet sleeves and bell skirt. She chose matching slippers and short white gloves. For her headdress she wore a peacock blue velvet crown and shoulder-length halo veil, and she carried a crescent arrangement of nature green Fuji chrysanthemums, bells of Ireland and peacock feathers.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Miss Ellen Walker, Miss Malise Mapp, both of Monroe, Miss Virginia Beem of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Ann Moore of Chicago. They were dressed identical to the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

Miss Patti Jo Davidson and Miss Eileen Lastowsky, flower girls, wore poudre blue velveteen frocks designed with basque bodices and bell skirts over scalloped lace. Their headpieces were petite crowns of matching velveteen entwined with flowers, and each carried two small Fuji chrysanthemums encircled with white lace frills and connected by a bronze chain.

The ring bearer, Linda Lastowsky, wore white peau de sole fashioned with closely - fitted bodice and full skirt. Her headdress was a duplicate of those worn by the flower girls, and she carried the rings on a white satin pillow enriched by pearls.

Serving as best man was the bridegroom's father, and the groomsmen were Allen Foster of Monroe, Richard Watson of West Monroe, Roger Williams of Natchitoches and Thomas O'Connor of Chicago. Ushers were Warren J. Hickey and Peter Lastowsky, both of Chicago.

Mrs. Maurey, mother of the bride, chose a plum satin gown of floral design and matching headdress with veil. Her costume featured a boat neckline, cap sleeves and a pencil line underskirt with harem tunic effect. She wore a strand of pearls and matching earrings and a wrist corsage of Better Times roses.

The groom's mother was gowned in olivet silk crepe with matching accessories and a small hat of pink and green flowers. Accenting her costume were a tri - strand opalescent crystal necklace and earrings, and her elongated shoulder corsage was of yellow throated fleur d'amour and natural foliage.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the South Shore Country Club.

The bride's long table was centered with cupid figurines in graduated sizes holding white carnations, gardenias and chrysanthemums, connected by garlands of gardenias and greenery. White satin covered a smaller table on which rested a tiered wedding confection embossed with gardenias and surmounted by figurines.

Embossed wedding bell cards marked the places for guests who were served at twenty tables featuring decors of green bisque cupids filled with white carnations, chrysanthemums and foliage. Background music was provided by a string ensemble.

When the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a black and red tweed walking suit, small black imported French suede hat, matching gloves and bag and a corsage of tuberoses and galax leaves.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker are making their home at 511 Madison Street, Monroe, where the bride is a student at Northeast Louisiana State College. The bridegroom, formerly a student at Tulane University, will enroll at Northeast for the spring semester.

Guests from Monroe who attended the wedding wre Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Mapp, their daughter, Miss Malise Mapp, member of the wedding party, her brother, Andy Franklin Mapp, Dr. and Mrs. Harry M. Lemert and Carl Grantz.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Maurey, the bride's parents, entertained the wedding party and other guests at a rehearsal dinner at the South Shore Country Club. The large oval table was decorated with pink frosted grapes, white carnations, gardenias and chrysanthemums.

Heavenly blue cards with white clouds marked places for thirty-two guests.

The bride - elect presented on this occasion white kid gloves to her attendants and the prospective bridegroom gave his attendants white monogrammed wallets.

Miss Maurey and Mr. Walker exchanged gifts of white leather Bibles bearing their engraved names on the covers.

MISS BESSIE ELOYCE BAXTER

Betty Hines, Fiance Name Bridal Party

Plans for their wedding have been completed by Miss Betty de Loache Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hines of Crossett, and John Lester Bloore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bloore of Bellmore, New York.

The First Methodist Church of Crossett will be scene of the ceremony which will be performed Thursday, December 22 at 5 o'clock, by the Rev. Dan R. Robinson of North Little Rock.

Miss Hines has chosen Miss Kay Norman as her maid of honor. Origin Of Yule Lighting Given Miro Book Club

Yuletide appointments were used throughout the home of Mrs. A. L. Peters, Edgewater Gardens, when she was hostess Monday afternoon, December 5 to the Miro Book club.

A glowing fire in the fireplace of the den provided a welcome setting for the meeting, with the focal point being a Christmas tree of holly.

The meeting was in charge of Mrs. J. H. McCormick, president, and opened with the state president's message read from the bulletin. The origin of Christmas lights featured the "Thoughts for the Day," in which according to legend it was pointed out the first Christmas lighting is attributed to Martin Luther in Germany. Paris, France is also credited for the first lighting of a community Christmas tree about the turn of the 19th Century.

Announcement was made of Safety Week, which opened December 5.

Program chairman, Mrs. F. L. Smith presented Mrs. J. H. McCormick, who in absence of Mrs. George Temple gave her paper on chapters seven and eight from the book, "Alaska, The Big Land."

Refreshments were served during the social hour to Mrs. Armand V. Breard, Mrs. John B. Filhiol Jr., Mrs. Horace V. Fluker, Miss Catherine Livaudais, Mrs. McCormick, Mrs. B. L. Mulhern, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. F. L. Smith, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell and Mrs. R. L. Wood.

Eat For Fever

CHICAGO (UPI) — Water and feed a fever, don't starve it, urge Dr. Rachmiel Levine and Sidney Cohen.

Fever leads to dehydration and the breakdown of body tissues. At high temperatures, the body cells work faster and break down more rapidly. To replace them, the body needs food and water, said the doctors from Michael Reese Hospital's Medical Research Institute.

Walker-Maurey Nuptials Solemnized In Bryn Mawr Community Church

A blue, white and green color note was reflected in floral arrangements and gowns of the bridal party for the wedding of Miss Madeleine Joan Maurey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Maurey of Chicago, Ill., and George Thomas Walker Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. George Thomas Walker Sr., of Monroe.

Officiating clergy were Dr. W. H. McFadden, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Monroe, and Dr. R. C. Jones, pastor of Bryn Mawr Community Church of Chicago, where the couple exchanged vows at 11 o'clock in the morning of November 26.

A program of nuptial organ music was presented, and Mrs. Eugene Maurey, aunt of the bride and a concert soloist, sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer." The traditional wedding marches by Mendelssohn and Wagner were played.

For the impressive double ring ceremony the altar held antique brass candlesticks with burning cathedral tapers, which flanked a large cross enriched with garlands of gardenias and greenery. The bridal party was framed by tall trees fashioned with mammoth white chrysanthemums and huckleberry foliage.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white imported lace over satin which terminated in a chapel train. The basque bodice featured a high scalloped neckline and long sleeves, which ended in a point at the wrist. Her full length veil of illusion cascaded from a cap of seed pearls, and she carried a bouquet of tuberoses encircled by lily petals and natural foliage.

Miss Joan Ann Maurey served her sister as maid of honor. She wore a sheath dress of peacock blue velvet designed with empire waist, banded in taffeta, and a full - length taffeta overdress featuring an Elizabethan collar, bracelet sleeves and bell skirt. She chose matching slippers and short white gloves. For her headdress she wore a peacock blue velvet crown and shoulder-length halo veil, and she carried a crescent arrangement of nature green Fuji chrysanthemums, bells of Ireland and peacock feathers.

Bridesmaids were the groom's sister, Miss Ellen Walker, Miss Malise Mapp, both of Monroe, Miss Virginia Beem of Atlanta, Ga., and Miss Ann Moore of Chicago. They were dressed identical to the honor attendant and carried similar bouquets.

Miss Patti Jo Davidson and Miss Eileen Lastowsky, flower girls, wore poudre blue velveteen frocks designed with basque bodices and bell skirts over scalloped lace. Their headpieces were petite crowns of matching velveteen entwined with flowers, and each carried two small Fuji chrysanthemums encircled with white lace frills and connected by a bronze chain.

The ring bearer, Linda Lastowsky, wore white peau de soie fashioned with closely - fitted bodice and full skirt. Her headdress was a duplicate of those worn by the flower girls, and she carried the rings on a white satin pillow enriched by pearls.

Serving as best man was the bridegroom's father, and the groomsmen were Allen Foster of Monroe, Richard Watson of West Monroe, Roger Williams of Natchitoches and Thomas O'Connor of Chicago. Ushers were Warren J. Hickey and Peter Lastowsky, both of Chicago.

Mrs. Maurey, mother of the bride, chose a plum satin gown of floral design and matching headdress with veil. Her costume featured a boat neckline, cap sleeves and a pencil line underskirt with harem tunic effect. She wore a strand of pearls and matching earrings and a wrist corsage of Better Times roses.

The groom's mother was gowned in olivet silk crepe with matching accessories and a small hat of pink and green flowers. Accenting her costume were a tri - strand opalescent crystal necklace and earrings, and her elongated shoulder corsage was of yellow throated fleur d'amour and natural foliage.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was held at the South Shore Country Club.

The bride's long table was centered with cupid figurines in graduated sizes holding white carnations, gardenias and chrysanthemums, connected by garlands of gardenias and greenery. White satin covered a smaller table on which rested a tiered wedding confection embossed with gardenias and surmounted by figurines.

Embossed wedding bell cards marked the places for guests who were served at twenty tables featuring decors of green bisque cupids filled with white carnations, chrysanthemums and foliage. Background music was provided by a string ensemble.

When the couple left on a wedding trip the bride was wearing a black and red tweed walking suit, small black imported French suede hat, matching gloves and bag and a corsage of tuberoses and galax leaves.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker are making their home at 511 Madison Street, Monroe, where the bride is a student at Northeast Louisiana State College. The bridegroom, formerly a student at Tulane University, will enroll at Northeast for the spring semester.

Guests from Monroe who attended the wedding wre Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Mapp, their daughter, Miss Malise Mapp, member of the wedding party, her brother, Andy Franklin Mapp, Dr. and Mrs. Harry M. Lemert and Carl Grantz.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Maurey, the bride's parents, entertained the wedding party and other guests at a rehearsal dinner at the South Shore Country Club. The large oval table was decorated with pink frosted grapes, white carnations, gardenias and chrysanthemums.

Heavenly blue cards with white clouds marked places for thirty-two guests.

The bride - elect presented on this occasion white kid gloves to her attendants and the prospective bridegroom gave his attendants white monogrammed wallets.

Miss Maurey and Mr. Walker exchanged gifts of white leather Bibles bearing their engraved names on the covers.

MISS BESSIE ELOYCE BAXTER

Betty Hines, Fiance Name Bridal Party

Plans for their wedding have been completed by Miss Betty de Loache Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hines of Crossett, and John Lester Bloore, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Bloore of Bellmore, New York.

The First Methodist Church of Crossett will be scene of the ceremony which will be performed Thursday, December 22 at 5 o'clock, by the Rev. Dan R. Robinson of North Little Rock.

Miss Hines has chosen Miss Kay Norman as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids will be Miss Amy Permenter of Greenville, Miss., Miss Johnette Walker of Pascagoula, Miss., Miss Sandra Johnson and Miss Jacqueline Fore of Gulfport, Miss., and junior bridesmaids will be Miss Jan Hines of Tyler, Texas and Miss Mary de Loache, Park Ridge, Ill., both cousins of the bride-elect.

Philpott of Springfield, Mo., and the late Mr. Philpott, and the late Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Burks of Fordland, Miss.

Attendants have also been selected by the betrothed couple. Serving as maid of honor for Miss Gilbreath will be Miss Betty Morris of Rayville and bridesmaids will be Miss Sue Grace of Vicksburg and Mrs. Bobby Lee Keyes of Fort Campbell, Kentucky., Miss Betty Gilbreath, sister of the bride will be junior bridesmaid and Debra Feder, her cousin, will act as flower girl.

Sidney Ross of Vicksburg, will serve as best man for Mr. Philpott and ushers will be Roddis Randall of Tallulah; Donald Wiseman, Memphis, Tenn., John Daniel, Sumrall, Miss. and George Gilbreath brother of the bride.

A reception will be held following at the ceremony at the Tallulah Book club.

Velvet Touch

Velvet is a natural part of any season when the fashion theme is elegance. So it is this fall and winter with velvet arriving in often unexpected ways. Velvet with wool is seen in tweed suits with velvet overblouses, and in pipings and collars of suit jackets. For formal dresses, a satin brocade or bead-paved bodice may complement a velvet skirt.

BETROTHED — Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sharon Wilbanks, daughter of M. L. Wilbanks, West Monroe, and the late Mrs. Wilbanks to Eugene Ouchley, is announced today by the bride-elect's father. Mr. Ouchley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ouchley of Farmerville. The wedding is planned for December 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Peniel Baptist church of West Monroe.

Cultura Party Combines Caribbean-Yule Themes

Annual Christmas dinner party for members of the Cultura Book club and their husbands was held Monday night in the Jade Room of the Paragon Club. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Charles Welch, Mrs. Reginald Futch and Mrs. Bill Armstrong.

In keeping with the 1960-61 program of the club, "Treasures Around the Caribbean," decorations throughout the Jade room were representative of the Caribbean countries.

Centerpiece for the head table was a gilded and glittered guitar against a background of greenery and glittered musical notes. Behind the table hung a colorful sombrero and other tables at which guests were seated were decked with glittering musical notes banked with greenery. Centering the room was a large Pinata in the form of a Santa Claus.

The theme of Christmas was carried out by the rendition of a medley of Christmas songs by the West Monroe High school ensemble, directed by Mrs. Arnold Kilpatrick. Those participating in the ensemble were Margret Lolly, Ann Shows, Jane Ware, Rita Miller, Dorothy Stewart, Marilynn Frantom, Matt Walker, Ronnie Bayles, Charles Wilson, Jack Howell, Billy Hancock, Roger Pinton, Jerry Roberts and Bonnie Jo Newcomer, accompanist.

During the evening two new members, Mrs. Richard Curry and Mrs. H. C. Hogan, were introduced, along with Dr. Curry.

Instead of the traditional gift exchange by the club, members have planned a Christmas party for the children at the Cerebral Palsy school to be held December 21.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kilpatrick, guests and members and husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Branch, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hendricks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Liner, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Nelsons, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oxford, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Lake Oxford, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Silmon, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Williams, Mrs. Robroy Young, Mrs. H. C. Hogan, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Spurlock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Futch and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Armstrong.

Lenwil HD Club Sets Christmas Party For Friday

Plans for a Christmas party were made by members of the Lenwil Home Demonstration club when they met Thursday, December 1 at the home of Mrs. F. M. Graff.

Mrs. Pete Holcomb, outgoing president, had charge of the opening, during which Mrs. Arlan Rawls and Mrs. Graff gave leader reports. The meeting was then turned over to the new president, Mrs. E. R. Williamson, who discussed with the group, plans for the Christmas party, to be held Friday, December 16 in the home of Mrs. C. P. Owens, 315 Arrant Road, West Monroe, at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Audrey Dawson gave a demonstration on "Foods for Health," after which refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. E. R. Williamson, Mrs. Pete O. Holcomb, Mrs. Arlan Rawls, Mrs. A. H. Dawson, Mrs. W. C. White, Mrs. Lesley Tippen, Mrs. John Anding, Mrs. J. B. Mullican and Mrs. Raymond Richardson.

Jewelry Is Gay Yule Ornament

Christmas ornaments from the jewelry counters top December shopping lists. The big and bold costume pin, an ornamental fashion "must" for the lapel of a suit, clipped to a big necklace, worn as a belt - buckle decoration or adding sparkle to a hat . . . Jeweled barrettes, newest among old - fashioned trimmings now back again.

Also, jewelled velvet hairbows to wear high on a pouf hairdo or nestled low over one ear . . . Cleopatra bracelets, blazing with a rare colored gem in the new smoky pastels or in tones on the fashion - wise gold standard. But these bracelets are meant to be worn a few inches below the shoulder line.

Miss McCarthy Engaged To Dr. Gerald DeLaune Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Leicester Francis McCarthy of New Orleans, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jacquelin Ann McCarthy to Dr. Gerald Franklin DeLaune Jr., of Jonesville. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Franklin DeLaune of Ferriday.

The wedding, scheduled as an event of February 4 will take place in St. Catherine of Siena Church in New Orleans.

Miss McCarthy, whose mother is the former Miss Veronica Lillie Jeansonne of Plaucheville, La. will graduate in January from Loyola University, where she is a member of Phi Phi Phi social sorority. She reigned as Queen of Alpheus during the 1959 Carnival season in New Orleans.

Dr. DeLaune attended Louisiana State University for his pre-dentistry requirements where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He graduated from Loyola University School of Dentistry this past year. At Loyola he was a member of Zi Psi Phi dental fraternity. His mother is the former Olga Clemence Falgoust of Vacherie, La.

Lynda Patricia Gilbreath To Marry Larry Philpott

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gilbreath of Tallulah, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lynda Patrica to Larry Philpott, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Philpott of Vicksburg, Mississippi.

The wedding is scheduled for December 20 in the Tallulah Church of Christ, at 7 p.m. with the minister of the church, Albert Ward, officiating.

Miss Gilbreath was graduated from Tallulah high school and attended Mercy Hospital School of Nursing in Vicksburg.

She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. U. Dacus of Transylvania, La., and Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Gilbreath of Bastrop. The prospective bridegroom, a senior at Mississippi State University, majoring in civil engineering, is the grandson of Mrs. J. F. Philpott of Springfield, Mo., and the late Mr. Philpott, and the late Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Burks of Fordland, Miss.

Attendants have also been selected by the betrothed couple. Serving as maid of honor for Miss Gilbreath will be Miss Betty Morris of Rayville and bridesmaids will be Miss Sue Grace of Vicksburg and Mrs. Bobby Lee Keyes of Fort Campbell, Kentucky., Miss Betty Gilbreath, sister of the bride will be junior bridesmaid and Debra Feder, her cousin, will act as flower girl.

Sidney Ross of Vicksburg, will serve as best man for Mr. Philpott and ushers will be Roddis Randall of Tallulah; Donald Wiseman, Memphis, Tenn., John Daniel, Sumrall, Miss. and George Gilbreath brother of the bride.

A reception will be held following at the ceremony at the Tallulah Book club.

Velvet Touch

Velvet is a natural part of any season when the fashion theme is elegance. So it is this fall and winter with velvet arriving in often unexpected ways. Velvet with wool is seen in tweed suits with velvet overblouses, and in pipings and collars of suit jackets. For formal dresses, a satin brocade or bead-paved bodice may complement a velvet skirt.

BETROTHED — Engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Sharon Wilbanks, daughter of M. L. Wilbanks, West Monroe, and the late Mrs. Wilbanks to Eugene Ouchley, is announced today by the bride-elect's father. Mr. Ouchley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ouchley of Farmerville. The wedding is planned for December 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Peniel Baptist church of West Monroe.

Cultura Party Combines Caribbean-Yule Themes

Annual Christmas dinner party for members of the Cultura Book club and their husbands was held Monday night in the Jade Room of the Paragon Club. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Charles Welch, Mrs. Reginald Futch and Mrs. Bill Armstrong.

In keeping with the 1960-61 program of the club, "Treasures Around the Caribbean," decorations throughout the Jade room were representative of the Caribbean countries.

Centerpiece for the head table was a gilded and glittered guitar against a background of greenery and glittered musical notes. Behind the table hung a colorful sombrero and other tables at which guests were seated were decked with glittering musical notes banked with greenery. Centering the room was a large Pinata in the form of a Santa Claus.

The theme of Christmas was carried out by the rendition of a medley of Christmas songs by the West Monroe High school ensemble, directed by Mrs. Arnold Kilpatrick. Those participating in the ensemble were Margret Lolly, Ann Shows, Jane Ware, Rita Miller, Dorothy Stewart, Marilynn Frantom, Matt Walker, Ronnie Bayles, Charles Wilson, Jack Howell, Billy Hancock, Roger Pinton, Jerry Roberts and Bonnie Jo Newcomer, accompanist.

During the evening two new members, Mrs. Richard Curry and Mrs. H. C. Hogan, were introduced, along with Dr. Curry.

Instead of the traditional gift exchange by the club, members have planned a Christmas party for the children at the Cerebral Palsy school to be held December 21.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kilpatrick, guests and members and husbands, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Branch, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Camp, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hardin, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Hendricks, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Liner, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Logan, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Nelsons, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Oxford, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Lake Oxford, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Shepard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Silmon, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Williams, Mrs. Robroy Young, Mrs. H. C. Hogan, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Spurlock, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Futch and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Armstrong.

Jewelry Is Gay Yule Ornament

Christmas ornaments from the jewelry counters top December shopping lists. The big and bold costume pin, an ornamental fashion "must" for the lapel of a suit, clipped to a big necklace, worn as a belt - buckle decoration or adding sparkle to a hat . . . Jeweled barrettes, newest among old - fashioned trimmings now back again.

Also, jewelled velvet hairbows to wear high on a pouf hairdo or nestled low over one ear . . . Cleopatra bracelets, blazing with a rare colored gem in the new smoky pastels or in tones on the fashion - wise gold standard. But these bracelets are meant to be worn a few inches below the shoulder line.

Lenwil HD Club Sets Christmas Party For Friday

Plans for a Christmas party were made by members of the Lenwil Home Demonstration club when they met Thursday, December 1 at the home of Mrs. F. M. Graff.

Mrs. Pete Holcomb, outgoing president, had charge of the opening, during which Mrs. Arlan Rawls and Mrs. Graff gave leader reports. The meeting was then turned over to the new president, Mrs. E. R. Williamson, who discussed with the group, plans for the Christmas party, to be held Friday, December 16 in the home of Mrs. C. P. Owens, 315 Arrant Road, West Monroe, at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Audrey Dawson gave a demonstration on "Foods for Health," after which refreshments were served by the hostess to Mrs. E. R. Williamson, Mrs. Pete O. Holcomb, Mrs. Arlan Rawls, Mrs. A. H. Dawson, Mrs. W. C. White, Mrs. Lesley Tippen, Mrs. John Anding, Mrs. J. B. Mullican and Mrs. Raymond Richardson.

Miss McCarthy Engaged To Dr. Gerald DeLaune Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Leicester Francis McCarthy of New Orleans, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jacquelin Ann McCarthy to Dr. Gerald Franklin DeLaune Jr., of Jonesville. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Franklin DeLaune of Ferriday.

The wedding, scheduled as an event of February 4 will take place in St. Catherine of Siena Church in New Orleans.

Miss McCarthy, whose mother is the former Miss Veronica Lillie Jeansonne of Plaucheville, La. will graduate in January from Loyola University, where she is a member of Phi Phi Phi social sorority. She reigned as Queen of Alpheus during the 1959 Carnival season in New Orleans.

Dr. DeLaune attended Louisiana State University for his pre-dentistry requirements where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He graduated from Loyola University School of Dentistry this past year. At Loyola he was a member of Zi Psi Phi dental fraternity. His mother is the former Olga Clemence Falgoust of Vacherie, La.

Ruth Leonard, Former Citian Engaged To Wed

Announcement is being made by Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Ell, Pomona, Calif., formerly of 611 McCain Drive, Monroe, of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ruth Leonard to Charles A. Smith, son of Mrs. Marie A. Smith, Ontario, Calif. Miss Leonard is also the daughter of Daniel E. Leonard of Monroe.

The bride - elect was graduated from Ganesha High School where she was vice - president of the Future Business Leaders of America, member of the pep club and the Girls Athletic Association. She is now employed in Pomona.

Mr. Smith graduated from Chaffey High School and Chaffey Junior College. He plans to continue his education at California State Polytechnic College as an engineering major.

The wedding will take place January 21, after which the couple plans a wedding trip to Las Vegas, Nevada.

Vows Unite Couple In Home Scene

Miss Mary Annette Spurlock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Spurlock of West Monroe, became the bride of Harry R. Pinion, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Pinion, Monroe, on December 1 at 7:30 p.m. Rev. Charles Littleton officiated at the double ring ceremony performed in the home of the bride's parents, 1605 McMillian Road.

An improvised altar for the exchange of vows was formed by baskets of white gladioli on each side of branched candelabra, entwined with smilax and holding pink candles.

Miss Mary Jan Spurlock, cousin of the bride, played appropriate nuptial selections including "I Love You Truly," "Because," "Through the Years," and "O Promise Me."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white peau de soie, styled with long sleeves and a round neckline, edged in matching lace motif. The bodice, styled on princess lines, featured inverted pleats forming the skirt and her fingertip veil of nylon tulle cascaded from a headdress of embroidered lace and seed pearls. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom and carried a bouquet of white carnations, encircled with white net and ribbon streamers.

Miss Betty Ann Smith, maid of honor, wore a frock of pink crystalline, styled with long sleeves, fitted bodice and bouffant skirt. A self-material rose adorned the waist and her headdress was of matching material. Her bouquet was of white chrysanthemums.

Miss Kathy Denise Spurlock, sister of the bride, was candlelighter and she and the pianist were dressed identical to the honor attendant.

Lavell McLeland served as best man for the bridegrrom.

The bride's mother wore a gray brocade dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. The bridegroom's mother chose a navy blue lace with matching accessories and white carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the home following the ceremony. The tiered wedding cake, adorned with pink flowers and pink wedding bells, and the crystal punch bowl of pink punch were placed at each end of the table. Mrs. Calvert C. Tranton served punch and others assiting were Mrs. Autley B. Smith and Mrs. James K. Neyland. Mrs. W. Thadis Spurlock, presided at the guest book.

When the couple left on a wedding trip to Vicksburg, Miss., the bride was wearing a deep purple wool jersey dress with black suede accessories and a corsage from her bouquet. The couple will be at home on Richmond St., in West Monroe.

Out - of - town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Horace Dennis of Forest, Miss.

Yule Spirit For Fashions Costs Little

There are numerous glamour - for - December ways to have lots of Christmas spirit in fashion at very little cost.

A silver foil apron, for instance, is the holiday hostess' answer to chores performed in a party dress. (Just staple velvet ribbon ties to the foil and a row of tinsel to the bottom edge) . . . Add fun a-foot, with a row of silver tinsel edging a pair of satin evening pumps for a gala holiday ball.

Or, for Christmas at home entertaining, sew a few small bells, here and there, on the ruffles of a petticoat, worn under a full circle green or red hostess skirt, spraved with a Christmas-y fragrance at the hem'ine. And if it won't frighten the man in your life, at the tree-trimming party, why not green eye-shadow, delicately underscored with pencil and shaped like a holly leaf.

LPA Members, Guests Feted At Yule Dance

Two silver Christmas trees, gaily decked with blue lights, formed a festive setting in the Knights of Columbus Hall for the annual Christmas dance by the Women's Auxiliary of Louisiana Pharmaceutical Association for members and guests, Saturday night, December 3.

Tables were covered with green cloths and centered with low line arrangements of red berries and ivy. Tall gold candles were used with similar arrangements on the hors d'oeuvres table.

Recipients of door prizes, a rotisserie and a box of Christmas toys were Mrs. Ralph Einhorn and Mrs. Earl Hoodemaker.

Mrs. Edd Platcow, chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, was assisted by Mrs. Joe LeBlanc Jr., Mrs. J. B. Kendal and Mrs. J. H. Kern.

More than 100 members and guests attended the gala affair, for which music was furnished by Skinny Thomas' band.

Decorators Reveal Choice For Yule Table Settings

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

How do decorators and designers plan their own Christmas tables? Are they too high-styled for the average person?

As it turns out, members of the American Institute of Decorators and National Society of Interior Designers have the same thing in mind as the Main Street housewife: A simple pretty Yuletide setting that suits their own home.

Their ideas may be employed by anyone, borrowing color schemes, using different materials or objects more available to them.

Yale Burge likes silver, white and red on his Christmas table. He uses a red felt table cloth, white napkins and likes tall thin plain white or red candles, "more elegant than the big fat superduper candles," he says.

Pewter, silver and wood are best choices for a holiday table, in his estimation. He likes a gleaming white compote on either side of silver candelabra filled with fruit or glass compotes filled with Christmas ornaments.

Zelena Brunschwig fabric designer, will use one of her own French Provincial toils, a bright green and white winter scene as a table cloth. She'll use bright green napkins fringed in white, wooden candlesticks with bayberry candles and an arrangement of fresh holly and red berries around it.

A wicker basket filled with small brightly wrapped gifts will be Zelena's centerpiece. She'll use wood service plates, white china and cover her chairs with green cushions and white fringe. She'll trim her wrought iron chandelier with fresh holly and red berries.

Leona Kahn likes white linen place mats on her table, and will use either a centerpiece of a large glass bowl filled with liquid, such as holiday punch, or a pyramid of packages wrapped in foil.

Frances Lee has a number of ideas in mind, but one she likes particularly is a table covered in glitter cloth, available in silver, gold or Christmas colors. The fabric is 36 inches wide, so she cuts six yards into three-yard lengths and just folds the edges under. She decorates with her personally designed tiny Christmas tree in the center of a candelabra with 4 individual candlesticks.

She likes to decorate her large antique mirror with tinsel running down the seams, gold star medallions taped to every other square. Then she squirts snow over all, and places bits of cotton around it, so it looks like a large picture window.

Ellen Lehman McClusky plans a formal Christmas supper party. She'll put four to a table. Each table will have a dark blue velvet table cloth and be set with blue opaline goblets and plates. She'll use gold colored knives and forks and opaline blue compotes into which she'll put fruit dipped in gold paint and quick drying enamel, the same blue as the table cloth. She'll put two white candles, different lengths into two pieces of the fruit in each compote. She'll use gilt chairs and napkins to match the sky blue shade of her opaline glass.

Brenda Elizabeth Brown To Make Debut At Ball

Miss Brenda Elizabeth Brown of Lake Providence will be presented to society at the annual Delta Debutante Ball in Greenville, Mississippi, the night of December 28.

A student at Sophie Newcomb college in New Orleans, Miss Brown is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Patten Brown of Gilliard Plantation, Lake Providence, and a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Jackson Keller of Oak Grove and the late Mr. and Mrs. William Denis Brown of Gossyppia Plantation, Lake Providence.

Miss Brown is a descendant of pioneer Louisiana families and is a direct descendant of Governor John Branch, three times elected governor of the state of North Carolina, who also served as secretary of the Navy and later governor of the state of Florida.

Her escort for the Debutante Ball will be her father.

La Petite Club Emphasizes Yule Season At Events

Emphasis was on the Yuletide season at two events held during the week end by the La Petite Maison Garden Club.

December meeting of the club was held Friday morning in the home of Mrs. Herbert Breard Jr., for a workshop on Christmas decorations, and the club's annual Christmas party was held Saturday night in the Reef Room of Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Mrs. Sylvester Breard assisted in courtesies of the Friday morning meeting, which was presided over by Mrs. A. H. Jelks.

Christmas arrangements suitable for hall, television and door were displayed and under supervision of Mrs. John Lewis, remainder of the meeting was turned into a workshop with members making Christmas decorations for use in their homes.

Luncheon was served to Mrs. Reneau Breard, Mrs. Curtis Cook, Mrs. Beatle Eason, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Lester High, Mrs. A. H. Jelks, Mrs. Louis Ray, Mrs. Cary Thompson Jr., Mrs. Herbert Breard Jr., Mrs. Sylvester Breard and Mrs. John Lewis.

Planters Help In Room Decor

Sometimes you have to wait and save until you can afford to buy all the furniture your heart is set on. In the interim, a "green thumb" will come in handy.

While you are nurturing the savings account, you can use big plants and planters to fill up the empty spaces and balance furniture arrangements.

A half-empty wall that is waiting for bookcases or stacking units, can in the meantime, be filled with exotic green plants or even climbing ivy.

Built-In Jewels

Slinky sheaths for evening often feature a "built-in" necklace of the ornate bib type.

VFW, Auxiliary Members Attend 2-Day Conference

Members of the Rodney J. Hobbs VFW Post 1809 and Ladies Auxiliary attended the Veterans of Foreign Wars Mid-Winter conference held in Shreveport December 3-4.

Delegates from all Louisiana districts of both VFW and Auxiliary units attended the conference. Included on the agenda were business sessions, a hospitality hour, male bathing beauty contest, poppy hat parade by Auxiliary members, a banquet, a dance and tours of the VA hospital.

The conference was held prior to the Southern Conference of 13 states which will convene in New Orleans in January with Louisiana VFW and Auxiliaries as hosts.

National VFW officers addressing the group were Joe Wood of Georgia, national chief of staff; Mrs. Edith Flake of North Little Rock, Ark., councilwoman of district 9, comprising Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi; Mrs. Dixie Ritchie of Bastrop, civil defense chairman for Area 5 which includes six states and Mrs. Virginia Mathews of Baker, national community service chairman for Area 5.

Three Couples Host Gala Christmas Party At Club

Bayou DeSiard Country club was scene of a gala Christmas party given by three local couples as a prelude to the holiday festivities, Saturday night, December 3. Hosts were Dr. and Mrs. Ralph Talbot, Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Cookston and Dr. and Mrs. J. Boilling Jones.

The occasion was also to introduce Dr. and Mrs. Al Irwin of Shreveport, who will establish residence in Monroe next July.

Centerpiece for the serving table was a basket pyramid, around which spiraled clusters of fruit and greenery, and white candles. A copper compote holding an arrangement of chrysanthemums and pyracantha graced the piano and the coffee table held a brass candelabra, entwined with pyracantha and encircled at the base with greenery and fruit.

The entrance hall where guests were greeted by their hosts between the hours of 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. also held an arrangement of fruit and greenery around brass candelabra.

For the occasion Mrs. Talbot wore a green silk print, overlaid with silk organza and Mrs. Cookston wore a green silk faille frock with decolletage effect. Green chiffon was the choice of costume of Mrs. Irwin and Mrs. Jones wore a royal blue chiffon accented with wide satin sequin-trimmed belt.

"Dear Eunice:

"I am planning to make a winter coat and noticed the collars on the ready - made coats are very soft and appear to have no interfacing whatsoever. I will appreciate your informing me if it is necessary to put any kind of interfacing in between the top and bottom layers of the collar? If one should be used, what is the best type? Also, what is the best interfacing to use down the front pieces of the coat?"

Mrs. H.J.K .

Dear Mrs. H.J.K.:

I would say that interfacing is absolutely essential for any type of garment if it's to retain its shape. You will notice that no matter how old a man's suit is, the lapels, collar and fronts still retain their original shape. This is because the right type of interfacing was used.

If you understand tailoring, you may use a soft, pliable, hair-canvas in suits or coats. Hair canvas must not be applied in the seams but must be attached to cotton tape, the cotton tape is then stitched in the seams.

If you don't understand how to apply hair-canvas, it would be better to use a loosely woven type interfacing. This is dry cleanable and washable, and will retain its shape.

LINING FOR SKIRT

"Dear Eunice:

"I would like to line the back of a skirt, but don't know what to do with the lining in the pleat. Also, please tell me whether I should make the darts in the lining and the skirt together or separate?"

Mrs. E. L.

Dear Mrs. E. L.:

When cutting the lining for the skirt, allow only ⅝-inch beyond the center back seam. Do not cut the lining the full width of the pleat.

Make the darts in the skirt and the lining separately and then baste the lining to the skirt at the waistline and the side seams. If you are lining the skirt to the hemline, open the seam of the lining the complete length of the pleat.

If you have a back zipper, leave the center back seam of the lining open the length of the zipper. After the zipper has been applied to the skirt fabric only, turn under the seam allowance on the lining and hand-whip the edge of the lining to the zipper tape.

"Dear Eunice:

"The lock at the top of skirt zippers is so large that I have a hard time stitching the zipper in a straight line. It usually curves out where the lock ends. Is there another way of doing this?"

Your fan.

I personally prefer a 7-inch neckline zipper for skirts because you will find the zipper is smaller and the tab or lock is also much smaller. For children's clothes, slacks or shorts, the regular skirt zippers would be best because of the extra strength.

If you will pull the lock of the zipper down a few inches when you are machine stitching near the top, you will be able to stitch a straighter line.

ALTER PATTERN

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"My daughter is narrow through her shoulders. I would appreciate instructions on how to alter the bodice to remedy this situation. The sleeves of the garment are too low on the upper arm."

Mrs. L.McC.

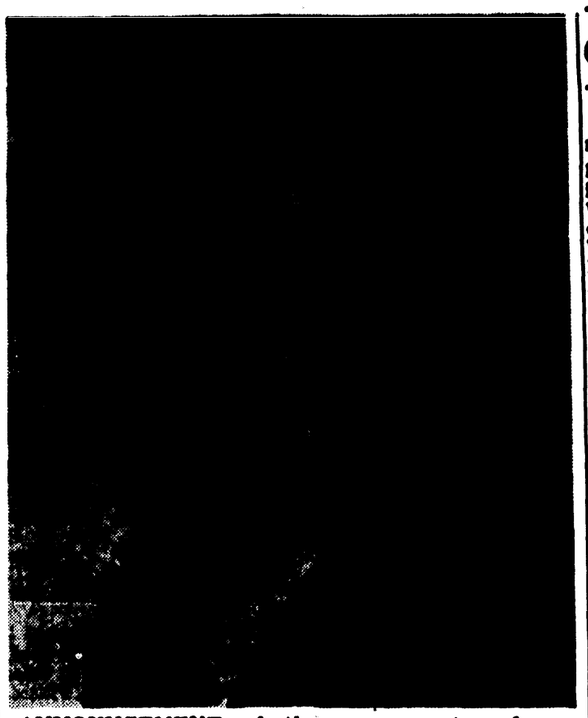
Dear Mrs. L. McC.:

Making the shoulders more narrow is a rather simple alteration. I hope all of you who have written me this same question, will keep this answer for future reference.

Estimate the exact width you wish to take off. Make a fold in your pattern between the neck edge and the armhole. This fold should be no more than 3 inches long and should taper to nothing at the end. In most cases, this should be done in the front and the back of the shoulders. Never change the shape of the sleeve.

Because patterns are standardized, you may make the same adjustment in all patterns as soon as you have determined the exact shoulder width you need.

If you would like to have Eunice Farmer's free leaflet, "Bound Buttonholes," send a stamped, self - addressed envelope with your request to Eunice Farmer in care of this newspaper.



ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Berry Lynne Branch, airman third class, Barksdale air force base, Shreveport, to Gordon Wayne Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Wood of Monroe, is made today by Mr. and Mrs. John Branch, El Dorado, Ark., parents of the bride-elect. The wedding is scheduled for December 24 at 2 p.m. in West Side Baptist church with Rev. Paul Myers officiating. Mr. Wood is a student at Northeast Louisiana State college, Monroe.

Anita Roberson Feted At Gay Dancing Party

In courtesy to their daughter, Anita, on her 13th birthday, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Roberson entertained with a dancing party Friday night, December 9 at Highland Park Country club. Hours for the gay event were from 7 until 10 p.m.

A decorated cake and punch bowl, surrounded by individual cakes centered the refreshment table.

Lapel tags designed as rebel flags and bearing their names were presentel to each guest. Tags for the girls resembled corsages and were also in shape of rebel flags.

Assisting Mr. and Mrs. Roberson as chaperones were Mrs. Grady Mullennix of Homer, great aunt of the honoree; Mr. and Mrs. James Mock, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Harp, Mrs. Russell Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Caldwell.

Approximately 120 guests attended the fete.

Girl Scout News

Many West Monroe Scouts were really "angels" last week, appearing in that guise on a float in the Christmas parade. Mrs. Walter Bell, Jr., leader, was float chairman, assisted by Mrs. F. M. Waren, Mrs. B. B. McWhorter, Mrs. A. T. Harrelson, Mrs. Alvin Arledge, Mrs. Pat Bedgood, Mrs. J. L. Anders and Mrs. Grant. Special recognition goes to Mr. Bell, who did the necessary carpenter work. Troops 37, 17, 36 helped make letters for the float, which was judged fourth in the competition.

The first Girl Scout troop in their new, beautiful school has been organized at the Good Shepherd, Troop 68, with Mrs. A. T. Van Veckhoven, Mrs. Melvin McWilliams, Mrs. J. B. Gainne as leaders. Twenty-one enthusiastic third and fourth - graders comprise the membership. Most of the older ones have had a year or more of Brownie Scouting in other schools. Registered recently are Rosemarye Bartlett, Brenda Bell, Betty Danna, Denise DeTournillon, Paula Gainnie, Patricia Kelly, Brenda Lasuzza, June Lieht, Cindy Messina, Patricia McWilliams, Patricia Miller, Sharon Reeder, Virginia Rizzo, Alms Roberts, Leah Ann Smith, Flora Stinson, Carmela Varino, Michelle Varino, Lenell Van Veckhoven, Ginger Van Veckhoven, Becky Walker.

Mrs. C. J. Miller, Mrs. Frank Walker, Mrs. Harry Bell, Mrs. Anthony Messina and Mrs. Vernon Smith comprise the troop committee, which gives backing to the troop and help to the leaders.

When troops have done camping often enough for girls and leaders not only to enjoy it, but to manage routine matters efficiently, to make kapers fun, to have time for extras, then training and experience really pay off. That's what Troop 33 has found, and therefore recommends that when a troop goes camping once, it should go again as soon as possible.

Mrs. Charles Vaughan and Mrs. W. C. Choitz accompanied ten girls of Troop 33 on an overnight at Pine Wood recently. Around the fire on Friday night the girls held a serious discussion on relationships implied in the fourth Girl Scout law "A Girl Scout is a friend to all and a sister to every other Girl Scout." There followed an hour of fun, with games and pantomimes of Christmas stories and songs. Cooking breadtwists over coals for breakfast and coffee can casseroles for lunch kept everybody warm. Thrifty with wood, the girls built up the breakfast fire to furnish coals for the coffee cans at lunch time.

Enjoying this overnight were Susan Allen, Pam Clay, Paula Choitz, Martha Easley, Maureen Halpin, Teresa Langley, Janet Hood, Barbara Smith, Kathy Rambin, and Kitty Vaughan.

Leather Coat Is Popular As Christmas Gift

Colorful, fashionable and warm, leather apparel available this season ranges from tailored coats and jackets to lavish evening wraps.

There are full - length smooth cabretta leather coats with classic lines simple enough for a stroll in the country. With the addition of a snap-on fur collar, they are ready for more formal wear after five.

With festive days ahead, she's sure to treasure one of the new eggshell white jewel - embroidered leather greatcoats. Tiny seed pearls and metallic thread outline pretty all - over floral designs, enhancing the beauty of cabretta leather, ranch hide or coltskin.

Soft, napped suedes, in rich living blue, deep red, or jewel green appear in smock -- type evening coats, so appropriate to start off the fashionable New Year.

Finger - tip length car coats — either very tailored or with more feminine dropped shoulder lines and softer collars — make welcome gifts on Christmas morning. Good basic coats, these popular smooth or suede leather shorties can be worn on informal shopping trips, in the car, or with slacks or casual skirts.

Many casual leather coats are belted, and all feature generous-sized patch or slash pockets to keep her hands warm on a winter's day. you'll be equally "right" if you choose either neutral tones of beige, bone or sand, or pick out a bright light blue, warm green or pumpkin hue.

The fair sex will find leather jackets and vests equally popular gifts for men this year. One particularly luxurious gift is a handsome tan suede leather smoking jackets, and gaily lined in prints that take their inspiration from chess pieces, dogs or horses' heads.

While a gift of leather apparel brings with it an aura of luxury — there's practicality too in the new smooth leathers that can be wiped clean with a damp cloth, or suedes that are easily dry-cleanable.

Japanese Influence Seen In New Millinery Designs

NEW YORK (UPI)—East meets West in the first collection of millinery by a young Japanese-born designer now living in Baltimore.

Her name is Fumi Hayashi, and the former model's first designs have an oriental flavor. Some are inspired by the bulky, elaborate headdress of the Japanese bride, the sun shade hats of the peasants in the rice paddies, and the high crowned hats of the temple priests. She does artful adaptations of Japanese fans, made of pleated organza and held to the head with a comb.

All have a light and airy look, no matter what their bulk, and all are designed not to crush the bouffant, the beehive or the French twist hairdos of American women. Her favorite materials are organdies, organzas and satins.

"There is only a hint of the oriental in the design," said Fumi who pronounces her first name, "who me?".

"Otherwise it would be too much to go with Western dress, and they would be too elaborate for Japanese women who wear many bright prints.

AMERICANIZED

Fumi is the wife of an American of Japanese descent. He is a teacher and the couple has one son, Robert, in the third grade.

The designer, a delicate beauty with her black hair piled high in a pompadour, is so Americanized that she wouldn't tell her age during an interview — but she looks a woman in her late 20's. She didn't mind recording that she is five feet, four inches tall and weighs 113 pounds.

Fumi, the label she will use in her designs, comes from a Tokyo family sufficiently well-to-do to give her and her five sisters an education deemed proper for an upper-class Japanese housewife. Her father, now dead, was an architectural engineer and Fumi and her sisters received lessons in cooking, sewing, flower arranging the ritual of the tea ceremony, and liberal arts training comparable to a Western finishing school.

"I've been sewing, Western style, since the fifth grade," she said in her still-hesitant English. When Fumi came to America she continued her studies at Walters Academy, Baltimore, with the idea of returning one day to Tokyo to open a charm school. "We Japanese girls have to learn all over again how to walk in Western clothes," she explained. "It is not the same as in the kimono, where the steps have to be very very short."

LIKED ACCESSORIES

But a buyer in a Baltimore specialty shop where Fumi modeled occasionally liked the accessories the Japanese girl was making for herself—her hats, obis, tiny ornaments for her hair, stoles, et cetera, and suggested the store stock some variations of the Japanese sashes for its customers.

Mostly by word of mouth, news was encouraged to continue design of her talent got around and she by Babs Simpson at Vogue Magazine, Vyvyan Donner at 20th Century Fox Movietone, and Ruth and Russell Patterson, the illustrator.

Now Fumi is in business formally. She said that if some of her designs are traditional Japanese in character, it is not from planning but from instinct. "I don't know what my head is doing," she said. "It just comes out in my hands."

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Patricia Ann Hinton to Emmett L. Silmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavelle Silmon of Farmerville, is announced today by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hinton, 109 Patton Drive, West Monroe. The wedding is scheduled to be December 22 in the home of the bride-elect's parents.

Children Today Demand Games To Challenge Mind

Remember when youngsters could stay happy all afternoon spinning a top?

Well, now they want to play grownup games that make them think, says a panel of experts.

The panel, composed of men and women who have spent years inventing and publishing games, report that children these days want games that challenge their minds and test their knowledge and wits.

"For 99 years," says a panel member, "Parcheesi was a classic example of a game that could be shared by adults and children of all ages."

Then along came Scrabble, a complete departure from the pursuit type of board game. It wasn't long before the little ones demanded to play too. Scrabble for Junior was invented to quiet their tiny frustration. The game has a two - sided board, one for children who can spell simple words and one for children who can't spell at all.

Perhaps the most important new adaption of an adult game is Bridge for Juniors. The experts' panel, called in during the game's development, advised naming the suits after fruits, using real bridge terms, and adopting a system of easily understood scoring.

One point insisted upon: All suits must be of equal value.

"Over the years," says the panel, "we have learned children do not like to feel inferior to other players through no fault of their own. Therefore all suits must be equal, and bidding strictly on a numerical basis. Children understand that two is more than one; consequently, two apples must be more than one plum to win the bid."

Border Slaw

Serve cole slaw with a border of canned or home-cooked shoestring beets for something pretty and good-tasting.

Japanese Influence Seen In New Millinery Designs

NEW YORK (UPI)—East meets West in the first collection of millinery by a young Japanese-born designer now living in Baltimore.

Her name is Fumi Hayashi, and the former model's first designs have an oriental flavor. Some are inspired by the bulky, elaborate headdress of the Japanese bride, the sun shade hats of the peasants in the rice paddies, and the high crowned hats of the temple priests. She does artful adaptations of Japanese fans, made of pleated organza and held to the head with a comb.

All have a light and airy look, no matter what their bulk, and all are designed not to crush the bouffant, the beehive or the French twist hairdos of American women. Her favorite materials are organdies, organzas and satins.

"There is only a hint of the oriental in the design," said Fumi who pronounces her first name, "who me?".

"Otherwise it would be too much to go with Western dress, and they would be too elaborate for Japanese women who wear many bright prints.

AMERICANIZED

Fumi is the wife of an American of Japanese descent. He is a teacher and the couple has one son, Robert, in the third grade.

The designer, a delicate beauty with her black hair piled high in a pompadour, is so Americanized that she wouldn't tell her age during an interview — but she looks a woman in her late 20's. She didn't mind recording that she is five feet, four inches tall and weighs 113 pounds.

Fumi, the label she will use in her designs, comes from a Tokyo family sufficiently well-to-do to give her and her five sisters an education deemed proper for an upper-class Japanese housewife. Her father, now dead, was an architectural engineer and Fumi and her sisters received lessons in cooking, sewing, flower arranging the ritual of the tea ceremony, and liberal arts training comparable to a Western finishing school.

"I've been sewing, Western style, since the fifth grade," she said in her still-hesitant English. When Fumi came to America she continued her studies at Walters Academy, Baltimore, with the idea of returning one day to Tokyo to open a charm school. "We Japanese girls have to learn all over again how to walk in Western clothes," she explained. "It is not the same as in the kimono, where the steps have to be very very short."

LIKED ACCESSORIES

But a buyer in a Baltimore specialty shop where Fumi modeled occasionally liked the accessories the Japanese girl was making for herself—her hats, obis, tiny ornaments for her hair, stoles, et cetera, and suggested the store stock some variations of the Japanese sashes for its customers.

Mostly by word of mouth, news was encouraged to continue design of her talent got around and she by Babs Simpson at Vogue Magazine, Vyvyan Donner at 20th Century Fox Movietone, and Ruth and Russell Patterson, the illustrator.

Now Fumi is in business formally. She said that if some of her designs are traditional Japanese in character, it is not from planning but from instinct. "I don't know what my head is doing," she said. "It just comes out in my hands."

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Patricia Ann Hinton to Emmett L. Silmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lavelle Silmon of Farmerville, is announced today by parents of the bride-elect, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hinton, 109 Patton Drive, West Monroe. The wedding is scheduled to be December 22 in the home of the bride-elect's parents.

Children Today Demand Games To Challenge Mind

Remember when youngsters could stay happy all afternoon spinning a top?

Well, now they want to play grownup games that make them think, says a panel of experts.

The panel, composed of men and women who have spent years inventing and publishing games, report that children these days want games that challenge their minds and test their knowledge and wits.

"For 99 years," says a panel member, "Parcheesi was a classic example of a game that could be shared by adults and children of all ages."

Then along came Scrabble, a complete departure from the pursuit type of board game. It wasn't long before the little ones demanded to play too. Scrabble for Junior was invented to quiet their tiny frustration. The game has a two - sided board, one for children who can spell simple words and one for children who can't spell at all.

Perhaps the most important new adaption of an adult game is Bridge for Juniors. The experts' panel, called in during the game's development, advised naming the suits after fruits, using real bridge terms, and adopting a system of easily understood scoring.

One point insisted upon: All suits must be of equal value.

"Over the years," says the panel, "we have learned children do not like to feel inferior to other players through no fault of their own. Therefore all suits must be equal, and bidding strictly on a numerical basis. Children understand that two is more than one; consequently, two apples must be more than one plum to win the bid."

Border Slaw

Serve cole slaw with a border of canned or home-cooked shoestring beets for something pretty and good-tasting.

Christmas Differs

Christmas is celebrated around the world in various ways under the names of El Natal in Spain, Weihnachten in Germany, Il Natale in Italy, Noel in France and Kerst-Misse in The Netherlands.

DECEMBER 22 is the date chosen by Miss Sara Emrick, above, and Billy Wilson for their marriage which will be performed at 7 p.m. in the Pleasant Grove Baptist church of Jonesville. Rev. Harold Davis will officiate. The bride-elect, a senior at Northwestern State college, where she is majoring in elementary education, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Emrick of Jonesville. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wilson of Winnsboro are parents of the future bridegroom.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement of Miss Merle Brunette Scott to Ned Franklin Edmondson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson of Lake Providence, is made today by Mrs. Wade W. Scott, Houma, La., mother of the bride-elect. Date of the wedding has not been set. Miss Scott is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Scott of Harrisonburg.

Approaching Holidays Bring Reminder Of Greeting Card Etiquette

Whether or not your Christmas cards are well received may depend on your knowledge of etiquett and postal rules . . . a knowledge that should not be taken for granted. Each year two million Christmas cards go astray because of errors in addressing and mailing; thousands more that reach their destination "miss" because they don't come up to accepted standards of taste and etiquette.

Such lapses are all too easy for anyone involved in the Christmas rush — yet they're easily avoided. To make sure your cards produce Yuletide warmth instead of December frost, these seasonal greeting tips are offered.

1. Be sure your greeting conveys the spirit of Christmas. Don't strain to achieve new or different ways to express greetings; the basic "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" is hard to improve upon. Cards with religious motifs are logical and very acceptable but sending this type of card to Jewish friends might be considered in poor taste. Unless you're quite sure the recipient won't object, it's wise to avoid the ultra-sophisticated, "flip" type of card.

2. Since it's the thought that really counts, it makes little difference whether you send your greeting in the form of an elaborate printed card, a handwritten note, a holiday informal, or a conventional Christmas card. Though most people prefer cards bearing a Yuletide motif, even a plain white card is acceptable.

3. You're within the bounds of good etiquette if you simply sign your name under a printed message. However, if you're sending a Christmas card with both greeting and your name imprinted, you should add a brief personal, handwritten message for your close friends and relatives.

4. Address a card to both husband and wife, even if you know only one of them. The exception: a semi-business card that may be sent to one or the other at his or her office.

5. If — horror! — you receive a card from someone you overlooked and you can't get a greeting back to them by Christmas, it's proper to send a New Year card of a "thank you" card or note.

6. Always sign your complete name when it's not imprinted or engraved. Husband-and-wife cards can be signed Jane and John Doe, or Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, or The John Does. It's correct to add "and family" to your signature. Acceptable alternative: ". . .and best wishes from all of us, Jane and John Doe."

7. When the whole family is listed on the card, father's name comes first, followed by mother's and then the children according to age, regardless of sex. Names of grown daughters may be included, but not grown sons — it's up to them to send their own cards.

8. Red or green Skrip writing fluid is most acceptable and becoming increasingly popular for signing Christmas cards; it's more in keeping with the season than is the conventional blue or black.

10. Good manners require that your Christmas cards be neat. Write your signature legibly enough to be immediately recognizable. Address envelopes by hand, never by typewriter.

11. You'll be less likely to have cards returned or delayed if you check all doubtful addresses before mailing. First-class postage assures forwarding if the addressee has moved, or return to the sender if the card is undeliverable — providing you've put your return address on the upper left-hand corner of the envelope.

12. Mail out-of-town cards two weeks before Christmas, and local cards at least a week in advance. Help your regular and extra postal employes by following the Christmas mail hints issued by local postmasters.

If you mind your personal, postal, and penmanship P's and Q's, there's every reason to believe your Christmas cards will rate — and get — a warm and friendly welcome.

Chocolate Eggnog

Ever add a tablespoon of chocolate syrup to an eggnog made with egg and 1 cup milk? More chocolate syrup plus sugar may be added for stronger flavor.

Scented Shower

Do you prefer a shower to a tub bath? If so, you can still have the pleasure of a scented bath oil if you spead a film of oil across your shoulders before stepping under the warm spray. Not only will the oil both scent and soften your skin but the perfume will fill the room.

Fashion Industry Plots To Abolish Spring With Any-Season Wardrobe

By RUBY WEIL

NEW YORK (AP)—Spring may be a song to the poets, but to the fashion industry it's a headache.

Depending on the area and the time of year, spring doesn't last long enough, starts too late (when Easter is in April), or is practically non-existent. As a result, women shoppers are likely to skip from winter to summer.

Unlike those of us who talk about the weather but do nothing about it, some people in the fashion industry are doing something. They're simply out to abolish spring.

The evidence was presented to store buyers and the fashion press who have been looking at spring fashion collections while ordinary mortals were still shaking the mothballs out of their winter wardrobes. They found a spreading movement toward any-season fashions.

The movement has been under way for several seasons. But this year it is crystallizing. Fabrics, colors and types of clothes all contribute to the trend toward clothes that can be worn practically year round.

ALL YEAR WEAR

The weatherman is not entirely responsible. The airplane plays a part. So do modern heating in winter and air conditioning in summer, and the steady increase in vacations any time of the year.

For the airborne traveler, there are more and more costumes with built-in comfort and wrinkle resistance.

The higher priced ones are designed for "the woman who jets from climate to climate," as one designer phrases it. This customer's coordinated costume is brought down to budget level in handy outfits for the coach flight passenger.

The change in heating and cooling patterns of homes, theaters, restaurants, in recent years has brought about a steady increase in the dress-plus costume. Dressing in layers now is recognized as a way to comfort.

CULOTTES LEAD

And more and more, the anytime vacation is influencing fashion. Resort fashions merge into those for spring and into summer until the line often is wiped out.

For the fashion details: Culottes, introduced last year, may become classic in another few seasons. They're still a novelty for street wear. But they are everywhere in sportswear, in at-home fashions, in travel clothes. Knee pants are around, too, under skirts which may be slit, wrapped, or buttoned-on.

Knitted dresses, suits, coats and costumes are so all-pervasive that sometimes one wonders whether they will crowd out woven fabrics. They range from the popular Italian flat woolknit to all sorts of novelty textures and the cotton knits.

Costumes, with short or long coats, are everywhere. Sometimes they have a new name—"compositions." Coat dresses appear in new, interesting shapes.

PRINTS VIVID

The most interesting prints are vivid and original. Fabrics are in the strictly fabulous category in the designer fashions. More and more, it's hard to tell cottons from silks or wool synthetics from natural fibers. And such combinations as cotton jackets with wool jersey dresses suggest cross-season purposes.

For evenings, chiffon goes flatteringly from season to season. Sequins and rhinestones glitter on spring ballgowns instead of going into storage after the "big" season as they once did.

Colors are gay or subtle, again proclaiming freedom from the old customs. Spring's navy blue is likey to be a brightened shade just a bit deeper than royal. Or it may be ignored for the pastels which move more easily into summer. Brown comes out of winter's popularity into unaccustomed prominence for the warmer seasons.

The news in silhouettes is that the relaxed feeling gets more so all the time. The chemise is around, renamed and redesigned. Full skirts continue their return to fashion approval, in pleats, easy gored versions, and occasionally full circles.

And—a note of reassurance to the men—skirts continue short, a little below the knees—and here and there, right at the kneecap.

Bleach Driftwood

Driftwood, used as a decorative accessory by itself or in flower arrangements, adds a real touch of natural beauty to almost any room. However, it should be bleached occasionally to prevent color changes.

Driftwood is prone to such changes, especially if subjected to much cigarette smoke. To bleach driftwood, wet it with soap and water, and place it in the direct rays of the sun. Add more suds as it slowly bleaches.

Beauty Oil

Want a French recipe for smooth, soft arms? Apply a generous "dose" of castor oil to your elbows at night. Next morning, spread a thin coating of castor oil over the entire surface of each arm. Then wash the oil off with thick soapsuds, rinse, and splash on rose water or witch hazel.

New Brush Use

A worn shaving brush makes a soft complexion brush for giving your face and neck an effective soap massage. Before use cut the bristles down to about one inch from the handle.

DECEMBER 22 is the date chosen by Miss Sara Emrick, above, and Billy Wilson for their marriage which will be performed at 7 p.m. in the Pleasant Grove Baptist church of Jonesville. Rev. Harold Davis will officiate. The bride-elect, a senior at Northwestern State college, where she is majoring in elementary education, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Emrick of Jonesville. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wilson of Winnsboro are parents of the future bridegroom.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the engagement of Miss Merle Brunette Scott to Ned Franklin Edmondson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson of Lake Providence, is made today by Mrs. Wade W. Scott, Houma, La., mother of the bride-elect. Date of the wedding has not been set. Miss Scott is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Scott of Harrisonburg.

Approaching Holidays Bring Reminder Of Greeting Card Etiquette

Whether or not your Christmas cards are well received may depend on your knowledge of etiquett and postal rules . . . a knowledge that should not be taken for granted. Each year two million Christmas cards go astray because of errors in addressing and mailing; thousands more that reach their destination "miss" because they don't come up to accepted standards of taste and etiquette.

Such lapses are all too easy for anyone involved in the Christmas rush — yet they're easily avoided. To make sure your cards produce Yuletide warmth instead of December frost, these seasonal greeting tips are offered.

1. Be sure your greeting conveys the spirit of Christmas. Don't strain to achieve new or different ways to express greetings; the basic "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year" is hard to improve upon. Cards with religious motifs are logical and very acceptable but sending this type of card to Jewish friends might be considered in poor taste. Unless you're quite sure the recipient won't object, it's wise to avoid the ultra-sophisticated, "flip" type of card.

2. Since it's the thought that really counts, it makes little difference whether you send your greeting in the form of an elaborate printed card, a handwritten note, a holiday informal, or a conventional Christmas card. Though most people prefer cards bearing a Yuletide motif, even a plain white card is acceptable.

3. You're within the bounds of good etiquette if you simply sign your name under a printed message. However, if you're sending a Christmas card with both greeting and your name imprinted, you should add a brief personal, handwritten message for your close friends and relatives.

4. Address a card to both husband and wife, even if you know only one of them. The exception: a semi-business card that may be sent to one or the other at his or her office.

5. If — horror! — you receive a card from someone you overlooked and you can't get a greeting back to them by Christmas, it's proper to send a New Year card of a "thank you" card or note.

6. Always sign your complete name when it's not imprinted or engraved. Husband-and-wife cards can be signed Jane and John Doe, or Mr. and Mrs. John Doe, or The John Does. It's correct to add "and family" to your signature. Acceptable alternative: ". . .and best wishes from all of us, Jane and John Doe."

7. When the whole family is listed on the card, father's name comes first, followed by mother's and then the children according to age, regardless of sex. Names of grown daughters may be included, but not grown sons — it's up to them to send their own cards.

8. Red or green Skrip writing fluid is most acceptable and becoming increasingly popular for signing Christmas cards; it's more in keeping with the season than is the conventional blue or black.

10. Good manners require that your Christmas cards be neat. Write your signature legibly enough to be immediately recognizable. Address envelopes by hand, never by typewriter.

11. You'll be less likely to have cards returned or delayed if you check all doubtful addresses before mailing. First-class postage assures forwarding if the addressee has moved, or return to the sender if the card is undeliverable — providing you've put your return address on the upper left-hand corner of the envelope.

12. Mail out-of-town cards two weeks before Christmas, and local cards at least a week in advance. Help your regular and extra postal employes by following the Christmas mail hints issued by local postmasters.

If you mind your personal, postal, and penmanship P's and Q's, there's every reason to believe your Christmas cards will rate — and get — a warm and friendly welcome.

Chocolate Eggnog

Ever add a tablespoon of chocolate syrup to an eggnog made with egg and 1 cup milk? More chocolate syrup plus sugar may be added for stronger flavor.

Scented Shower

Do you prefer a shower to a tub bath? If so, you can still have the pleasure of a scented bath oil if you spead a film of oil across your shoulders before stepping under the warm spray. Not only will the oil both scent and soften your skin but the perfume will fill the room.

Flavor Loaf

Add a pinch or two of powdered allspice to a ham and veal loaf.

Fashion Industry Plots To Abolish Spring With Any-Season Wardrobe

By RUBY WEIL

NEW YORK (AP)—Spring may be a song to the poets, but to the fashion industry it's a headache.

Depending on the area and the time of year, spring doesn't last long enough, starts too late (when Easter is in April), or is practically non-existent. As a result, women shoppers are likely to skip from winter to summer.

Unlike those of us who talk about the weather but do nothing about it, some people in the fashion industry are doing something. They're simply out to abolish spring.

The evidence was presented to store buyers and the fashion press who have been looking at spring fashion collections while ordinary mortals were still shaking the mothballs out of their winter wardrobes. They found a spreading movement toward any-season fashions.

The movement has been under way for several seasons. But this year it is crystallizing. Fabrics, colors and types of clothes all contribute to the trend toward clothes that can be worn practically year round.

ALL YEAR WEAR

The weatherman is not entirely responsible. The airplane plays a part. So do modern heating in winter and air conditioning in summer, and the steady increase in vacations any time of the year.

For the airborne traveler, there are more and more costumes with built-in comfort and wrinkle resistance.

The higher priced ones are designed for "the woman who jets from climate to climate," as one designer phrases it. This customer's coordinated costume is brought down to budget level in handy outfits for the coach flight passenger.

The change in heating and cooling patterns of homes, theaters, restaurants, in recent years has brought about a steady increase in the dress-plus costume. Dressing in layers now is recognized as a way to comfort.

CULOTTES LEAD

And more and more, the anytime vacation is influencing fashion. Resort fashions merge into those for spring and into summer until the line often is wiped out.

For the fashion details: Culottes, introduced last year, may become classic in another few seasons. They're still a novelty for street wear. But they are everywhere in sportswear, in at-home fashions, in travel clothes. Knee pants are around, too, under skirts which may be slit, wrapped, or buttoned-on.

Knitted dresses, suits, coats and costumes are so all-pervasive that sometimes one wonders whether they will crowd out woven fabrics. They range from the popular Italian flat woolknit to all sorts of novelty textures and the cotton knits.

Costumes, with short or long coats, are everywhere. Sometimes they have a new name—"compositions." Coat dresses appear in new, interesting shapes.

PRINTS VIVID

The most interesting prints are vivid and original. Fabrics are in the strictly fabulous category in the designer fashions. More and more, it's hard to tell cottons from silks or wool synthetics from natural fibers. And such combinations as cotton jackets with wool jersey dresses suggest cross-season purposes.

For evenings, chiffon goes flatteringly from season to season. Sequins and rhinestones glitter on spring ballgowns instead of going into storage after the "big" season as they once did.

Colors are gay or subtle, again proclaiming freedom from the old customs. Spring's navy blue is likey to be a brightened shade just a bit deeper than royal. Or it may be ignored for the pastels which move more easily into summer. Brown comes out of winter's popularity into unaccustomed prominence for the warmer seasons.

The news in silhouettes is that the relaxed feeling gets more so all the time. The chemise is around, renamed and redesigned. Full skirts continue their return to fashion approval, in pleats, easy gored versions, and occasionally full circles.

And—a note of reassurance to the men—skirts continue short, a little below the knees—and here and there, right at the kneecap.

Bleach Driftwood

Driftwood, used as a decorative accessory by itself or in flower arrangements, adds a real touch of natural beauty to almost any room. However, it should be bleached occasionally to prevent color changes.

Driftwood is prone to such changes, especially if subjected to much cigarette smoke. To bleach driftwood, wet it with soap and water, and place it in the direct rays of the sun. Add more suds as it slowly bleaches.

Beauty Oil

Want a French recipe for smooth, soft arms? Apply a generous "dose" of castor oil to your elbows at night. Next morning, spread a thin coating of castor oil over the entire surface of each arm. Then wash the oil off with thick soapsuds, rinse, and splash on rose water or witch hazel.

New Brush Use

A worn shaving brush makes a soft complexion brush for giving your face and neck an effective soap massage. Before use cut the bristles down to about one inch from the handle.

Fashion Models Begin To Copy Jackie's Hairdo

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy says she has no desire to be a fashion leader. But the betting in this corner is that the 31-year-old beauty will top or place high on that annual best-dressed list when it comes out in 1961.

No matter how reluctant the wife of the president-elect is to become a symbol of chic, the role inevitably is hers. For two reasons — the limelight of the White House, and her natural flair for wearing clothes.

Already Mrs. Kennedy's bouffant hairdo and wardrobe have created quite a lot of talk. There was the "great debate" over who spent more on clothes, Mrs. Kennedy or Mrs. Richard M. Nixon. And Mrs. Kennedy's bouffant locks drew sharp criticism during the campaign from some letter writers who described the coiffure as a "floor mop."

INFLUENCE HAIR STYLES

But even so, the effect of her coiffure already is there; it seems that almost every brunette fashion model now showing spring clothes in New York's garment district has a similar "do."

No hairdresser, at this writing anyway, has come out with the "Kennedy bob," but just give the boys time. Look what happened when Bess Truman suddenly converted to a poodle cut. Thousands of other matrons went out and had their locks shorn and short-curled.

Vibrant Colors Endorsed For Spring Fashion Scene

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Bold, brilliant and beautiful are the colors endorsed by California designers for Spring 1961. Timid pastels take a back seat to the singing vibrant colors which add zing and zest to the upcoming fashions ranging from sportswear to ball gowns.

California, which has always spread color with a daring hand, in homes as well as apparel, has come up with a dazzling array that outrivals the rainbow.

The palette includes many tones of bright coral, gleaming gold and a whole range of undiluted blues, from a lively teal to an intense turquoise. A light, bright green like that of a tropical parrot, and a high intensity yellow can be expected to add a special luster to the spectrum. Continuing as a major color choice are the lilac to amethyst shades.

White is prevalent everywhere, blazing, pure white wonderfully becoming to all. With the advent of so many fabric innovations, it is now practical as well as beautiful.

Ombre colors, delicately shading from light to dark, will be found frequently in many of the collections, cleverly integrated into the design of the dress.

California designers have gone stripe happy for spring, and every width imaginable, from hairline to barber-pole streaking through all categories of spring fashions. Even polka-dots, the usual harbinger of spring, have bowed out in favor of the striped and striking. Again, the ingenious designers have added figure flattery through intricate mitering and handling of the stripes.

Fabrics for spring will allow the wearer to float in chiffons, souffle and organza, to slink in crepes, silk jersey of stretch fabrics, to swish in taffeta, peau de soie or gros de londre.

Silks, and silk-faced synthetics, all have a gleam, or a glistening surface.

Commuting Hairdressers Draw Top Fees

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — I'm just waiting until I get that villa at Palm Beach to take up the newest thing in the fashion world—paying the hairdresser to come to me.

No more of this fighting traffic to get to a beauty shop on time. No more reading stale movie magazines. No more listening to the insistent babble of my own sex.

When I'm rich, I'll have my hair done in the privacy of my own wigwam in New York or my own pad on the Riviera.

For it takes money to lure the hairdresser to your home, or hotel, if you're traveling. But it's being done at an increasing rate by well-heeled women in society and show business.

My own favorite hairdresser alerted me to this trend.

"Went to Montreal last weekend," said Daniel of Charles of the Ritz as he wound my sopping locks around sausage-shaped curlers.

"Oh," said I. "Have fun?"

BUSMAN'S HOLIDAY

"Went up to work," said Daniel. "Did Fernande Montel's hair." Miss Montel is the French-born singer who pulls down a hefty fee for appearances in the smart supper clubs in the United States and abroad.

It turned out that Daniel has been doing Miss Montel's sleek blonde locks for about six years and recently she talked him into flying each Monday, his day off, to the city in which she is appearing to do shampoo, set, coloring and a trim when necessary.

Daniel was one of the few hairdressers who wanted to talk about charges — for such special service — his time, he said, is worth about $75, and the chanteuse pays his travel, meal, hotel and incidental expenses.

Kenneth, director of the Lilly Dache Salon in New York, has a whole roster of clients in the entertainment and social world who hire him to come to their homes or hotel suites.

Marilyn Monroe, a steady customer in New York, had him fly to Chicago to dress her hair for a personal appearance in connection with the opening of her last movie.

This fall, Kenneth has gone to Philadelphia and New Haven to dress the hair of feminine leads in a couple of shows now on Broadway; once in New York, he said, the stars come into the salon, like other customers.

CHARGE VARIES

Said Kenneth, "The charge varies according to the demands on my time, the hours I have to be away from the salon and regular customers there. But it averages about $100 an hour. Some out-of-town calls will run as high as $600, not including the airplane ticket, meals and hotel — which the client also pays."

PARTY PAIR ..... Evening wrap of Saga Norwegian blue fox designed by Reynard (left) features fur-in-the-round look at top, vertically worked skins with inserts of pleated peau de soie in skirt. Fouke-dyed black Alaska fur seal cape designed by Gonelli (right) has sweeping fullness cropped to new length. Worn with it is a leopard toque.

Little Glamour For Big Evening

A length or two of ribbon, a band of elastic and a small comb are all you need to make a glamorous headband or hairbow for the big evening on the Christmas holiday agenda.

For the headband, simply measure the ribbon and cut about two inches less than your head size measurement. Hem the ends and sew on one inch of elastic band. When you wear it, you may want to add a small jeweled pin or a pair of small ornaments placed at a strategic angle.

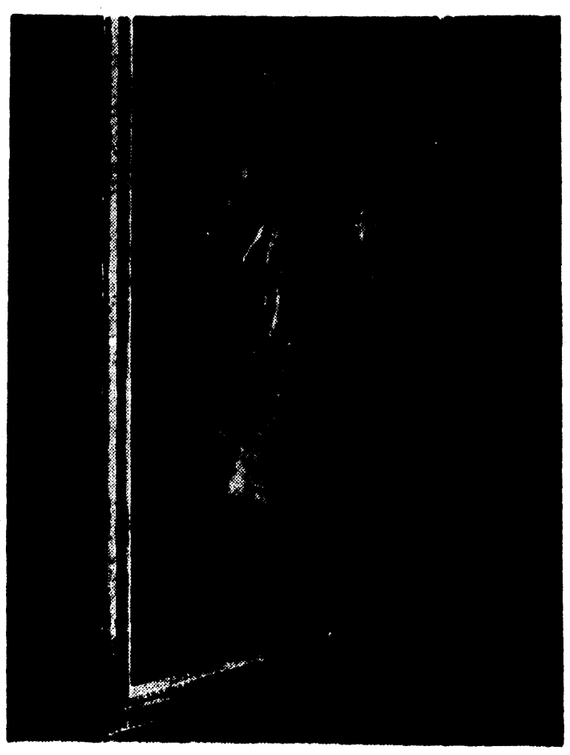
To make the hairbow, tie a big flat bowknot of velvet ribbon and sew a comb on the back of the knot. For the newest "after five" trick fasten it in your hair, either low in back, to one side or center front.

Freeze Turkey

Remove all meat from the bones of a turkey as soon as possible after dinner. Slice the "sliceable" portions, then dice or grind the remaining meat. Divide it into portions for mealtime needs, wrap each portion in freezer foil, and label as to dark or light meat, diced, sliced, or ground. Freeze immediately.

Egg Whites

One tablespoon of cold water added to one egg white makes the equal of two egg whites.



PROVOCATIVE little Holiday dress with a lot of dash is this fluid and shirtwaist-like model in lame' woven of mylar, a new non-tarnishable metallic fabric. Special features of the glitter costume are long French-cuffed sleeves ,slashed collarless neckline and self tie belt.

Select Toy For Child's Age

AP Newsfeatures

The toy you give with joy in mind may instead cause frustration, tears, even injury . . . unless you chose it to suit the child's stage of mental development.

So claims Dr. Emma Sheehy, professor emeritus of child development at Teachers College, Columbia University.

"Play is the serious business of childhood," says the doctor who heads the Toy Guidance Council's advisory committee. "The right toys at the right age level are a child's tools of learning and play a major role in his development."

The first requisite for playing Santa Claus to the youngsters on your gift list is to double check their ages.

TOYS FOR INFANTS

A baby puts everything in its mouth. Toys should be safe to suck, easily cleaned, and without loose parts that might be swallowed. He is developing his sense of touch, likes to feel different textures. Toys to squeeze, balls bang, bite, shake and hear. Be sure toys are lightweight and not to push help develop muscles.

He likes objects he can watch, too large to be handled safely by an infant because his muscles are just developing.

ONE TO TWO

The toddler has gained control over his hands and fingers. He enjoys nests of blocks, simple take apart toys, push and pulls, floor trains.

When the child has learned to walk, toys on wheels or rockers stimulate further muscular development. Shortly before the second birthday children develop a joy in rhythmic sounds. They like toy musical instruments and picture books with bright pictures.

TWO TO FOUR

This age group has gained proficiency in using muscles. The 2 - year - old will build a block tower and places pegs expertly in holes. He loves to screw and unscrew simple things, likes toys he can manipulate. The 2 - year - old usually prefers to play by himself, loves to imitate grown-ups by using miniature housekeeping equipment, and doctor and nurse sets. Western costumes, rocking horses and holsters have appeal at this age.

Girls love to put dolls to bed, shampoo doll hair and put doll clothes on and off. Wheel toys are popular.

FOUR TO SIX

Interest in playing together begins. Simple games are popular. Kitchen equipment, furniture and miniature tools have great appeal. Creative play activities are of interest such as finger paint, crayons, and paper dolls.

Roller skates, a coaster wagon, a side walk bike or scooter will be welcomed.

SIX TO EIGHT

Boys show a tendency to play with other boys; girls with girls. Dramatic and imitative play are popular. Sports equipment is favored now; electric trains, miniature racing cars, simple scientific toys, carpentry and model building all are popular. A wide variety of crafts are now within their scope of interest. More elaborate doll accessories are highly prized. Both boys and girls enjoy playing board games.

EIGHT TO TEN

Children tend to adopt more specific interests. They tackle advanced craft and construction toys.

Fall Fashions Accented By New Jewelry

Jewelry sparks the difference in the new fall fashions and therein lies one of the most glittering and exciting stores in the whole fashion field.

Discreet, elegant, understated clothes demand the accent of color, excitement and drama that jewelry provides this season, reports the Fashion Coordination Institute. New jewelry, worn in new ways, gives every woman the chance to put her own stamp of individuality on fashion. She can use the magic of her jewel box to create many different looks, from high fashion to the conservative, from the discreetly tailored to gay and giddy. The ingredients are all there.

Nothing can give a stamp of newness to a dress this season as will a longer length necklace to complement the simple necklines and easy body lines. A close-cropped hairdo cries for the bigger, bolder earrings. Shorter dress, suit and coat sleeves make bulky bracelets a must. Suits gain their final touch of sparkling appeal from the beautiful big pins or groupings of pins matched to earrings.

A costume without jewelry -and a lot of it - is like a cake without icing or a stew without spice this year, the Institute points out.

In a season of discreet lines and softened or neutral fabric colors, it is almost impossible to "overdo" jewelry, the Institute claims. Any gal can indulge her passion for the bright and beautiful to the utmost in accessorizing her new clothes with jewels, it points out.

Winter Pops Concert Set At Northeast

A Winter Pops Concert, the first in a series to be performed by the Northeast Louisiana State College Band, will mark the opening of the 1960-61 concert season on the campus.

The band is under the direction of Joe Barry Mullins, associate professor of music at Northeast. The concert will be held in Brown Hall auditorium Monday, Dec. 12 beginning at 8:15 p.m.

The program will include "Hands Across the Sea," by John Phillip Sousa; movements two and six of Handel's "Water Music Suite;" "O God, Thou Holy God," from Brahms "Choral Prelude;" Johann Strauss's "Perpetual Motion;" Morton Gould's "American Salute;" and "South Pacific Selections" by Rogers and Hammerstein.

The concert band is made up of 55 students. The sectional leaders are: Keith Pettway, flutes, Vicksburg; Sandra Simpson, clarinets, Monroe; Pete Sherlock, saxes and double reeds, Vicksburg; Milton Black, Memphis horns; Glen Baxter, Houston, Tex. and Kirby Mooney, Centralia, Ill., trumpets; Slick Lawson, Monroe, trombones; Stanley Hodge, Crowville, tubas; and Gene Bates, Natchez, Miss., percussion.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited to attend this concert.

Smoke Dream Dissolves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Amateur psychologists have argued that looking at the smoke contributes part of the smoker's pleasure.

Asked if this were ture, Louis W. Rives, Jr., chief of the Division of Special Services for the Blind, U.S. Office of Vocational Rehabilitation replied: "I smoke two packs of ciagarettes a day and I'm blind." Rives said that in his opinion about the same proportion of blind people smoke as those who can see.

BYPASS OUTSIDERS

Congress GOPs Drafting Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican legislative leaders are taking steps to make party policy decisions in Congress without consulting Vice President Richard M. Nixon or other outsiders.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire made the first move by instructing the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, which he heads, to begin drafting statements of party aims on all major issues.

The first of these, expected to be issued with the opening of the new Congress on Jan. 3, is planned to cover the issue of "peaceful coexistence" with the Communists.

Those who know Bridges' views think this is likely to be a vigorous statement of the opinion that there is little room for negotiation with the Russians and almost none with the Chinese Communists.

This goes beyond the field of congressional action On the other hand, it is th eintention of Bridges and other leaders to get specific on such issues as aid to depressed areas, medical care for the aged, housing and other measures as they come before Congress.

Their purpose is to plumb the views of Republican senators and base party policy on majority opinion. If the result happens not to coincide with the policies stated by Nixon in his unsuccessful presidential race — or by retiring President Eisenhower — this will not be considered an insurmountable obstacle.

There is discussion of reducing the Senate policy group to a small committee and returning to the procedures put into effect by the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Taft and his successor, former Sen. William F. Knowland of California, headed compact groups which made party policy pronouncements on pending legislation and natipnal issues.

In the last session, the policy meetings were thrown open to all GOP senators. Almost never was there any agreement reached on party aims. Always free to vote as they chose in any event, members weren't even urged to follow a party line.

Whatever the outcome of this new move, Bridges and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate minority leader, were reported in agreement with House GOP Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana that the Republicans in Congress — and not somebody else — are going to make party policy.

They have not made, and do not expect to make, any arrangements for liaison with either Nixon or Eisenhower.

Their attitude is that they will be glad to entertain suggestions from Eisenhower and Nixon and from other party leaders such as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

But the congressional party leaders are not going to have someone from California or New York speaking for them. They would ignore — just as the Democratic leadership did in the 86th Congress — the recommendations of any advisory council that might be set up to draft party policy.

All this comes as no particular surprise to Nixon. Despite the acclaim that has brought him about 1,000 letters a day since his election defeat, Nixon recognizes that he is on tenuous ground as titular leader of the party.

Students At Northeast In 'Who's Who'

Thirty - three students from Northeast Louisiana State College have been selected for listing in "Who's Who Among Students at American Colleges and Universities," an annual directory of distinguished students in this country.

"Who's Who" began publication in the school year 1934-35 to give national recognition to outstanding students from four-year degree-granting institutions.

A faculty - student committee at Northeast nominated the 33 students, and the nominations were accepted by the "Who's Who" organization. Scholarship, leadership, participation and promise of future usefulness were considered among the criteria.

This is the first year that Northeast has been invited to nominate students for listing in the annual publication.

The 12 students from Monroe to be listed are William Charles Brodie, Gay Demmary, Maxine Gill, Ida Lea Hamilton, Ann Landry, Robert E. McGough, John Robert May, Celia Mantrozos, James Luther Plunkett, Kathryn Ann Talton, Montez Trimble.

Chosen from West Monroe were Camille Camp, Juanita Fant, Theda Rose Pettigrew and Jerry Webb.

Others selected were Olga Kokinos, Athens, Greece; Glenn Baxter, Houston; Loy E. Baird Jr., Quitman; Milton Black, Memphis; Theo Conen, Rayville; Franklin Edward Collins, Jonesville; Peggy Ann Earl, Winnsboro, June Futrell, Sterlington; Don Holton, Mangham; Sandra Killgore, Lisbon; Wanda Leonard, Downsville; Kirby Jane Mooney, Centralia, Ill; William Wayne Nielson, Bogalusa; Charlotte Linda Pickett, Bastrop; Carolyn Joyce Ross, Pioneer; Howard Lavelle Russell, Angola; Joyce Yelldell, Bastrop.

SILVER BEAVER

Scouting Award To Be Presented

The Ouachita Valley Council will present its annual Silver Beaver awards at the annual banquet here Tuesday night before approximately 400 Scouts from northeast Louisiana.

Council president J. W. Webster said the presentation of the Silver Beavers would highlight the program, which is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. at the Paragon Club.

Recipients of the award will be kept secret until the time for the presentation, which will be made by the Rev. W. H. Bengtson of Winnsboro.

The Silver Beaver awards are presented on a council basis based on recommendations of a committee appointed by the president.

Webster explained that nominations must be made by at least one Silver Beaver, in addition to one other Scouter. The awards go to Scouters who have done outstanding work on a council basis.

Since 1935, the Ouachita Valley Council has presented 48 Silver Beaver awards. The number of awards is not regulated and varies from year to year.

Here is a list of the recipients of the Silver Beaver award in the Ouachita Valley Council since 1935:

1935 — F. X. Shaughnessy and Herman Masur, both deceased.

1937 — Judge W. M. Harper, Sam Davis, S. L. Maxwell and J. W. Rohr. The latter three are deceased.

1938 — Judge E. L. Walker, deceased.

1943 — A. B. Clarkson, C. L. Preston.

1944 — S. K. Heninger, A. W. Ford, P. S. Mulhearn, deceased.

1945 — Tom D. Wafer, deceased.

1946 — L. L. Price.

1948 — J. W. Webster, A. H. Jones, deceased, Joe Dante, Judge Frank Voelker.

1949 — A. C. Lea, A. J. Ensminger, deceased, Phillip J. Hannan, L. E. Mathis, Dr. W. L. Bendel, deceased, J. D. Bice, T. O. Dollar.

1950 — John Browne, deceased, Floyd Main.

1951 — W. W. Stevens, the Rev. W. H. Bengtson.

1952 — W. E. Person, Dr. M. T. Green.

1953 — J. A. Holmes.

1954 — J. C. Crawford.

1955 — Floyd B. James, Roy Taylor, Ben Parnell, Dr. Don Davis.

1956 — Lloyd Love, David Snyder.

1957 — T. H. Armitage, Gerald DeLaune, James Madison.

1958 — A. C. Smith, O. R. Westbrook, Donald B. Fiske.

1959 — Lewis M. Cooksey, A. L. Embanato, Henry Butts.

Hammond Man Dies In Accident

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—An 82-year-old Hammond resident, Henry Barber, was fatally injured in a two - car collision on Airline Highway Friday night.

Barber's son, who was driving, was given a ticket on a charge of reckless driving. The son, Huey Pierce Barber, 25, was treated for internal injuries and lacerations.

The driver of the other car was listed as Tony Valdez, Little Farms. His daughter, Laura Valdez, 5, received minor injuries.

Nylon Used For Longevity Of Tire Life

DETROIT (UPI)—Thin strands of nylon shaped like pieces of extremely thin spaghetti make your tires of the future last longer.

Or maybe the strands will be shaped like a triangle or a rectangle.

It all depends on research now going on in laboratories of chemical companies searching for a new and better nylon fiber.

T. M. Cersker, manager of fabric and adhesives development at Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., says most motorists don't need all the strength of current nylon fibers in tires.

Winter Pops Concert Set At Northeast

A Winter Pops Concert, the first in a series to be performed by the Northeast Louisiana State College Band, will mark the opening of the 1960-61 concert season on the campus.

The band is under the direction of Joe Barry Mullins, associate professor of music at Northeast. The concert will be held in Brown Hall auditorium Monday, Dec. 12 beginning at 8:15 p.m.

The program will include "Hands Across the Sea," by John Phillip Sousa; movements two and six of Handel's "Water Music Suite;" "O God, Thou Holy God," from Brahms "Choral Prelude;" Johann Strauss's "Perpetual Motion;" Morton Gould's "American Salute;" and "South Pacific Selections" by Rogers and Hammerstein.

The concert band is made up of 55 students. The sectional leaders are: Keith Pettway, flutes, Vicksburg; Sandra Simpson, clarinets, Monroe; Pete Sherlock, saxes and double reeds, Vicksburg; Milton Black, Memphis horns; Glen Baxter, Houston, Tex. and Kirby Mooney, Centralia, Ill., trumpets; Slick Lawson, Monroe, trombones; Stanley Hodge, Crowville, tubas; and Gene Bates, Natchez, Miss., percussion.

There will be no admission charge and the public is invited to attend this concert.

Smoke Dream Dissolves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Amateur psychologists have argued that looking at the smoke contributes part of the smoker's pleasure.

Asked if this were ture, Louis H. Rives, Jr., chief of the Division of Special Services for the Blind, U.S. Office of Vocational Rehabilitation replied: "I smoke two packs of ciagarettes a day and I'm blind." Rives said that in his opinion about the same proportion of blind people smoke as those who can see.

Congress GOPs Drafting Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican legislative leaders are taking steps to make party policy decisions in Congress without consulting Vice President Richard M. Nixon or other outsiders.

Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire made the first move by instructing the staff of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, which he heads, to begin drafting statements of party aims on all major issues.

The first of these, expected to be issued with the opening of the new Congress on Jan. 3, is planned to cover the issue of "peaceful coexistence" with the Communists.

Those who know Bridges' views think this is likely to be a vigorous statement of the opinion that there is little room for negotiation with the Russians and almost none with the Chinese Communists.

This goes beyond the field of congressional action On the other hand, it is th eintention of Bridges and other leaders to get specific on such issues as aid to depressed areas, medical care for the aged, housing and other measures as they come before Congress.

Their purpose is to plumb the views of Republican senators and base party policy on majority opinion. If the result happens not to coincide with the policies stated by Nixon in his unsuccessful presidential race — or by retiring President Eisenhower — this will not be considered an insurmountable obstacle.

There is discussion of reducing the Senate policy group to a small committee and returning to the procedures put into effect by the late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio. Taft and his successor, former Sen. William F. Knowland of California, headed compact groups which made party policy pronouncements on pending legislation and national issues.

In the last session, the policy meetings were thrown open to all GOP senators. Almost never was there any agreement reached on party aims. Always free to vote as they chose in any event, members weren't even urged to follow a party line.

Whatever the outcome of this new move, Bridges and Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate minority leader, were reported in agreement with House GOP Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana that the Republicans in Congress — and not somebody else — are going to make party policy.

They have not made, and do not expect to make, any arrangements for liaison with either Nixon or Eisenhower.

Their attitude is that they will be glad to entertain suggestions from Eisenhower and Nixon and from other party leaders such as Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

But the congressional party leaders are not going to have someone from California or New York speaking for them. They would ignore — just as the Democratic leadership did in the 86th Congress — the recommendations of any advisory council that might be set up to draft party policy.

All this comes as no particular surprise to Nixon. Despite the acclaim that has brought him about 1,000 letters a day since his election defeat, Nixon recognizes that he is on tenuous ground as titular leader of the party.

Students At Northeast In 'Who's Who'

Thirty - three students from Northeast Louisiana State College have been selected for listing in "Who's Who Among Students at American Colleges and Universities," an annual directory of distinguished students in this country.

"Who's Who" began publication in the school year 1934-35 to give national recognition to outstanding students from four-year degree-granting institutions.

A faculty - student committee at Northeast nominated the 33 students, and the nominations were accepted by the "Who's Who" organization. Scholarship, leadership, participation and promise of future usefulness were considered among the criteria.

This is the first year that Northeast has been invited to nominate students for listing in the annual publication.

The 12 students from Monroe to be listed are William Charles Brodie, Gay Demmary, Maxine Gill, Ida Lea Hamilton, Ann Landry, Robert E. McGough, John Robert May, Celia Mantrozos, James Luther Plunkett, Kathryn Ann Talton, Montez Trimble.

Chosen from West Monroe were Camille Camp, Juanita Fant, Theda Rose Pettigrew and Jerry Webb.

Others selected were Olga Kokinos, Athens, Greece; Glenn Baxter, Houston; Loy E. Baird Jr., Quitman; Milton Black, Memphis; Theo Conen, Rayville; Franklin Edward Collins, Jonesville; Peggy Ann Earl, Winnsboro, June Futrell, Sterlington; Don Holton, Mangham; Sandra Killgore, Lisbon; Wanda Leonard, Downsville; Kirby Jane Mooney, Centralia, Ill; William Wayne Nielson, Bogalusa; Charlotte Linda Pickett, Bastrop; Carolyn Joyce Ross, Pioneer; Howard Lavelle Russell, Angola; Joyce Yel-Dell, Bastrop.

SILVER BEAVER

Scouting Award To Be Presented

The Ouachita Valley Council will present its annual Silver Beaver awards at the annual banquet here Tuesday night before approximately 400 Scouts from northeast Louisiana.

Council president J. W. Webster said the presentation of the Silver Beavers would highlight the program, which is scheduled to start at 7 p.m. at the Paragon Club.

Recipients of the award will be kept secret until the time for the presentation, which will be made by the Rev. W. H. Bengtson of Winnsboro.

The Silver Beaver awards are presented on a council basis based on recommendations of a committee appointed by the president.

Webster explained that nominations must be made by at least one Silver Beaver, in addition to one other Scouter. The awards go to Scouters who have done outstanding work on a council basis.

Since 1935, the Ouachita Valley Council has presented 43 Silver Beaver awards. The number of awards is not regulated and varies from year to year.

Here is a list of the recipients of the Silver Beaver award in the Ouachita Valley Council since 1935:

1935 — F. X. Shaughnessy and Herman Masur, both deceased.

1937 — Judge W. M. Harper, Sam Davis, S. L. Maxwell and J. W. Rohr. The latter three are deceased.

1938 — Judge E. L. Walker, deceased.

1943 — A. B. Clarkson, C. L. Preston.

1944 — S. K. Heninger, A. W. Ford, P. S. Mulhearn, deceased.

1945 — Tom D. Wafer, deceased.

1946 — L. L. Price.

1948 — J. W. Webster, A. H. Jones, deceased, Joe Dante, Judge Frank Voelker.

1949 — A. C. Lea, A. J. Ensminger, deceased, Phillip J. Hannan, L. E. Mathis, Dr. W. L. Bendel, deceased, J. D. Bice, T. O. Dollar.

1950 — John Browne, deceased, Floyd Main.

1951 — W. W. Stevens, the Rev. W. H. Bengtson.

1952 — W. E. Person, Dr. M. T. Green.

1953 — J. A. Holmes.

1954 — J. C. Crawford.

1955 — Floyd B. James, Roy Taylor, Ben Parnell, Dr. Don Davis.

1956 — Lloyd Love, David Snyder.

1957 — T. H. Armitage, Gerald DeLaune, James Madison.

1958 — A. C. Smith, O. R. Westbrook, Donald B. Fiske.

1959 — Lewis M. Cooksey, A. L. Embanato, Henry Butts.

Hammond Man Dies In Accident

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—An 82-year-old Hammond resident, Henry Barber, was fatally injured in a two - car collision on Airline Highway Friday night.

Barber's son, who was driving, was given a ticket on a charge of reckless driving. The son, Huey Pierce Barber, 25, was treated for internal injuries and lacerations.

The driver of the other car was listed as Tony Valdez, Little Farms. His daughter, Laura Valdez, 5, received minor injuries.

Nylon Used For Longevity Of Tire Life

DETROIT (UPI)—Thin strands of nylon shaped like pieces of extremely thin spaghetti make your tires of the future last longer.

Or maybe the strands will be shaped like a triangle or a rectangle.

It all depends on research now going on in laboratories of chemical companies searching for a new and better nylon fiber.

T. M. Cersker, manager of fabric and adhesives development at Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., says most motorists don't need all the strength of current nylon fibers in tires.

Decorations For Yuletide

By MILDRED SWIFT

The holiday season is almost here, when your family will be together and you want the house to look at its best. Here are a number of hints for decorations and dried materials.

When making a Dello Rabbia wreath for Christmas, shellac your fruit and it will hold up longer.

When doing your Christmas decorating, that's a good time to prune your evergreens. You'll want them for your house, your church and your friends who have no plants, yet.

For the framework for Christmas wreaths, use privet hedge canes with the leaves stripped. Take a very long "switch" and wrap it round and round. This holds greens well for a wreath or swag.

JUST RIGHT

Hardware cloth is just right for weaving greens in and out for swags for doors, mantels or any place you want to put them. This hardware cloth can be bought by the foot at feed and seed stores and hardwares. Cut with your pruning shears to the desired shape.

A dried artichoke is so lovely in arrangements, just as it is, or painted. Turn the fresh vegetable upside down in a glass and place the container on the window sill.

I read these instructions for drying an artichoke: First place artichoke upside down in lukewarm water. Let them soak an hour. Then drain on paper. Next carefully start peeling back the leaves, working toward the center. Leaves will be pliable after the warm water treatment.

After you open the artichoke put a sheet of aluminum foil on an oven shelf. Turn the artichoke upside down so that they will remain open. Leave them on the oven shelf, with only the pilot light burning, for a couple of days. The pilot light alone will provide sufficient heat for drying the vegetable and without any odor. Such conditioning will make the artichokes a beautiful golden ecru color. Don't forget to take them out before cooking anything in the oven.

MORE INSTRUCTIONS

Here are a few more simple instructions for easily made Christmas decorations to make your home a happy place for the holidays. Take holly pieces, about six inches long and stick the ends in a large potato, completely covering the vegetable. The potato helps keep the greens fresh and the effect is lovely.

Candelabras can be used as an arrangement. Christmas corsages fastened to each arm make a pretty effect.

Buy a styrofoam wreath. Fill this with greens. If you use florist picks tied to each twig they will go in easier. Sometimes the ends of the twigs can be sharpened and thrust through the foam. Use this wreath on the front door, over the mantle or in the center of the dining table with a large candle in the center.

One of your compotes with a candle fastened in the center and greens around this is pretty for a coffee table.

If you can find a pretty large upright limb, prune it down to the main limbs, taking off the leaves if there are any left. Paint this either silver or gold. Fasten blue Christmas balls to the limbs or you can use tiny corsages of Christmas materials.

GARDEN HINTS

Get your fertilizer so you can start feeding all your plants and trees in January and February.

After the frosts kill the pampas grass, elephant ears and banana plants, cut back the dead tops.

You can make new shrubbery beds now and they'll settle before planting time. December is a good clean-up month. This is also a good time to take a critical look at your entire garden. Do you have enough evergreens to keep your place from looking gloomy? Are your foliage plants too much of the same texture? Do you need more variegated foliage? Some coarse textured plants that do much for a garden are: banana plant, elephant ears, Japanese varnish, canna, castor beans, and loquat.

AJUGA

Ajuga is a ground cover with ever growing popularity in this area. This is a low, dense, fast-spreading creeper which grows about four to six inches high, and which prefers shady locations. It has large egg-shaped leaves.

Some varieties have dark green foliage; others have green leaves with a bronze tint. The plant produces sweet little blue blooms in the spring.

Late winter or spring is the best time for transplanting ajuga. However, some growers claim it can be put out any month of the year. Space the plants about a foot apart, water well after planting. This plant does not thrive during dry spells unless it is kept watered. In a sunny spot ajuga gets ragged but will stay lush and green with some shade.

Ajuga responds well to fertilization and can be fed twice a year during the growing season. One of those feedings could be cotton seed meal as this will enrich the soil, too.

SPARKLE

Sparkle — and plenty of it—is featured in Christmas holiday fashions. All the jewels of Aladdin — rubies, emeralds, diamonds and pearls are present and available. This costume jewelry is within the reach of most any budget. You'll find necklaces, earrings and glittering bracelets, clips and pins. These make gay splashes of color to brighten holiday costumes.

The shining look is featured in fabrics as well as jewelry and other accessories. Brocade dresses, blouses, suits have a perfect look for the holidays.

Evening fashions take on a new elegance, with lavish use of beading and embroidery. Long evening dresses are making a determined comeback, usually with narrow or slightly full skirts.

A REMINDER

Remember, if you're exhausted it's going to show in your face. Try to get enough rest, despite all the rush and flurry of these pre-Christmas days, if you want to look your best. And — when you're going to spend a day in the stores doing your Christmas shopping, you'll be wise to plan a simple evening meal.

ANTI-FLEA

Though further research will be necessary there's coming to the market soon a dog food that has chemicals that kill fleas. Sounds impossible but the information comes from the Department of Agriculture, so its authentic. Dogs were fed this food and then exposed to fleas for four days. At the end of this time 85 to 95 per cent of the fleas were dead.

More work needs to be done on this, however, as some dogs rejected the food.

Your Open House programs next week are: Monday, Mrs. Janis Shea will make some very different Christmas decorations; Tuesday, Buck Green, "Safety with Christmas Lighting;" Wednesday, Christmas arrangements with John Wright from La. Tech; Thursday and Friday, wrapping Christmas gifts.

See you next Sunday.

Photographic Annuals Appear At Year End

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

As the year 1960 comes to an end and a new year beckons, the photographic annuals make their appearance with selections of noteworthy pictures and photographic personalities of the year past.

These books make wonderful little worlds into which a camera fan can retreat to browse, explore and marvel. They can transform a long winter evening or an otherwise lazy Sunday afternoon into a photographic global exploration and session with some of the world's noted cameramen.

They also can solve the problem of what to get for photo fans for Christmas since they appeal to and inspire all of them no matter what camera or equipment one may own or what type of pictures he takes. The choice, to, is literally world-wide since besides the well-known American annuals from U. S. Camera and Popular Photography, we have British "International Photography Year Book, 1961," (St. Martin's Press, N. Y.), the Japanese "Photography of the World," (Ziff-Davis, N.Y.) and "The German Photographic Annual," (Amphoto, N. Y.).

Probably the most ambitious project of all is U. S. Camera's 25th anniversary edition, "The Picture Universe, 1961" edited by Tom Maloney (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, N. Y.). A 33-page section is devoted to individual capsule reviews, in words and pictures, of each of the preceding 25 annuals. There's a rich memory harvest in the quarter-century survey as people and memorable events parade quickly by.

ACHIEVEMENT

A remarkable technical achievement is brought to us in a four - lot, fold - out color panorama of Switzerland taken by Emil Schuthess. The dawn to dusk composite photograph was shot in 24 sections, eachturned shot in 24 sections, each turned 15 degrees, from a specially built photo tower on a mountain near Lucerne, the geographical center of Switzerland. He made 42 trips up the mountain top to find one day with proper atmospheric conditions suitable for a 360 degree color photograph. It took the whole day to shoot.

In the "1961 Photography Annual", (Ziff-Davis, N. Y.), the editors' selection of the year's best pictures comprise a 78-page section. This must be high-fashion photographer Irving Penn's year for public recognition for a portfolio from his new book, Moments Preserved, is also displayed in this volume.

FOCUSED

Spotlights are also focued on photographers John Bryson, Ken Heyman, Rolf Winquist, Robert Capa and Masaya Nakamura.

Bryson is a magazine editor who became a successful free lance cameraman. We are shown how he coped with a variety of assignments this past year. Heyman, another freelancer, shows us a small sample of a picture story on Nigeria, used when that nation became independent. Winquist, a versatile Swedish professional, presents a portfolio of beautiful women. Capa, a combat photographer who died in action in Indo-China, is represented by some of his famous war photographs which are now being exhibited in the U. S. and abroad. Nakamura, one of the new Japanese school of photography, has made a successful specialty of figure studies.

Other features of the annual are a section on advertising photography, examples of camera abstractions from the Museum of Modern Art's exhibition, prize winners from some of the year's photo contests, and notes on each photograph in the book which are reproduced in miniature for easy identification.

LIKE MOTHER, like lamb. The same quizzical look from a ewe and her lamb greeted photographer August Sycholt when he snapped this picture. It appears in the British "International Yearbook, 1961," edited by Normal Hall.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Holly Popular In Southland

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The amazing crops of berries and handsome waxy leaves of the Chinese and Burford hollies have made them immensely popular here in the south in the past 10 or 20 years. Both of these hollies stand up well to the hot sun and the drouths so common in our climate.

EXTRA FEEDING

When plans produce such enormous crops of fruit as these Chinese hollies do, they soon exhaust the food on the soil. It simply takes more food for them than it does for ordinary plants. These hollies often seem to go backwards after a bumper crop of berries. The leaves may turn yellow, and the new foliage is often sparse when spring comes around.

Where hedges of Chinese hollies have been set out, the plants in a part of the hedge where the soil is poor may succumb to the conditions and even die in a season or so if the necessary fertilizer is not provided. A rich fertilizer such as 8-8-8 should be used in the spring just as the leaves are coming out and again in May on plants which do not match up to others in normal growth.

When preparing the ground for a holly hedge, it is well to work into the soil a liberal amount of bone meal in addition to any other fertilizer you may use because hollies seem to use up the phosphoric acid supply very fast, and bone meal supplies this food slowly over a period of years. Even though your complete fertilizer may have "everything," the phosphorous in it may soon be exhausted.

The Burford variety without all the stickers is a Chinese holly. As time goes on still more beautiful varieties will be named and introduced. There already is a rounded, almost ball-shaped special variety for sale in nurseries, and a very slow-growing kind will soon be available. These newer hollies can be seen in the larger nurseries and in the holly collections in most of the big public gardens. In North Carolina, the Clarendon Gardens at Pinehurst and the campus of The University of North Carolina have handsome young specimens.

In planting the Chinese hollies, it should be remembered that all the kinds — even the slow-growers are very large shrubs or small tree when fully grown. They can be made into big hedges, but they will eventually get to be six feet high and five or six feet through. Be sure that such a big hedge is suitable to the location where you plan to put your hedge. You will surely have to trim it regularly and, as the English say, "hard back" to hold it down.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Tree Values Are Outlined

By MARY M. JARDINE

The name magnolia suggests magnificence, a fitting word for flowers that may be a breath-taking 12 inches wide. Actually, the name is a tribute to a 17th century botanist, Pierre Magnol, rather than to elegant blooms.

Native magnolias long have been a favorite tree in the south where they grace the lawns of many ante bellum mansions. Year - round they offer shade, "swingable" limbs and lustrous foliage. The decorative leaves often substitute for palms on Palm Sunday and add to festive decorations for Christmas. From spring through summer there are fragrant blooms followed in autumn by brownish fruits which become quite glamorous as their rosy-red seeds pop out. No wonder two states claim the southern magnolia as their own.

A native from farther north is the cucumber tree (M. acuminata) which has fruits resembling cucumbers and greenish flowers that seem lost in the leaves. This one grows to one hundred feet and loses its leaves in winter.

Lanier Hunt mentions the lovely magnolia machrophylla sometimes called the large-leaved cucumber tree, with leaves up to three feet.

Quite different are the booms of Soulang's magnolia, a hybrid from China. In early spring this glorious deciduous small tree is covered with magnificent large saucer shaped blossoms of rosy-pink to reddish purple petals, creamy - white within. This is hardy in the north. There are many varieties including a white one.

The tulip-tree or tulip-poplar (liriodendron) also belongs to the magnolia family. This is one of our most beautiful forest trees, having a straight trunk with a tight, attractive bark. It is so named for the large tulip - like flowers with greenish yellow petals marked with orange. Early settlers called it "canoe wood" because Indians made dugouts from its logs. Today boat builders and cabinet makers still use timber from this tree. Like other members of the magnolia family and closely related buttercups, tulip trees had direct ancestors living with the dinosaurs millions of years ago. Modern magnolias show their ancient beginnings in their simple structure and their haphazard way of producing an indefinite number of petals, stamens and seeds.

VIDALIA CLUB

A most colorful holiday show was conducted here by the Vidalia Garden Club. For an entrance hall table Mrs. J. J. Lindley created a gay design of dried materials. The container was a gold bottle set on a polished, round walnut base. The design was vertical in pattern using dock for the primary placements, followed by teasel in orange and yellow coming down the vertical line. Bronze strawflowers were grouped in the center of the design with two teazel pods placed down the front of the container. A very gay and elegant design.

Mrs. Welcome Smith designed a beautiful Christmas arrangement in colors of pink and blue. On a pink styrofoam base she placed a large pink candle surrounded by placements of pink snowberries. A group of pink debutante camellias was laced at the base of the candle with a pink and blue net bow to the right balancing the lovely design. Mrs. M. J. Mitchell selected a large brass compote for her formal mass design, suitable for a large entrance hall or living room table. Gray green eucalyptus and golden wheat formed the background for the golden yellow chrysanthemums. A most pleasing design for the hoiday season.

Mrs. Welcome Smith designed a most appealing composition featuring a Madonna. A graceful and serene white Madonna was placed on a white styrofoam base with a large halo in the background. Silvered leaves were placed in a diagonal pattern in the background. Following the diagonal line were placements of white carnations with the lacy foliage of nandina in the background. White net rosettes were placed at the base of the design. The carnations were placed in a small white cup with a needle point holder to keep them fresh. The design had a spiritual quality that we associate with this season.

Mrs. W. R. Moseley of Monroe exhibited a most interesting composition featuring a hand molded madonna created by Mrs. Moseley herself. On a curved walnut base Mrs. Moseley placed a curved, brown piece of driftwood. The driftwood was gnarled and almost a right angle triangle in shape. This was embellished by small pine cones, walnuts, acorns, pine cone roses in a pleasing design attached to the driftwood. Dried peach seeds were brought low and a cluster of buckeye pods wired to resemble a bunch of grapes was placed on the board at the base of the design. The brown madonna in a seated position had the same curved lines as the driftwood. A most distinctive and elegant composition.

EXTENSION NOTES

Lessen Tree Needle Shed

By AUDREY DAWSON

To lessen needle shedding of your Christmas tree, start with a freshly cut one. Saw one - half inch off the butt of the tree and put it in a metal stand that will hold water. Refill the stand with water as the tree drinks. You can apply commercial materials to prevent shedding.

Remember your house plants need special care during the winter months. Don't give them too much water. Wet the soil thoroughly and leave alone until it becomes dry on the surface. See that your begonias get several hours of sun each day. Night temperatures of 50 to 60 degrees are best for potted plants. During the day don't let your room get too hot. Keep a medium temperature as well as moist air in the room.

CHRISTMAS

The Christmas season is fast approaching. Our family life specialist, Mrs. Alice Teddlie, reminds us of some of the Christmas meaning to be found in Christmas symbols. The Christmas holly reminds us of the crown of thorns Christ wore, with the red berries is a symbol of drops of blood.

The Christmas tree - the evergreen is symbolic of the love of God that is ever fresh and vital. The star at the top recalls the star in the East that appeared on that first Christmas night.

The Christmas candle tells of the Christ who is the light of the world as the candle burns it gives light, and at the same time is giving itself.

The gay wreath we hang on the door or window tells of the love of God. As the wreath has no beginning - no ending - so the love of God goes on endlessly.

Even Santa Clause is a symbol of the good will, the kindness, the generosity that are typical of this happy season. He was so kind to little children that we associate him with the spirit of giving.

COLOR IN FIREPLACE

If you want to treat pine cones, rolled newspaper or soft wood that will give colored flames when burned in fireplace, here is the recipe. Dissolve one pound of chemical in one gallon of water and soak wood for an hour then dry thoroughly. Copper sulphate produces blue flame, boric acid green and strontium nitrate red.

A number of homemakers have called regarding how many unshelled nuts to buy in order to get a pound of nuts - so thought there may be some other homemakers who may need this information: Two pounds unshelled walnuts give one pound of shelled nuts; three pounds of unshelled pecans, yield one pound of nuts and four pounds of almonds will give one pound of shelled nuts.

One pound of shelled nut meat measure three to three one - half cups. Large pieces measure less. Of course you, homemakers, know this information is an average. The quality will certainly determine the amount of shelled meats.

A REMINDER

The 10 and 25 Year Home Demonstration Club members, who have not made reservation for the banquet for Tuesday night, December 13th, be sure to do so not later than tomorrow. Bring a present to exchange - preferably one you have made. If you want to know more about the banquet, call your president, Mrs. E. W. Earle at FA 2-5111.

Okaloosa Home Demonstration Club members — your president, Mrs. C. K. Brooks asked that I remind you of the Christmas party Tuesday, December 13th at 10:00 a.m., at the home of Mrs. F. L. Miller.

FUR NEWS

This is the biggest fur season since the thirties. Every animal leaps into fashion. Furs are dyed to harmonize with the fabric color. Furs are used for trimming on coats. The furry look goes also this season. Deep pile imitation furs are still most popular with greater emphasis on the uneven pelts that resemble real pelts. The fur fashion was started by the popular appeal of otters and sealskin. The second fur trend is toward fabrics that look like fluffy fleeces, most popular in woolens, but also in synthetics.

A THOUGHT

Christmas is the time to plan with affection - to find warm satisfaction in giving - to create a festive home atmosphere.

Fireproofing Costumes Is Safety Factor

Danger of fire damage and injury can be greatly reduced by fireproofing children's Christmas costumes.

Many children are injured in fires at this season of the year, reports the State Agricultural Extension Service.

There is a simple do-it-yourself formula. The process is no more complicated than starching.

SOLUTION

The flames proofing process consists of slipping the costume into a warm solution of three pounds of sodium stannate per gallon of water. After wringing and drying the garment, pass it through a solution of one and one-quarter pounds of amonium sulphate per gallon of water.

Wring and dry it again and rinse it several times in cold water.

If ironing is necessary, do not use hot iron because treated garments scorch easily. Fireproofing may affect the luster of the fabric and may induce a slight color change in some fabrics.

THE HOME SHIFT

Decorations For Yuletide

By MILDRED SWIFT

The holiday season is almost here, when your family will be together and you want the house to look at its best. Here are a number of hints for decorations and dried materials.

When making a Dello Rabbia wreath for Christmas, shellac your fruit and it will hold up longer.

When doing your Christmas decorating, that's a good time to prune your evergreens. You'll want them for your house, your church and your friends who have no plants, yet.

For the framework for Christmas wreaths, use privet hedge canes with the leaves stripped. Take a very long "switch" and wrap it round and round. This holds greens well for a wreath or swag.

JUST RIGHT

Hardware cloth is just right for weaving greens in and out for swags for doors, mantels or any place you want to put them. This hardware cloth can be bought by the foot at feed and seed stores and hardwares. Cut with your pruning shears to the desired shape.

A dried artichoke is so lovely in arrangements, just as it is, or painted. Turn the fresh vegetable upside down in a glass and place the container on the window sill.

I read these instructions for drying an artichoke: First place artichoke upside down in lukewarm water. Let them soak an hour. Then drain on paper. Next carefully start peeling back the leaves, working toward the center. Leaves will be pliable after the warm water treatment.

After you open the artichoke put a sheet of aluminum foil on an oven shelf. Turn the artichoke upside down so that they will remain open. Leave them on the oven shelf, with only the pilot light burning, for a couple of days. The pilot light alone will provide sufficient heat for drying the vegetable and without any odor. Such conditioning will make the artichokes a beautiful golden ecru color. Don't forget to take them out before cooking anything in the oven.

MORE INSTRUCTIONS

Here are a few more simple instructions for easily made Christmas decorations to make your home a happy place for the holidays. Take holly pieces, about six inches long and stick the ends in a large potato, completely covering the vegetable. The potato helps keep the greens fresh and the effect is lovely.

Candelabras can be used as an arrangement. Christmas corsages fastened to each arm make a pretty effect.

Buy a styrofoam wreath. Fill this with greens. If you use florist picks tied to each twig they will go in easier. Sometimes the ends of the twigs can be sharpened and thrust through the foam. Use this wreath on the front door, over the mantle or in the center of the dining table with a large candle in the center.

One of your compotes with a candle fastened in the center and greens around this is pretty for a coffee table.

If you can find a pretty large upright limb, prune it down to the main limbs, taking off the leaves if there are any left. Paint this either silver or gold. Fasten blue Christmas balls to the limbs or you can use tiny corsages of Christmas materials.

GARDEN HINTS

Get your fertilizer so you can start feeding all your plants and trees in January and February.

After the frosts kill the pampas grass, elephant ears and banana plants, cut back the dead tops.

You can make new shrubbery beds now and they'll settle before planting time. December is a good clean-up month. This is also a good time to take a critical look at your entire garden. Do you have enough evergreens to keep your place from looking gloomy? Are your foliage plants too much of the same texture? Do you need more variegated foliage? Some coarse textured plants that do much for a garden are: banana plant, elephant ears, Japanese varnish, canna, castor beans, and loquat.

AJUGA

Ajuga is a ground cover with ever growing popularity in this area. This is a low, dense, fast-spreading creeper which grows about four to six inches high, and which prefers shady locations. It has large egg-shaped leaves.

Some varieties have dark green foliage; others have green leaves with a bronze tint. The plant produces sweet little blue blooms in the spring.

Late winter or spring is the best time for transplanting ajuga. However, some growers claim it can be put out any month of the year. Space the plants about a foot apart, water well after planting. This plant does not thrive during dry spells unless it is kept watered. In a sunny spot ajuga gets ragged but will stay lush and green with some shade.

Ajuga responds well to fertilization and can be fed twice a year during the growing season. One of those feedings could be cotton seed meal as this will enrich the soil, too.

SPARKLE

Sparkle — and plenty of it—is featured in Christmas holiday fashions. All the jewels of Aladdin — rubies, emeralds, diamonds and pearls are present and available. This costume jewelry is within the reach of most any budget. You'll find necklaces, earrings and glittering bracelets, clips and pins. These make gay splashes of color to brighten holiday costumes.

The shining look is featured in fabrics as well as jewelry and other accessories. Brocade dresses, blouses, suits have a perfect look for the holidays.

Evening fashions take on a new elegance, with lavish use of beading and embroidery. Long evening dresses are making a determined comeback, usually with narrow or slightly full skirts.

A REMINDER

Remember, if you're exhausted it's going to show in your face. Try to get enough rest, despite all the rush and flurry of these pre-Christmas days, if you want to look your best. And — when you're going to spend a day in the stores doing your Christmas shopping, you'll be wise to plan a simple evening meal.

ANTI-FLEA

Though further research will be necessary there's coming to the market soon a dog food that has chemicals that kill fleas. Sounds impossible but the information comes from the Department of Agriculture, so its authentic. Dogs were fed this food and then exposed to fleas for four days. At the end of this time 85 to 95 per cent of the fleas were dead.

More work needs to be done on this, however, as some dogs rejected the food.

Your Open House programs next week are: Monday, Mrs. Janis Shea will make some very different Christmas decorations; Tuesday, Buck Green, "Safety with Christmas Lighting;" Wednesday, Christmas arrangements with John Wright from La. Tech; Thursday and Friday, wrapping Christmas gifts.

See you next Sunday.

IDEA BOOKS

Photographic Annuals Appear At Year End

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

As the year 1960 comes to an end and a new year beckons, the photographic annuals make their appearance with selections of noteworthy pictures and photographic personalities of the year past.

These books make wonderful little worlds into which a camera fan can retreat to browse, explore and marvel. They can transform a long winter evening or an otherwise lazy Sunday afternoon into a photographic global exploration and session with some of the world's noted cameramen.

They also can solve the problem of what to get for photo fans for Christmas since they appeal to and inspire all of them no matter what camera or equipment one may own or what type of pictures he takes. The choice, to, is literally world-wide since besides the well-known American annuals from U. S. Camera and Popular Photography, we have British "International Photography Year Book, 1961," (St. Martin's Press, N. Y.), the Japanese "Photography of the World," (Ziff-Davis, N.Y.) and "The German Photographic Annual," (Amphoto, N. Y.).

Probably the most ambitious project of all is U. S. Camera's 25th anniversary edition, "The Picture Universe, 1961" edited by Tom Maloney (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, N. Y.). A 33-page section is devoted to individual capsule reviews, in words and pictures, of each of the preceding 25 annuals. There's a rich memory harvest in the quarter-century survey as people and memorable events parade quickly by.

ACHIEVEMENT

A remarkable technical achievement is brought to us in a four - lot, fold - out color panorama of Switzerland taken by Emil Schuthess. The dawn to dusk composite photograph was shot in 24 sections, eachturned shot in 24 sections, each turned 15 degrees, from a specially built photo tower on a mountain near Lucerne, the geographical center of Switzerland. He made 42 trips up the mountain top to find one day with proper atmospheric conditions suitable for a 360 degree color photograph. It took the whole day to shoot.

In the "1961 Photography Annual", (Ziff-Davis, N. Y.), the editors' selection of the year's best pictures comprise a 78-page section. This must be high-fashion photographer Irving Penn's year for public recognition for a portfolio from his new book, Moments Preserved, is also displayed in this volume.

FOCUSED

Spotlights are also focued on photographers John Bryson, Ken Heyman, Rolf Winquist, Robert Capa and Masaya Nakamura.

Bryson is a magazine editor who became a successful free lance cameraman. We are shown how he coped with a variety of assignments this past year. Heyman, another freelancer, shows us a small sample of a picture story on Nigeria, used when that nation became independent. Winquist, a versatile Swedish professional, presents a portfolio of beautiful women. Capa, a combat photographer who died in action in Indo-China, is represented by some of his famous war photographs which are now being exhibited in the U. S. and abroad. Nakamura, one of the new Japanese school of photography, has made a successful specialty of figure studies.

Other features of the annual are a section on advertising photography, examples of camera abstractions from the Museum of Modern Art's exhibition, prize winners from some of the year's photo contests, and notes on each photograph in the book which are reproduced in miniature for easy identification.

LIKE MOTHER, like lamb. The same quizzical look from a ewe and her lamb greeted photographer August Sycholt when he snapped this picture. It appears in the British "International Yearbook, 1961," edited by Normal Hall.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Tree Values Are Outlined

By MARY M. JARDINE

The name magnolia suggests magnificence, a fitting word for flowers that may be a breath-taking 12 inches wide. Actually, tne name is a tribute to a 17th century botanist, Pierre Magnol, rather than to elegant blooms.

Native magnolias long have been a favorite tree in the south where they grace the lawns of many ante bellum mansions. Year - round they offer shade, "swingable" limbs and lustrous foliage. The decorative leaves often substitute for palms on Palm Sunday and add to festive decorations for Christmas. From spring through summer there are fragrant blooms followed in autumn by brownish fruits which become quite glamorous as their rosy-red seeds pop out. No wonder two states claim the southern magnolia as their own.

A native from farther north is the cucumber tree (M. acuminata) which has fruits resembling cucumbers and greenish flowers that seem lost in the leaves. This one grows to one hundred feet and loses its leaves in winter.

Lanier Hunt mentions the lovely magnolia machrophylla sometimes called the large-leaved cucumber tree, with leaves up to three feet.

Quite different are the booms of Soulang's magnolia, a hybrid from China. In early spring this glorious deciduous small tree is covered with magnificent large saucer shaped blossoms of rosy-pink to reddish purple petals, creamy - white within. This is hardy in the north. There are many varieties including a white one.

The tulip-tree or tulip-poplar (liriodendron) also belongs to the magnolia family. This is one of our most beautiful forest trees, having a straight trunk with a tight, attractive bark. It is so named for the large tulip - like flowers with greenish yellow petals marked with orange. Early settlers called it "canoe wood" because Indians made dugouts from its logs. Today boat builders and cabinet makers still use timber from this tree. Like other members of the magnolia family and closely related buttercups, tulip trees had direct ancestors living with the dinosaurs millions of years ago. Modern magnolias show their ancient beginnings in their simple structure and their haphazard way of producing an indefinite number of petals, stamens and seeds.

VIDALIA CLUB

A most colorful holiday show was conducted here by the Vidalia Garden Club. For an entrance hall table Mrs. J. J. Lindley created a gay design of dried materials. The container was a gold bottle set on a polished, round walnut base. The design was vertical in pattern using dock for the primary placements, followed by teasel in orange and yellow coming down the vertical line. Bronze strawflowers were grouped in the center of the design with two teazel pods placed down the front of the container. A very gay and elegant design.

Mrs. Welcome Smith designed a beautiful Christmas arrangement in colors of pink and blue. On a pink styrofoam base she placed a large pink candle surrounded by placements of pink snowberries. A group of pink debutante camellias was laced at the base of the candle with a pink and blue net bow to the right balancing the lovely design. Mrs. M. J. Mitchell selected a large brass compote for her formal mass design, suitable for a large entrance hall or living room table. Gray green eucalyptus and golden wheat formed the background for the golden yellow chrysanthemums. A most pleasing design for the hoiday season.

Mrs. Welcome Smith designed a most appealing composition featuring a Madonna. A graceful and serene white Madonna was placed on a white styrofoam base with a large halo in the background. Silvered leaves were placed in a diagonal pattern in the background. Following the diagonal line were placements of white carnations with the lacy foliage of nandina in the background. White net rosettes were placed at the base of the design. The carnations were placed in a small white cup with a needle point holder to keep them fresh. The design had a spiritual quality that we associate with this season.

Mrs. W. R. Moseley of Monroe exhibited a most interesting composition featuring a hand molded madonna created by Mrs. Moseley herself. On a curved walnut base Mrs. Moseley placed a curved, brown piece of driftwood. The driftwood was gnarled and almost a right angle triangle in shape. This was embellished by small pine cones, walnuts, acorns, pine cone roses in a pleasing design attached to the driftwood. Dried peach seeds were brought low and a cluster of buckeye pods wired to resemble a bunch of grapes was placed on the board at the base of the design. The brown madonna in a seated position had the same curved lines as the driftwood. A most distinctive and elegant composition.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Holly Popular In Southland

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The amazing crops of berries and handsome waxy leaves of the Chinese and Burford hollies have made them immensely popular here in the south in the past 10 or 20 years. Both of these hollies stand up well to the hot sun and the drouths so common in our climate.

EXTRA FEEDING

When plans produce such enormous crops of fruit as these Chinese hollies do, they soon exhaust the food on the soil. It simply takes more food for them than it does for ordinary plants. These hollies often seem to go backwards after a bumper crop of berries. The leaves may turn yellow, and the new foliage is often sparse when spring comes around.

Where hedges of Chinese hollies have been set out, the plants in a part of the hedge where the soil is poor may succumb to the conditions and even die in a season or so if the necessary fertilizer is not provided. A rich fertilizer such as 8-8-8 should be used in the spring just as the leaves are coming out and again in May on plants which do not match up to others in normal growth.

When preparing the ground for a holly hedge, it is well to work into the soil a liberal amount of bone meal in addition to any other fertilizer you may use because hollies seem to use up the phosphoric acid supply very fast, and bone meal supplies this food slowly over a period of years. Even though your complete fertilizer may have "everything," the phosphorous in it may soon be exhausted.

The Burford variety without all the stickers is a Chinese holly. As time goes on still more beautiful varieties will be named and introduced. There already is a rounded, almost ball-shaped special variety for sale in nurseries, and a very slow-growing kind will soon be available. These newer hollies can be seen in the larger nurseries and in the holly collections in most of the big public gardens. In North Carolina, the Clarendon Gardens at Pinehurst and the campus of The University of North Carolina have handsome young specimens.

In planting the Chinese hollies, it should be remembered that all the kinds — even the slow-growers are very large shrubs or small tree when fully grown. They can be made into big hedges, but they will eventually get to be six feet high and five or six feet through. Be sure that such a big hedge is suitable to the location where you plan to put your hedge. You will surely have to trim it regularly and, as the English say, "hard back" to hold it down.

EXTENSION NOTES

Lessen Tree Needle Shed

By AUDREY DAWSON

To lessen needle shedding of your Christmas tree, start with a freshly cut one. Saw one - half inch off the butt of the tree and put it in a metal stand that will hold water. Refill the stand with water as the tree drinks. You can apply commercial materials to prevent shedding.

Remember your house plants need special care during the winter months. Don't give them too much water. Wet the soil thoroughly and leave alone until it becomes dry on the surface. See that your begonias get several hours of sun each day. Night temperatures of 50 to 60 degrees are best for potted plants. During the day don't let your room get too hot. Keep a medium temperature as well as moist air in the room.

CHRISTMAS

The Christmas season is fast approaching. Our family life specialist, Mrs. Alice Teddlie, reminds us of some of the Christmas meaning to be found in Christmas symbols. The Christmas holly reminds us of the crown of thorns Christ wore, with the red berries is a symbol of drops of blood.

The Christmas tree - the evergreen is symbolic of the love of God that is ever fresh and vital. The star at the top recalls the star in the East that appeared on that first Christmas night.

The Christmas candle tells of the Christ who is the light of the world as the candle burns it gives light, and at the same time is giving itself.

The gay wreath we hang on the door or window tells of the love of God. As the wreath has no beginning - no ending - so the love of God goes on endlessly.

Even Santa Clause is a symbol of the good will, the kindness, the generosity that are typical of this happy season. He was so kind to little children that we associate him with the spirit of giving.

COLOR IN FIREPLACE

If you want to treat pine cones, rolled newspaper or soft wood that will give colored flames when burned in fireplace, here is the recipe. Dissolve one pound of chemical in one gallon of water and soak wood for an hour then dry thoroughly. Copper sulphate produces blue flame, boric acid green and strontium nitrate red.

A number of homemakers have called regarding how many unshelled nuts to buy in order to get a pound of nuts - so thought there may be some other homemakers who may need this information: Two pounds unshelled walnuts give one pound of shelled nuts; three pounds of unshelled pecans, yield one pound of nuts and four pounds of almonds will give one pound of shelled nuts.

One pound of shelled nut meat measure three to three one - half cups. Large pieces measure less. Of course you, homemakers, know this information is an average. The quality will certainly determine the amount of shelled meats.

A REMINDER

The 10 and 25 Year Home Demonstration Club members, who have not made reservation for the banquet for Tuesday night, December 13th, be sure to do so not later than tomorrow. Bring a present to exchange - preferably one you have made. If you want to know more about the banquet, call your president, Mrs. E. W. Earle at FA 2-5111.

Okaloosa Home Demonstration Club members — your president, Mrs. C. K. Brooks asked that I remind you of the Christmas party Tuesday, December 13th at 10:00 a.m., at the home of Mrs. F. L. Miller.

FUR NEWS

This is the biggest fur season since the thirties. Every animal leaps into fashion. Furs are dyed to harmonize with the fabric color. Furs are used for trimming on coats. The furry look goes also this season. Deep pile imitation furs are still most popular with greater emphasis on the uneven pelts that resemble real pelts. The fur fashion was started by the popular appeal of otters and sealskin. The second fur trend is toward fabrics that look like fluffy fleeces, most popular in woolens, but also in synthetics.

A THOUGHT

Christmas is the time to plan with affection - to find warm satisfaction in giving - to create a festive home atmosphere.

Fireproofing Costumes Is Safety Factor

Danger of fire damage and injury can be greatly reduced by fireproofing children's Christmas costumes.

Many children are injured in fires at this season of the year, reports the State Agricultural Extension Service.

There is a simple do-it-yourself formula. The process is no more complicated than starching.

SOLUTION

The flames proofing process consists of slipping the costume into a warm solution of three pounds of sodium stannate per gallon of water. After wringing and drying the garment, pass it through a solution of one and one-quarter pounds of amonium sulphate per gallon of water.

Wring and dry it again and rinse it several times in cold water.

If ironing is necessary, do not use hot iron because treated garments scorch easily. Fireproofing may affect the luster of the fabric and may induce a slight color change in some fabrics.

ARABIAN NIGHTS

'Baghdad Wizard' Due At Paramount

The world of magic carpets, fire - breathing genii, sultans and flying horses comes alive with the splendor of the Arabian Nights fantasy, "The Wizard of Baghdad," 20th Century-Fox CinemaScope DeLuxe color comedy starring Dick Shawn, Diane Baker and Barry Coe.

The movie opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

HILARIOUS

A hilarious take - off on the wonders of the legendary sinister East, this rollicking, frolicking spectacle tells the tale of the old Caliph of Baghdad and his desperate problem of finding a successor to the throne. No natural offspring has been born to him. In the great Book of Books it is written that his two aides, one of them a cheat, the other an honest man, shall rule jointly until the son of the first and the daughter of the second unite to found a dynasty.

It is Ali Mahmud, a tipsy and madcap Genie, (Dick Shawn) who is assigned the job of getting these two young hopefuls, Prince Husan (Barry Coe) and Princess Yasmin (Diane Baker) married. Ali, a lover of the bottle, is whooping it up in a tavern when the forces of the enemy enter the city disguised as beggars, slay the ancient Caliph and take over. For this bungling, the Genie is transformed into a man, and his flying, talking horse into an old nag. Both must remain thus until Ali's mission is safely accomplished.

Among those turning out for "Fiorello," last week were these Little Theatre members: Frances McHenry, Ethel Boardman, Kathryn Sloan, Lillie Harrington, Francesca Biedenharn, the Harry Lemerets, the Jimmy Faulks, Scherck Bogen, Julius Cahn, Margaret Fryant, the George Walkers, and Richard Pat Clark.

You will want to hear this news from three of our former Monroe Little Theatre directors. Word comes that Louis (Guerriero) Girard will appear Sunday (today) in a television production "Camera Three" at 10:30 a.m.

TO DIRECT

We hear that Ivan Uttal is to direct a show to be presented at the Waldorf Astoria in early March. He is also going to direct a musical for a theatre group on Long Island.

We were sorry to hear that The Gallery Circle, which is the New Orleans Little Theatre, (director, Stocker Fontlieu) burned this past week. They had just finished the opening performance of "The Front Page."

Speed Lamkin of New York City, will be arriving to spend the holidays with his mother, Mrs. Layton Lamkin. He is currently writing short stories and is working on his play, "Out By the Country Club."

Patron member, Miss Emmy Lou Biedenharn, is spending Christmas holidays in Long Island, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Albin P. Lassiter, patron members, have just returned from Bracketville, Texas, where they were in attendance at the District IV Conference of the American Alumni Council. While there, they stayed at the Fort Clark Guest Ranch. This conference is made up of four states, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mexico and Texas, and the meeting is an annual affair. They attended a banque in Old Mexico where they were privileged to hear speakers from the University of Arkansas, University of Texas, Texas A & M, and others.

The Building Committee reports that work on the new Strauss Memorial Playhouse is coming along on schedule. The aluminum siding has been installed around the fly loft and with the exception of four vents the building is completely covered. It was also learned at the meeting of the building committee held this week that they will soon be pouring the concrete for the foundation of the lobby. This is good news to us, as at one time it was thought that this part of the building would have to be omitted until a later date. We appreciate the hard work of this conscientious group and are looking forward to the completion of the new playhouse.

Call now — FA 3-1235 for reservations for "The Gazebo."

WICKED RHYTHM with a BB beat is the motion picture "Come Dance With Me" starring Brigitte Bardot, Dawn Addams and Henry Vidal. The picture opens today at the Jim Theatre.

OF STAR ROLE

Actress Makes Unusual Catch

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Cay Forester has come up with a novel way of landing a starring role.

She wrote the screenplay—her first—for "Five Minutes to Live" and created a character that only she could play.

Cay was an up and coming actress in the movies before her marriage. Then, after marriage, she and Jane Russel helped found WAIF, an international fund-raising group for the adoption of homeless children.

As Miss Russell has also found, WAIF leaves little time for acting. Two years ago, however, Cay resumed her acting studies with drama coach Sandy Meisner.

OUTLINE

"Then," Cay recalls, "Producer James Ellsworth showed me an outline for a television script about a typical suburban clubwoman menaced by a killer. As soon as I saw it, I knew it had possibilities as a feature film and that I could play the woman—but how to convince Mr. Ellsworth?"

She convinced him by deluging him with notes about the conception of the character. Instead of giving her the part, he hired her instead to do the screen treatment.

"After that," she says, "it was easy. I recognized myself in the woman and wrote the scenes accordingly."

She also dropped hints that she was resuming her acting career.

Ellsworth read her treatment and commented: "No one understands this woman the way you do. I want you to play her."

Said Cay: "I tried to act surprised and humble but this is exactly what I had planned for him to say."

Singer Johnny Cash is cast as the killer in the movie.

Actor's Career Unhampered By Cooper Features

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Does it hurt an actor's career to resemble a famous star?

John Vivyan, who recreated for television a role made famous in the movies by Cary Grant, bears some resemblance to Grant.

"I don't think I really look like Cary Grant," says TV's Mr. Lucky, "but some movie producers have noted it when I applied for jobs.

"It doesn't bother me. After all, I'm flattered. What if they said I resembled Boris Karloff as the monster?"

Vivyan, who like Grant has a dimple on his chin, says the resemblance, if any, hasn't hurt his career.

Sinatra Recalls Initial Meeting With Comedian

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sinatra recently recalled the first time he and Red Skelton met.

"It was in 1939 at Shea's Buffalo Theater," said Sinatra. "At the time we were all unknowns but a year or so later, everybody hit big. I was singer with Harry James' band, Skelton was the emcee and comic on the show and the acrobat on the bill was Burt Lancaster."

From Books

NEW YORK (AP) — Two musicals based upon popular books are being prepared for Broadway by Theatrical Interests Plan, a producing - investing group.

The projects are "Dance to the Piper," the autobiography of Agnes de Mille, and "Laughing Boy," which won the Pulitzer Prize for Oliver La Farge.

For 'Plume'

NEW YORK (AP) — The long-run Broadway hit "La Plume de Ma Tante" is adding spice for its visit to Las Vegas.

The French gags - and - gals revue plans to add strip - tease performers for an engagement at the gambling resort starting December 23. When it later goes on national tour, the exotic additions will be subtracted.

Theatre Exhibit

NEW YORK (AP) — A permanent picture exhibit of Broadway hits during the past quarter century has been opened at the Hotel Piccadilly in the theater district.

Abraham Dreier, the hotel owner, chose one production from each season to include in the display. The first entry, for 1935, is "Porgy and Bess," and the latest, 1960, "Duel of Angels."

POSTHUMOUSLY

NEW YORK (AP) — An unpublished play by Ferenc Molnar is to get first production here.

Entitled, "There Is a Play Tonight," the script was found among the papers of the Hungarian playwright, who died in 1952. It is believed to have been written between 1945 and 1950.

ARABIAN NIGHTS

'Baghdad Wizard' Due At Paramount

The world of magic carpets, fire - breathing genii, sultans and flying horses comes alive with the splendor of the Arabian Nights fantasy, "The Wizard of Baghdad," 20th Century-Fox CinemaScope DeLuxe color comedy starring Dick Shawn, Diane Baker and Barry Coe.

The movie opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

HILARIOUS

A hilarious take - off on the wonders of the legendary sinister East, this rollicking, frolicking spectacle tells the tale of the old Caliph of Baghdad and his desperate problem of finding a successor to the throne. No natural offspring has been born to him. In the great Book of Books it is written that his two aides, one of them a cheat, the other an honest man, shall rule jointly until the son of the first and the daughter of the second unite to found a dynasty.

It is Ali Mahmud, a tipsy and madcap Genie, (Dick Shawn) who is assigned the job of getting these two young hopefuls, Prince Husan (Barry Coe) and Princess Yasmin (Diane Baker) married. Ali, a lover of the bottle, is whooping it up in a tavern when the forces of the enemy enter the city disguised as beggars, slay the ancient Caliph and take over. For this bungling, the Genie is transformed into a man, and his flying, talking horse into an old nag. Both must remain thus until Ali's mission is safely accomplished.

BEFORE FIRING SQUAD

Four Sentenced To Die In Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—The Castro regime struck three hard blows at its enemies Saturday — condemning civilian plane hijackers, moving troops against insurgents in the mountains, and lashing at discontented labor unionists.

Four Cubans were sentenced to death before a firing squad for trying to seize a Cuban airliner high above Cienfuegos. A fifth was captured as the others were on trial. He faces the same fate.

The government sent fresh troops into central Cuba's Escambray Mountains in a new effort to smash insurgents operating there.

And the Cuban Conederation of Labor, powerful leftist group, readied a new battle to oust directors of the strong Electrical Workers Union in Havana for failing to follow the set policy line.

A military court in Santa Clara deliberated less than an hour, then ordered four men lined up and shot for trying to divert a domestic flight Thursday night toward the United States. The pilot resisted and crash-landed his Cubana Air Lines plane with 17 aboard, despite his own wounds.

Caridad Calvera, a woman tried in the plot, was sentenced to 30 years in prison. Another woman, Caridad Torrado, was absolved by the court of young army Lieutenants.

The four doomed men — Cesar Villareal, Raul Puian, Enilio Moreno and his brother Amilo—once belonged to ousted President Fulgencio Batista's armed forces.

The fifth man escaped through sugar cane fields once the plane was down, but officials said he was captured Saturday hiding in the Cienfuegos countryside, wounded slightly and weak from exhaustion. The man, Diosdado Martinez, was reported brought to Santa Clara for immediate trial.

Those on trial were convicted of smuggling aboard the plane the weapons they used in their vain hijacking attempt. One passenger was killed and three crewmen were wounded. The woman who was freed insisted she had joined the plotters only so she could marry one of the men. The court gave her $10 in pesos to get to Havana, the destination of Thursday's interrupted flight.

At the same time, Cuban forces of considerable strength moved southward in adjacent Matanzas Province against mountain insurgents. Reports from Santa Clara said the government reinforcements include militiamen newly trained in firing mortars and light artillery pieces. Heavily armed combat detachments are among them.

In Havana a split in government-controlled labor ranks erupted Friday night with a surprise march on the Presidential Palace by a faction of electrical unionists. They chanted "Cuba si, Russia no." The confederation responded by calling a midnight assembly of electrical workers to condemn "traitors" within that union. The secretary-general of the Electrical Workers Union — Amaury Fraginals and his supporters — stayed away.

Fraginals, once a worker in Castro's prerevolution underground, has been under attack for some time by the confederation's leftist leaders.

Texas Judge To Rule On Recount Bid

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Demands by Texas Republicans for a recount of over 1,277,184 presidential election ballots go before a federal judge Monday.

Attorneys for 24 Democratic electors pledged to Sen. John F. Kennedy are expected to challenge the authority of U.S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally to act on the Republican petition.

Republicans contend thousands of illegal and invalid paper ballots were counted after the Nov. 8 election. Their 18-page petition contends an honest and fair recount probably would change the outcome of the election in Texas.

The State Board of Canvassers on Nov. 25 certified Kennedy had carried Texas by 46,233 votes.

The 2,311,845 ballots cast included 1,039,661 from voting-machine counties and 1,277,184 from paper-ballot counties.

Specifically, the Republicans have asked Connally to:

1. Impound all paper ballots cast in the state's 254 counties, including absentee ballots cast in voting-machine counties.

2. Restrain Zollie Steakley, secretary of state, from issuing certificates of election to the 24 Democratic electors.

3. Restrain the State Board of Canvassers from making a final decision on the pending election contest until after a recount.

A temporary restraining order signed by U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham last Wednesday enjoined the state board from making a final decision until after Monday's hearing. The state board honored the Ingraham order Thursday when it heard final arguments on Republican demands for a recount.

Democratic attorneys participating in a 3½-hour pretrial conference with Connally Friday indicated jurisdiction was a major item discussed.

There was indication Democratic attorneys will argue Monday the federal court has no jurisdiction in that the Republicans have not exhausted all opportunities for relief on the state level.

The Republican petition, however, argues that Connally has jurisdiction under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution providing equal rights of citizens and the protection of the right to vote.

18 Policemen Die In Battle With Balubas

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—An estimated 2,000 rampaging Baluba tribesmen battled gendarmes in the bush country near Kingolo, in Katanga Province Saturday and at least 18 policemen were killed in the bloody fight, dispatches said.

A report from Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, said another 10 gendarmes were injured in the battle, second in three days in the area. There were no figures on Baluba casualties. But at least 35 men, including 30 Baiubas and 5 gendarmes, died in the first battle.

WANTS BADGE BACK

Boy Awaits Letter From Smokey Bear

WILLIAMSBURG, Iowa (UPI) Eric Riggenbach waited anxiously Saturday—not for a visit from Santa but for a letter from Smokey Bear.

With the sometimes trembling faith of a nine-year-old, Eric hoped the postman will deliver with the Christmas mail one of these days a letter from Smokey returning his junior forest ranger badge.

"I want that badge more than anything Santa Claus could bring me," Eric said.

"I want it just like you'd lost a million dollars and you'd get it back."

Eric turned in his badge to Smokey Bear early in September. He had been playing with matches and had started a fire.

He bundled up the badge, his letter of appointment, Smokey's things Smokey Bear sends out to junior forest rangers to help them prevent fires, and sent them back to Washington.

He confessed to Smokey—the U. S. Forest Service's symbol of fire prevention—that the fire he had carelessly started had burned grass and trees and wild flowers near a cousin's house, and added:

"I do not feel worthy of belonging to the junior forest rangers."

In a childish scrawl, Eric added a postscript asking if there was "anything I can do to earn the badge again."

A letter went back under Smokey's signature, telling the lad his badge would be returned in three months if he was careful with fire.

Eric had his mother, Peggy, circle Dec. 1 on the calendar.

"All fall he kept saying, 'only 60 more days...or 35 more days .. or three more days until Dec. 1.'" Mrs. Riggenbach said Saturday. "It was Dec. 1, not Christmas, he looked forward to."

When Dec. 1 came, Mrs. Riggenbach said, Eric wrote Smokey saying "he'd been very careful about matches and cigarette lighters and telling about a report he gave in his fourth grade room about why people shouldn't play with matches."

His mother signed a slip confirming he had been a good boy.

"He's been so very careful," she said. "Even rushes over to the neighbors if they start a little lawn fire—sort of makes a pest of himself, sometimes."

Eric said "in school during fire prevention week we studied all about fire prevention and I had a thing about fires and stuff and I talked about a slogan I made up."

The slogan, he said, was: "Fires are to burn trash, not trees."

Eric said he doesn't understand what's holding up return of his badge but "I hope it will come before Christmas."

"He's looking for Smokey's letter more than he's looking for Santa Claus," his mother said.

But Eric said there is one thing he'd like from Santa.

"I want a fire engine," he said.

Sodium Rocket Fired Aloft To Aid Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sodium rocket was fired aloft at dusk Saturday from the Virginia coast by government scientists as part of their study of upper wind velocities and high-altitude temperatures.

The rocket was launched at 5:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration from its Wallops Island, Va., station.

BEFORE FIRING SQUAD

Four Sentenced To Die In Cuba

HAVANA (AP)—The Castro regime struck three hard blows at its enemies Saturday — condemning civilian plane hijackers, moving troops against insurgents in the mountains, and lashing at discontented labor unionists.

Four Cubans were sentenced to death before a firing squad for trying to seize a Cuban airliner high above Cienfuegos. A fifth was captured as the others were on trial. He faces the same fate.

The government sent fresh troops into central Cuba's Escambray Mountains in a new effort to smash insurgents operating there.

And the Cuban Conederation of Labor, powerful leftist group, readied a new battle to oust directors of the strong Electrical Workers Union in Havana for failing to follow the set policy line.

A military court in Santa Clara deliberated less than an hour, then ordered four men lined up and shot for trying to divert a domestic flight Thursday night toward the United States. The pilot resisted and crash-landed his Cubana Air Lines plane with 17 aboard, despite his own wounds.

Caridad Calvera, a woman tried in the plot, was sentenced to 30 years in prison. Another woman, Caridad Torrado, was absolved by the court of young army Lieutenants.

The four doomed men — Cesar Villareal, Raul Puian, Enilio Moreno and his brother Amilo—once belonged to ousted President Fulgencio Batista's armed forces.

The fifth man escaped through sugar cane fields once the plane was down, but officials said he was captured Saturday hiding in the Cienfuegos countryside, wounded slightly and weak from exhaustion. The man, Diosdado Martinez, was reported brought to Santa Clara for immediate trial.

Those on trial were convicted of smuggling aboard the plane the weapons they used in their vain hijacking attempt. One passenger was killed and three crewmen were wounded. The woman who was freed insisted she had joined the plotters only so she could marry one of the men. The court gave her $10 in pesos to get to Havana, the destination of Thursday's interrupted flight.

At the same time, Cuban forces of considerable strength moved southward in adjacent Matanzas Province against mountain insurgents. Reports from Santa Clara said the government reinforcements include militiamen newly trained in firing mortars and light artillery pieces. Heavily armed combat detachments are among them.

In Havana a split in government-controlled labor ranks erupted Friday night with a surprise march on the Presidential Palace by a faction of electrical unionists. They chanted "Cuba si, Russia no." The confederation responded by calling a midnight assembly of electrical workers to condemn "traitors" within that union. The secretary-general of the Electrical Workers Union — Amaury Fraginals and his supporters — stayed away.

Fraginals, once a worker in Castro's prerevolution underground, has been under attack for some time by the confederation's leftist leaders.

WANTS BADGE BACK

Boy Awaits Letter From Smokey Bear

WILLIAMSBURG, Iowa (UPI) Eric Riggenbach waited anxiously Saturday—not for a visit from Santa but for a letter from Smokey Bear.

With the sometimes trembling faith of a nine-year-old, Eric hoped the postman will deliver with the Christmas mail one of these days a letter from Smokey returning his junior forest ranger badge.

"I want that badge more than anything Santa Claus could bring me," Eric said.

"I want it just like you'd lost a million dollars and you'd get it back."

Eric turned in his badge to Smokey Bear early in September. He had been playing with matches and had started a fire.

He bundled up the badge, his letter of appointment, Smokey's things Smokey Bear sends out to junior forest rangers to help them prevent fires, and sent them back to Washington.

He confessed to Smokey—the U. S. Forest Service's symbol of fire prevention—that the fire he had carelessly started had burned grass and trees and wild flowers near a cousin's house, and added:

"I do not feel worthy of belonging to the junior forest rangers."

In a childish scrawl, Eric added a postscript asking if there was "anything I can do to earn the badge again."

A letter went back under Smokey's signature, telling the lad his badge would be returned in three months if he was careful with fire.

Eric had his mother, Peggy, circle Dec. 1 on the calendar.

"All fall he kept saying, 'only 60 more days...or 35 more days... or three more days until Dec. 1.'" Mrs. Riggenbach said Saturday. "It was Dec. 1, not Christmas, he looked forward to."

When Dec. 1 came, Mrs. Riggenbach said, Eric wrote Smokey saying "he'd been very careful about matches and cigarette lighters and telling about a report he gave in his fourth grade room about why people shouldn't play with matches."

His mother signed a slip confirming he had been a good boy.

"He's been so very careful," she said. "Even rushes over to the neighbors if they start a little lawn fire—sort of makes a pest of himself, sometimes."

Eric said "in school during fire prevention week we studied all about fire prevention and I had a thing about fires and stuff and I talked about a slogan I made up."

The slogan, he said, was: "Fires are to burn trash, not trees."

Eric said he doesn't understand what's holding up return of his badge but "I hope it will come before Christmas."

"He's looking for Smokey's letter more than he's looking for Santa Claus," his mother said.

But Eric said there is one thing he'd like from Santa.

"I want a fire engine," he said.

Sodium Rocket Fired Aloft To Aid Scientists

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sodium rocket was fired aloft at dusk Saturday from the Virginia coast by government scientists as part of their study of upper wind velocities and high-altitude temperatures.

The rocket was launched at 5:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration from its Wallops Island, Va., station.

Texas Judge To Rule On Recount Bid

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Demands by Texas Republicans for a recount of over 1,277,184 presidential election ballots go before a federal judge Monday.

Attorneys for 24 Democratic electors pledged to Sen. John F. Kennedy are expected to challenge the authority of U.S. Dist. Judge Ben C. Connally to act on the Republican petition.

Republicans contend thousands of illegal and invalid paper ballots were counted after the Nov. 8 election. Their 18-page petition contends an honest and fair recount probably would change the outcome of the election in Texas.

The State Board of Canvassers on Nov. 25 certified Kennedy had carried Texas by 46,233 votes.

The 2,311,845 ballots cast included 1,039,661 from voting-machine counties and 1,277,184 from paper-ballot counties.

Specifically, the Republicans have asked Connally to:

1. Impound all paper ballots cast in the state's 254 counties, including absentee ballots cast in voting-machine counties.

2. Restrain Zollie Steakley, secretary of state, from issuing certificates of election to the 24 Democratic electors.

3. Restrain the State Board of Canvassers from making a final decision on the pending election contest until after a recount.

A temporary restraining order signed by U. S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham last Wednesday enjoined the state board from making a final decision until after Monday's hearing. The state board honored the Ingraham order Thursday when it heard final arguments on Republican demands for a recount.

Democratic attorneys participating in a 3½-hour pretrial conference with Connally Friday indicated jurisdiction was a major item discussed.

There was indication Democratic attorneys will argue Monday the federal court has no jurisdiction in that the Republicans have not exhausted all opportunities for relief on the state level.

The Republican petition, however, argues that Connally has jurisdiction under the 14th Amendment to the Constitution providing equal rights of citizens and the protection of the right to vote.

18 Policemen Die In Battle With Balubas

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—An estimated 2,000 rampaging Baluba tribesmen battled gendarmes in the bush country near Kingolo, in Katanga Province Saturday and at least 18 policemen were killed in the bloody fight, dispatches said.

A report from Elisabethville, the Katanga capital, said another 10 gendarmes were injured in the battle, second in three days in the area. There were no figures on Baluba casualties. But at least 35 men, including 30 Baiubas and 5 gendarmes, died in the first battle.

Many Splendored Things to make this Christmas remembered above all others—to treasure long after the tree has been dismantled. Here are gifts that will speak eloquently of your devotion: precious jewels, fine watches for the discriminating, handsome accessories in gold. If he or she has the foremost corner of your heart —if the best is none too good—choose the beauty and enduring worth of such as these.

STEVE CANYON

by MILTON CANIFF

CANYON, MISSY, I AM ADMIRATION THAT YOU HAVE THE SENSE OF THE HEAD TO FIND ME BY MY BASEBALL BROTHER!

I DEPARTURED BECAUSE YOU MIGHT FEEL OF AN OBLIGEMENT TO ME —THINKING I SAVE THE LIFE OF YOU!

I THOUGHT THE GALLANT FLIERS TO BE DEAD OF THE CRASH — ELSEWISE I WOULD HAVE SAID MYSELF ALOUD!

YEAH, YEAH, MISTER KOI — BUT TH' MAIN THING IS T' GO T' COUSIN STEVIE'S COMMANDIN' OFFICER NOW!

MY PARENTS, WHO POSSESS GREAT HONOR AND DIGNITY, WOULD BE DEEPLY HURT IF I DID NOT PRESENT YOU UPON THEM!

WELL, I—UH —I RECKON I DON'T MAKE TH' RULES, BUT CAN WE ZING IT UP SOME?

YOU ARE OUR ONLY WITNESS—EXCEPT FOR TH' PEOPLE WHO SET THAT BOMB! —AND STEVIE B'S HEARING IS COMING UP WITHIN HOURS...

AH, SO! COME THEN!

MY HONORABLE PARENTS DO NOT SPEAK THE ENGLISH EVEN SO MISERABLE AS I...

WE ARE NOW REQUIREMENT TO KNOW THE ENGLISH IN SCHOOL ABOVE 15 YEARS

THIS IS MY FATHER —WHO SAYS HIS POOR HOUSE IS MADE A PALACE BY VISIT OF GOLDEN PRINCESS

WHO ME? —WHY—AH, TELL YOUR DADDY THAT I'M DOWN-RIGHT CARRIED AWAY BY SUCH FLATTERIN'!

AND MY MOTHER —WHO BEGS THAT YOU FORGIVE HER FOR BEING SUCH UNFORGIVABLE POOR HOUSEKEEPER

DAWGONE! —FOLKS ARE PRETTY MUCH ALIKE AT DUSTPAN LEVEL...

H'LLO, MA'AM

AH! I HEAR SOUND OF MY SISTER COMING FROM WORK PLACE!

...SHE SPEAKS VERY GOOD THE ENGLISH!

SUKI SUSIE!

SNIFF SNIFF FOOD!

COME ON, TRIXIE.

OH, BOY! IT MUST BE TIME TO EAT!

I WANT YOU TO GET SOME FRESH AIR.

FRESH AIR? IS THAT ANY GOOD TO EAT?

BOY! AM I HUNGRY!

GEE! THAT'S PRETTY!

IT'S FALLING RIGHT INTO MY PLAYPEN!

DIK BROWNE

YUM! YUM!

PHOO! THAT TASTES TERRIBLE!

NO WONDER... IT WASN'T COOKED YET.
